Jury Decries Court Narcotic Decision, Small Districts

Judge Gets 81-Page Report

By RICHARD LYTTLE

The 1965 Marin County Grand Jury today took a slap at courts for leniency in narcotics cases and made a strong pitch for consolidating various small governments and agencies in the county.

The report said that 19 were convicted of, or pleaded guilty to, possession or sale of marijuana, but only two received jail sentences. One got a 90-day sentence and the other a 30-day sentence.

OTHER CASES

In all other cases, the courts granted probation or suspended sentences, the grand jury noted.

"Without judicial recognition of the necessity for meaningful deterrents, all other efforts to dispell the attitude common to many Marin County teen-agers, that criminal matters relating to marijuana are trivial offenses, will be of little or no value," the report says.

The jury also criticized the Gallinas Village Community Services District in particular and small governing entities in general in the year-end report.

Jurors recommended studies of forming a county-wide fire protection district and a county-wide juvenile department serving all police departments, and consolidation of sanitary districts.

CHARTER FORM

The jury also urged that further study be given the county charter form of government.

Other jury findings and recommendations included:

1. Criticism of the board of supervisors for failure to levy any penalty for escaped taxes against Fairchild Semiconductor, and a recommendation that such penalties be made mandatory in the future.

2. Endorsement of public officials' rights to speak out on controversial issues. This was prompted by criticism of supervisors by Treasurer-Tax Collector Stanley J. Fontez and Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell over the Fairchild action.

3. Recommendation that the City of San Rafael contribute to the county in financing development of the courthouse property. The jury notes that the county expected $1.4 million for the land, but might get only $800,000 should public uses such as park space and parking lots be required by the city.

4. Recommendation that the county coroner have no financial interest in a mortuary. Coroner Frank J. Keaton owns a San Rafael mortuary.

5. Proposal that the coroner's staff be increased from two to three persons, and that consolidation of the office with either the district attorney or sheriff be deferred until the day when the county has a morgue.

6. Recommendation that a coordinator for vocational education be employed by the county schools office and school coun-

Jury Upholds Allegations On Gallinas

The 1965 Grand Jury took on the complex problems of the Gallinas Village Community Services District as a special project and came to some general conclusions on the failures of small, antonomous districts in Marin County.

The committee on municipalities and districts, headed by Martin F. Donohue, concluded that the grand jury did not have authority to take any action against Gallinas district directors.

The investigation was begun after Albert R. Borden of 707 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia, charged district directors with several irregularities, including payment of 14 warrants totalling $1,622.59 by action of only two of the five directors of the district; passage of the annual budget by a borad which included one member who was without status because he had not taken an oath of office, and holding of a budget hearing without public notice.

Donohue's committee found the three charges to be true.

The committee concluded that it was unable to assure that citizens of the district were getting services at reasonable cost and efficiency.

Marin Expects Sunny Skies For 1966 Debut

Mostly sunny skies were predicted today for the New Year weekend as Marin dried off from a wind-whipped rainstorm which knocked down trees, tore off roofs, and flooded streets and cellars.

But while the sun was shining in San Rafael at noon today, officers at the Marin County Fire Station at Point Reyes Station reported that rain mixed with hail was drumming on the roof of their building. Point Reyes Station received the county high for rainfall in the 24-hour period from 8 a.m. yesterday, with a total of 1.16 inches.

Hail also peppered Sausalito last night.

Wind and rain knocked a tree down on Sturdivant Avenue in the Chevy Chase area of Larkspur this morning, blocking half the roadway.

Rainfall totals for the 24 hour period to 8 a.m. today elsewhere in the county were: Fairfax .64 of an inch, Woodacre .73 of an inch, San Rafael .27 of an inch.

Gunpowder Strike Talks Drag On

After an implied federal deadline failed to break the deadlocked negotiations Wednesday, the Army announced it was reactivating a mothballed plant to make munitions.

"It looks like we've still got a lot of work to do," Chief Federal Mediator William E. Simkin said of the talks between three striking unions and the Olin Mathieson Co. plant in East Alton, Ill.

Uncle Sam Asks Reports On Tips

WASHINGTON (AP) — Employees will be required to make monthly reports to their employers on the tips they receive in 1966, the Internal Revenue Service said today. This is required under a law enacted in 1965.

The employee must pay Social Security taxes on the tips and this may mean higher Social Security retirement benefits.

Employees who receive a very low salary and receive most of their income from tips have the option of paying the additional Social Security and income tax by the month or waiting until income tax filing time the following year.

Hamilton Gets New Key Role In Air Defense

Units Included From Western States, Canada

The role of Hamilton Air Force Base was further expanded yesterday with announcement that next April 1, it will become the command base for air defense units in 11 western states and two provinces of Canada.

This will include air defense units of U.S. Army and Navy and the Royal Canadian Air Force.

SAME TERRITORY

Reactivation of the Fourth Air Force, covering the same United States territory with Hamilton as headquarters, was announced Tuesday.

The larger role will come about with creation of the Western North American Air Defense Region in an over-all reorganization which will combine six air defense regions into four.

DEPUTY'S ROLE

Army Maj. Gen. Andrew R. Lolli, now commander of the 28th North American Air Defense Region, will command the new region. His deputy will be Air Force Maj. Gen. Carroll W. McColpin, now commander of the 28th Air Division, who will command the new Fourth Air Force. Both already have headquarters at Hamilton.

Reactivation of the Fourth Air Force will coincide with creation of the new region, the Pentagon announced.

The new air defense region will extend from the northern border of British Columbia south to Mexico and east to the Rockies. It will cover Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada, Idaho (except for a small portion), Utah, Arizona, and parts of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, and New Mexico, plus British Columbia and the western part of Alberta.

Under a four-quarter system, the California AFT said, the teacher salaries for three quarters should be no less than salaries now paid for two semesters. Proportionately more pay was asked if teaching days are increased.

COMBINED AP & UPI

President Johnson's peace emissaries talked of Viet Nam with leaders on two continents today and the White House declared "everything this administration is doing is designed to bring about conditions in which peace is possible."

White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers said new diplomatic missions are likely because the President wants "more leaders of the world to know his views on Asia."

Moyers announced in Austin, Tex., the latest mission—this one to Canada. It came after presidential envoys W. Averell Harriman and Arthur J. Goldberg talked with Communist leaders and at the Vatican.

The diplomatic mission came in the face of a chilling blast of words from the leader of Communist North Viet Nam.

Until today, the Texas White House had been silent on Johnson's year-end peace offensive. Moyers broke that silence.

"We have a genuine desire to cooperate with anyone to whom peace is the desired goal that it is with us," he said.

Moyers said McGeorge Bunday, Johnson's special assistant for national security affairs, flew, secretly to Ottawa last night to meet with Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson.

Canada, with Poland and India, is a member of the International Control Commission on Viet Nam.

Johnson himself planned to confer with Pearson by telephone later today, the White House said.

U.S. Ambassador at Large W. Averell Harriman outlined American peace corps in Viet Nam to Polish Communist Leader Wladyslaw Gomulka in a secrecy shrouded two-hour meeting today then took off for Yugoslavia and talks with President Tito.

Car Exhaust Kills Marin Youth, Girl

Exhaust fumes in a closed car were blamed today for the deaths of Richard L. Castleman of Fairfax, 18-year-old guitarist-singer with a Marin dance combo, and a 13-year-old Hillsborough girl, whose bodies were found yesterday in the car in Squaw Valley.

The bodies of young Castleman and Leslie de Laet, a guest at the Olympic Village Hotel where Castleman's combo, the Morlocks, had played on Tuesday night, were found at 10:30 a.m. yesterday in a station wagon parked outside the hotel.

Placer County sheriff's deputies said the pair apparently entered the vehicle, parked near a snowbank, after the dance ended, turned on the car's engine and heater to keep warm, and died of asphyxiation.

Miss de Laet had gone to Squaw Valley with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. de Laet, to spend the New Year holiday. Her father is an executive of an electric supply house in Burlingame.

Young Castleman went to the resort to join the combo in the one-night dance engagement.

The Morlocks played at the chamber of commerce-sponsored street dance in San Rafael on Halloween and have played for dances in St. Rita's Hall in Fairfax. They also have made one recording, reported Mrs. John R. Castleman of 47 Porteous Avenue, Fairfax, the dead youth's mother.

Two years ago, young Castleman made several appearances with Lyn Paplow of Fairfax as a folksong duet, playing the guitar accompaniment.

He was born in Los Angeles. The family moved to the Bay Area when he was 3 years old, living in Richmond and San Francisco, and moving to Marin in 1951.

He was the only child. The father is a truck driver.

The youth was graduated from St. Raphael's School in San Rafael and Sir Francis Drake High School. He was a freshman at College of Marin this year.

Funeral will be at 12:30 p.m. Monday at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael, where a Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Sunday. Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Soldiers' Corpses Reveal Mutilation By Viet Cong

COMBINED AP & UPI

The Viet Cong struck today in and around Saigon, within the shadow of the big U. S. Marine base at Da Nang and near the Cambodian frontier. The stepped-up demonstration of their prowess came on the seventh day of the moratorium in the U. S. air war against the Communist North.

New evidence of Communist terror tactics was seen in several incidents.

The bodies of the Marines, all assigned to a U.S. Army special forces unit, were found Dec .20, four days after the battle at Ba To 310 miles north of Sagon, the spokesman said.

The 11 slain soldiers were part of a mixed Vietnamese-American patrol which on Dec. 16 was hunting for the North Vietnamese army's 18th Re-Forces camp at Ba To.

They were attacked by an estimated 300 regulars from the North and their position overrun within an hour by heavy mortar and small arms fire.

Thirteen survivors from the patrol made it back to Ba To during the four days which followed. They led search parties back to the battlefield and found their comrades buried in shallow graves.

"They had been shot many times in the face," the U.S. spokesman said today. "They had powder burns on their faces. One man's head was chopped open with a sharp instrument.

"Identification was difficult because of the mutilation they had suffered."

California Motorists Face Safety Inspection Of Autos

INSPECTIONS COMING UP — California Highway Patrol Sgt. Lee R. Miller, inspecting windshield wiper of an auto driven by Mrs. Wallace Baldwin, demonstrates what California motorists will face during 1966—mandatory auto safety inspections. (AP Wirephoto)

SACRAMENTO (AP)—California's 11 million motorists were put on notice today they face mandatory safety inspection of their cars for the first time during the coming year.

The California Highway Patrol will be issuing warnings for mechanical defects by the middle of February as part of a stepped - up state traffic safety and smog control campaign ordered by the 1965 legislature.

By midyear, patrolmen will be hailing cars picked at random into roadside checkpoints for five-minute inspections.

Patrolmen will make what they call a "circle inspection," moving around the vehicle to check lights, windows, windshield wipers, brakes, mirrors, tires, horn and smog control devices where they are required.

Patrol Commissioner Bradford M. Crittenden said inspections—and warnings—will be confined initially to automobiles of motorists stopped for other violations.

By March or April, the patrol chief expects to have pilot roadside checkpoints set up to make random checks. He plans three stations, in Southern California, the Central Valley and the north at the start.

Crittenden said the patrol is working on inspection methods and aims to hold the actual time for inspection to five minutes.

"Certainly the motorist would not countenance a 20-minute delay — unless, of course, his vehicle is actually found to be unsafe to be operated on the road," he said.

"This program is being set up from the standpoint of giving the motorist a safer car, not of harassing him," the commissioner added.

Vehicles found to be unsafe would be ordered off the road until repairs were made. Others with less serious defects, such as a defective horn or burned out light, would be issued warnings and directed to report to a patrol office within a specified time to show that the fault had been corrected.

The driver who failed to show that the repairs had been made could face arrest and conviction of a misdemeanor, with maximum penalties of a $500 fine, six months in jail, or both.

Crittenden said cars inspected and found in safe condition will get stickers to show they have been checked, which will be valid for "a reasonable time." Drivers who want to avoid the roadside checks will be able to take their cars to a patrol office for inspection after the program gets started.

Motorists will foot the bill for the inspection program through increased vehicle registration fees.

Philippine Leader Has Stern Warning

MANILA (AP) — Onetime guerrilla fighter Ferdinand E. Marcos took the oath as the sixth president of the Philippines today and pleged his nation to austerity at home and greater cooperation with free nations of Asia.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey represented the United States at the inauguration. A host of other dignitaries also attended the ceremonies, which drew 50,000 Filipinos to Luneta Park beside Manila Bay and millions more to radio and television sets.

Marcos, 48, startled the festive audience with a stern speech outlining the nation's economic and political ills.

He extolled the Philippines as a democratic example to unstable nations in Asia and pledged it would stand beside "every fighter for freedom." But he warned that the nation's coffers were empty and "hard decisions" — such as sending troops to Viet Nam—must be made for the national interest of the Philippines.

Before the election last month, Marcos said he opposed sending combat troops to Viet Nam although he favored enlarging the Philippine medical unit there. After the election, he indicated he had changed his mind and was in favor of sending a combat battalion.

Marcos said past Philippine governments had promised too much and delivered too little. He pledged a "rigorous policy of fiscal restraint" to restore the nation's finances and to crack down on corrupt officials who condone smuggling which he said costs the nation perhaps $200 million a year.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Israel Foreign Minister Retiring

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP)—The world's only woman foreign minister, Golda Meir of Israel, is retiring at 69 after 10 years in office.

Mrs. Meir told a meeting of Parliament's Foreign Affairs and Security Committee Tuesday that she is quitting.

Mrs. Meir

Authoritative sources said she would be succeeded by Deputy Premier Abba Eban, former ambassador to the United States and to the United Nations.

Mrs. Meir was appointed foreign minister in June 1956, Capping a career that took her from a Milwaukee schoolroom to the major capitals of the world.

Born in Russia, on May 3, 1898, she fled with her family to the United States when she was 8.

She helped found modern Israel.

Pike Would Use Force In Africa

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—Episcopal Bishop James Pike of California today urged Britain and the United Nations to use force to overthrow the white Rhodesian government of Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Pike

Bishop Pike, an advocate of racial equality, was expelled from Rhodesia last night after only 10 hours in the central African territory. He had planned to stay two weeks to study racial problems.

The bishop said economic sanctions against Smith's regime were working faster than had been anticipated. He predicted business interests in Salisbury would back a bloodless coup to oust Smith. But he told a news conference:

Nuclear Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Glenn T. Seaborg of the Atomic Energy Commission believes nuclear power plants will be furnishing the electricity needs of more than two million Americans by the end of 1966. In a year-end statement, Seaborg predicted further that the figure will reach 60 million persons by 1980.

To Disinfect Water

SAN PABLO (UPI)—The San Pablo Sanitary District directors have approved a resolution calling for bids Feb. 8 for construction of a $170,000 facility to disinfect water passing through its treatment plant into the bay. The proposed chlorine contact facility would handle 15 million gallons of water daily.

High And Low

NEW YORK (UPI)—The lowest temperature reported to the U.S. Weather Bureau this morning, excluding Alaska and Hawaii, was 9 below zero at Cut Bank, Mont. The highest reported yesterday was 79 degrees at West Palm Beach, Fla.

Strike In India

BOMBAY, India (AP)—Eight workers were killed when police opened fire last night on rioting strikers at India's first atomic power project under construction at Tarapur, 60 miles north of Bombay, officials announced today. The shooting took place after police failed to subdue the rioters with heavy sticks and tear gas. The strike by about 4,000 workers involves union representation.

Fares To Rise

OAKLAND (AP) — The Alameda-Contra Costa Transit District is boosting fares Jan. 1 by two cents a ride for commuters between the East Bay Area and San Francisco. It is the first commute increase by the district in more than 10 years and was announced yesterday.

Russian Steel

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union produced 91 million metric tons of steel in 1965, exceeding its modified target but still short of the original goal, the central statistical board reported today.

Court Trial Photographed For Law Test

BELLFLOWER (UPI) — The entire Municipal Court trial of a drunken driving suspect was photographed by a motion picture camera yesterday for use by an Assembly subcommittee studying the effect of news and television cameras in courtrooms.

Assemblyman George Willson, D-Huntington Park, chairman of the subcommittee, arranged the test after receiving permission from the defendant, the judge and the attorneys involved.

"What we hope to determine from the film is whether the presence of any news cameras make a mockery of the trial, make witnesses tongue-tied or cause judges and lawyers to ham it up," Willson said.

The assemblyman said the film would be edited and shown to interested groups throughout the state.

Record For Year Security Benefits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Social Security Administration announced yesterday that a record $18.3 billion in benefits had been paid out in 1965, a $2.1 billion increase over last year.

A 7 per cent raise in benefits approved in July but retroactive to January accounted for about half the increase, the administration said.

BROWN WORKING ON TAX BOOSTS

Governor Settles Down In Palm Springs With Tax Experts, Some Socializing

PALM SPRINGS (AP)—Armed with detailed thinking of state tax experts, Gov. Brown and Democratic legislative leaders sat down today to talk about a gritty political problem — tax boosts in an election year.

Both hard work and socializing were in store as the two days of talks started. Wives were on hand to enjoy the desert sunshine—through occasional sprinkles — and Mrs. Brown planned a dinner party tonight for the conferees.

Last year, top Democrats indicated displeasure over not being informed by the governor of some of his legislative plans. This year's meeting, coming before the slated Feb. 7 budget session opening, apparently was intended to unite Democrats on a legislative spending and tax program, as far as possible.

One notable absentee was Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, who said he had to attend a long-planned party given by his wife.

Also absent, for lack of invitation, were Republican leaders.

Here are some of the possibilities the experts looked over to meet what Brown forecasts as a budget deficit of up to $300 million next year:

Boost the state sales tax from 3 per cent as high as 4 per cent, raising from $100 million to $350 million a year additional. The experts said this would be feasibile, and hit all taxpayers, not just certain ones. Whether politicians will go for this in an election year is another question.

Tax magazines sold over the counter. A majority of the experts said it would be feasible, a minority dissented.

Boost the bank and corporation basic tax from 5.5 per cent to 6 per cent, increasing revenue by $32 million annually.

Withhold state income taxes from paychecks, a $185 million revenue gain for 1966-67. The experts flatly recommended this, but Brown indicates he won't press hard for it.

Increase state income taxes by 10 per cent, and make other changes, with revenue gains of from $39 million to $143 million a year.

Boost the state tax from 3 cents a pack of cigarettes to 8 cents, gaining $120 million for the state, cities and counties.

Boost the state's share of taxes from horse racing, up to $7.2 million more a year. The experts backed this, but refused to endorse or disapprove other plans to get more money from horse racing, such as setting up night harness racing.

Storm Lashes Southland, Moves Along

LOS ANGELES (AP)— A winter storm that lashed the Los Angeles area with gusty winds and dumped nearly 4 inches of rain in less than 48 hours, moved eastward today. Clearing skies and dry sunny weather were predicted for New Year's Day.

In the storm's wake were soft, crumbling hillsides and creeks and rivers swollen to flood stage. Three persons died on rain-slick Los Angeles streets and six persons—believed to be members of one family—were killed when the auto they were in collided with a truck near Tehachapi, Calif.

In the Angeles National Forest, the overflowing San Gabriel River and a gushing creek washed out bridges Wednesday and stranded a church bus with about 50 children and 10 adults aboard.

Sheriff's deputies and rescue teams spent seven hours building a temporary bridge and leading the bus passengers, one-by-one, to safety by midnight. No injuries were reported.

In Los Angeles—which already as in the midst of one of its wettest seasons in history — damage figures mounted as rain-soaked hillsides began to crumble in widely separated residential areas.

Throughout the Los Angeles area yesterday there were flooded streets and stranded residents. High wind resulted in widespread reports of damage and as attributed with various power failures.

Premier Moro Assumes Foreign Minister Post

Saragat acted as demands rose from government opponents for Moro's entire center-left coalition to resign over the Fanfani crisis, born of what critics called the foreign minister's amateurish handling of a North Vietnamese peace feeler.

Moro had asked Fanfani to withdraw the resignation. Fanfani submitted it after he came under fire in connection with the report from his friend, Prof. Giorgio La Pira, of a peace feeler from Hanoi.

After Fanfani insisted he was determined to quit on Jan. 6, the premier accepted his resignation last night.

Fanfani had said he was resigning to dissociate himself from criticisms La Pira made of Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Moro at a party at Fanfani's home. Earlier he had been under fire for passing along to the U.S. government La Pira's report of a peace overture from North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh. Hanoi repudiated the report.

La Pira admitted making the belittling comments but said he was jesting and was quoted out of context.

Druggist Shoots Narcotics Thief

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A holdup man armed with a toy pistol was shot three times by a druggist yesterday as he fled a pharmacy with $300 worth of narcotics.

John Dugish, 31, was shot in the back and legs by druggist Tom Merigan who told police he had no idea the gun was a toy until after the shooting.

Dugish was in serious condition at an emergency hospital.

Arab U. S. Arms Worry Israel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel has expressed concern over the U.S. supply of weapons to Arab states.

Israeli Ambassador Avraham Harman met with Secretary of State Dean Rusk for 45 minutes yesterday, then told newsmen he sought the session to review "particularly the recent acceleration in peace and scope of the rearmament of Arab countries which gives us considerable concern."

Harman declined to elaborate, but in November, the United States joined with Britain in offering to sell Saudi Arabia $200 million worth of airplanes, anti-aircraft missiles and radar equipment.

Negro Attorney General To Seek Saltonstall Seat

BOSTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, who now holds one of the highest elective offices of any Negro in the nation, announced today his candidacy for the U.S. Senate.

Brooke will go before the state GOP convention in June and enter the state primary in September seeking the Republican nomination for the seat now held by Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass.

Brooke made his announcement at a news conference called just 24 hours after Saltonstall said he will retire at the end of his present term from the seat he has held since 1944.

Brooke told the news conference, "I have deep and abiding faith in the ability and desire of the people of Massachusetts to make their choice on the basis of qualifications and programs."

"At this crucial moment in world history," he said, "I shall dedicate my service to the establishment of peace, the preservation of freedom for all who desire it, and a better life for people at home and abroad."

Actor's Wife Wants Divorce

Joan Tabor Crawford, 35, of Beverly Hills, sought the divorce yesterday on grounds that the actor "wrongfully inflicted grievous bodily injury and grievous bodily suffering."

The couple was married three years ago in Las Vegas.

Oswald Discharge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The mother of Lee Harvey Oswald, the man who killed President John F. Kennedy, has asked the Navy to change her son's Marine discharge from undesirable to honorable.

California Motorists Face Safety Inspection Of Autos

INSPECTIONS COMING UP — California Highway Patrol Sgt. Lee R. Miller, inspecting windshield wiper of an auto driven by Mrs. Wallace Baldwin, demonstrates what California motorists will face during 1966—mandatory auto safety inspections. (AP Wirephoto)

SACRAMENTO (AP)—California's 11 million motorists were put on notice today they face mandatory safety inspection of their cars for the first time during the coming year.

The California Highway Patrol will be issuing warnings for mechanical defects by the middle of February as part of a stepped - up state traffic safety and smog control campaign ordered by the 1965 legislature.

By midyear, patrolmen will be hailing cars picked at random into roadside checkpoints for five-minute inspections.

Patrolmen will make what they call a "circle inspection," moving around the vehicle to check lights, windows, windshield wipers, brakes, mirrors, tires, horn and smog control devices where they are required.

Patrol Commissioner Bradford M. Crittenden said inspections—and warnings—will be confined initially to automobiles of motorists stopped for other violations.

By March or April, the patrol chief expects to have pilot roadside checkpoints set up to make random checks. He plans three stations, in Southern California, the Central Valley and the north at the start.

Crittenden said the patrol is working on inspection methods and aims to hold the actual time for inspection to five minutes.

"Certainly the motorist would not countenance a 20-minute delay — unless, of course, his vehicle is actually found to be unsafe to be operated on the road," he said.

"This program is being set up from the standpoint of giving the motorist a safer car, not of harassing him," the commissioner added.

MOUNTAIN TRAIN IDEA QUESTIONED

Conservationist Wonders Whether 'Old Days' Return Is Desirable

A promoter of the plan to re-establish the old railroad up Mount Tamalpais, appeared today on the Radio KTIM "Marin Sounding Board," declared his group thinks it can "improve, rather than desecrate" the mountain's beauty and usefulness.

Chester F. Gilbert of Kent Woodlands, one of three men who have proposed a combined railroad-restaurant project, spoke in reply to several questions posed by another participant, Mrs. Mary Donnelly, a director of the Marin Conservation League.

Also on the program were Albert E. White, Mill Valley city councilman, and Andrew Gladney, who has been hired to design the proposed railway.

Gilbert and the other backers of the plan have asked directors of the Marin Municipal Water District for an option to use a fire trail and other district land in starting new trains up the old line, once known as "the crookedest railroad in the world."

The water district board has asked for public reaction before making a decision.

Mrs. Donnelly cited eight questions which she said the conservation league believes must be answered. They relate to the plan's economic feasibility, potential scarring of the mountain, possible fire hazard, and the railroad's compatibility with county zoning and the proper uses of a state park.

She concluded by asking whether it is "possible, or even desirable, to return to the good old days."

Gladney took issue with a statement attributed to William R. Seeger, water district general manager, that a new fire trail would be needed. He said the rail bed could be filled in like city street car tracks so that trucks could drive over it. "Passing tracks" would permit trucks to go past a train if it were on the track at the time, he added.

Most of the conventional fire hazards from trains, such as engine sparks and "hot boxes," would not exist on such a short line, Gladney said.

"The only problem we would have would be smoking by people, and we plan to prohibit that while they are riding on the trains," he said.

White stressed that his city's endorsement of the plan had been in principle only, and pointed out that the Mill Valley council had also asked county supervisors to hire a consultant to prepare a master plan for future use of Mount Tamalpais.

The master plan has also been urged by the conservation league.

White termed the proposal "a nostalgic idea worth considering," but said there is "a giant step" between initial plans and a finished, successful project.

"Perhaps the mountain now belongs to the hikers and the motorists," he said.

Gilbert at one point took issue with a statement by Mrs. Donnelly that "the old railroad failed" when people chose to drive cars up the mountain. He argued that the railroad never stopped making money, and its operators shut it down only because they feared it would be hurt by the automobile.

"That is where they were wrong," he said.

In reply to a question by Mrs. Donnelly, Gilbert said his group would not consider building the restaurant without the railroad or vice-versa. He declared that the combined project was necessary to attract capital.

Gilbert dodged several questions, both from Mrs. Donnelly and listeners, about the cost of the project, train fares and restaurant prices. He said it would be premature to go into such details before MMWD directors make their decision.

Listeners asked if the railroad could be run all the way into Mill Valley, or into Muir Woods. White said he could see "innumerable problems" in trying to use the old and largely abandoned Northwestern Pacific Railroad right of way in Mill Valley.

Gladney said the group had not talked about trains to Muir Woods, but "there is always a possibility."

Jury Reports On Welfare, Coroner, Charter, Works

selrs spend more time with students in guiding them into the trades and cutting down on high school dropouts. The jury said parents should also recognize the advantage of an early decision for their children in entering the vocational field.

7. Conclusion that the cyclical appraisal program of Assessor Bert W. Broemmel "does not seem fair or just," but praise for Broemmel for his efforts toward annual county - wide re-evaluations.

The 1965 grand jury shot down two recommendations made by the 1964 grand jury. Today's report found that moving San Quentin Prison out of the county would not be financially feasible. The previous jury recommended study of such a move.

Today's report also found no justification for the prior jury's recommendation that the offices of the Marin County Mosquito Abatement District be moved from 201 Third Street, San Rafael.

The jury recommended against moving the supplimentary text library of the county schools office from the Civic Center to the former McGraw-Hill Book Co. building in Corte Madera. Supervisors, however, decided on this move some time ago. The schools office and its library are to make the move early next year.

The jury found that the mix-up in the April school districts election was due mainly "to a lack of communication" between the superintendent of schools office and the elections department. It's recommendation that the schools office contract with the elections department has already been carried out by supervisors.

The jury was distressed that its interim report on the public works department was made public last July. In this report the jury called for a study of efficiency in the department and wondered how some of the older men on the staff were to be "disposed of." This wording brought hot retorts from supervisors and County Public Works Director Donald R. Frost.

The jury recommended that future interim reports be sent supervisors on a personal and confidential basis to "avoid premature public disclosure."

Today's report recommended that supervisors "study the public works department in order to determine efficiency."

It recommended further study on road repair work done by the county to see if some of the major jobs cannot be better done by private contractors, and a study of obsolete heavy equipment at the county garage to see if it should be carried on the books.

The jury urged that next year's jury continue to press for cleanup of the Richardson Bay shore at Waldo Point, where the county building code has been "conspiciously violated." The jury said the situation is being corrected.

The jury recommended that additional land be purchased to enlarge and improve the county airport at Novato. It did not say whether this should be done with participating financing from the Federal Aviation Agency.

In its hearings on use of marijuana in schools last June, the report said, jury members were not shocked so much by the wide-spread use as they were by the "disinterested attitude and swaggering manner displayed by some during the testimony."

It concluded that education appeared the best weapon against use of marijuana. The jury recommended that next year's jury cooperate with County Schools Supt. Virgil S. Hollis in a county-wide education program.

Study of the County Health Department brought recommendation that the mobile hearing test unit, now serving county schools, be used during the summer to test hearing of adults.

The jury noted a high turnover of employees in the social services (welfare) department. It noted that starting salary for a child welfare worker was $660 a month in Alameda County and $562 in Marin, and Marin is a costlier place to live.

Recommendations on the welfare department included a suggestion that County Counsel Alan Bruce "familiarize himself with the different programs of welfare in great detail so he may be more helpful in advising the board of supervisors on matters pertaining to welfare."

The grand jury concluded that consolidation of the coroner's office with either the sheriff's department, (as recommended by last year's jury) or with the district attorney (as recommended by Bruce and currently under study by supervisors) would cost the county a good deal more. It recommended that duties of public administrator and guardian be transferred from the coroner to "an appropriate county office." (Bruce has recommended the treasurer-tax collector).

"The coroner should devote full time to his office and have no financial interest in any mortuary in Marin County," the jury concluded in a statement added to the section on the coroner after submission of a committee report.

Collections from responsible relatives by the probation department for fees such as daily room and board at juvenile hall should be done by the county revenue officer and not by the probation department, it held.

The jury noted that $146,000 in bad debts were turned over to the revenue officer in October, and he collected $18,900 of this "which would not otherwise have been collected."

The girls' wing in juvenile hall is "inadequate and overcrowded" and should be replaced, the jury said.

Night patrol assignments of the Point Reyes Station sheriff's substation and increasing the sheriff's juvenile bureau from two to three men, were also recommended.

The grand jury concluded that "the charter form of government can be highly desirable for Marin County." Although it was defeated by voters in 1958, the jury declared the idea should be reconsidered as it would "undoubtedly enhance the possibilities to eliminate or consolidate many of the independent agencies presently operating in the county."

Serving on the jury with Scott were Mrs. Vera L. Schultz, Frederick C. Robbins, Mrs. Claudia Anderson, Mrs. Juanita S. Cobb, Charles R. DeWitt, Martin F. Donohue, Frank E. Galli, Mrs. Marion C. Kelly, Milton H. Lipp, Mrs. Eleanor McArdle, Arthur R. Nicolaisen, Mrs. Mary Pometta, Mrs. Ethyle M. Reindollar, Carle K. Schieck, Jack H. Stockstill, Harry M. Williams, Lee C. Wise, and Elmer S. Worlund.

county, the committee declared: "There is evidence that by insisting upon independent operations of many small districts the modern administrative techniques, proper budgeting practices, and intelligent management."

The jury committee said citizens are not well informed on the complexities of the districts and there is no requirement on reporting activities of the district governing board.

The absence of such requirements, particularly reporting vacancies on the board, "is intolerable," the committee said.

"It is inexcusable that directors of these entities, whether appointed or elected, fail to familiarize themselves with government codes governing their operations."

The more autonomous the districts are, the greater the fragmentation of responsibility, the committee declared.

"In once instance brought to our attention, a single group of homes is already supporting two community services districts, with duplication of directors, offices, overhead, and purchasing, each having bought its own tractor for use one day per week."

Mrs. Vera L. Schutz, a member of the committee, said today that this referred to the Terra Linda Recreation District and community services district.

"The amount of property tax levied to support special district governments is today comparable to property taxes levied by all 11 cities in Marin," the jury reported.

The jury committee suggested that next year's grand jury investigate the possibility of a conflict of interest in having the county counsel serve as legal advisor for special districts.

It also recommended that a board of freeholders or other such body consider possible changes in the structure of county government to curtail continued creation of special districts, and further urged study of a "local budget commission" along the lines of the Local Agency Formation Commission.

"Many of your specific charges and charges of code violations proved to be true," Scott wrote, "exposing omissions ond loopholes not in the public interest in the particular laws governing community services districts.

They Danced While Waiting Paddy Wagon

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police charged a young couple with attempted armed bank robbery Wednesday — a couple a patrolman said "danced arm in arm, quite unconcerned, on the sidewalk" until he arrested them.

Teller Rogers Peters had been handed this note: "Don't look up. You're covered by a ray gun that will leave nothing but the fillings of your teeth. Hah! We need a million dollars quick. Please oblige." Peters stalled and pushed an alarm button.

Peters said the girl in the couple, Miss Patricia Gueldon, asked: "Don't you know we're kidding? That this is only a joke?" The man in the couple, George Shea, was quoted by Peters as saying: "It's no joke."

With that they walked out and patrolman Richard Wayder then stopped them. Both denied intending a robbery. The whole attempt, thought up in a coin-operated laundry, was to be ridiculous, the girl said.

Shea, 24, a Fordham University graduate in English, said he was an unemployed drug clerk and part-time actor. Miss Gueldon, 20, is an honor student from Chico State College.

Public Address Unit Stolen From School

A thief broke into San Rafael High School during the past few days and took a public address system and a tenor saxophone. The crime was discovered yesterday.

San Rafael police reported a door to the outside of the building was pried open, as was a door leading to a music room. The saxophone was worth $225, school official said, but no value was known for the loud speaker system.

GREENBACKS WINDFALL NOT FOR REAL

FAIRFIELD (AP) — A $50 bill blew by a construction project. Then another. Then a $20 bill.

That started workers on a hunt yesterday that turned up a shoebox stuffed with $40,000 of the bills.

The money turned out to be bogus, the Solano County sheriff's office said.

The laborers were employed by the firm of Ball, Syar and Harms at a project along Interstate 80. The box, upside down, was found on the pavement, as if tossed from a car.

FBI agents from San Francisco are investigating.

Arizona Seeks Aid After Floods

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Arizona's floods last week caused more than $7 million damage, the state Civil Defense director says, of which $4 million was to public property.

Gov. Sam Goddard has asked President Johnson to declare portions of Arizona as eligible for federal disaster funds.

It will be next week before the loss will be determined finally, the Civil Defense director, Col. Carl N. Smith, said last night. But he said private damage, mostly to farm lands and buildings, will exceed $3 million.

Prolonged rains and record snow combined to send swollen rivers across the desert last week.

Driver On Probation

Rosalie Maxine Cummings, 51, San Francisco, was fined $225 and placed on a year's probation yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving. She was arrested on Magnolia Avenue by Larkspur police last Dec. 24.

Auto-Truck Collision Fatal To Six

TEHACHAPI (AP)—The coroner awaited the arrival of relatives today for help in identifying five of six persons killed in a car-truck collision.

The only identified victim was the driver of the car, John Delgado Hernandez, 40, of Barstow. The other victims — all riding with him—were a woman, three girls and a boy.

The highway patrol said the accident occurred yesterday on rain-slick State Route 58 near Tehachapi when Hernandez' car skidded broadside into the path of the truck.

Five persons died at the scene. The sixth, a girl, died three hours after the crash at a hospital in Bakersfield, 40 miles northwest of Tehachapi.

Costly Jewelry Stolen In Hotel

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Lowell Dillingham, wealthy and socially prominent Honolulu business leader, reported today more than $47,000 in jewelry and travelers checks stolen from his hotel room here.

Dillingham, eldest son of the late Walter Dillingham, capitalist with world - wide interests, told police he and his wife, Harriet, arrived from New York yesterday and checked into the Clift Hotel to spend New Year's.

Two jewelry cases holding $45,400 in Mrs. Dillingham's gems and checks worth $1,300 were stolen, Dillingham said.

Viet Sniper Ruins Joke Between Bing Crosby, Hope

SAIGON (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope flew out of Viet Nam today after a successful Christmas tour for U.S. troops. But he left behind a ribbing he did not know about from his longtime sidekick Bing Crosby.

Hope didn't know about it because the man who was supposed to relay the rib, Lt. Col. Gordon J. Lippman of Lemmon, S. Dak., had been killed by the Viet Cong.

Crosby, who has battled wits with Hope for years, had sent a photograph and letter with cracks to "Ample Robert" Hope to Lippman, an old friend who was the executive officer of the 1st Infantry Division's 3rd Brigade at Lai Khe, deep in Viet Cong territory 30 miles north of Saigon.

In the letter Crosby said he hoped Lippman would "have some fun when Ample Robert appears at your billet. I know he'll be a big hit there—I've been working hard with him, getting him up in his material and on his delivery, cleaning up his act a bit, and sprucing it up where it needed some lively interpolations."

The photo showed Bing following through a golf stroke. In one corner was the inscription: "Dear Bob, don't you wish you had a finish like this? And a waistline?—love, Bing."

Lippman received the letter Dec. 11 and took it to the villa he shared with several other officers on a rubber plantation at Lai Khe. Over dinner the men laughed about the joke and anticipated springing it on Hope when he arrived around Christmas.

Then shots cracked out and mortar rounds burst in the plantations. Guards at the 3rd Brigade encampment fired back with everything they had and Lippman raced from the villa to try to get the shooting under control.

A sniper's bullet hit him. Thirty minutes later he died on an operating table in the camp's hospital tent. It was just three hours after he had received the letter.

Closed Session

Mill Valley School District trustees will hold a closed session at 8 p.m. Monday in the district office to discuss the employment of certificated personnel, such personnel including teachers and administrators. No other subject will be discussed, said Supt. G. R. McConnell.

Ex-Tiburon Man Held As Morals Suspect

Robert Jack Berg, 39, of San Francisco, formerly of Tiburon, was booked in Marin County jail yesterday for investigation of lewd and lascivious behavior with a 9-year-old Tiburon girl.

He was released early today on $2,750 bail and scheduled for arraignment in Marin Municipal Court at 1:30 p.m. Monday. Sheriff's juvenile officers said the violations occurred last summer and early fall in Tiburon.

MOUNTAIN TRAIN IDEA QUESTIONED

Conservationist Wonders Whether 'Old Days' Return Is Desirable

A promoter of the plan to re-establish the old railroad up Mount Tamalpais, appeared today on the Radio KTIM "Marin Sounding Board," declared his group thinks it can "improve, rather than desecrate" the mountain's beauty and usefulness.

The highway patrol said the accident occurred yesterday on rain-slick State Route 58 near Tehachapi when Hernandez' car skidded broadside into the path of the truck.

Five persons died at the scene. The sixth, a girl, died three hours after the crash at a hospital in Bakersfield, 40 miles northwest of Tehachapi.

Costly Jewelry Stolen In Hotel

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Lowell Dillingham, wealthy and socially prominent Honolulu business leader, reported today more than $47,000 in jewelry and travelers checks stolen from his hotel room here.

Dillingham, eldest son of the late Walter Dillingham, capitalist with world - wide interests, told police he and his wife, Harriet, arrived from New York yesterday and checked into the Clift Hotel to spend New Year's.

Two jewelry cases holding $45,400 in Mrs. Dillingham's gems and checks worth $1,800 were stolen, Dillingham said.

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—A high Indian government source says Communist China is supplying Pakistan with large quantities of arms and already has equipped a new army division with medium artillery.

Viet Sniper Ruins Joke Between Bing Crosby, Hope

SAIGON (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope flew out of Viet Nam today after a successful Christmas tour for U.S. troops. But he left behind a ribbing he did not know about from his longtime sidekick Bing Crosby.

Hope didn't know about it because the man who was supposed to relay the rib, Lt. Col. Gordon J. Lippman of Lemmon, S. Dak., had been killed by the Viet Cong.

Crosby, who has battled wits with Hope for years, had sent a photograph and letter with cracks to "Ample Robert" Hope to Lippman, an old friend who was the executive officer of the 1st Infantry Division's 3rd Brigade at Lai Khe, deep in Viet Cong territory 30 miles north of Saigon.

In the letter Crosby said he hoped Lippman would "have some fun when Ample Robert appears at your billet. I know he'll be a big hit there—I've been working hard with him, getting him up in his material and on his delivery, cleaning up his act a bit, and sprucing it up where it needed some lively interpolations."

The photo showed Bing following through a golf stroke. In one corner was the inscription: "Dear Bob, don't you wish you had a finish like this? And a waistline?—love, Bing."

Lippman received the letter Dec. 11 and took it to the villa he shared with several other officers on a rubber plantation at Lai Khe. Over dinner the men laughed about the joke and anticipated springing it on Hope when he arrived around Christmas.

Then shots cracked out and mortar rounds burst in the plantations. Guards at the 3rd Brigade encampment fired back with everything they had and Lippman raced from the villa to try to get the shooting under control.

A sniper's bullet hit him. Thirty minutes later he died on an operating table in the camp's hospital tent. It was just three hours after he had received the letter.

Closed Session

Mill Valley School District trustees will hold a closed session at 8 p.m. Monday in the district office to discuss the employment of certificated personnel, such personnel including teachers and administrators. No other subject will be discussed, said Supt. G. R. McConnell.

Ex-Tiburon Man Held As Morals Suspect

Robert Jack Berg, 39, of San Francisco, formerly of Tiburon, was booked in Marin County jail yesterday for investigation of lewd and lascivious behavior with a 9-year-old Tiburon girl.

He was released early today on $2,750 bail and scheduled for arraignment in Marin Municipal Court at 1:30 p.m. Monday. Sheriff's juvenile officers said the violations occurred last summer and early fall in Tiburon.

The Army Air Defense Command Sixth Region will also be expanded under the new setup, absorbing the former Seventh Region.

Report On Red Missile Strength 'Misleading'

By DONALD ZYLSTRA
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON—An unofficial report showing a 35 per cent increase last year in the number of Soviet long-range ballistic missiles can prove "misleading," Pentagon spokesmen say.

The Institute for Strategic Studies (ISS), a reliable private research agency in London, lists figures showing that the United States now has dropped to a superiority of 3 to 1 over the Soviet Union in intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs) — a narrower margin than the 4 to 1 lead shown a year ago.

During the year since the last publication of the report, the United States has completed removal of all of its early Atlas and Titan I liquid-fueled ICBMs —reducing the total from 925 at the end of October, 1964, to 854 this year.

Pentagon officials observe that, had these obsolete missiles been retained at launch sites, the U.S. would now have 1,034 ICBMs — with superiority nearing 5 to 1 over the 270 currently reported for the Soviets.

In increasing their long-range missiles from 200 to 270 last year, the Russians have apparently retained even their earliest liquid-fueled missiles—weapons which must be fueled with refrigerated liquids just before launch — like the discarded U.S. Atlas and Titan I types.

U. S. missilemen estimate that more than 100 of the 270 Soviet ICBMs are of this outmoded, hard-to-maintain type. About 140 may be either storable liquid-fueled types like Titan II, or they use solid fuels like the U.S. Minuteman ICBM.

"In view of earlier estimates that the Russians would reach 300 ICBMs in the 1961-1962 time period, their present total is even less impressive," defense spokesmen said. "It certainly indicates a relatively slow rate of development and production compared with the U.S."

This country now has enough modern missiles in protected silos to make retention of inefficient early types unnecessary, defense chiefs say.

Soviet retention of early long-range missiles is described as inefficient. "It's as if U.S. farmers who changed from horses to tractors years ago had continued to feed and house all these animals after switching to tractors," one defense source said. "It can be argued that this is a bigger display of power —but it seems neither efficient nor practical."

U.S. submarine-carried intermediate range ballistic missiles now show a 4 to 1 lead over the number of similar Soviet weapons, the London report says. Polaris missiles in U.S. nuclear submarines have increased from 480 to 544 during the year, while the Soviet total in this class remained at about 120.

Two types of these medium range missiles have ranges of 700 and 1,100 miles, respectively. A third type has a 2,100-mile range — but is still well short of ranges planned for navy's newest submarine-launched Poseidon missile.

Poseidon and Polaris have the additional advantage of being solid-fueled — for simpler, easier handling by armed forces crews — whereas the Russian weapon most nearly resembling them is still liquid-fueled.

"Don't mistake our intentions," a Pentagon spokesman warned. "We are not trying to scale down or debunk the real, very considerable Soviet missile and nuclear threat. Probably few citizens realize how awesome it is.

"But, on the other hand, mere publication of comparative numbers shouldn't be permitted to give a false impression of a worsening U.S. defense position in relation to the Soviets. Quite the opposite is true. We have actually improved our defenses relative to the Russians in the past year."

Pentagon officials had no quarrel with the ISS report. Both U.S. government sources and NATO spokesmen frequently cite figures in the annual report as "unofficial" indications of military capacities among the nations of the world. The ISS report is often used as a method of getting around rigid top-secret classification of data by national and NATO defense agencies.

In seeking to explain their reasons for not worrying unduly about rising Russian missile totals, defense spokesmen also cautioned Americans not to be too impressed with apparent Russian advantages in missile size.

The ISS report estimates that the Soviets now have an ICBM with a 30-megaton warhead—each megaton being the equivalent of one million tons of conventional explosives such as TNT.

By contrast, U.S. missiles produced in the greatest quantities, the Minuteman ICBM and the Polaris intermediate range missile, have warheads estimated in the one-megaton category. The most powerful U.S. nuclear-tipped missiles are variously estimated between 10 and 18 megatons.

Beyond a certain level, a bigger nuclear "bang" just isn't practical or worthwhile, Pentagon missilemen explain. Making missiles too big and cumbersome is much like "using a sledge hammer to swat a fly," they observe.

Mother, Son Compete For College Grades

ST. LOUIS (UPI) —Mother and son not only attend the same college, but they are in class together for intermediate Spanish.

Mrs. Bertha O'Bannon and her son, Daniel, of suburban Ferguson both study second year Spanish. Mrs. O'Bannon admits to "considerable rivalry" between mother and son for grades. Both attend the St. Louis County Junior College district.

Span Officials Dampen Hopes Of Ferry Run

Possibility of reviving ferry service between Marin and San Francisco suffered a couple of setbacks today at a meeting of Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors.

Jerome B. White, attorney for the bridge district, told directors he believes the district does not have authority to spend funds for study of ferry service. The law which set up the district limits it to building and operating bridges, the attorney declared.

Marin director Thomas D. Hardcastle also put a little damper on the enthusiasm for ferry boats. He said he met with traffic engineers from San Francisco, Marin, and the state on Dec. 23. Concensus of the meeting was that an improved bus system would provide the best interim solution to the traffic problem, Hardcastle said.

The bridge directors hired engineer Clifford E. Paine to study two engineering reports on the second deck for the Golden Gate Bridge. Paine will get a fee of $15,000.

Directors also agreed to convert nine million dollars worth of current bonds, drawing two and one-half per cent interest, to new bonds that draw four per cent. The conversion would mean a gain of half a million dollars to the bridge district by 1971.

Three Charged With Possession Of Marijuana

Three Marin County juveniles were arrested last night by sheriff's officers and Sausalito police for alleged possession of marijuana near Gate 5, Marinship.

Deputies said two girls, a 15-year-old from Mill Valley and a 14-year-old from Sausalito, were released to their parents. The third, a 17-year-old Mill Valley boy, was placed in Marin County Juvenile Hall.

All three were cited to the sheriff's juvenile bureau. Sheriff's Sgt. Wade Powell said they were riding in a car driven by the boy about 9:30 p.m. when arrested.

He said traces of weed appearing to be marijuana were found on the car's floorboard, and a capsule of white powder was in the boy's clothing. The items were taken to a San Francisco narcotics laboratory today for analysis.

Salmon Return To Park Creek To Spawn, Die

Sighting of the first salmon starting up Redwood Creek from the Pacific Ocean at Muir Beach was reported today.

Storms the past two days provided enough rain to open the channel from Muir Beach to permit the fish to swim into Muir Woods National Monument to spawn and die, thus ending their life cycle.

Monument staff member Thomas Swan said the salmon seen were 12 to 24 inches in length. He said steelhead trout, which return to the ocean, were also sighted. The salmon always return to the stream in which they originally spawned.

Swan cautioned that visitors to the park should not be too unhappy if they do not find salmon, since their runs are sporadic and it is not always possible to see them. The Salmon run is expected to last several weeks, he said.

House Total To Be Reduced

The Marin County Health Department will follow the recommendations of the State Department of Health and the State Department of Water Resources in seriously curtailing development of an Inverness subdivision.

The 45-lot Silver Hills tract north of Inverness is proposed wtih septic tanks, but the department of water resources has said no more than seven lots should be allowed and the department of health said that no development should be allowed until plan for a safe water supply is approved.

Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows reported today that the county will enforce these requirements.

Water Emergency

BOSTON (AP) — The worst water shortage since Massachusetts began keeping records in the 1880s has resulted in 69 cities and towns operating under emergency water restrictions at year's end.

Johnson Confirms Peace Talk Drive

Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville.

The Harriman mission and a visit to Pope Paul VI by United Nations Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg were part of the most ambitious undertaking yet by the Johnson administration to end the savage fighting in Viet Nam.

In the background was the fact the United States suspension of air raids against Communist North Viet Nam entered the seventh day today though there has been no favorable response from Hanoi. Instead, Hanoi has indicated it will continue to demand peace on its own terms.

French newspapers viewed the American missions as a last attempt to negotiate peace in Viet Nam before beginning a new escalaion of the art.

The mass circulation France-Soir called the U.S. moves a "last chance peace offensive."

"If it fails, the Americans will hit North Viet Nam ever harder," the newspaper predicted.

Other peace moves were reported underway in other world capitals. French Ambassador Philippe Baudet called on Soviet Iresident Nikolai Podgorny in Moscow today one day after U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler talked with Podgorny.

Official reports said only that Baudet and Podgorny had a "friendly conversation." But Viet Nam is a former French colony over which France fought a long war that ended in 1954 with the Geneva conference dividing the country. France's stakes are high there.

British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart met in London chief U.N. delegate, to discuss the Viet Nam peace situation. Stewart leaves soon for Latin America and will be in Washington late in January.

There were unconfirmed rumors Harriman also would visit Budapest since the Hungarians have been reported ready to take part in peace efforts.

Washington dispatches reported a point-by-point summary of U.S. aims in Southeast Asia and that Harriman and Goldberg were making the same points in their widely publicized missions.

One of the most important of these was that the United States would accept a "non-aligned" Viet Nam but that it would never accept Chinese Communist domination of Viet Nam. Left unsaid but clearly implied was the threat that unless peace was obtained Johnson would carry on his Dec. 9 warning that "other hard steps will be taken" in Viet Nam—perhaps stepped up air raids and possible raids on Hanoi.

North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh yesterday rejected an appeal by Pope Paul VI for peace in Viet Nam on grounds the United States wants war, not peace. Today, a defiant North Viet Nam said in a broadcast it was ready for any U.S. attack. It said Americans would be annihilated on the spot if they started a local war in the North.

In a letter to the pontiff broadcast by the North Vietnamese news agency in Hanoi, Ho charged the United States with "scheming" to spread the Vietnamese war to Cambodia and Laos. Repeating previous Communist conditions for a peace settlement, Ho said "aggression by the American imperialists against Viet Nam is the deep origin and direct cause of the present ar."

Communist peace demands include an end to U.S. air raids against North Viet Nam, complete withdrawal of American troops from South Viet Nam and a return to the accords of the 1954 Geneva agreement.

Radio Moscow also joined in the attack today on U.S. peace efforts. An English-language broadcast beamed at North America charged that American offers to negotiate a peace in Viet Nam were nothing but "smokescreen . . . designed to allay world indignation over this war of naked aggression."

loudspeakers last Monday at Ba To, the spokesman said, and broadcast this message to the Vietnamese troops:

"Leave the Americans, bring your weapons and join us. Did you see the dead from the last battle? Don't be like them. Join us."

Another terrorist act occurred today in Saigon when a respected newspaper editor was gunned down and killed in front of his home as he arrived for lunch with his wife and six children.

Huy was one of many Vietnamese newsmen who a few months ago received letters from the Viet Cong threatening them with death if they did not moderate their editorial policies to suit the Communist line.

Chinh Luan was the only newspaper that printed the letter, along with a message of defiance to the Viet Cong.

Before dawn 500 Viet Cong drove a South Vietnamese militia company from a government strongpoint only 4 miles from the outer defenses of the big Marine base at Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon. It was the third time in 10 weeks that the Communists had overrun Hill 60.

In the western jungles of Chau Doc, along the Cambodian border, the Viet Cong tore into a Vietnamese company at an outpost, inflicted heavy casualties and came back an hour later to hit this one and a militia post in the vicinity. They poured 50-caliber machine - gun fire in a steady drone, then slipped away with some parting shots at flare planes.

Communist forces were on the move on the waterways 15 to 25 miles southeast of Saigon itself but were caught by three armed U. S. Army helicopters. In a running battle, the helicopters sank five sampans and one barge and killed eight Viet Cong, a spokesman reported.

The Reds renewed mortar and infantry attacks in Quang Ngai province 60 miles south of Da Nang after overrunning the district town of Minh Long yesterday. Artillery and 42 tactical air strikes were directed against the Communists. Reports said the area thronged with Viet Cong.

A serious terrorist incident was narrowly averted when police discovered four mines planted in a basket of fruit in a crowded bus depot in Cholon, Saigon's Chinese quarter.

Board To Hear Of Complaints

Complaints about staff members in the city schools will be heard by the San Rafael Board of Education in a closed session starting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in a conference room of the administration building, Third and E streets.

Schools Supt. Bert C. Corona said the complaints had come from organizations as well as individuals. He declined to give further details.

Next open meeting of the board will be at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 11 in the same building.

Fair Condition

Alleine Hughes, 53, of 192 Adams Avenue, Mill Valley, remained in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital from injuries she received Tuesday when her car skidded into a ditch on Sequoia Valley Road near Mill Valley.

More than 900 potentially destructive earthquakes occur throughout the world each year, according to the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Croaker Quiet At Civic Center

The Civic Center frog was silent today.

Several listened expectantly in the hallways, but there was no sound from the ground floor planter.

Had the frog, after sending his croaks echoing through the lightwell yesterday, abandoned the Civic Center? Or was he staying silent and cozy in the planter?

"Who knows " said Leslie Wider with a shrug. He is superintendent of buildings and grounds and is responsible for frogs and other things.

Pentagon Requests Troop Shift Blackout

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department today asked news media in the United States to "refrain voluntarily" from publishing or broadcasting advance information on troop movements to Viet Nam.

Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, issued a statement saying that the Pentagon "urgently requests that news media here in the United States cooperate in the same fashion" as press corps members in Viet Nam in exercising self-censorship on such matters.

OBITUARIES

Philip Hallquist Dies At 90

Philip Hallquist, 90, a retired master mariner who sailed the seas for 62 years, died of a heart attack this morning at the Kentfield home of his son, Eric.

A resident of Marin County for 40 years, Hallquist was born in Sweden, but left his home to go to sea when he was 17. Serving as a cabin boy, he sailed to England, where he shipped board the full-rigged vessel, the Star of France, and made his first around-the-world voyage.

He came to America before the turn of the century and sailed aboard Oceanic Line ships, serving Alaska during the Klondike gold rush.

Just after the gold rush he received command of the Whittier, a tanker owned by Union Oil Co., and spent 15 years aboard the ship, sailing the Pacific Coast.

In 1926 he joined the Golden Gate Ferry Co. and served auto ferries running from Sausalito to San Francisco until the line closed with opening of the Golden Gate Bridge.

During World War II he was chief officer aboard freighters in the South Pacific, often running through combat zones.

Following the war he served as relief officer aboard ships docked at the Port of San Francisco. He did this until his retirement 11 years ago.

He lived for many years at 77 Alder Avenue, San Anselmo, before moving to his son's home at 306 Kent Avenue, Kentfield.

He was a member of the Masters, Mates, and Pilots Union, San Francisco Local 90; a life member of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Right of Free Masons, attaining the 32nd degree, and a member of the Swedish Society, Branch 1, of Oakland.

He is survived by his son, and by two daughters, Mrs. Sarah Nome of Mill Valley and Mrs. Anna Halperin of Duarte, Los Angeles County.

Funeral will be Monday at 2 p.m. at the Abbey of the Chimes, Vallejo.

HARVEY PINE

Harvey R. Pine, father of Mrs. Patricia Ann Jonsen of San Rafael, died of a heart attack yesterday at his home in San Francisco. He was 50 years old.

A native of Missouri, he had lived in California 30 years. He was a retired owner of a cleaning business. He was a member of Parksside Post of the American Legion.

Pine is survived by his wife, Hazel B. Pine of San Francisco; a son, Robert H. Pine; a daughter, Patricia Ann Jonsen; a brother, Edward Pine of Sacramento; and four grandsons.

A Requiem Mass will be offered at 7:45 a.m. tomorrow at St. Gabriel's Church, 40th Avenue and Ulloa Street, San Francisco. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at Duggan's Serra Mortuary, 500 Westlake Avenue, Daly City. Burial will be at Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Thieves Clout Cars, Yule Tree

A four-barrel carburetor was stolen from a car owned by Charles G. Griffin, 210 Auburn Street, California Park, sheriff's officers said today. The vehicle was parked at Griffin's residence.

Mary T. Adkins, 629 Main Street, Sausalito, told deputies a bag containing $11 worth of groceries and a dashboard clock were stolen from her vehicle while she visited friends at Eden Roc Apartments, Waldo Point.

TODAY:

12:55 a.m., San Rafael—Hot water valve in bath tub at 320 Third Street, Apt. 5, would not turn off; firemen shut off line.

MRS. WATSON

Funeral for Mrs. Penelope S. Watson, 87, of 8 Live Oak Avenue, Fairfax, will be held at 12:30 p.m. Sunday at Unity Christ Church of Marin, San Anselmo.

Mrs. Watson died Tuesday in a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of Lansing, Mich., she lived in California for 70 years and in Marin County for 30 years. She was a secretary for the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. for many years, retiring in 1940.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Doris H. Toohy of San Francisco, and two sisters, Mrs. Edith S. Dannenberg of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Rose S. Hurley of La Mesa, San Diego County.

The family requests that memorial contributions be sent to the American Heart Fund, 259 Geary Street, San Francisco.

E. A. SAVAGE

Funeral for E. A. (Dick) Savage, 73, a resident of Fairfax for about 20 years, will be held at 12:30 p.m. tomorrow at Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo. Private burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Born in Ashton-under-Lyne, England, Savage came to the United States 50 years ago. He served as a corporal in the air service of the Army Signal Corps in World War I. He had resided in California for 23 years.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ellen H. Savage, at the family home at 103 Dominga Avenue, Fairfax, and by two sons, two daughters, 12 grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

WALLIS RIESE

Funeral for Wallis R. Riese of San Anselmo, who died Tuesday of a heart attack while visiting his daughter in McFarland, Kern County, will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

Riese, 67, was a native of San Francisco, but lived most of his life in Marin County. He and his wife, Mabel E. Riese, resided at 133 Essex Avenue, San Anselmo. Riese was a retired coffee buyer for the Green Glen Coffee Co., a subsidiary of the Grace Lines Steamship Co.

Riese was a veteran of World War I. He was a member of the Bohemian Club, San Francisco.

Riese is survived by his wife, Mabel E. Riese; a son, Rev. Wallis R. Riese Jr. of Glennville, Kern County; a daughter, Mrs. Doris R. McFarland of McFarland; and five grandchildren.

Inurnment will be private. The family has requested memorial gifts be made to the Presbyterian Medical Center, San Francisco.

HARRIS CONNICK

OAKLAND (AP) — Funeral services will be held tomorrow in San Francisco for Harris D. Connick, director of the 1939 World's Fair at Treasure Island. He was 92.

Connick, who designed San Francisco's sewer system, died Tuesday. For a time he was chief assistant city engineer in San Francisco.

He directed construction of the Panama - Pacific Exposition of 1915 in San Francisco and was chief director of the Golden Gate International Exposition of 1939.

JOHN CLERICO

Funeral for John Clerico, 71, of Inverness, retired general manager of shipping for Pope and Talbot Steamship Lines, will be held tomorrow at 2 p.m. at the Ashley and McMullen Mortuary, San Francisco.

A native of Kansas, Clerico lived in California for 35 years. He died Tuesday in Williams, Colusa County, of a heart attack while duck hunting.

He was a member of Orient Masonic Lodge of Topeka, Kan.; the Marine Square Club of San Francisco, and the Point Reyes Lions Club.

He is survived by his wife, Elna; his mother, Anna Clerico, of Kansas; three sisters, Mary Hoggatt of Berkeley, Emma Underwood and Lydia Sietz of Kansas; and three brothers, Joe, Ernest and Ralph, all of Kansas.

Inurnment will be in Cypress Lawn Cemetery, Colma.

MAX SOBEL

Funeral for Max Sobel, 75, of San Francisco was held today in San Francisco.

Sobel, who died on Christmas night while on a cruise in the Caribbean, was brother of Sam Sobel, 69, also of San Francisco.

Sam Sobel has a second home at Bayside Acres near San Rafael. The obituary item in Monday's Independent-Journal erroneously stated that Max Sobel owned the Bayside Acres home.

The error caused confusion among friends as to which brother had died, according to Sam Sobel's wife, Mrs. Sylvera (Sis) Sobel.

embracing part of Mexico, but the Hamilton public information office said Mexico would not participate in the joint command.

Components of the new region will be the Fourth Air Force, Army Air Defense Command Sixth Region (which has headquarters at Fort Baker), and Canadian air defense units.

The Army Air Defense Command Sixth Region will also be expanded under the new setup, absorbing the former Seventh Region.

Report On Red Missile Strength 'Misleading'

By DONALD ZYLSTRA
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON—An unofficial report showing a 35 per cent increase last year in the number of Soviet long-range ballistic missiles can prove "misleading," Pentagon spokesmen say.

The Institute for Strategic Studies (ISS), a reliable private research agency in London, lists figures showing that the United States now has dropped to a superiority of 3 to 1 over the Soviet Union in intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs) — a narrower margin than the 4 to 1 lead shown a year ago.

During the year since the last publication of the report, the United States has completed removal of all of its early Atlas and Titan I liquid-fueled ICBMs —reducing the total from 925 at the end of October, 1964, to 854 this year.

Pentagon officials observe that, had these obsolete missiles been retained at launch sites, the U.S. would now have 1,034 ICBMs — with superiority nearing 5 to 1 over the 270 currently reported for the Soviets.

In increasing their long-range missiles from 200 to 270 last year, the Russians have apparently retained even their earliest liquid-fueled missiles—weapons which must be fueled with refrigerated liquids just before launch — like the discarded U.S. Atlas and Titan I types.

U. S. missilemen estimate that more than 100 of the 270 Soviet ICBMs are of this outmoded, hard-to-maintain type. About 140 may be either storable liquid-fueled types like Titan II, or they use solid fuels like the U.S. Minuteman ICBM.

"In view of earlier estimates that the Russians would reach 300 ICBMs in the 1961-1962 time period, their present total is even less impressive," defense spokesmen said. "It certainly indicates a relatively slow rate of development and production compared with the U.S."

This country now has enough modern missiles in protected silos to make retention of inefficient early types unnecessary, defense chiefs say.

Soviet retention of early long-range missiles is described as inefficient. "It's as if U.S. farmers who changed from horses to tractors years ago had continued to feed and house all these animals after switching to tractors," one defense source said. "It can be argued that this is a bigger display of power —but it seems neither efficient nor practical."

U.S. submarine-carried intermediate range ballistic missiles now show a 4 to 1 lead over the number of similar Soviet weapons, the London report says. Polaris missiles in U.S. nuclear submarines have increased from 480 to 544 during the year, while the Soviet total in this class remained at about 120.

Two types of these medium range missiles have ranges of 700 and 1,100 miles, respectively. A third type has a 2,100-mile range — but is still well short of ranges planned for navy's newest submarine-launched Poseidon missile.

Poseidon and Polaris have the additional advantage of being solid-fueled — for simpler, easier handling by armed forces crews — whereas the Russian weapon most nearly resembling them is still liquid-fueled.

"Don't mistake our intentions," a Pentagon spokesman warned. "We are not trying to scale down or debunk the real, very considerable Soviet missile and nuclear threat. Probably few citizens realize how awesome it is.

"But, on the other hand, mere publication of comparative numbers shouldn't be permitted to give a false impression of a worsening U.S. defense position in relation to the Soviets. Quite the opposite is true. We have actually improved our defenses relative to the Russians in the past year."

Pentagon officials had no quarrel with the ISS report. Both U.S. government sources and NATO spokesmen frequently cite figures in the annual report as "unofficial" indications of military capacities among the nations of the world. The ISS report is often used as a method of getting around rigid top-secret classification of data by national and NATO defense agencies.

In seeking to explain their reasons for not worrying unduly about rising Russian missile totals, defense spokesmen also cautioned Americans not to be too impressed with apparent Russian advantages in missile size.

The ISS report estimates that the Soviets now have an ICBM with a 30-megaton warhead—each megaton being the equivalent of one million tons of conventional explosives such as TNT.

By contrast, U.S. missiles produced in the greatest quantities, the Minuteman ICBM and the Polaris intermediate range missile, have warheads estimated in the one-megaton category. The most powerful U.S. nuclear-tipped missiles are variously estimated between 10 and 18 megatons.

Beyond a certain level, a bigger nuclear "bang" just isn't practical or worthwhile, Pentagon missilemen explain. Making missiles too big and cumbersome is much like "using a sledge hammer to swat a fly," they observe.

Mother, Son Compete For College Grades

ST. LOUIS (UPI) —Mother and son not only attend the same college, but they are in class together for intermediate Spanish.

Mrs. Bertha O'Bannon and her son, Daniel, of suburban Ferguson both study second year Spanish. Mrs. O'Bannon admits to "considerable rivalry" between mother and son for grades. Both attend the St. Louis County Junior College district.

Span Officials Dampen Hopes Of Ferry Run

Possibility of reviving ferry service between Marin and San Francisco suffered a couple of setbacks today at a meeting of Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors.

Jerome B. White, attorney for the bridge district, told directors he believes the district does not have authority to spend funds for study of ferry service. The law which set up the district limits it to building and operating bridges, the attorney declared.

Marin director Thomas D. Hardcastle also put a little damper on the enthusiasm for ferry boats. He said he met with traffic engineers from San Francisco, Marin, and the state on Dec. 23. Concensus of the meeting was that an improved bus system would provide the best interim solution to the traffic problem, Hardcastle said.

The bridge directors hired engineer Clifford E. Paine to study two engineering reports on the second deck for the Golden Gate Bridge. Paine will get a fee of $15,000.

Directors also agreed to convert nine million dollars worth of current bonds, drawing two and one-half per cent interest, to new bonds that draw four per cent. The conversion would mean a gain of half a million dollars to the bridge district by 1971.

Three Charged With Possession Of Marijuana

Three Marin County juveniles were arrested last night by sheriff's officers and Sausalito police for alleged possession of marijuana near Gate 5, Marinship.

Deputies said two girls, a 15-year-old from Mill Valley and a 14-year-old from Sausalito, were released to their parents. The third, a 17-year-old Mill Valley boy, was placed in Marin County Juvenile Hall.

All three were cited to the sheriff's juvenile bureau. Sheriff's Sgt. Wade Powell said they were riding in a car driven by the boy about 9:30 p.m. when arrested.

He said traces of weed appearing to be marijuana were found on the car's floorboard, and a capsule of white powder was in the boy's clothing. The items were taken to a San Francisco narcotics laboratory today for analysis.

Salmon Return To Park Creek To Spawn, Die

Storms the past two days provided enough rain to open the channel from Muir Beach to permit the fish to swim into Muir Woods National Monument to spawn and die, thus ending their life cycle.

Monument staff member Thomas Swan said the salmon seen were 12 to 24 inches in length. He said steelhead trout, which return to the ocean, were also sighted. The salmon always return to the stream in which they originally spawned.

Swan cautioned that visitors to the park should not be too unhappy if they do not find salmon, since their runs are sporadic and it is not always possible to see them. The Salmon run is expected to last several weeks, he said.

House Total To Be Reduced

The Marin County Health Department will follow the recommendations of the State Department of Health and the State Department of Water Resources in seriously curtailing development of an Inverness subdivision.

The 45-lot Silver Hills tract north of Inverness is proposed wtih septic tanks, but the department of water resources has said no more than seven lots should be allowed and the department of health said that no development should be allowed until plan for a safe water supply is approved.

Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows reported today that the county will enforce these requirements.

Water Emergency

BOSTON (AP) — The worst water shortage since Massachusetts began keeping records in the 1880s has resulted in 69 cities and towns operating under emergency water restrictions at year's end.

Johnson Confirms Peace Talk Drive

Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville.

The Harriman mission and a visit to Pope Paul VI by United Nations Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg were part of the most ambitious undertaking yet by the Johnson administration to end the savage fighting in Viet Nam.

In the background was the fact the United States suspension of air raids against Communist North Viet Nam entered the seventh day today though there has been no favorable response from Hanoi. Instead, Hanoi has indicated it will continue to demand peace on its own terms.

French newspapers viewed the American missions as a last attempt to negotiate peace in Viet Nam before beginning a new escalaion of the art.

"If it fails, the Americans will hit North Viet Nam ever harder," the newspaper predicted.

Other peace moves were reported underway in other world capitals. French Ambassador Philippe Baudet called on Soviet Iresident Nikolai Podgorny in Moscow today one day after U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler talked with Podgorny.

Official reports said only that Baudet and Podgorny had a "friendly conversation." But Viet Nam is a former French colony over which France fought a long war that ended in 1954 with the Geneva conference dividing the country. France's stakes are high there.

British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart met in London chief U.N. delegate, to discuss the Viet Nam peace situation. Stewart leaves soon for Latin America and will be in Washington late in January.

There were unconfirmed rumors Harriman also would visit Budapest since the Hungarians have been reported ready to take part in peace efforts.

Washington dispatches reported a point-by-point summary of U.S. aims in Southeast Asia and that Harriman and Goldberg were making the same points in their widely publicized missions.

One of the most important of these was that the United States would accept a "non-aligned" Viet Nam but that it would never accept Chinese Communist domination of Viet Nam. Left unsaid but clearly implied was the threat that unless peace was obtained Johnson would carry on his Dec. 9 warning that "other hard steps will be taken" in Viet Nam—perhaps stepped up air raids and possible raids on Hanoi.

North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh yesterday rejected an appeal by Pope Paul VI for peace in Viet Nam on grounds the United States wants war, not peace. Today, a defiant North Viet Nam said in a broadcast it was ready for any U.S. attack. It said Americans would be annihilated on the spot if they started a local war in the North.

In a letter to the pontiff broadcast by the North Vietnamese news agency in Hanoi, Ho charged the United States with "scheming" to spread the Vietnamese war to Cambodia and Laos. Repeating previous Communist conditions for a peace settlement, Ho said "aggression by the American imperialists against Viet Nam is the deep origin and direct cause of the present ar."

Communist peace demands include an end to U.S. air raids against North Viet Nam, complete withdrawal of American troops from South Viet Nam and a return to the accords of the 1954 Geneva agreement.

Radio Moscow also joined in the attack today on U.S. peace efforts. An English-language broadcast beamed at North America charged that American offers to negotiate a peace in Viet Nam were nothing but "smokescreen . . . designed to allay world indignation over this war of naked aggression."

loudspeakers last Monday at Ba To, the spokesman said, and broadcast this message to the Vietnamese troops:

"Leave the Americans, bring your weapons and join us. Did you see the dead from the last battle? Don't be like them. Join us."

Another terrorist act occurred today in Saigon when a respected newspaper editor was gunned down and killed in front of his home as he arrived for lunch with his wife and six children.

Huy was one of many Vietnamese newsmen who a few months ago received letters from the Viet Cong threatening them with death if they did not moderate their editorial policies to suit the Communist line.

Chinh Luan was the only newspaper that printed the letter, along with a message of defiance to the Viet Cong.

Before dawn 500 Viet Cong drove a South Vietnamese militia company from a government strongpoint only 4 miles from the outer defenses of the big Marine base at Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon. It was the third time in 10 weeks that the Communists had overrun Hill 60.

In the western jungles of Chau Doc, along the Cambodian border, the Viet Cong tore into a Vietnamese company at an outpost, inflicted heavy casualties and came back an hour later to hit this one and a militia post in the vicinity. They poured 50-caliber machine - gun fire in a steady drone, then slipped away with some parting shots at flare planes.

Communist forces were on the move on the waterways 15 to 25 miles southeast of Saigon itself but were caught by three armed U. S. Army helicopters. In a running battle, the helicopters sank five sampans and one barge and killed eight Viet Cong, a spokesman reported.

The Reds renewed mortar and infantry attacks in Quang Ngai province 60 miles south of Da Nang after overrunning the district town of Minh Long yesterday. Artillery and 42 tactical air strikes were directed against the Communists. Reports said the area thronged with Viet Cong.

A serious terrorist incident was narrowly averted when police discovered four mines planted in a basket of fruit in a crowded bus depot in Cholon, Saigon's Chinese quarter.

Board To Hear Of Complaints

Complaints about staff members in the city schools will be heard by the San Rafael Board of Education in a closed session starting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in a conference room of the administration building, Third and E streets.

Schools Supt. Bert C. Corona said the complaints had come from organizations as well as individuals. He declined to give further details.

Next open meeting of the board will be at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 11 in the same building.

Fair Condition

Alleine Hughes, 53, of 192 Adams Avenue, Mill Valley, remained in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital from injuries she received Tuesday when her car skidded into a ditch on Sequoia Valley Road near Mill Valley.

More than 900 potentially destructive earthquakes occur throughout the world each year, according to the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Pentagon Requests Troop Shift Blackout

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department today asked news media in the United States to "refrain voluntarily" from publishing or broadcasting advance information on troop movements to Viet Nam.

Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, issued a statement saying that the Pentagon "urgently requests that news media here in the United States cooperate in the same fashion" as press corps members in Viet Nam in exercising self-censorship on such matters.

Croaker Quiet At Civic Center

The Civic Center frog was silent today.

Several listened expectantly in the hallways, but there was no sound from the ground floor planter.

Had the frog, after sending his croaks echoing through the lightwell yesterday, abandoned the Civic Center? Or was he staying silent and cozy in the planter?

"Who knows " said Leslie Wider with a shrug. He is superintendent of buildings and grounds and is responsible for frogs and other things.

OBITUARIES

Philip Hallquist Dies At 90

Philip Hallquist, 90, a retired master mariner who sailed the seas for 62 years, died of a heart attack this morning at the Kentfield home of his son, Eric.

A resident of Marin County for 40 years, Hallquist was born in Sweden, but left his home to go to sea when he was 17. Serving as a cabin boy, he sailed to England, where he shipped board the full-rigged vessel, the Star of France, and made his first around-the-world voyage.

He came to America before the turn of the century and sailed aboard Oceanic Line ships, serving Alaska during the Klondike gold rush.

Just after the gold rush he received command of the Whittier, a tanker owned by Union Oil Co., and spent 15 years aboard the ship, sailing the Pacific Coast.

In 1926 he joined the Golden Gate Ferry Co. and served auto ferries running from Sausalito to San Francisco until the line closed with opening of the Golden Gate Bridge.

During World War II he was chief officer aboard freighters in the South Pacific, often running through combat zones.

Following the war he served as relief officer aboard ships docked at the Port of San Francisco. He did this until his retirement 11 years ago.

He lived for many years at 77 Alder Avenue, San Anselmo, before moving to his son's home at 306 Kent Avenue, Kentfield.

He was a member of the Masters, Mates, and Pilots Union, San Francisco Local 90; a life member of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Right of Free Masons, attaining the 32nd degree, and a member of the Swedish Society, Branch 1, of Oakland.

He is survived by his son, and by two daughters, Mrs. Sarah Nome of Mill Valley and Mrs. Anna Halperin of Duarte, Los Angeles County.

Funeral will be Monday at 2 p.m. at the Abbey of the Chimes, Vallejo.

HARVEY PINE

Harvey R. Pine, father of Mrs. Patricia Ann Jonsen of San Rafael, died of a heart attack yesterday at his home in San Francisco. He was 50 years old.

A native of Missouri, he had lived in California 30 years. He was a retired owner of a cleaning business. He was a member of Parksside Post of the American Legion.

Pine is survived by his wife, Hazel B. Pine of San Francisco; a son, Robert H. Pine; a daughter, Patricia Ann Jonsen; a brother, Edward Pine of Sacrament; and four grandsons.

A Requiem Mass will be offered at 7:45 a.m. tomorrow at St. Gabriel's Church, 40th Avenue and Ulloa Street, San Francisco. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at Duggan's Serra Mortuary, 500 Westlake Avenue, Daly City. Burial will be at Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Thieves Clout Cars, Yule Tree

A four-barrel carburetor was stolen from a car owned by Charles G. Griffin, 210 Auburn Street, California Park, sheriff's officers said today. The vehicle was parked at Griffin's residence.

Mary T. Adkins, 629 Main Street, Sausalito, told deputies a bag containing $11 worth of groceries and a dashboard clock were stolen from her vehicle while she visited friends at Eden Roc Apartments, Waldo Point.

MRS. WATSON

Funeral for Mrs. Penelope S. Watson, 87, of 8 Live Oak Avenue, Fairfax, will be held at 12:30 p.m. Sunday at Unity Christ Church of Marin, San Anselmo.

Mrs. Watson died Tuesday in a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of Lansing, Mich., she lived in California for 70 years and in Marin County for 30 years. She was a secretary for the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. for many years, retiring in 1940.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Doris H. Toohy of San Francisco, and two sisters, Mrs. Edith S. Dannenberg of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Rose S. Hurley of La Mesa, San Diego County.

The family requests that memorial contributions be sent to the American Heart Fund, 259 Geary Street, San Francisco.

E. A. SAVAGE

Funeral for E. A. (Dick) Savage, 73, a resident of Fairfax for about 20 years, will be held at 12:30 p.m. tomorrow at Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo. Private burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Born in Ashton-under-Lyne, England, Savage came to the United States 50 years ago. He served as a corporal in the air service of the Army Signal Corps in World War I. He had resided in California for 23 years.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ellen H. Savage, at the family home at 103 Dominga Avenue, Fairfax, and by two sons, two daughters, 12 grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

WALLIS RIESE

Funeral for Wallis R. Riese of San Anselmo, who died Tuesday of a heart attack while visiting his daughter in McFarland, Kern County, will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

Riese, 67, was a native of San Francisco, but lived most of his life in Marin County. He and his wife, Mabel E. Riese, resided at 133 Essex Avenue, San Anselmo. Riese was a retired coffee buyer for the Green Glen Coffee Co., a subsidiary of the Grace Lines Steamship Co.

Riese was a veteran of World War I. He was a member of the Bohemian Club, San Francisco.

Riese is survived by his wife, Mabel E. Riese; a son, Rev. Wallis R. Riese Jr. of Glennville, Kern County; a daughter, Mrs. Doris R. McFarland of McFarland; and five grandchildren.

Inurnment will be private. The family has requested memorial gifts be made to the Presbyterian Medical Center, San Francisco.

HARRIS CONNICK

OAKLAND (AP) — Funeral services will be held tomorrow in San Francisco for Harris D. Connick, director of the 1939 World's Fair at Treasure Island. He was 92.

Connick, who designed San Francisco's sewer system, died Tuesday. For a time he was chief assistant city engineer in San Francisco.

He directed construction of the Panama - Pacific Exposition of 1915 in San Francisco and was chief director of the Golden Gate International Exposition of 1939.

JOHN CLERICO

Funeral for John Clerico, 71, of Inverness, retired general manager of shipping for Pope and Talbot Steamship Lines, will be held tomorrow at 2 p.m. at the Ashley and McMullen Mortuary, San Francisco.

A native of Kansas, Clerico lived in California for 35 years. He died Tuesday in Williams, Colusa County, of a heart attack while duck hunting.

He was a member of Orient Masonic Lodge of Topeka, Kan.; the Marine Square Club of San Francisco, and the Point Reyes Lions Club.

He is survived by his wife, Elna; his mother, Anna Clerico, of Kansas; three sisters, Mary Hoggatt of Berkeley, Emma Underwood and Lydia Sietz of Kansas; and three brothers, Joe, Ernest and Ralph, all of Kansas.

Inurnment will be in Cypress Lawn Cemetery, Colma.

MAX SOBEL

Funeral for Max Sobel, 75, of San Francisco was held today in San Francisco.

Sobel, who died on Christmas night while on a cruise in the Caribbean, was brother of Sam Sobel, 69, also of San Francisco.

Sam Sobel has a second home at Bayside Acres near San Rafael. The obituary item in Monday's Independent-Journal erroneously stated that Max Sobel owned the Bayside Acres home.

The error caused confusion among friends as to which brother had died, according to Sam Sobel's wife, Mrs. Sylvera (Sis) Sobel.

Astronauts Reveal One-Foot Approach

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) —Gemini 6 cosmic hero Walter Schirra said today his spaceship closed to "about one foot" nose to nose with Gemini 7 during their historic rendezvous in space on Dec. 15.

Schirra and his co-pilot, Thomas Stafford, discussed details of their mission along with the Gemini 7 space endurance champs at a news conference.

Schirra and Stafford related how they used "exquisite" timing to bring themselves to meeting with Gemini 7 185 miles in space in sunlight so bright it pained the eyes.

Schirra said they maneuvered to the nose-to-nose position and reported:

"We did close to about one foot in this position."

The Gemini 7 Astronauts said they had a "wonderful ride" on their 14-day record space voyage despite one cliff-hanging moment with electrical fuel cells. They were "never disoriented or confused" during the marathon.

They were so relaxed they are able to read novels aloft to while away the time. One of the books Borman took along was, "Roughing It," by Mark Twain.

"With proper crew comfort provisions," Borman said, "I think people can go a month, two months," in space.

Speaking publicly for the first time since their splashdown Dec. 18, Command Pilot Borman disclosed some nervous moments at the end of the 12th day aloft.

"I did not in my own mind feel that the fuel cells were going to last another 24 hours," he said.

But the cells that provided electrical power for the space capsule came through in excellent shape, he said.

Earlier, Gemini 6 Command Pilot Walter Schirra received two medals for his cool handling of the twice-jinxed Gemini 6 mission and his ultimate achievement of a nose-to-nose formation flight Dec. 15. His co-pilot, Thomas Stafford, Borman and co-pilot James Lowell each got one medal.

This day's activities were the climax of America's most spectacular and successful year in space—a year which saw the nation send two astronauts aloft for about 1,300 man-hours.

Children Give $50 Prize To Marin City

Six Tiburon children who ganged up to win a Christmas decoration prize have donated the award, a $50 U.S. savings bond, to the Village Baptist Church of Marin City for use in that community's recreation program.

The youngsters, who call themselves the "Pelican Hill Friends of Charlie Brown," won the prize for a Christmas tree fashioned after one in the Charles Schulz comic strip, "Peanuts."

The children are Kent Reynolds, 9; Melinda Reynolds, 12; Pamela Patterson, 9; Debbie Patterson, 10; Lisa Navarro, 9, and Kevin Phillips, 11. They all live in the Pelican Hill Apartments, 4 Circle Drive.

They had a little help from the Reynolds's dachshund, Lisa, who donated her "security blanket."

The children said they had planend all along to give the prize, if they won one, to charity, and Marin City recreation was the best one they could think of.

MARRIED 80 YEARS

Oldsters Serenely Await 'Lord's Call'

FERGUS FALLS, Minn. (AP) — Ole Sholberg, 103, and his wife, Otila, 101, who live contentedly while "waiting for the Lord to call us," observe their 80th wedding anniversary next Wednesday.

"We have never had a serious quarrel," said Mrs. Sholberg in a soft voice. "He has been a good man, and we have had a happy life. We still have a happy life."

Sholberg has poor hearing and vision. His face is strong, marbled by the winter spray of the North Sea, where as a boy in Norway he helped his father fish. There are lines, too, which somehow tell how he, as a frontier husband and father in western Minnesota, shielded his family from blizzards and forest fires.

Families of the couple came to the United States two years apart.

The couple met when Ole was a boy of 15. They were married seven years later, on Jan. 5, 1886.

Sholberg borrowed $100 as the down payment on a farm and hauled 60 loads of hay into town the first summer to pay for the lumber he used to build his first two-room home. Ole was a good carpenter, and he helped build many other pioneer homes.

The Sholbergs' six daughters and two sons will be with the couple to help observe the anniversary.

On Jan. 9, sitting in their tidy Fergus Falls home which Ole built when he was 80, the couple will listen by radio to a special service at Bethlehem Lutheran church, another building which Ole helped build. The service will be dedicated to the Sholbergs. Letters of congratulations, including one from President Johnson, will be read.

"They have had a long and glorious life," he said. "They have had a beautiful marriage."

Marin's Traffic On Board Agenda

Growing Marin traffic snarls and possible cures for them will be discussed Wednesday by the Marin Transit District board.

The board, composed of all five county supervisors, Mayor W. E. Colthurst of Corte Madera and Councilman William Jack Adams of Novato, will meet at 8 p.m. at the Civic Center.

The seven-man board met briefly Dec. 7 and agreed to hold this special meeting to discuss the problem and its possible solutions in more detail.

Youth Council Dance Set In Mill Valley

The Mill Valley Youth Council will hold its last dance of 1965 and first one of 1966 starting at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Community and Youth Center.

The dance, to music of the Mill Valley band, Soul by Four, will last until 12:15 a.m., Saturday. Admission is free to members but guests must pay, according to Les Mize, council director.

2 Per Cent Living Cost Rise Expected

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The cost of living rose two-tenths of 1 per cent in November, the Labor Department reported today.

Prices for virtually all goods and services moved up to boost the cost of living to 110.6 per cent of the 1957-59 base period.

This meant that a dollar was worth only 90 cents by 1957-59 standards.

A Labor Department spokesman said the cost of living for this year is expected to be nearly 2 per cent above 1964—the largest annual increase since 1958.

An exception to the rising trend in November was the cost of food, which remained unchanged. Increases in fresh vegetable prices were offset by decreases in the price of fresh fruits and meats.

Among the increases were: 1 per cent for new cars, three-tenths of 1 per cent for apparel, two-tenths of 1 per cent for housing and three-tenths of 1 per cent cent for medical care.

The over-all November figure was 1.7 per cent above November, 1964. Most of the increase during the year was attributed to services and food.

Hamilton Jobs Open

The Army and Air Force board of Civil Service examiners announced today that applications for warehouseman positions at Hamilton Air Force Base will be accepted until Jan. 3. Positions will pay between $2.70 and $2.80 per hour. Applications may be obtained at the board office, 450 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco.

Roses Parade To Have Pluto, Bands, Queens

PASADENA (AP) — The nationally televised 77th yearly Tournament of Roses on New Year's Day will present:

Sixty floats carefully fashioned of innumerable flowers of infinite hue and variety and keyed to the theme "It's A Small World."

Walt Disney riding as grand marshal with Mickey Mouse seated beside him and Donald Duck, Pluto and 24 other Disney cartoon characters walking or riding behind.

Twenty-two bands made up of 2,500 musicians wearing uniforms of many colors and including such diverse aggregations as the Tenri City, Japan, High School Band and the Victoria Beefeater Band from British Columbia.

Beauties. They'll include London's Leslie Langley, 21, who recently won the Miss World title in her home city; America's Junior Miss, Patrice Saunder, 18, St. Joseph, Mich., and her four attendants from the four corner states of the nation.

Many months went into the planning, with thousands of hours devoted to the welded-rod and chicken-wire construction of floats, finally covered with myriads of gorgeous blossoms. The tournament is the traditional prelude to the Rose Bowl football game. Opponents this year are Michigan State University and the University of Califorina at Los Angeles.

Rancher Shoots Self Accidentally

SANTA PAULA, (AP)— A prominent rancher and building contractor apparently fatally shot himself by accident while chasing trespassers, police report.

Officers said the body of Mark Hanson, 53, was found yesterday near the Santa Clara River, sprawled across a barbed wire fence, a bullet wound in his head.

Ranch foreman Ray Culber, who found the body, said Hanson had gone out to chase away some hunters in the river bottom.

Marin Boy Scouts Deserve Praise For Tree-Planting

Bravo to the Marin Boy Scouts for establishing a five-acre experimental forest in the Marin Headlands.

The program of planting year-old seedlings and keeping them irrigated for the first two critical years is in keeping with the nationwide and statewide campaigns for highway beautification and conservation.

To deepen and enhance the natural beauty of the South portals of the Redwood Empire; to create . . . a green belt in an area of the Golden Gate Headlands forever dedicated to the public purpose; to capture the hearts and minds and imaginations of boys and men working together; and thereby to inspire by our example in Marin County a continuing program to enrich the countryside of America . . .

Working with the Scouts are the Sixth U.S. Army, which gave permission for the planting site, the California Redwood Assn., Redwood Empire Assn., Golden Gate Bridge officials, and various individuals and firms.

The Scouts purchased 1,800 trees from the University of California forestry nursery at Davis. They include bishop pine, Monterey pine, beach pine, gum trees and selected redwoods.

Lessons learned from the experimental grove will be applied to future plantings in the Marin Headlands.

All too often, young people suffer from the illusion that society owes them a comfortable living, the luxury of their own private cars, and amusement and recreation to fill in idle hours, in between TV viewing.

And when they run afoul of the law, the common lament is: "But what else is there to do?"

"Operation Scout Tree" by Marin youth is one answer. Instead of sitting back and waiting for a ready-made activity to be handed them on a silver platter, the Boy Scouts have created a constructive project.

The tree-planting program will keep them occupied, earn them merit badges, and at the same time serve the public, in the best Boy Scout tradition.

Shakespeare—The Birdwatcher

William Shakespeare was a man of many diverse interests, which is doubtless one reason his plays are so universally enjoyed. He loved all Nature and particularly birds.

In his works, he made 685 references to birds—including more than 50 species. He used them accurately, showing that he understood birds as well as man.

Shakespeare was evidently an ardent birdwatcher.

FERTILIZER FROM THE STORM

Thunderstorms have good as well as harmful effects, according to the National Geographic Society.

Although these atmospheric disturbances take the lives of people and animals, strip trees and flatten crops, they also produce valuable fertilizer.

About 1,800 of these storms are raging over the earth at any given moment. Winds may reach 70 miles an hour. Ice crystals form at the top which can be as high as 60,000 feet.

The lightning flashes release nitrogen — a fertilizer agent — from the air. Then rain washes this essential ingredient into the soil at the rate of 100 million tons a year.

The cycle of nature, whether in the flashing magnificence of the thunderstorm or in the mysteries of the human body, has an inner balance that is not always obvious at first glance.

By taking a reverent attitude towards every aspect of God's creation, you will be better able to use created things for the benefit of all.

Psalm 28:3

Help me realize, O Lord, that as my knowledge increases so, too, should my reverence for Your creation.

List Of Special Call Proposals Joined By Tax Loophole Plea

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Already comes the demand for items on the forthcoming special session of the Legislature, which will run concurrently, or nearly so, with the budget session next year.

Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, chairman of the Municipal and County Government Committee, is asking Gov. Edmund G. Brown to include an item to "close the $200 million property tax loophole," which he claims is occurring because of faulty administrative practices relating to personal property tax assessments.

"MOST OF THIS loss," Knox said, "is attributable to personal property reporting procedures, which function as an open invitation to falsification."

Whether Governor Brown will consider this a subject sufficiently important to include on the special call remains to be seen, but in any event, some changes in assessing practices are long overdue.

Assemblyman Knox points out to the Governor that his committee has held extensive investigations into circumstances surrounding the so-called assessor scandal.

BUT COMPLETELY aside from the criminal aspects of the scandal, the committee found that the procedures now used by most assessors are generally inadequate to detect the under-reporting of personal property.

As a result, substantial revenues escape from local government, not as a result of collusion, but rather as a result of poor administrative practices.

Knox said his committee is putting the finishing touches on a strong legislative program, which will close the administrative loopholes. Part of his proposed reform, he told the Governor, may involve a constitutional amendment which he believes should appear on the 1966 general election ballot.

His program will be concerned with administrative reforms only, and will not involve any tax reforms that may be proposed in the forthcoming session.

IN ANY EVENT, assessing practices are important, if only to see that they are equalized as far as taxpayers are concerned, and the opportunity for favoritism dispelled.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Idiotic Way To Conduct War

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Rhodesia declares her independence from the British Commonwealth, and we promptly join in imposing economic sanctions against this African country; that is, we immediately cut off all trade and commercial relations with her.

Before we took this action the British engaged and are now engaging in active business with North Viet Nam, our present mortal enemy.

When I think about our country's conduct in international affairs, I cannot avoid thinking of her as the Don Quixote among the nations of the world.—idealistic and sentimental, yes, but totally idiotic.

A Plea Against Animal Collars

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Recently we noted what seemed to us to be a most fascinating item in the "found" column of the I.J.: "Ross: Red fox wearing gold leather collar with rhinestones."

Being somewhat foolish about the wild creatures among us, we wanted to learn more about this little character. To our great sadness, we discovered he'd had to be put to sleep because that elegant gold leather collar — with rhinestones — had been so tight that his eyes were literally closed. He was mangy, sickly, weak, and generally miserable.

This serves as a further example of an excruciatingly cruel practice which is the result of carelessness, surely, rather than deliberate sadism. Time and again, living in the game refuge as we do, my husband and I encounter wild creatures — deer, raccons — with very tight collars which have obviously been put on when the animals were young and in captivity. Later, they've been turned loose or have escaped, their necks expand and the band digs deeper and deeper into the fur, then into the very flesh. Unless someone manages to get near enough to free them, which is almost impossible, they're doomed to constant misery, illness and a sad death (but a merciful one in such instances).

Perhaps, if you should see fit to print this, readers will consider the consequences of collaring any creature which may eventually be on its own and helpless to remove that rope or leather band—which becomes an agonizing noose.

At this time of the year particularly, and in view of the sad story of the little red fox, we recall a special prayer: "Dear Father, hear and bless thy beasts and singing birds—and guard with tenderness, small things that have no words."

Several weeks ago various news media gave extended publicity to an East Bay Peace Corps volunteer who established a school in her site (Peace Corps jargon), and the fact that natives had declared a holiday in her honor and her parents were flying to her site in Colombia . . .

But let us not forget the many unpublicized others . . .

I have a daughter, Suzanne, who has been stationed for 16 months in a barrio (shanty town) also in Columbia. She is wholly responsible for the building of a school in her barrio . . .

My daughter, with volunteer assistance from natives, is now in the midst of constructing a health center in this same barrio (most urgently needed); although construction has now been temporarily halted until additional funds can be begged or borrowed . . .

For 16 months my daughter has been living in a lean-to shanty without modern conveniences . . . No lights, no water, no gas, no bathroom facilities. She is living as the natives; loves it and is most enthused in her work of community development.

I am sure there are many readers of this column who have sons and daughters living under similar conditions and performing splendid work without the fanfare of our well-deserving volunteer in the East Bay.

. . . This past summer my wife visited numerous Peace Corps sites in South America and was amazed at the work these unsung workers have accomplished.

Let us give credit where credit is due, and I suggest that you write a series of articles about our own Marin volunteers and the work they are doing . . .

Paul Miller's cartoon on the lawmaker's junket to Puerto Rico was excellent, but just scratched the surface.

Couldn't Wat (Wat Takeshita) or another political reporter dig into this and find out what California received in return for nine Senators and Assemblymen travelling to Puerto Rico and spending more than $10,000 of the taxpayer's money?

If There Is Johnson-Humphrey Discord, You'll Never Know

By ANDREW J. GLASS
(For Roscoe Drummond)

WASHINGTON — Soon after Lyndon Johnson chose Hubert Humphrey as his running mate, the President took him aside and said: "Hubert, the time will come when people will try to divide us."

Recently, the President reminded Humphrey of that conversation and mentioned some ways in which he thought his prophecy was coming true.

Since neither Johnson nor Humphrey buys the political adage that a President and his vice president are natural rivals, they didn't treat the moves Johnson described too seriously. At the end of their talk, they broke into laughter over the entire affair.

BUT THE Johnson-Humphrey relationship, as any political marriage, goes through periods of internal stress. Many good days and a few bad ones pass between the leader in the White House and the man who works next door and calls himself the President's "partner."

It is inconceivable that Johnson or Humphrey would ever acknowledge any difference of opinion. Both the President and the vice president think this is the way professionals in places of power ought to behave. If the President found reasons to be unhappy during his own tenure as vice president, Johnson never once complained out loud.

Policy decisions, as during the Kennedy years, are forged in secret memos and in private chambers. When Humphrey's view is solicited, he gives it freely. But then he supports whatever course the President elects, even though his advice might have been ignored.

AS THESE decisions are made public, Johnson and Humphrey and men around them undergo a curious echo-like sensation in witnessing their earlier moves being transmitted back to them by the mass media — sometimes days, weeks, or even months after they were set.

Within the Johnson White House, all major policy problems, foreign and domestic, are kept secret until a decision is ready to be announced. This attitude now tends to prevail throughout the government.

IT WAS NOT always so. The Kennedy New Frontiersmen sometimes would divulge their plans to test them in public. If they met acceptance, they would often be embraced; if not, they could easily be disavowed.

Johnson, quite to the contrary, firmly believes that premature disclosure can have the effect of narrowing his options.

In the case of Humphrey's trip to the Far East, reporters were told by sources who were proven wrong that Humphrey would visit Saigon. They were also told that the President could change his mind should his plans be revealed prematurely.

This time, it appears the reporters were misled. Bill Moyers, the President's press secretary, did his best to set the record straight.

Even so, were all the facts made available? Had, in fact, the State Department recommended that such a Humphrey visit to Viet Nam take place? Had Johnson vetoed the idea on the grounds that erroneous slants could be put on the Humphrey visit by the press? Had a key Johnson aide again broached the issue when the President decided to send Humphrey to Manila? Had the President then observed that this was not the right time for such a visit?

Cuba Getting Ready For Big Red Parley

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — There will be much furious haranguing and fulminating against U.S. "imperialism" at the Tricontinental Conference dictator Fidel Castro is staging in Havana Jan. 3-10, but the really significant castigating will be that which takes place out of sight among feuding Communist delegations.

Red delegations from more than 100 Latin American, African and Asian countries are slated to be on hand; some "official," others as "observers." A number of these rival groups are fiercely at odds among themselves. For example:

LEADERS OF three ultra-left Dominican factions quietly slipped out of the country ostensibly to go to Europe. Actually, they went to Prague to enplane for Cuba. One group is pro-Soviet, another aligned with Red China, the third avowing allegiance to Castro.

For months these rival elements have been violently railing against each other. In a recent blast the Peiping faction assailed the Moscow adherents as "modern revisionists . . . . against genuine anti-imperialist and popular movements."

Only U.S. group known to be planning to attend is the pro-Castro Puerto Rican Independence Movement, which is sending several delegates.

Fidel's brother, Defense Minister Raul Castro, and his wife, Vilma, have been working since September organizing the conference. Significantly, they spent weeks in Moscow during which Vilma made a broadcast that sounded the progaganda keynote of the Havana meeting.

"IF LITTLE CUBA, located only 90 miles from North American imperialism," she declaimed, "is able to carry out its revolution, then all peoples everywhere can do so."

Fidel Castro is claiming he originated the idea of the Tricontinental Conference to strikingly demonstrate the success and world-wide impact of his revolution.

There are strong reasons to believe the Kremlin actually initiated the affair and used Castro as a front. Purpose of the Soviet was two-fold: To stage a far-flung anti-Viet Nam propaganda attack against the U.S. in its own front yard; to display Moscow's dominance over Peiping among Communist parties, particularly in Latin America.

RED CHINA is participating in this assembly to bolster its supporters in the Western Hemisphere, and to get in what licks it can in the strident ideological feuding with Russia.

THIS INITIAL affair took place with the blessing of President Gamal Nasser, with whom the State Department is concluding another $150 million "sale" — for his currency — of surplus grain and other foods. Under the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, the UAR dictator has obtained more than $500 million of these commodities.

The one-time Texas public relations man, whose recent effusive laudation of the President ("I sleep better at night because I know he is in the White House") has been widely derided, is being urged to take the Rome post by Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, chief Administration adviser on the Soviet bloc.

Marin Boy Scouts Deserve Praise For Tree-Planting

Bravo to the Marin Boy Scouts for establishing a five-acre experimental forest in the Marin Headlands.

The program of planting year-old seedlings and keeping them irrigated for the first two critical years is in keeping with the nationwide and statewide campaigns for highway beautification and conservation.

To deepen and enhance the natural beauty of the South portals of the Redwood Empire; to create . . . a green belt in an area of the Golden Gate Headlands forever dedicated to the public purpose; to capture the hearts and minds and imaginations of boys and men working together; and thereby to inspire by our example in Marin County a continuing program to enrich the countryside of America . . .

Working with the Scouts are the Sixth U.S. Army, which gave permission for the planting site, the California Redwood Assn., Redwood Empire Assn., Golden Gate Bridge officials, and various individuals and firms.

The Scouts purchased 1,800 trees from the University of California forestry nursery at Davis. They include bishop pine, Monterey pine, beach pine, gum trees and selected redwoods.

Lessons learned from the experimental grove will be applied to future plantings in the Marin Headlands.

All too often, young people suffer from the illusion that society owes them a comfortable living, the luxury of their own private cars, and amusement and recreation to fill in idle hours, in between TV viewing.

And when they run afoul of the law, the common lament is: "But what else is there to do?"

"Operation Scout Tree" by Marin youth is one answer. Instead of sitting back and waiting for a ready-made activity to be handed them on a silver platter, the Boy Scouts have created a constructive project.

The tree-planting program will keep them occupied, earn them merit badges, and at the same time serve the public, in the best Boy Scout tradition.

Shakespeare—The Birdwatcher

William Shakespeare was a man of many diverse interests, which is doubtless one reason his plays are so universally enjoyed. He loved all Nature and particularly birds.

In his works, he made 685 references to birds—including more than 50 species. He used them accurately, showing that he understood birds as well as man.

Shakespeare was evidently an ardent birdwatcher.

FERTILIZER FROM THE STORM

Thunderstorms have good as well as harmful effects, according to the National Geographic Society.

Although these atmospheric disturbances take the lives of people and animals, strip trees and flatten crops, they also produce valuable fertilizer.

About 1,800 of these storms are raging over the earth at any given moment. Winds may reach 70 miles an hour. Ice crystals form at the top which can be as high as 60,000 feet.

The lightning flashes release nitrogen — a fertilizer agent — from the air. Then rain washes this essential ingredient into the soil at the rate of 100 million tons a year.

The cycle of nature, whether in the flashing magnificence of the thunderstorm or in the mysteries of the human body, has an inner balance that is not always obvious at first glance.

By taking a reverent attitude towards every aspect of God's creation, you will be better able to use created things for the benefit of all.

Psalm 28:3

Help me realize, O Lord, that as my knowledge increases so, too, should my reverence for Your creation.

List Of Special Call Proposals Joined By Tax Loophole Plea

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Already comes the demand for items on the forthcoming special session of the Legislature, which will run concurrently, or nearly so, with the budget session next year.

Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, chairman of the Municipal and County Government Committee, is asking Gov. Edmund G. Brown to include an item to "close the $200 million property tax loophole," which he claims is occurring because of faulty administrative practices relating to personal property tax assessments.

"MOST OF THIS loss," Knox said, "is attributable to personal property reporting procedures, which function as an open invitation to falsification."

Whether Governor Brown will consider this a subject sufficiently important to include on the special call remains to be seen, but in any event, some changes in assessing practices are long overdue.

Assemblyman Knox points out to the Governor that his committee has held extensive investigations into circumstances surrounding the so-called assessor scandal.

BUT COMPLETELY aside from the criminal aspects of the scandal, the committee found that the procedures now used by most assessors are generally inadequate to detect the under-reporting of personal property.

As a result, substantial revenues escape from local government, not as a result of collusion, but rather as a result of poor administrative practices.

Knox said his committee is putting the finishing touches on a strong legislative program, which will close the administrative loopholes. Part of his proposed reform, he told the Governor, may involve a constitutional amendment which he believes should appear on the 1966 general election ballot.

His program will be concerned with administrative reforms only, and will not involve any tax reforms that may be proposed in the forthcoming session.

IN ANY EVENT, assessing practices are important, if only to see that they are equalized as far as taxpayers are concerned, and the opportunity for favoritism dispelled.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Idiotic Way To Conduct War

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Rhodesia declares her independence from the British Commonwealth, and we promptly join in imposing economic sanctions against this African country; that is, we immediately cut off all trade and commercial relations with her.

Before we took this action the British engaged and are now engaging in active business with North Viet Nam, our present mortal enemy.

When I think about our country's conduct in international affairs, I cannot avoid thinking of her as the Don Quixote among the nations of the world.—idealistic and sentimental, yes, but totally idiotic.

A Plea Against Animal Collars

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Recently we noted what seemed to us to be a most fascinating item in the "found" column of the I.J.: "Ross: Red fox wearing gold leather collar with rhinestones."

Being somewhat foolish about the wild creatures among us, we wanted to learn more about this little character. To our great sadness, we discovered he'd had to be put to sleep because that elegant gold leather collar — with rhinestones — had been so tight that his eyes were literally closed. He was mangy, sickly, weak, and generally miserable.

This serves as a further example of an excruciatingly cruel practice which is the result of carelessness, surely, rather than deliberate sadism. Time and again, living in the game refuge as we do, my husband and I encounter wild creatures — deer, raccons — with very tight collars which have obviously been put on when the animals were young and in captivity. Later, they've been turned loose or have escaped, their necks expand and the band digs deeper and deeper into the fur, then into the very flesh. Unless someone manages to get near enough to free them, which is almost impossible, they're doomed to constant misery, illness and a sad death (but a merciful one in such instances).

Perhaps, if you should see fit to print this, readers will consider the consequences of collaring any creature which may eventually be on its own and helpless to remove that rope or leather band—which becomes an agonizing noose.

At this time of the year particularly, and in view of the sad story of the little red fox, we recall a special prayer: "Dear Father, hear and bless thy beasts and singing birds—and guard with tenderness, small things that have no words."

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By STEPHEN COOK

There Was A Doll In The Manger; Poodle Causes Resubscription

Last week, the Independent-Journal published two stories about some rather heretical thefts which occurred in the City of San Anselmo. Twice, some hoodlum stole figures of the Christ child from a nativity scene on the lawn in front of city hall. After the second theft, the city had no more figurines of the baby Jesus to lay in the manger, and Fire Chief Frank Souza, whose men maintain the manger scene, said he was not sure the statues would be replaced.

Well, the story has a happy post script. Mrs. Pat P. Looney of 68 Bennett Avenue, San Anselmo, read the stories in the I-J. Shew as incensed by the thefts and saddened that, with Christmas quickly approaching, the city's nativity scene was lacking its central figure.

MRS. LOONEY looked through her house and found an old doll, one which did not walk, talk, wet its pants or say mama. She brought the rare doll to the firehouse and offered it as a substitute for the Christ child. The doll was gratefully accepted by Chief Souza and his men and, on Christmas Eve, it was placed in the manger.

Just in case the thief has any ideas about coming back to snatch this Christ child, I should point out that he would probably be as successful trying to drive off with a city fire engine. San Anselmo police, embarrassed at the thought of two so outrageous thefts occurring in their front yard, have rigged an elaborate alarm system.

IF THE DOLL is lifted from the manger, a bell jangles loudly in the police office at the dispatch officer's desk. Fireman Richard J. Lamb said he was selected to test the alarm Friday "and I almost got shot before I could lift the doll from the manger."

Poodle dogs are fascinating people.

Mrs. Marie Hunsberger of 385 Corte Madera Avenue, Corte Madera, was a steady subscriber to the Independent-Journal for 23 years. For the last six of those years, she had a pet poodle by the name of Denise. Denise, too, was an avid fan of the I-J, or so it seems. Each afternoon, she would sit with eyes riveted down the road where she knew the paper boy would appear. When the paper plopped at the foot of the stairs, the pooch would bound down, pick up the paper in its teeth, drop it at Mrs. Hunsberger's feet and then go off to take her daily meal.

ALL WAS FINE in the Hunsberger household until Mrs. Hunsberger got angry a couple weeks ago and canceled her subscription. That was when Denise stopped eating. Forlornly she sat at the foot of the stairs each day, waiting for the paper which never came. Mrs. Hunsberger swears she tried putting another newspaper at the foot of the stairs. Denise simply ignored it, she said. A psychologically hip veternarian diagnosed Denise's refusal to eat as the result of some emotional trauma. Mrs. Hunsberger decided to give in.

Last week she called the I-J and re-opened her subscription. "I could do without the paper, but my dog can't," she explained. At the time this column was written, Denise was still at the vet's and the remedy had not been tested.

REMEMBER WHEN?

20 YEARS AGO

A campaign was started to raise $1,900 for purchase of a stand of virgin redwoods in the heart of Mill Valley, to save the trees lying between West Blithedale and Corte Madera avenues.

William George King of 316 G Street, San Rafael, an engineer on the Northwestern Pacific Railroad's passenger run between San Rafael and Willits, retired after working for the company since 1898.

Americans' Hospital Sojourns Shorter Than They Used To Be

The average hospital stay has been cut from 14 days in 1935 to 7.7 days now. At present prices, most patients can't afford to be sick any longer than that.

In Hungary the name Zzyzst is almost as common as goulash.

PIANOS ARE getting more colorful. You can now buy keyboards in eight pastel tints.

There's no fuel like an old fuel. Coal is believed to have been first used by the Chinese about 3,500 years ago. Today it takes a ton of coal to make a ton of steel.

The American Indians are at the bottom of the U.S. economic totem pole. The average reservation family has an annual income of only $1,500 and unemployment runs about 50 per cent, more than 10 times the national average.

History lesson: Few U.S. presidents were noted for their musical accomplishments. Exceptions: Thomas Jefferson and John Tyler played the violin, Calvin Coolidge the harmonica, Warren G. Harding the cornet, and Harry S. Truman the piano.

IF SOMEONE tells you he's suffering from keraunophobia, don't waste too much sympathy. He's just afraid of lightning.

The government is getting more helpful all the time. For example, the U.S. Department of Agriculture recommends packing breakable items in popcorn for shipping through the mails. The popcorn gives better protection than wadded paper.

Fun in cells: The prison publication, "Mountain Echoes," published by inmates of Manitoba Penitentiary, has an entertainment editor.

Folklore: If you have company on Monday you'll have company the rest of the week. A bride married in a blue gown will have a husband who'll always stay true. The nosebleed is a sign of lovesickness. To get rid of warts rub them with a bean and then bury it—and when the bean sprouts the warts will go away.

WORTH remembering: "Middle age is when the narrow waist and the broad mind begin to change places."

Medical note: At least 13 out of every 100 adult Americans has some form of heart ailment.

Quips from our contemporaries: Pianist George Shearing was once asked whether he had been blind all his life. "No," said the 45-year-old musician. "Not yet."

College Offers Course For Headstart Volunteer Aides

In an attempt to get trained volunteers to work with preschool children in the Sausalito School District's "Head Start" program, College of Marain's evening college will offer a course in pre-school and primary school programs beginning at 12:30 p.m. Jan. 11, at Manzanita School in Marin City.

The 10-week course will feature lectures by psychologists, pre - school and elementary school educators and experts in learning problems and intergroup relations, according to evening college dean Roy G. Mikalson.

Mikalson said the program was planned after Sausalito School District officials pointed out the need for volunteer workers in the Head Start program, which began at Manzanita School last summer.

"One of the secrets of the success of some Head Start programs seems to be the close personal relationship and individual attention given each child. We hope to develop nonprofessional support for the teachers," Mikalson said.

The course will train volunteers to work with the individual pre-school child, Mikalson said, particularly socially or culturally deprived youngsters. It will be coordinated by Mrs. Adah-Marie Miller, counselor at Manzanita School.

Guest lecturers scheduled for the course include: Dr. Staten Webster, intergroup relations consultant for the Sausalito and Mill Valley school districts; Dr. Mary B. Lane, professor of elementary education at San Francisco State College; Dr. Hobart Thomas, chairman of the psychology department at Sonoma State College, and Dr. Grace B. Cox, chairman of the Marin School Psychologists Assn.

The college will register persons for the course in advance at the evening college office in Room 2 of Harlan Hall on the Kentfield campus or at the first class meeting, according to Mikalson.

Marinites Pass Engineer Exams

Successful Marin applicants in examinations for registration as land surveyors and civil engineers have been announced by the state Board of Registra-Engineers.

Registered as civil engineers are Robert K. Heron, 709 Hacienda Way; Warren E. Nute, 40 Rafael Drive and James R. Rogers, 258 Flagstone Terrace, all of San Rafael.

Marine On Leave

College Trains 341 Jobless For New Positions

Since enactment of the Federal Manpower Training Act in 1962, College of Marin has used funds granted by the act to train 341 unemployed persons for jobs in eight occupational fields, according to Joseph E. Berruezo, assistant dean of technical and vocational education at the college.

The trainees, selected by the San Rafael office of the state Department of Employment, have been taught skills for jobs as clerks, secretaries, nurse aides, custodians, gardeners, registered nurses, service station attendants and retail store clerks.

Another 210 persons are now training or will begin courses in 1966 under the program, according to Berruezo.

After matriculating from the college program, the trainees are placed in jobs by the department of employment. The program at the college is totally financed by the federal government, Berruezo said.

Sheriff's Air Patrol Slates Annual Dinner

Installation of new officers of the Marin County Sheriff's Air Patrol will take place at a dinner at Peacock Gap, Jan. 15 at 8 p.m.

William Fuller of San Francisco succeeds Marvin Gerber of San Rafael as captain; new lieutenant is David Morris of San Bruno, while Daniel Duffcy of San Rafael is the newly elected adjutant.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By STEPHEN COOK

There Was A Doll In The Manger; Poodle Causes Resubscription

Last week, the Independent-Journal published two stories about some rather heretical thefts which occurred in the City of San Anselmo. Twice, some hoodlum stole figures of the Christ child from a nativity scene on the lawn in front of city hall. After the second theft, the city had no more figurines of the baby Jesus to lay in the manger, and Fire Chief Frank Souza, whose men maintain the manger scene, said he was not sure the statues would be replaced.

Well, the story has a happy post script. Mrs. Pat P. Looney of 68 Bennett Avenue, San Anselmo, read the stories in the I-J. Shew as incensed by the thefts and saddened that, with Christmas quickly approaching, the city's nativity scene was lacking its central figure.

MRS. LOONEY looked through her house and found an old doll, one which did not walk, talk, wet its pants or say mama. She brought the rare doll to the firehouse and offered it as a substitute for the Christ child. The doll was gratefully accepted by Chief Souza and his men and, on Christmas Eve, it was placed in the manger.

Just in case the thief has any ideas about coming back to snatch this Christ child, I should point out that he would probably be as successful trying to drive off with a city fire engine. San Anselmo police, embarrassed at the thought of two so outrageous thefts occurring in their front yard, have rigged an elaborate alarm system.

IF THE DOLL is lifted from the manger, a bell jangles loudly in the police office at the dispatch officer's desk. Fireman Richard J. Lamb said he was selected to test the alarm Friday "and I almost got shot before I could lift the doll from the manger."

Poodle dogs are fascinating people.

Mrs. Marie Hunsberger of 385 Corte Madera Avenue, Corte Madera, was a steady subscriber to the Independent-Journal for 23 years. For the last six of those years, she had a pet poodle by the name of Denise. Denise, too, was an avid fan of the I-J, or so it seems. Each afternoon, she would sit with eyes riveted down the road where she knew the paper boy would appear. When the paper plopped at the foot of the stairs, the pooch would bound down, pick up the paper in its teeth, drop it at Mrs. Hunsberger's feet and then go off to take her daily meal.

ALL WAS FINE in the Hunsberger household until Mrs. Hunsberger got angry a couple weeks ago and canceled her subscription. That was when Denise stopped eating. Forlornly she sat at the foot of the stairs each day, waiting for the paper which never came. Mrs. Hunsberger swears she tried putting another newspaper at the foot of the stairs. Denise simply ignored it, she said. A psychologically hip veternarian diagnosed Denise's refusal to eat as the result of some emotional trauma. Mrs. Hunsberger decided to give in.

Last week she called the I-J and re-opened her subscription. "I could do without the paper, but my dog can't," she explained. At the time this column was written, Denise was still at the vet's and the remedy had not been tested.

REMEMBER WHEN?

20 YEARS AGO

A campaign was started to raise $1,900 for purchase of a stand of virgin redwoods in the heart of Mill Valley, to save the trees lying between West Blithedale and Corte Madera avenues.

William George King of 316 G Street, San Rafael, an engineer on the Northwestern Pacific Railroad's passenger run between San Rafael and Willits, retired after working for the company since 1898.

Americans' Hospital Sojourns Shorter Than They Used To Be

The average hospital stay has been cut from 14 days in 1935 to 7.7 days now. At present prices, most patients can't afford to be sick any longer than that.

In Hungary the name Zzyzst is almost as common as goulash.

PIANOS ARE getting more colorful. You can now buy keyboards in eight pastel tints.

There's no fuel like an old fuel. Coal is believed to have been first used by the Chinese about 3,500 years ago. Today it takes a ton of coal to make a ton of steel.

The American Indians are at the bottom of the U.S. economic totem pole. The average reservation family has an annual income of only $1,500 and unemployment runs about 50 per cent, more than 10 times the national average.

History lesson: Few U.S. presidents were noted for their musical accomplishments. Exceptions: Thomas Jefferson and John Tyler played the violin, Calvin Coolidge the harmonica, Warren G. Harding the cornet, and Harry S. Truman the piano.

IF SOMEONE tells you he's suffering from keraunophobia, don't waste too much sympathy. He's just afraid of lightning.

The government is getting more helpful all the time. For example, the U.S. Department of Agriculture recommends packing breakable items in popcorn for shipping through the mails. The popcorn gives better protection than wadded paper.

Fun in cells: The prison publication, "Mountain Echoes," published by inmates of Manitoba Penitentiary, has an entertainment editor.

Folklore: If you have company on Monday you'll have company the rest of the week. A bride married in a blue gown will have a husband who'll always stay true. The nosebleed is a sign of lovesickness. To get rid of warts rub them with a bean and then bury it—and when the bean sprouts the warts will go away.

WORTH remembering: "Middle age is when the narrow waist and the broad mind begin to change places."

Medical note: At least 13 out of every 100 adult Americans has some form of heart ailment.

Quips from our contemporaries: Pianist George Shearing was once asked whether he had been blind all his life. "No," said the 45-year-old musician. "Not yet."

College Offers Course For Headstart Volunteer Aides

In an attempt to get trained volunteers to work with preschool children in the Sausalito School District's "Head Start" program, College of Marain's evening college will offer a course in pre-school and primary school programs beginning at 12:30 p.m. Jan. 11, at Manzanita School in Marin City.

The 10-week course will feature lectures by psychologists, pre - school and elementary school educators and experts in learning problems and intergroup relations, according to evening college dean Roy G. Mikalson.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

Pacific Coast Title Co. Merges With Larger, State-Wide Farm

The affiliation of Pacific Coast Title Co., San Rafael, with Security Title Insurance Co. of Los Angeles has been announced by Rolfe C. Croker, president of the locally owned firm.

Croker says this will enable Pacific Coast Title to give greater service since Security Title covers 39 California counties and the states of Hawaii and Washington. It is one of the largest and oldest companies of its kind in the state, with 24 million dollars in assets.

THERE'S A POSSIBILITY that Kientz's Pastry Shop in San Anselmo will open a branch in the Sunny Hills Shopping Center on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard — depending mainly on whether Safeway Stores, one of the prime lessees, decides to have a bakery shop of its own when it goes in here.

As choice as the location is, it would hardly justify having two of them so close together.

If Kientz does become a tenant, chances are the entire doughnut operation will be transferred from the San Anselmo Avenue location, according to Richard Kientz. The rest of the bakery would continue on here as before.

The only firm tenants announced so far for Sunny Hills have been Safeway, Long's Drug Stores and a delicatessen —Petrini's Gourmet Foods. (This is not Petrini's of Greenbrae, but a second location for Sil Petrini who has Kountry Kitchen Delicatessen and Meats at Northgate).

EARL L. RAINS of San Rafael has been elected president of the San Francisco Food Brokers Assn. He is executive vice president of William O. Dooms Co., dry and frozen foods brokerage firm head-quartered in Oakland.

He succeeds another Marin resident, Gordon H. Hellwig, of San Anselmo, in the top association post. Hellwig is a member of Madden, Hellwig Associates.

ACCORDING to some projections for the future, there's a slight possibility that Marin County's population may reach the 200,000 mark during the coming year. Pacific Gas and Electric Co. estimates place it at 199,000 by Jan. 1, 1967—which could easily vary 1,000 one way or the other.

Among other things, getting into the 200,000 bracket means that during 1966 two out of every three people migrating to the so-called North Bay Area (Lake, Marin, Mendocino, Napa, Solano and Sonoma Counties) will have to stop in Marin — and go no farther.

WRONG ADDRESS. Location of the newly opened L. S. T. Sales Co. is 1611 Fourth Street, San Rafael—not 1616 Fourth, as stated in this column Monday.

JAY HALE of Larkspur has been elected to the board of directors of the Leading Life Insurance Producers of Northern California, an affiliate of the National Assn. of Life Underwriters. He is a past president of the organization. New president is former Sausalito resident Robert B. Williams.

CONGRATULATIONS to Joseph Picinich of Fairfax, who was recently presented with the "Gold Card" life membership in San Anselmo American Legion Post No. 179. This is only the sixth one given out by the post since its organization in 1919 and the first to a World War II veteran. I'm told by present commander Harold DuPree, Picinich has been sergeant at arms for nine years and is a past commander of the post.

Bay Air Carrier Gains Support

OAKLAND— Recommendation of a CAB examiner that Trans International Airlines be granted a three year authority to continue to provide trans-Atlantic charter service was announced this week by company president, Glenn A. Cramer.

Pending the decision of the examiner, Trans International was recently granted temporary authority to fly the Atlantic in 1966. This new action, when approved by the board, will make the temporary certificate permanent for the next three years.

The company recently purchased two large 258-passenger Douglas Super 61 fan jets which will be used in trans-Atlantic charter service in early 1967.

YOUR DOLLAR

Executor Manages Property For Heirs

By ANDREW BALDWIN

Your executor takes your place in the management of your property after you pass away. It can be a thankless job few people, especially the beneficiaries, appreciate.

His duties are many and include the offering of your will to the court with proof that it is your last will, the settlement of all your outstanding bills, notification of your creditors, and the payment of any taxes owed to the state or federal governments.

He must be above reproach in all estate matters, fair to all the beneficiaries, business-like and careful in his management of your property, and must perform his duties promptly so that your legatees, devisees, and heirs receive their shares within a reasonable time after you have passed away.

In administering your estate, your executor is under the supervision of the probate court. Unless in the will he is relieved of bond, it is necessary for him to file a bond to guarantee that he will faithfully perform his duties and protect the assets of the estate. A bank acting as executor need not file bond, because banks deposit bonds as a guarantee with the state treasurer.

The supervision of court continues until the distribution of the estate, and if there is a trust under your will, then the court retains supervision of the trust for certain specified purposes.

One of the first steps of an executor is to examine the contents of a safe-deposit box in the presence of the inheritance-tax representative in order to determine the nature and extent of the property owner.

Arrangements will also be made for dividend checks, rents and other payments to reach him, and he will see that real estate taxes and fire insurance are maintained.

It is also customary for your executor to inquire into the financial needs of your family at a very early point, and for the court to grant a family allowance from the estate. The executor and lawyers will advise the family as to the collection of insurance proceeds.

Another important duty which an executor performs is the determination and payment of debts and taxes; expenses of your last illness and funeral and other obligations, notes, contracts, and general household bills must be determined and paid. A complete record is kept of each item.

In each estate a determination must be made of the state inheritance tax due. Property transferred by will and joint tenancy, property belonging to the decedent may be a part of the taxable estate. The basis of value of California taxes, and a number of other costs, is the inventory and appraisement. The inventory is a list of the assets of the estate valued by an inheritance-tax appraiser.

When these and many other steps have been taken care of, when all claims and bills have been settled and notice to creditors given (six months) has expired, and all taxes have been determined and paid, and when the estate is in condition to be closed, the executor files his accounts with the court and requests permission to make distribution to legatees, devises and into any trust created under the terms of the will.

White House Eyes Changes In Deductions

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you get a higher-than-average paycheck, the government may soon be taking a bigger bite out of it in the form of increased income tax deductions.

This would be the principal effect of a proposed overhaul of the income tax withholding system. It also would mean lower deductions for those in the lower income brackets.

The change would substitute one of three graduated withholding rates for the present flat rate. It would not change income tax rates.

Treasury officials decline to discuss details. Presumably, the decision on whether to propose the change will be made by President Johnson. The ultimate decision will rest with Congress.

There is a possibility that the administration may use the withholding tax as an economic weapon just as it did in 1964. However, this time it would be employed to take more funds out of the hands of consumers to reduce the threat of inflation.

In 1964, the withholding rate was set lower than necessary in order to put more money in the hands of consumers quickly and eliminate a potential business letdown.

The amount of this "braking power" would not be great — perhaps $1 billion to $3 billion —but government economists may conclude that it is the handiest anti - inflation weapon available. Administration officials believe it would be more acceptable to Congress than an income tax increase.

Last year, middle- and upper-bracket taxpayers complained that the 1964 withholding was too low — many were left with sizeable tax bills when settlement time rolled around.

Regardless of the economic effects, a Treasury official said, the primary objective of any change would be to bring the withholding rate more closely in line with the actual tax.

Firm Gets Contract For Landing Mats

OAKLAND (AP) — Kaiser Aluminum Corp. reports it has been awarded a contract for almost $25 million by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for a new type of aluminum aircraft landing mat.

Kaiser said the mat weighs approximately four pounds per square foot, some 35 per cent less than the standard mat. It makes use of an aluminum honeycomb core sandwiched between two heat - treated aluminum sheets and framed by aluminum extrusions.

Exchanges, Banks Operate Tomorrow

NEW YORK (UPI)—All major U.S. securities exchanges will operate as usual tomorrow. Banks also will be open.

U.S. commodities exchanges, however, will be closed in early observance of the New Year's holiday.

Research Grant

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller, Arkansas industrial and agricultural leader, has made a $50,000 unrestricted gift to the Graduate Research Center of the Southwest, the organization announced.

Big Potato Crop

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department forecasts production of 1966 winter potatoes 40 per cent larger than last year with increases indicated in both California and Florida.

Stocks Show Recovery With Airlines Strong

The defense stocks were higher in early trading but gradually wilted.

General Motors showed increasing strength toward the end but steels did very little, Jones & Laughlin suffering late weakness.

Gains by assorted blue chips bolstered the averages but cross currents made the rise irregular. General Electric was up about 2.

Volume for the day was estimated at 7.2 million shares compared with 7.61 million yesterday.

Here was the picture near the close:

Airlines continued to rebound from recent selling. Up around 2 were KLM, National, Delta, Pan American, Eastern and United. Gains of about a point were made by American, Northwest, Continental and TWA.

Aerospace defense issues sold off in the afternoon after displaying a higher tone in the morning despite the U.S. peace offensive. United Aircraft lost more than a point. Douglas Aircraft and General Dynamics were down slightly. Boeing was up a fraction.

Color televisions and other electronics did well. Zenith rose 3. Magnavox about 1½. Motorola about 1 and Radio Corp. a fraction.

Sperry Rand climbed nearly a point. IBM added 2.

The top steelmakers showed little if any change. Most motors were fractional gainers.

Prices were generally higher in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds were mostly unchanged.

Novato Bucks Annual Drop In Building

The City of Novato went against the usual seasonal slump in construction by issuing more building permits in November than during any month since incorporation six years ago.

According to figures published by the Marin County Development Assn., Novato granted $2,315,205 in permits, including two permits totaling $518,500 for structures in the new shopping center being built there by Hoytt Enterprises.

Permits for new construction in the whole of Marin, however, dropped to $4,710,609, keeping the total of $76,062,196 so far this year, eight per cent below that of the same period last year.

San Rafael, in issuing $343,599 in permits, contributed its lowest monthly total since January, 1960. November is traditionally a poor producer of permits for new construction, according to the association's report.

Airline Computerizes Reservations System

NEW YORK—Trans World Airlines has announced purchase of electronic computer equipment to provide for a fully automated centralized passenger reservations system and a total management information system.

Nerve center will be a Burroughs Corp. D830 computer system. It will be located in Rockleigh, N.H. The system will represent an initial capital investment of about $25 million, exclusive of nationwide transmission lines and the Rockleigh facility.

Hewlett-Packard Has Record Sales, Profit

PALO ALTO—Hewlett-Packard Co. has reported record sales and earnings for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31.

Sales totaled $163,717,592, an increase of 22 per cent over 1964 sales of $134,072,197. Net income increased from $10,038,564 in 1964 to $13,907,212, a gain of 38 per cent. Earnings in 1965 were equivalent to $1.12 a share on 12,129,013 shares of common stock outstanding on Oct. 31. This compares with 80 cents a share on 12,019,062 shares outstanding in 1964.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

Pacific Coast Title Co. Merges With Larger, State-Wide Farm

The affiliation of Pacific Coast Title Co., San Rafael, with Security Title Insurance Co. of Los Angeles has been announced by Rolfe C. Croker, president of the locally owned firm.

Croker says this will enable Pacific Coast Title to give greater service since Security Title covers 39 California counties and the states of Hawaii and Washington. It is one of the largest and oldest companies of its kind in the state, with 24 million dollars in assets.

THERE'S A POSSIBILITY that Kientz's Pastry Shop in San Anselmo will open a branch in the Sunny Hills Shopping Center on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard — depending mainly on whether Safeway Stores, one of the prime lessees, decides to have a bakery shop of its own when it goes in here.

As choice as the location is, it would hardly justify having two of them so close together.

If Kientz does become a tenant, chances are the entire doughnut operation will be transferred from the San Anselmo Avenue location, according to Richard Kientz. The rest of the bakery would continue on here as before.

The only firm tenants announced so far for Sunny Hills have been Safeway, Long's Drug Stores and a delicatessen —Petrini's Gourmet Foods. (This is not Petrini's of Greenbrae, but a second location for Sil Petrini who has Kountry Kitchen Delicatessen and Meats at Northgate).

EARL L. RAINS of San Rafael has been elected president of the San Francisco Food Brokers Assn. He is executive vice president of William O. Dooms Co., dry and frozen foods brokerage firm head-quartered in Oakland.

He succeeds another Marin resident, Gordon H. Hellwig, of San Anselmo, in the top association post. Hellwig is a member of Madden, Hellwig Associates.

ACCORDING to some projections for the future, there's a slight possibility that Marin County's population may reach the 200,000 mark during the coming year. Pacific Gas and Electric Co. estimates place it at 199,000 by Jan. 1, 1967—which could easily vary 1,000 one way or the other.

Among other things, getting into the 200,000 bracket means that during 1966 two out of every three people migrating to the so-called North Bay Area (Lake, Marin, Mendocino, Napa, Solano and Sonoma Counties) will have to stop in Marin — and go no farther.

WRONG ADDRESS. Location of the newly opened L. S. T. Sales Co. is 1611 Fourth Street, San Rafael—not 1616 Fourth, as stated in this column Monday.

JAY HALE of Larkspur has been elected to the board of directors of the Leading Life Insurance Producers of Northern California, an affiliate of the National Assn. of Life Underwriters. He is a past president of the organization. New president is former Sausalito resident Robert B. Williams.

CONGRATULATIONS to Joseph Picinich of Fairfax, who was recently presented with the "Gold Card" life membership in San Anselmo American Legion Post No. 179. This is only the sixth one given out by the post since its organization in 1919 and the first to a World War II veteran. I'm told by present commander Harold DuPree, Picinich has been sergeant at arms for nine years and is a past commander of the post.

Bay Air Carrier Gains Support

OAKLAND— Recommendation of a CAB examiner that Trans International Airlines be granted a three year authority to continue to provide trans-Atlantic charter service was announced this week by company president, Glenn A. Cramer.

Pending the decision of the examiner, Trans International was recently granted temporary authority to fly the Atlantic in 1966. This new action, when approved by the board, will make the temporary certificate permanent for the next three years.

The company recently purchased two large 258-passenger Douglas Super 61 fan jets which will be used in trans-Atlantic charter service in early 1967.

Executor Manages Property For Heirs

By ANDREW BALDWIN

Your executor takes your place in the management of your property after you pass away. It can be a thankless job few people, especially the beneficiaries, appreciate.

His duties are many and include the offering of your will to the court with proof that it is your last will, the settlement of all your outstanding bills, notification of your creditors, and the payment of any taxes owed to the state or federal governments.

He must be above reproach in all estate matters, fair to all the beneficiaries, business-like and careful in his management of your property, and must perform his duties promptly so that your legatees, devisees, and heirs receive their shares within a reasonable time after you have passed away.

In administering your estate, your executor is under the supervision of the probate court. Unless in the will he is relieved of bond, it is necessary for him to file a bond to guarantee that he will faithfully perform his duties and protect the assets of the estate. A bank acting as executor need not file bond, because banks deposit bonds as a guarantee with the state treasurer.

The supervision of court continues until the distribution of the estate, and if there is a trust under your will, then the court retains supervision of the trust for certain specified purposes.

One of the first steps of an executor is to examine the contents of a safe-deposit box in the presence of the inheritance-tax representative in order to determine the nature and extent of the property owner.

Arrangements will also be made for dividend checks, rents and other payments to reach him, and he will see that real estate taxes and fire insurance are maintained.

It is also customary for your executor to inquire into the financial needs of your family at a very early point, and for the court to grant a family allowance from the estate. The executor and lawyers will advise the family as to the collection of insurance proceeds.

Another important duty which an executor performs is the determination and payment of debts and taxes; expenses of your last illness and funeral and other obligations, notes, contracts, and general household bills must be determined and paid. A complete record is kept of each item.

In each estate a determination must be made of the state inheritance tax due. Property transferred by will and joint tenancy, property belonging to the decedent may be a part of the taxable estate. The basis of value of California taxes, and a number of other costs, is the inventory and appraisement. The inventory is a list of the assets of the estate valued by an inheritance-tax appraiser.

When these and many other steps have been taken care of, when all claims and bills have been settled and notice to creditors given (six months) has expired, and all taxes have been determined and paid, and when the estate is in condition to be closed, the executor files his accounts with the court and requests permission to make distribution to legatees, devises and into any trust created under the terms of the will.

White House Eyes Changes In Deductions

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you get a higher-than-average paycheck, the government may soon be taking a bigger bite out of it in the form of increased income tax deductions.

This would be the principal effect of a proposed overhaul of the income tax withholding system. It also would mean lower deductions for those in the lower income brackets.

The change would substitute one of three graduated withholding rates for the present flat rate. It would not change income tax rates.

Treasury officials decline to discuss details. Presumably, the decision on whether to propose the change will be made by President Johnson. The ultimate decision will rest with Congress.

There is a possibility that the administration may use the withholding tax as an economic weapon just as it did in 1964. However, this time it would be employed to take more funds out of the hands of consumers to reduce the threat of inflation.

In 1964, the withholding rate was set lower than necessary in order to put more money in the hands of consumers quickly and eliminate a potential business letdown.

The amount of this "braking power" would not be great — perhaps $1 billion to $3 billion —but government economists may conclude that it is the handiest anti - inflation weapon available. Administration officials believe it would be more acceptable to Congress than an income tax increase.

Last year, middle- and upper-bracket taxpayers complained that the 1964 withholding was too low — many were left with sizeable tax bills when settlement time rolled around.

Regardless of the economic effects, a Treasury official said, the primary objective of any change would be to bring the withholding rate more closely in line with the actual tax.

Firm Gets Contract For Landing Mats

OAKLAND (AP) — Kaiser Aluminum Corp. reports it has been awarded a contract for almost $25 million by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for a new type of aluminum aircraft landing mat.

Kaiser said the mat weighs approximately four pounds per square foot, some 35 per cent less than the standard mat. It makes use of an aluminum honeycomb core sandwiched between two heat - treated aluminum sheets and framed by aluminum extrusions.

Exchanges, Banks Operate Tomorrow

NEW YORK (UPI)—All major U.S. securities exchanges will operate as usual tomorrow. Banks also will be open.

U.S. commodities exchanges, however, will be closed in early observance of the New Year's holiday.

Research Grant

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller, Arkansas industrial and agricultural leader, has made a $50,000 unrestricted gift to the Graduate Research Center of the Southwest, the organization announced.

Big Potato Crop

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department forecasts production of 1966 winter potatoes 40 per cent larger than last year with increases indicated in both California and Florida.

Western's Profits

LOS ANGELES—Western Air Lines profits for November were $560,000, or 13 cents a share. This compares with last year's record November earnings of $552,000, also equal to 13 cents a share.

Samuel Brannan, Mormon elder, was the publisher of the "California Star," first newspaper published in San Francisco.

Stocks Show Recovery With Airlines Strong

The defense stocks were higher in early trading but gradually wilted.

General Motors showed increasing strength toward the end but steels did very little, Jones & Laughlin suffering late weakness.

Gains by assorted blue chips bolstered the averages but cross currents made the rise irregular. General Electric was up about 2.

Volume for the day was estimated at 7.2 million shares compared with 7.61 million yesterday.

Here was the picture near the close:

Airlines continued to rebound from recent selling. Up around 2 were KLM, National, Delta, Pan American, Eastern and United. Gains of about a point were made by American, Northwest, Continental and TWA.

Aerospace defense issues sold off in the afternoon after displaying a higher tone in the morning despite the U.S. peace offensive. United Aircraft lost more than a point. Douglas Aircraft and General Dynamics were down slightly. Boeing was up a fraction.

Color televisions and other electronics did well. Zenith rose 3, Magnavox about 1½, Motorola about 1 and Radio Corp. a fraction.

Sperry Rand climbed nearly a point. IBM added 2.

The top steelmakers showed little if any change. Most motors were fractional gainers.

Prices were generally higher in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds were mostly unchanged.

Novato Bucks Annual Drop In Building

The City of Novato went against the usual seasonal slump in construction by issuing more building permits in November than during any month since incorporation six years ago.

According to figures published by the Marin County Development Assn., Novato granted $2,315,205 in permits, including two permits totaling $518,500 for structures in the new shopping center being built there by Hoytt Enterprises.

Permits for new construction in the whole of Marin, however, dropped to $4,710,609, keeping the total of $76,062,196 so far this year, eight per cent below that of the same period last year.

San Rafael, in issuing $343,599 in permits, contributed its lowest monthly total since January, 1960. November is traditionally a poor producer of permits for new construction, according to the association's report.

Airline Computerizes Reservations System

NEW YORK—Trans World Airlines has announced purchase of electronic computer equipment to provide for a fully automated centralized passenger reservations system and a total management information system.

Nerve center will be a Burroughs Corp. D830 computer system. It will be located in Rockleigh, N.H. The system will represent an initial capital investment of about $25 million, exclusive of nationwide transmission lines and the Rockleigh facility.

Hewlett-Packard Has Record Sales, Profit

PALO ALTO—Hewlett-Packard Co. has reported record sales and earnings for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31.

Sales totaled $163,717,592, an increase of 22 per cent over 1964 sales of $134,072,197. Net income increased from $10,038,564 in 1964 to $13,907,212, a gain of 38 per cent. Earnings in 1965 were equivalent to $1.12 a share on 12,129,013 shares of common stock outstanding on Oct. 31. This compares with 80 cents a share on 12,019,062 shares outstanding in 1964.

An Open Letter To Tom Prothro

Ladies and gentlemen, this is a public service feature of this station—our annual attempt to cut down on the holiday accident toll. In the Rose Bowl. What follows is an open letter to coach Tommy Prothro—with a copy to the International Red Cross, the League Against Capital Punishment and the Committee for Industrial Safety.

"Dear Tommy:

"I hate to worry you at a time like this but have you SEEN the Michigan State football team in uniform yet? Tommy, it looks like a casting call for a remake of 'King Kong'—44 guys bucking for the lead in 'The Creature That Ate Europe.'

"TOMMY, YOU shouldn't play these guys, you should ride 'em. I have seen smaller things with sedan chairs on their backs. You wonder how they got the helmet on over the horns. Someone asked a Big 10 coach how you play them and, in the immortal words of the funny man, Don Rickles, the answer was 'With a Cape.'

"Of course, I don't want to worry your kids too much. Just tell them that Michigan State is not superhuman—they pull their pants on one hoof at a time.

"OF COURSE, it would be a mistake, too, to think they're sub-human. Just because they growl on the practice field, I mean. To be sure, you would feel better if you heard them speak on it, too. You might insist on an oral test, just to be safe, Tommy. But if one of them says 'Me Tarzan, you Jane,' frisk him for that chimp he's always carrying around to help him out.

"None of them showed up in loin cloths, I have to admit, but they do have this one guy from Samoa. I think they had one from Borneo, too, but he ate the net. Either that or he got tossed out of school for cooking in his room. The sociology professor. Or his roommate. I forget which.

"THEY GOT one other guy from the islands who kicks barefoot. I don't know if he wears a grass skirt, or whether they have to fly in an orchid to put on his scrambled eggs every morning, but he punts the ball so high it comes down with snow on it. You not only don't get to run the punts back but there are some days he punts in the first quarter and it doesn't come down till the fourth. Fortunately, he doesn't have to punt very much. With this team, he gets much more work with kickoffs.

"If you have any notion of running on this team, Tommy, forget it. The only direction you can move is backwards. If they all jumped into Lake Michigan at the same time, it would overflow. Their front line is so big, when they ran a picture of it on the front page of the Detroit Free Press, they had to mark it 'Continued on page 11.' Even then, they only got to the left guard. They goe one lineman named 'Bubba Smith' who's so big that Fearless Frank Finch (Los Angeles sportswriter) pointed to his portrait the other day and said, 'There's a group picture of Bubba Smith.' You don't play him, you climb him.

"THEY HELD Ohio State to zero first downs rushing and you can't do much worse than that. Ohio State lost 22 yards rushing, and they tell me that, at the end of a game, Ohio State was trying to chew up the clock even though they were 25 points behind. They didn't want to hang around long enough for Michigan State to get hungry, I guess. Apropos of that, it might be a good idea to take roll call after every offensive play, Tommy.

"There was one encouraging note. None of the coaches at practice carried whips or chains. And Coach Duffy Daughtery said his team lists 10 objectives for the defense and offense for every game and I checked them very carefully and none of them said 'Bury the bones' or even 'Don't bite.'

"THE OBJECTIVES were things like 'Block at least one out of three punts,' 'Intercept three out of four passes,' that modest kind of objective. And where it used to be 'Don't let the other guy score' after Notre Dame (minus 12 yards) and Ohio State (minus 22) it is now 'Don't let the other guys get the ball.' They also have 'Don't fumble,' 'Don't trip' and, probably, 'Don't eat with your fingers.'

"If they come out carrying knives and forks and bottles of ketchup, Tommy, I got one commandment for your squad: 'Don't show up' It's better to be hors de combat than hors d'oeuvres.

Tars Are Tourney Champs

I-J Special Report

SANTA MONICA—College of Marin's basketball team made the trip to the Santa Monica Invitational Tournament a successful one by taking the championship honors.

The Tars downed host Santa Monica 68-62 in a championship game last night. It was a very close game, as the final period and 32-32 halftime score indicates.

Marin jumped out to a 10-point lead in the first half but Santa Monica came back to tie it up. Then in the second half, the game was knotted 10 times. With three minutes left, Marin led 63-56, but that lead shrunk to 65-62 with one minute left.

Marin's Don Hanson duplicated his scoring output of the first tourney game Tuesday when he meshed 23 points against Santa Monica last night. He had the same amount when the Tars downed Chaffey J.C. in the opener. Chaffey won third place in the tourney, however, when it edged Palamar 77-75 in overtime last night.

Hanson's play earned him recognition as most valuable player of the tourney. Teammate Rod Monti was named to the all-tourney team along with Hanson.

Marin scoring: Arnold, 2-0-4; Monti, 4-3-11; Halm, 3-5-11; Galassi, 6-2-14; Hanson, 10-3-23; Wolfe, 0-1-1; Brody, 2-0-4. Totals: 27-14—68.

Santa Monica scoring: Sigrist, 1-0-2; Houston, 7-0-14; Miller, 2-5-9; Donovan, 9-3-21; Peters, 2-4-8; Whooper, 1-0-2; Hawkins, 3-0-6. Totals: 25-12—62.

Texas Tech Favored In Gator Bowl

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The Go-Go mania of youth is epitomized in the 21st annual Gator Bowl football game tomorrow afternoon between Texas Tech and Georgia Tech, who both knew every way to score and few ways to stop an opponent.

Donny Anderson, Texas Tech halfback who reportedly will sign the richest pro football contract in history after the game, is the most explosive of the two talented bands of point makers and the chief reason the Red Raiders from West Texas are favored by one to three points.

Anderson catches passes, runs from scrimmage, runs back punts and kickoffs and handles all of Texas Tech's punting.

"The complete do-it-himself football player," he is described by his coach J. T. King.

Green Bay of the National Football League and Houston of the American Football League are fighting to offer a reputed $800,000 in bonus and salary for Anderson's efforts over the next few years.

The bowl game also offers a battle of quarterbacks to entertain a capacity bowl crowd of 60,000 and a national television (ABC) audience. The game will

USF Dons Shooting For Title

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—The San Francisco Dons meet the University of California-Santa Barbara tonight for the West Coast Athletic Conference preseason basketball tourney title.

Russ Banko of Santa Barbara scored 22 points for the Gauchos in a semifinal 69-56 victory over San Jose State. Joe Ellis with 23 points led the Dons to their 76-61 win over Pacific.

San Jose State and Pacific meet for third place.

In the consolation rounds, Santa Clara meets St. Mary's for fifth place and Pepperdine opposes Loyola of Los Angeles for seventh.

Pacific lost the ball to the Dons several times on bad passes and control errors. San Francisco needed to take advantage of these errors, because Pacific was controlling the backboards.

Santa Barbara's zone defense forced San Jose to shoot from the outside and the Spartans were not connecting. The Spartans hit only 28 per cent from the floor.

St. Mary's was paced by Don Devincenzi who scored 29 points and Joe Callaghan who tallied 22. The Gaels set a league record of 6.84 per cent of their shots from the floor. Dick Sebek with 24 was high man for Loyola.

Stanford, Oregon St. In Far West Cage Final

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Stanford has the height. Oregon State has the quickness. Only one can prevail when they meet for the Far West Classic basketball tournament title tonight.

Oregon State, which defeated Arizona State 56-46 last night, also has a tradition: Never a loss in this 10-year-old tournament. The Staters now have 26 straight tournament victories.

Utah State used its speed to stay with Stanford through 25 minutes of play, but gradually Stanford's domination of the backboards turned the tide.

Both Stanford and Oregon have 5-3 records this season.

In consolation play yesterday, Michigan defeated Air Force 83-74 and Washington State downed Oregon 76-58.

The consolation play schedule calls for Michigan 5-4 to play Washington State 8-1 for fourth place and Oregon 3-3 to meet Air for seventh place today.

Arizona State 6-4 will play Utah State 7-5 for third place at 7 p.m. The title game will be at 9 p.m.

Seals Whip Leafs, 5-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

San Francisco dumped the Western Hockey League leaders 5-3 last night to hand the Leafs their second straight defeat on the ice where they used to seem invincible. Victoria had run up a string of 14 straight at home before losing to Seattle last Saturday.

Michel Harvey and Wayne Connelly fashioned the San Francisco victory, the Seals third straight over the Maple Leafs. Harvey picked up a goal early in the second period and two more in the third to complete the hat trick. Connelly connected for the other two Seal tallies.

Tam Wrestlers Win Three-Way Meet

Tamalpais High School's wrestling team won a three-way match yesterday in the Indians' gym. Tam scored 69 to 42 for Montgomery of Santa Rosa and 31 for Terra Nova of Pacifica.

The Indians are now 6-1 on the season, their only loss coming last week at the hands of McClymonds of Oakland.

S. F. Warriors Play Tragedy: Lose 144-111

When San Francisco met the Bullets last, Baltimore won 145-127. The next night the Celts thumped San Francisco 143-106.

The Warriors have not defeated Boston this season.

Three Unanimous Picks For East NBA All-Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Lucas, Wilt Chamberlain and Bill Russell were unanimous selections yesterday to play for the Eastern team in the National Basketball Association All Star game at Cincinnati on January 11.

Lucas, Cincinnati's tough rebounder; Chamberlain, the 7-foot-1 Philadelphia center, and Russell, Boston's defensive ace, were named on all 67 ballots cast by sports writers and broadcasters in the nine league cities.

Five other players were chosen for the East team. They were Willis Reed of New York, John Havlicek and Sam Jones of Boston, Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati and Hal Greer of Philadelphia.

All the East players named have All Star experience except Havlicek. Russell will be playing in his ninth consecutive game.

Two more players chosen by the Eastern Division coaches will be named to the team next week completing the 10-man squad.

Giants Feature East-West Teams

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—If running into a stone wall is enjoyable because it's so much fun when you quit, the runners of the East and the West should be a happy bunch when tomorrow's football game ends.

Both squads for this 41st annual Shrine charity game at Kezar Stadium pose massive defenders. Gametime is 1:30 p.m. It will be televised on Channel 4.

At ends, the East can put Aaron Brown of Minnesota, an All America of 240 pounds, and Bill Yearby of Michigan at 230. Tackles Doug Van Horn of Ohio State and Gale Gillingham of Minnesota tip scales at 236 and 240 while Pittsburgh's Joe Novogratz carries 230 at middle guard.

Then, if Mike Garrett & Co. get through those monsters, they have linebackers Dwight Kelley of Ohio State and Frank Emanuel of Tennessee at 220 to contend with.

While Garrett, the Heisman Trophy winner from Southern California, and Walt Garrison of Oklahoma State, are batting heads with the big guys of the East, the West will be resting a crew to deal with Jim Grabowski of Illinois, Bill Wolski of Notre Dame and Tom Barrington of Ohio State.

These runners will deal with such standouts as Jeff Smith of Southern California at 236, his college teammate Chuck Arrobio at 243, Greg Kent of Utah at 270 and the biggest man ever in this game, and Charlie Harper of Oklahoma State at 245.

Back in 1938 the East and West played to the only scoreless tie in the annals of this battle which has earned nearly $5 million for the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children. Yet last year the West won 11-7 on the margin of two safeties provided by the defense.

Each club will operate from a spread type offense to give advantage to their passers. Yet the weatherman may provide an equal disadvantage. Rain has fallen in the early part of the week and showers remain a possibility for the game itself.

A crowd of about 56,000 plus an NBC national television audience will watch the game. Should it come to a passing duel, John Hankinson of Minnesota and Tom Hodges of Virginia will do the throwing for the East with Paul Stein of the Air Force and Tod Hullin of Washington passing for the West.

Odds which favored the East by 6½ points at nearby Reno, and it appeared might drop to three before game time as the weather was watched.

The West won in a rain and mud struggle a year ago and has 19 victories to 16 defeats and 5 ties. The difference results from the opening games when the West won three straight starting in 1925.

A Full Slate For Armchair Quarterbacks

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The national championship, the country's longest winning string and enormous amounts of prestige go on the line this weekend in collge football's annual wind-up extravanganza — the major bowl games.

The television line-up is such that armchair quarterbacks can watch at least portions of all four of the big ones New Year's Day — the Rose, Cotton, Sugar and Orange.

It starts at 2 p.m., EST, and goes continuously until about 10 p.m.

And if that isn't enough, viewers can start working on their red eyes New Year's Eve with the Gator Bowl and the East-West All-Star game. The Sun Bowl, also scheduled New Year's Eve, is not televised nationally.

Most of the top-ranked teams — Michigan State, Arkansas, Nebraska and Alabama are in action and the national champion will be determined by a poll following games.

Here's the line-up, all times Pacific Standard:

FRIDAY

Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla. — Georgia Tech, 6-3-1, vs. Texas Tech, 8-2, 11 a.m.

Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex. — Texas Western, 7-3, vs. Texas Christian, 6-4, 1 p.m.

East-West All-Star at San Francisco — 1:45 p.m.

SATURDAY

Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif. — Michigan State, 10-0, vs. UCLA, 7-2-1, 2 p.m.

Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Tex. — Arkansas, 10-0, vs. Louisiana State, 7-3, 11 a.m.

Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, La — Missouri, 7-2-1, vs. Florida, 7-3, 11 a.m.

Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla. — Nebraska, 10-0, vs. Alabama, 8-1-1, 5 p.m.

The television line-up has ABC showing the Gator Bowl and NBC the East-West game Friday. Saturday, NBC starts with the Sugar Bowl, follows that with the Rose Bowl and then comes through with the Orange. CBS has the Cotton Bowl battle.

A good portion of the action, however, will take place after the games and off the TV screens. That involves the check book battle for some of the top stars.

For example, some pro foot-

Texas Tech Favored In Gator Bowl

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The Go-Go mania of youth is epitomized in the 21st annual Gator Bowl football game tomorrow afternoon between Texas Tech and Georgia Tech, who both knew every way to score and few ways to stop an opponent.

Donny Anderson, Texas Tech halfback who reportedly will sign the richest pro football contract in history after the game, is the most explosive of the two talented bands of point makers and the chief reason the Red Raiders from West Texas are favored by one to three points.

Anderson catches passes, runs from scrimmage, runs back punts and kickoffs and handles all of Texas Tech's punting.

"The complete do-it-himself football player," he is described by his coach J. T. King.

Green Bay of the National Football League and Houston of the American Football League are fighting to offer a reputed $800,000 in bonus and salary for Anderson's efforts over the next few years.

The bowl game also offers a battle of quarterbacks to entertain a capacity bowl crowd of 60,000 and a national television (ABC) audience. The game will

USF Dons Shooting For Title

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—The San Francisco Dons meet the University of California-Santa Barbara tonight for the West Coast Athletic Conference preseason basketball tourney title.

Russ Banko of Santa Barbara scored 22 points for the Gauchos in a semifinal 69-56 victory over San Jose State. Joe Ellis with 23 points led the Dons to their 76-61 win over Pacific.

San Jose State and Pacific meet for third place.

In the consolation rounds, Santa Clara meets St. Mary's for fifth place and Pepperdine opposes Loyola of Los Angeles for seventh.

Pacific lost the ball to the Dons several times on bad passes and control errors. San Francisco needed to take advantage of these errors, because Pacific was controlling the backboards.

Santa Barbara's zone defense forced San Jose to shoot from the outside and the Spartans were not connecting. The Spartans hit only 28 per cent from the floor.

Santa Clara's captain Eric Paulson led the Broncos to victory over Pepperdine with 18 points.

St. Mary's was paced by Don Devincenzi who scored 29 points and Joe Callaghan who tallied 22. The Gaels set a league record of 6.84 per cent of their shots from the floor. Dick Sebek with 24 was high man for Loyola.

Stanford, Oregon St. In Far West Cage Final

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Stanford has the height. Oregon State has the quickness. Only one can prevail when they meet for the Far West Classic basketball tournament title tonight.

Oregon State, which defeated Arizona State 56-46 last night, also has a tradition: Never a loss in this 10-year-old tournament. The Staters now have 26 straight tournament victories.

Utah State used its speed to stay with Stanford through 25 minutes of play, but gradually Stanford's domination of the backboards turned the tide.

Both Stanford and Oregon have 5-3 records this season.

In consolation play yesterday, Michigan defeated Air Force 83-74 and Washington State downed Oregon 76-58.

The consolation play schedule calls for Michigan 5-4 to play Washington State 8-1 for fourth place and Oregon 3-3 to meet Air for seventh place today.

Arizona State 6-4 will play Utah State 7-5 for third place at 7 p.m. The title game will be at 9 p.m.

Seals Whip Leafs, 5-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

San Francisco dumped the Western Hockey League leaders 5-3 last night to hand the Leafs their second straight defeat on the ice where they used to seem invincible. Victoria had run up a string of 14 straight at home before losing to Seattle last Saturday.

Michel Harvey and Wayne Connelly fashioned the San Francisco victory, the Seals third straight over the Maple Leafs. Harvey picked up a goal early in the second period and two more in the third to complete the hat trick. Connelly connected for the other two Seal tallies.

Tam Wrestlers Win Three-Way Meet

Tamalpais High School's wrestling team won a three-way match yesterday in the Indians' gym. Tam scored 69 to 42 for Montgomery of Santa Rosa and 31 for Terra Nova of Pacifica.

The Indians are now 6-1 on the season, their only loss coming last week at the hands of McClymonds of Oakland.

S. F. Warriors Play Tragedy: Lose 144-111

When San Francisco met the Bullets last, Baltimore won 145-127. The next night the Celts thumped San Francisco 143-106.

The Warriors have not defeated Boston this season.

Three Unanimous Picks For East NBA All-Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Lucas, Wilt Chamberlain and Bill Russell were unanimous selections yesterday to play for the Eastern team in the National Basketball Association All Star game at Cincinnati on January 11.

Lucas, Cincinnati's tough rebounder; Chamberlain, the 7-foot-1 Philadelphia center, and Russell, Boston's defensive ace, were named on all 67 ballots cast by sports writers and broadcasters in the nine league cities.

Five other players were chosen for the East team. They were Willis Reed of New York, John Havlicek and Sam Jones of Boston, Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati and Hal Greer of Philadelphia.

All the East players named have All Star experience except Havlicek. Russell will be playing in his ninth consecutive game.

Two more players chosen by the Eastern Division coaches will be named to the team next week completing the 10-man squad.

Giants Feature East-West Teams

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—If running into a stone wall is enjoyable because it's so much fun when you quit, the runners of the East and the West should be a happy bunch when tomorrow's football game ends.

Both squads for this 41st annual Shrine charity game at Kezar Stadium pose massive defenders. Gametime is 1:30 p.m. It will be televised on Channel 4.

At ends, the East can put Aaron Brown of Minnesota, an All America of 240 pounds, and Bill Yearby of Michigan at 230. Tackles Doug Van Horn of Ohio State and Gale Gillingham of Minnesota tip scales at 236 and 240 while Pittsburgh's Joe Novogratz carries 230 at middle guard.

Then, if Mike Garrett & Co. get through those monsters, they have linebackers Dwight Kelley of Ohio State and Frank Emanuel of Tennessee at 220 to contend with.

While Garrett, the Heisman Trophy winner from Southern California, and Walt Garrison of Oklahoma State, are batting heads with the big guys of the East, the West will be resting a crew to deal with Jim Grabowski of Illinois, Bill Wolski of Notre Dame and Tom Barrington of Ohio State.

These runners will deal with such standouts as Jeff Smith of Southern California at 236, his college teammate Chuck Arrobio at 243, Greg Kent of Utah at 270 and the biggest man ever in this game, and Charlie Harper of Oklahoma State at 245.

Back in 1938 the East and West played to the only scoreless tie in the annals of this battle which has earned nearly $5 million for the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children. Yet last year the West won 11-7 on the margin of two safeties provided by the defense.

Each club will operate from a spread type offense to give advantage to their passers. Yet the weatherman may provide an equal disadvantage. Rain has fallen in the early part of the week and showers remain a possibility for the game itself.

A crowd of about 56,000 plus an NBC national television audience will watch the game. Should it come to a passing duel, John Hankinson of Minnesota and Tom Hodges of Virginia will do the throwing for the East with Paul Stein of the Air Force and Tod Hullin of Washington passing for the West.

Odds which favored the East by 6½ points at nearby Reno, and it appeared might drop to three before game time as the weather was watched.

The West won in a rain and mud struggle a year ago and has 19 victories to 16 defeats and 5 ties. The difference results from the opening games when the West won three straight starting in 1925.

A Full Slate For Armchair Quarterbacks

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The national championship, the country's longest winning string and enormous amounts of prestige go on the line this weekend in collge football's annual wind-up extravanganza — the major bowl games.

The television line-up is such that armchair quarterbacks can watch at least portions of all four of the big ones New Year's Day — the Rose, Cotton, Sugar and Orange.

It starts at 2 p.m., EST, and goes continuously until about 10 p.m.

And if that isn't enough, viewers can start working on their red eyes New Year's Eve with the Gator Bowl and the East-West All-Star game. The Sun Bowl, also scheduled New Year's Eve, is not televised nationally.

Most of the top-ranked teams — Michigan State, Arkansas, Nebraska and Alabama are in action and the national champion will be determined by a poll following games.

Here's the line-up, all times Pacific Standard:

FRIDAY

Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla. — Georgia Tech, 6-3-1, vs. Texas Tech, 8-2, 11 a.m.

Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex. — Texas Western, 7-3, vs. Texas Christian, 6-4, 1 p.m.

East-West All-Star at San Francisco — 1:45 p.m.

SATURDAY

Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif. — Michigan State, 10-0, vs. UCLA, 7-2-1, 2 p.m.

Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Tex. — Arkansas, 10-0, vs. Louisiana State, 7-3, 11 a.m.

Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, La — Missouri, 7-2-1, vs. Florida, 7-3, 11 a.m.

Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla. — Nebraska, 10-0, vs. Alabama, 8-1-1, 5 p.m.

The television line-up has ABC showing the Gator Bowl and NBC the East-West game Friday. Saturday, NBC starts with the Sugar Bowl, follows that with the Rose Bowl and then comes through with the Orange. CBS has the Cotton Bowl battle.

A good portion of the action, however, will take place after the games and off the TV screens. That involves the check book battle for some of the top stars.

For example, some pro foot-

Clear Weather Predicted For Rose Bowl Game

Meanwhile, UCLA coach Tommy Prothro kept his team snug indoors at a basketball arena, apparently betting on the storm to fade and the field to dry for the Rose Bowl game with the Spartans New Year's Day.

Although the area's first winter storm dumped 3.33 inches of rain here in less than 48 hours Tuesday and yesterday — it appeared that Prothro's gamble might pay off. Early today the Weather Bureau issued a revised forecast — eliminating a chance of rain through Friday — and calling for clearing skies today and a sunny weekend.

Although there have been seven rains recorded during the Tournament of Roses, dating back to 1890, only three storms have drenched the football game. There was rain for the afternoon games of 1916 and 1922. The Rose Bowl was flooded before the game in 1934, but the water ran off in time for the kickoff.

The last rainy day for the game was in 1955, when Ohio State beat Southern California, 20-7.

"We beat the heck out of Michigan State for the 13th straight time in practice," commented Prothro after his indoor workout. He said his Bruins worked hard against dummies in Spartan formation, both offense and defense.

The West Coast team moved last night to the Ambassador, a downtown Los Angeles hotel, seeking privacy. The coach said his players hereafter won't be allowed outside the hotel at night.

The Spartans had their last night out—yesterday at a Big Ten dinner where comedian Bob Cosby was master of ceremonies. Michigan State travels tonight to a retreat operated by the Roman Catholic Passionist Fathers located in the Sierra Madre foothills just outside Pasadena.

Terra Linda '5' Triumphs Over Analy

Terra Linda's basketballers got a scare in the last five minutes of the final period, but rallied strong for a 68-49 triumph over Analy High School last night in the losers' gym.

Analy took a two-point lead into the second quarter, 10-8, but lost it as the Terra Linda cagers outscored the Analy quintet 20-9 in the second stanza and waltzed off the floor at the half with a 28-19 lead.

After a close third quarter in which Terra Linda registered only two more points than the home team, Analy made its desperate bid for victory.

In the early minutes of the final stanza, Coach George Starn watched a 14-point lead cut to just three points before the Terra Linda boys began to jell again, pulling ahead with a sudden burst and shaking the hungry Analy skirmishers off for good.

Fred Smith, 6-1 forward, and 5-10 guard Fred Daniele were most instrumental in that fourth quarter spurt. Smith topped all scorers with 17 points on four buckets and nine free throws, while Daniele tallied 15 points on five baskets and five clutch charities in the waning minutes of the game. Along with his point production, Daniele topped both teams in rebounds with 12, picking off 11 of those in the second half.

Mike Ainslie and Brian Perron chalked up 10 and 8 markers respectively to aid the win.

In preliminary action, Wayne Arnsbarger scored 18 points as the Terra Linda jayvees dumped El Molina High School 70-35, but the Trojan Bees were crushed by El Molina's lightweights 56-19.

ball men have said the bidding for Donny Anderson, two-time All America back for Texas Tech, may go as high as $800,000 after he and his Texas Tech teammates complete their Gator Bowl appearance. He has been drafted by Green Bay of the National Football League and Houston of the American Football League.

Two of the three unbeaten teams in action, Michigan State and Arkansas, are solid favorites. But the third, Nebraska, is an underdog to Alabama. Michigan State, Arkansas and Nebraska all are 10-0, with Arkansas boasting a string of 22 in a row.

In Las Vegas, where bookmaking is legal, Arkansas has been made a 10 point favorite over LSU in the Cotton Bowl, Michigan State is favored by 14 over UCLA in the Rose Bowl, Alabama by two over Nebraska in the Orange Bowl and Missouri by 2½ over Florida in the Sugar Bowl.

Tom Wilson of Texas Tech was the third best passer in the nation the past season, probably the first with such high rating to be passed over in the pro draft. They apparently didn't think he was big enough at 5 feet 11 and 167 pounds.

Kim King, a sophomore who emerged from a pattern of injuries to lead Georgia Tech to a successful season and postseason appearance, ranked 16th nationally in statistics.

King can run as well as pass and is surrounded such other running experts as 183-pound Lenny Snow and 198-pound Tommy Carlisle. Wingback Craig Baynham was Georgia Tech's leading pass receiver and impressed Texas Tech coaches even more with his blocking.

Drake High 'B' Alums Whip Little Pirates

Drake's Class B basketball team was spanked by its alumni 53-33 last Tuesday night in the Drake High School gym.

Bruce Kain led the alums offense with 21 points, while Joe Thompson and Dave McClure both threw in 7 points for the little Pirates.

Starr Expects To Play In NFL Title Game Sunday

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Bart Starr expects to play Sunday and that is bad news for the Cleveland Browns. It isn't official yet, but Titletown, U.S.A., is bursting with optimism about its hometown Packers with its No. 1 quarterback back at the helm.

Starr tuned up yesterday for the first time since Sunday's injury and found he could throw the ball. His damaged back is not entirely healthy, but it is beginning to come around.

"I plan on playing," said Starr in the clubhouse after the Packers resumed work for the National Football League championship game following a two-day vacation.

"I am not planning on sitting down," he said. He sounded as though he meant it.

Although Zeke Bratkowski, his understudy, did a fine job Sunday after Starr was hurt on the first play of the playoff game with Baltimore, the Packers are a more cohesive unit with No. 15 at the controls.

"Bart didn't throw well, but he did throw," commented Coach Vince Lombardi. "He should get a little better every day because he is a fast healer. I still don't know what to say about Sunday."

The Packers feel Starr's pinpoint passing will be more effective against the defending champion's deep defense than Zeke's bombs.

Cleveland definitely is vulnerable to the pass. The Browns have given up 43 touchdowns, 12 on running plays and 31 on passes. In contrast, Green Bay has been scored on 22 times, 11 by runs and 11 by passes.

Although the most recent weather forecast calls for mild temperatures and possible showers or flurries during the week, there is threat of rain or snow for Sunday.

The field, recovered with hay immediately after the Baltimore game, is in prime condition. Of course, it'll have to take what comes when the cover is taken off Sunday morning.

Paul Hornung ran with his old spirit in yesterday's workout although he confined himself with straightaway dashes with no cuts. He still is nursing a bruised right leg.

Jim Taylor came up with a muscle pull that nobody knew he had, but Lombardi is confident it will work it self out before game time.

Redwood Quint Dumps Santa Rosans, 80-63

The Redwood Giants came from behind in the second period and raced past Santa Rosa's roundballers yesterday afternoon on the Redwood hardwood 80-63.

While the December rain was pouring down on the roofing of Redwood's gymnasium, the Giants were pouring points through the hoop.

The high-scoring Redwood cagers held a narrow one-point lead at the end of the first period but lost it early in the second stanza. Sparked by forward Bruce McGee and Russ Smith, the home team rallied and quickly ran off 16 points while holding Santa Rosa's Bear Cubs to just 6 and left the court with a 41-29 lead at the half.

Redwood again outscored the Santa Rosa boys in the third perido 21-18, vaulting 24-points ahead and putting the game out of reach despite a Santa Rosa full-court press.

McGee flashed for 22 points before it was all over, canning eleven buckets from the floor, while the sharpshooting Smith blistered the nets from the outside on eight baskets, and dropped in one free throw for 17 points.

Guard Andre Horn played another fine game for the Redwood cagers, both on offense and defense, and ended up with 14 points.

Big Chuck Meyer, center, chalked up 12 markers and shared rebound honors with McGee as both boys pounded the boards hard and wound up with 10 to lead both teams. In all, eleven boys got in the scoring column for the Marin team.

The Redwood cagers had another good night from the field, potting 38 out of 67 for 56.7 per cent and made four out of five free throws in the low fouling game. Only twenty-two fouls were committed in the contest.

BASKETBALL PROSPECTS

Marin Catholic Cagers Show Much Improvement

By GLENN BECKER
(Third in a series on prospects of Marin Athletic League basketball teams).

After opening against four tough teams which made them look more like Santa Claws than Wildcats, the Marin Catholic cagers have rebounded to win four of their last six and are playing good ball as they head into the Marin Athletic League campaign.

The turning point came at the Riordan Tournament in San Francisco Dec. 11. Marin Catholic had dropped the first two games in the tourney by big scores to St. Ignatius and to Polytechnic of San Francisco, and met Sequoia of the South Peninsula League on the final evening. Sequoia is a good team, but the Wildcats threw off the discouragement of an 0-4 record and whipped them 45-33.

Marin	Catholic	Opponent
39	Serra	51
50	St. Elizabeth's	68
44	St. Ignatius	66
34	Polytechnic	54
45	Sequoia	33
57	Crestmoor	37
37	Cubberly	35
35	Polytechnic	43
29	Mission	47
61	St. Joseph's	53

"The Riordan Tournament did us a lot of good," coach Gus Hassapakis remarked. "Sequoia was a good club, and the kids really needed a win. We came right back to beat Crestmoor 57-37." Fun? "Man, we'd forgotten what it was like. Then we beat Cubberly of Palo Alto 37-35 and lost to Poly again 43-35." A shooting collapse in the second half cost Marin a 47-29 defeat against Mission.

The Wildcats have played well lately against good opposition—they gave Poly a much stiffer fight the second time—and have proved against Cobberly they can win a close one.

Nor is that the only hopeful sign of late. Hassapakis is carrying five sophomores on his team and is giving them all the action he can. One, 6-2 forward Ches Bornia, is a starter and two others are his top forecourt replacements.

They are 6-1 Rick Rafael and 5-11 Tim Lenehan. Rafael has particularly pleased Hassapakis —"He's the finest defensive player on the squad" — and has shown the ability to score quickly when he is inserted in the lineup. Lenehan usually spells Bornia, who played center in the wins over Crestmoor and Cubberly when Bob Lombardi was hurt.

Thus far the backcourt starters have been 5-10 Pat Waltz and 5-7 Brian Grove, both seniors. Waltz is the second leading Wildcat scorer behind forward Mike Lasater, and his performance in the Riordan Tourney won him all-tournament honors. He held Sequoia star Charlie Johnson to 16 points, four of them after the game was decided, after Johnson had topped 30 in an earlier game.

Hassapakis credits Grove with being the spark of the club. He is a good ball handler and usually starts the Wildcats' offensive patterns. Grove does not score much, however, and his starting job could be endangered if the Wildcat offense sputters as it did against Mission.

Backcourt replacements are Paul Vickers, a fine dribbler; Jim Ingrassia, a good shooter with good hands but only fair speed, and Tom Schalick, a good shooter. All three are juniors.

Another sophomore who may help later is Paul McCarthy, who transferred to Marin with his brother, Sean, from St. Ignatius. Sean is a senior and like Paul is a 6-2 forward. Sophomore guard Stacey Schaefer is also a transfer; he and the McCarthy boys will be eligible Feb. 1.

Marin probably doesn't have enough to contend for the MCAL title this season, but they will be in the headlines right down to the wire. The reason for this is the unimaginative league schedule, which has each team playing its opponents in the same order the second round that it met them in the first round. The Wildcats happen to wind up both rounds with defending champion Redwood and top challenger Drake.

Marin's league schedule:

Jan. 7	At Terra Linda
Jan. 11	Novato
Jan. 14	San Rafael
Jan. 18	At Tamalpais
Jan. 25	At Redwood
Jan. 28	Drake
Feb. 4	Terra Linda
Feb. 8	At Novato
Feb. 11	at San Rafael
Feb. 15	Tamalpais
Feb. 21	Redwood

CBS RENEWS RIGHT TO NFL TELEVISION

NEW YORK (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting System has purchased the rights to televise National Football League games for at least two more years, signing a contract which calls for more money than ever and which will enable more people than ever to see professional football on television.

CBS and the NFL agreed yesterday to a $37.6 million contract for two years. CBS also has an option for a third year — at additional money, of course.

The new pact is a healthy increase over the $28.2 million agreement that has existed for the past two seasons. Each club in the NFL will receive an additional $200,000 per year, or $1.2 million.

Bill MacPhail, vice president in charge of sports for CBS-TV, said the contract is the largest for sports in television history.

A major change in the new agreement calls for the televising of games to NFL cities even when a team is playing at home.

In the past, if for example, the Pittsburgh Steelers were playing at home, viewers in that city would see no NFL game that day. But starting next season, another game, say Minnesota against Washington, will be shown in Pittsburgh.

The new contract covers regular and pre-season games. CBS and the league still are negotiating for a contract covering the championship game, the runner-up game and the Pro Bowl, but they anticipate no trouble in reaching an agreement.

CBS has been televising NFL games since 1956. The National Broadcasting Co. has just ended the first year of a five-year, $36 million contract with the American Football League, and the American Broadcasting Co. will televise college games in 1966 and 1967 for $16 million.

Accompanying the increase in revenue to the NFL will be an increase in cost to sponsors of the games. CBS has been charging $60,000 a minute for regular season games, but MacPhail declined to say what that rate might be for next year.

Clear Weather Predicted For Rose Bowl Game

Meanwhile, UCLA coach Tommy Prothro kept his team snug indoors at a basketball arena, apparently betting on the storm to fade and the field to dry for the Rose Bowl game with the Spartans New Year's Day.

Although the area's first winter storm dumped 3.33 inches of rain here in less than 48 hours Tuesday and yesterday — it appeared that Prothro's gamble might pay off. Early today the Weather Bureau issued a revised forecast — eliminating a chance of rain through Friday — and calling for clearing skies today and a sunny weekend.

Although there have been seven rains recorded during the Tournament of Roses, dating back to 1890, only three storms have drenched the football game. There was rain for the afternoon games of 1916 and 1922. The Rose Bowl was flooded before the game in 1934, but the water ran off in time for the kickoff.

The last rainy day for the game was in 1955, when Ohio State beat Southern California, 20-7.

"We beat the heck out of Michigan State for the 13th straight time in practice," commented Prothro after his indoor workout. He said his Bruins worked hard against dummies in Spartan formation, both offense and defense.

The West Coast team moved last night to the Ambassador, a downtown Los Angeles hotel, seeking privacy. The coach said his players hereafter won't be allowed outside the hotel at night.

The Spartans had their last night out—yesterday at a Big Ten dinner where comedian Bob Cosby was master of ceremonies. Michigan State travels tonight to a retreat operated by the Roman Catholic Passionist Fathers located in the Sierra Madre foothills just outside Pasadena.

Terra Linda '5' Triumphs Over Analy

Terra Linda's basketballers got a scare in the last five minutes of the final period, but rallied strong for a 68-49 triumph over Analy High School last night in the losers' gym.

Analy took a two-point lead into the second quarter, 10-8, but lost it as the Terra Linda cagers outscored the Analy quintet 20-9 in the second stanza and waltzed off the floor at the half with a 28-19 lead.

After a close third quarter in which Terra Linda registered only two more points than the home team, Analy made its desperate bid for victory.

In the early minutes of the final stanza, Coach George Starn watched a 14-point lead cut to just three points before the Terra Linda boys began to jell again, pulling ahead with a sudden burst and shaking the hungry Analy skirmishers off for good.

Fred Smith, 6-1 forward, and 5-10 guard Fred Daniele were most instrumental in that fourth quarter spurt. Smith topped all scorers with 17 points on four buckets and nine free throws, while Daniele tallied 15 points on five baskets and five clutch charities in the waning minutes of the game. Along with his point production, Daniele topped both teams in rebounds with 12, picking off 11 of those in the second half.

Mike Ainslie and Brian Perron chalked up 10 and 8 markers respectively to aid the win.

In preliminary action, Wayne Arnsbarger scored 18 points as the Terra Linda jayvees dumped El Molina High School 70-35, but the Trojan Bees were crushed by El Molina's lightweights 56-19.

ball men have said the bidding for Donny Anderson, two-time All America back for Texas Tech, may go as high as $800,000 after he and his Texas Tech teammates complete their Gator Bowl appearance. He has been drafted by Green Bay of the National Football League and Houston of the American Football League.

Two of the three unbeaten teams in action, Michigan State and Arkansas, are solid favorites. But the third, Nebraska, is an underdog to Alabama. Michigan State, Arkansas and Nebraska all are 10-0, with Arkansas boasting a string of 22 in a row.

In Las Vegas, where bookmaking is legal, Arkansas has been made a 10 point favorite over LSU in the Cotton Bowl, Michigan State is favored by 14 over UCLA in the Rose Bowl, Alabama by two over Nebraska in the Orange Bowl and Missouri by 2½ over Florida in the Sugar Bowl.

Tom Wilson of Texas Tech was the third best passer in the nation the past season, probably the first with such high rating to be passed over in the pro draft. They apparently didn't think he was big enough at 5 feet 11 and 167 pounds.

Kim King, a sophomore who emerged from a pattern of injuries to lead Georgia Tech to a successful season and postseason appearance, ranked 16th nationally in statistics.

King can run as well as pass and is surrounded such other running experts as 183-pound Lenny Snow and 198-pound Tommy Carlisle. Wingback Craig Baynham was Georgia Tech's leading pass receiver and impressed Texas Tech coaches even more with his blocking.

Drake High 'B' Alums Whip Little Pirates

Drake's Class B basketball team was spanked by its alumni 53-33 last Tuesday night in the Drake High School gym.

Bruce Kain led the alums offense with 21 points, while Joe Thompson and Dave McClure both threw in 7 points for the little Pirates.

GOOD TRY, BUT NO POINTS

San Rafael High School's John Farrar goes up for a jump shot against the Bulldogs alumni team but it was no good during last night's game in the San Rafael gym. Starr Expects To Play In NFL Title Game Sunday

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Bart Starr expects to play Sunday and that is bad news for the Cleveland Browns. It isn't official yet, but Titletown, U.S.A., is bursting with optimism about its hometown Packers with its No. 1 quarterback back at the helm.

Starr tuned up yesterday for the first time since Sunday's injury and found he could throw the ball. His damaged back is not entirely healthy, but it is beginning to come around.

"I plan on playing," said Starr in the clubhouse after the Packers resumed work for the National Football League championship game following a two-day vacation.

"I am not planning on sitting down," he said. He sounded as though he meant it.

Although Zeke Bratkowski, his understudy, did a fine job Sunday after Starr was hurt on the first play of the playoff game with Baltimore, the Packers are a more cohesive unit with No. 15 at the controls.

"Bart didn't throw well, but he did throw," commented Coach Vince Lombardi. "He should get a little better every day because he is a fast healer. I still don't know what to say about Sunday."

The Packers feel Starr's pinpoint passing will be more effective against the defending champion's deep defense than Zeke's bombs.

Cleveland definitely is vulnerable to the pass. The Browns have given up 43 touchdowns, 12 on running plays and 31 on passes. In contrast, Green Bay has been scored on 22 times, 11 by runs and 11 by passes.

Although the most recent weather forecast calls for mild temperatures and possible showers or flurries during the week, there is threat of rain or snow for Sunday.

The field, recovered with hay immediately after the Baltimore game, is in prime condition. Of course, it'll have to take what comes when the cover is taken off Sunday morning.

Paul Hornung ran with his old spirit in yesterday's workout although he confined himself with straightaway dashes with no cuts. He still is nursing a bruised right leg.

Jim Taylor came up with a muscle pull that nobody knew he had, but Lombardi is confident it will work it self out before game time.

Redwood Quint Dumps Santa Rosans, 80-63

The Redwood Giants came from behind in the second period and raced past Santa Rosa's roundballers yesterday afternoon on the Redwood hardwood 80-63.

While the December rain was pouring down on the roofing of Redwood's gymnasium, the Giants were pouring points through the hoop.

The high-scoring Redwood cagers held a narrow one-point lead at the end of the first period but lost it early in the second stanza. Sparked by forward Bruce McGee and Russ Smith, the home team rallied and quickly ran off 16 points while holding Santa Rosa's Bear Cubs to just 6 and left the court with a 41-29 lead at the half.

Redwood again outscored the Santa Rosa boys in the third perido 21-18, vaulting 24-points ahead and putting the game out of reach despite a Santa Rosa full-court press.

McGee flashed for 22 points before it was all over, canning eleven buckets from the floor, while the sharpshooting Smith blistered the nets from the outside on eight baskets, and dropped in one free throw for 17 points.

Guard Andre Horn played another fine game for the Redwood cagers, both on offense and defense, and ended up with 14 points.

Big Chuck Meyer, center, chalked up 12 markers and shared rebound honors with McGee as both boys pounded the boards hard and wound up with 10 to lead both teams. In all, eleven boys got in the scoring column for the Marin team.

The Redwood cagers had another good night from the field, potting 38 out of 67 for 56.7 per cent and made four out of five free throws in the low fouling game. Only twenty-two fouls were committed in the contest.

Santa Rosa scorers: Johnson, 8-1-17; Mc Gill, 7-2-16; Vanvelzen, 5-3-13; Kennish, 2-5-9; Call, 2-2-6; McNair, 1-0-2. Totals: 25-13—63.

McKeever Off Critical List

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Former University of Southern California football star Mike McKeever has been taken off the critical list for the first time since he was injured in an automobile accident Dec. 3.

Doctors said yesterday that McKeever, 25, remains in a coma but pressure on his brain seems to be lessening slowly.

BASKETBALL PROSPECTS

Marin Catholic Cagers Show Much Improvement

By GLENN BECKER

(Third in a series on prospects of Marin Athletic League basketball teams).

After opening against four tough teams which made them look more like Santa Claws than Wildcats, the Marin Catholic cagers have rebounded to win four of their last six and are playing good ball as they head into the Marin Athletic League campaign.

The turning point came at the Riordan Tournament in San Francisco Dec. 11. Marin Catholic had dropped the first two games in the tourney by big scores to St. Ignatius and to Polytechnic of San Francisco, and met Sequoia of the South Peninsula League on the final evening. Sequoia is a good team, but the Wildcats threw off the discouragement of an 0-4 record and whipped them 45-33.

Marin	Catholic	Opponent
39	Serra	51
50	St. Elizabeth's	68
44	St. Ignatius	66
34	Polytechnic	54
45	Sequoia	33
57	Crestmoor	37
37	Cubberly	35
35	Polytechnic	43
29	Mission	47
61	St. Joseph's	53

"The Riordan Tournament did us a lot of good," coach Gus Hassapakis remarked. "Sequoia was a good club, and the kids really needed a win. We came right back to beat Crestmoor 57-37." Fun? "Man, we'd forgotten what it was like. Then we beat Cubberly of Palo Alto 37-35 and lost to Poly again 43-35." A shooting collapse in the second half cost Marin a 47-29 defeat against Mission.

The Wildcats have played well lately against good opposition—they gave Poly a much stiffer fight the second time—and have proved against Cobberly they can win a close one.

Nor is that the only hopeful sign of late. Hassapakis is carrying five sophomores on his team and is giving them all the action he can. One, 6-2 forward Ches Bornia, is a starter and two others are his top forecourt replacements.

They are 6-1 Rick Rafael and 5-11 Tim Lenehan. Rafael has particularly pleased Hassapakis —"He's the finest defensive player on the squad" — and has shown the ability to score quickly when he is inserted in the lineup. Lenehan usually spells Bornia, who played center in the wins over Crestmoor and Cubberly when Bob Lombardi was hurt.

Thus far the backcourt starters have been 5-10 Pat Waltz and 5-7 Brian Grove, both seniors. Waltz is the second leading Wildcat scorer behind forward Mike Lasater, and his performance in the Riordan Tourney won him all-tournament honors. He held Sequoia star Charlie Johnson to 16 points, four of them after the game was decided, after Johnson had topped 30 in an earlier game.

Hassapakis credits Grove with being the spark of the club. He is a good ball handler and usually starts the Wildcats' offensive patterns. Grove does not score much, however, and his starting job could be endangered if the Wildcat offense sputters as it did against Mission.

Backcourt replacements are Paul Vickers, a fine dribbler; Jim Ingrassia, a good shooter with good hands but only fair speed, and Tom Schalick, a good shooter. All three are juniors.

Another sophomore who may help later is Paul McCarthy, who transferred to Marin with his brother, Sean, from St. Ignatius. Sean is a senior and like Paul is a 6-2 forward. Sophomore guard Stacey Schaefer is also a transfer; he and the McCarthy boys will be eligible Feb. 1.

Marin probably doesn't have enough to contend for the MCAL title this season, but they will be in the headlines right down to the wire. The reason for this is the unimaginative league schedule, which has each team playing its opponents in the same order the second round that it met them in the first round. The Wildcats happen to wind up both rounds with defending champion Redwood and top challenger Drake.

Marin's league schedule:

Jan. 11	Novato
Jan. 14	San Rafael
Jan. 18	At Tamalpais

CBS RENEWS RIGHT TO NFL TELEVISION

NEW YORK (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting System has purchased the rights to televise National Football League games for at least two more years, signing a contract which calls for more money than ever and which will enable more people than ever to see professional football on television.

CBS and the NFL agreed yesterday to a $37.6 million contract for two years. CBS also has an option for a third year — at additional money, of course.

The new pact is a healthy increase over the $28.2 million agreement that has existed for the past two seasons. Each club in the NFL will receive an additional $200,000 per year, or $1.2 million.

Bill MacPhail, vice president in charge of sports for CBS-TV, said the contract is the largest for sports in television history.

A major change in the new agreement calls for the televising of games to NFL cities even when a team is playing at home.

In the past, if for example, the Pittsburgh Steelers were playing at home, viewers in that city would see no NFL game that day. But starting next season, another game, say Minnesota against Washington, will be shown in Pittsburgh.

The new contract covers regular and pre-season games. CBS and the league still are negotiating for a contract covering the championship game, the runner-up game and the Pro Bowl, but they anticipate no trouble in reaching an agreement.

CBS has been televising NFL games since 1956. The National Broadcasting Co. has just ended the first year of a five-year, $36 million contract with the American Football League, and the American Broadcasting Co. will televise college games in 1966 and 1967 for $16 million.

Accompanying the increase in revenue to the NFL will be an increase in cost to sponsors of the games. CBS has been charging $60,000 a minute for regular season games, but MacPhail declined to say what that rate might be for next year.

Memories Of Duck Snafu, Deer Kill, Anchovy Fight

By JERRY HARRELL

SACRAMENTO (AP)—California outdoorsmen will remember 1965 as the year of the duck snafu, the Yosemite deer slaughter and the anchovy fight.

Hunting and fishing had its ups and downs, and the general field of fish and game had plenty of controversy.

Deer hunting was down, but not because of a lack of animals. Hot, dry weather and abundant food and water tended to keep the animals scattered. The buck kill fell 5,000 below 1964.

A new deer dispute also erupted during the year when state and federal game managers agreed the herds in Yosemite National Park had to be thinned to protect the animals and proposed to let sportsmen do it.

REJECTIONS

Faced with strident local opposition, the State Fish and Game Commission rejected plans to allow sportsmen a crack at the animals. Plans had been for special hunts when the deer migrated from their summer ranges in the park to wintering grounds outside.

The hunt, aimed at removing a total of 1,075 surplus animals to keep the Tuolumne Meadows and Wawona herds in balance with their range, quickly was dubbed "the Yosemite deer slaughter" when teams of rangers moved in to do the shooting.

California's duck hunters were angered when limits on the most popular birds, pintails and mallards, were slashed by U.S. Interior Secretary Stewart Udall on grounds the ducks had declined and the breeding stock was in danger.

ANGER

As the season wore on and counts confirmed that sprig and mallards were plentiful on the Pacific Flyway, the hunters' anger increased.

A common complaint was: "I got my three big birds fast, then spent six hours trying to get the little birds."

The little anchovy stirred a big fight. Sports anglers mounted a campaign against plans to allow commercial fishermen to take the bait fish for reduction to fish meal. The sportsmen argued that the anchovies would be over-fished and would disappear from California waters as the sardine did.

The State Fish and Game Department said the proposed take of 115,000 tons wouldn't hurt the fishery. The Fish and Game Commission, caught in the middle after Gov. Brown vetoed a bill to allow the commercial catch, approved a trimmed-down 75,000-ton catch for reduction.

The Fish and Game Commission got a little more breathing space to do its assigned job when the legislature renewed the commission's powers for four years instead of the customary two.

The commission tried a new approach to San Joaquin Valley pheasant hunting during the year, moving the season back to December to avoid a conflict with late harvests. The conflicts still occurred, and much of the best pheasant country was closed.

BASS DOWN

Striped bass fishing was generally down in 1965, and ocean salmon fishing failed to live up to expectations.

There were some innovations that held promise for the future. The Fish and Game Department planted white bass experimentally in hopes of establishing a new game fish. A study was launched to gather basic information about the increasingly popular sturgeon.

The department won several skirmishes, notably on the middle fork of the Feather River and the Colorado, in its efforts to save some natural waters from the dam builders.

And the department came up with a massive plan to help assure that there would still be hunting and fishing in the future. The master plan for fish and wildlife, five volumes, made more than 300 recommendations for protecting and improving wildlife.

STEVENS

Just received the weekly report of fishing in the Happy Camp sector of the Klamath River. Jim Roads reports as follows:

"The best fishing of the year is on now. The clear but cold weather of the past two weeks has the Klamath in record condition; very low and clear. All fishermen in the area taking steelhead from 3 to 10 pounds. Some fish being taken on flies—fluorescent or white bodied McGinty. Best bet, however, has been on fresh roe—"

IN ADDITION to the above report are a number of flash reports from the tide water streams along the coast north of the Golden Gate, from the Russian to the Mad rivers and the South Fork of the Eel. BUT—all reports from any or all areas must be shelved. The stormy weather starting Monday night has taken over—has completely erased all good news. Until the streams get over the shock of giant sized winds and rains, it is folly to hope for even token steelheading. Wait at least three days AFTER the stormy, rainy weather has spent its fury. Then, and not before, phone some dependable spot in the region you would fish.

In days such as we have had this week, when you are more or less house-bound, you might do yourself some good by going over your tackle—testing leaders and line for weakened sections and cutting away such frayed or weakened spots, oil up the reels and other inspection and correction chores.

I RECEIVED a copy of the forthcoming issue of Field and Stream which features an extremely comprehensive "Boatman's Handbook." I rather imagine the January issue is now on the news stands, and I don't hesitate to brand the "Handbook" A-1, excellent.

If you now own a boat—outboard or engine powered—by all means get a copy of the "Boatman's Handbook" in the January issue of Field and Stream. If you can't find one locally, send a request to Field and Stream—530 Fifth Avenue, New York, 17, N.Y.

HERE'S AN ITEM for the women folks: The National Rifle Assn., Women's Postal Rifle and Pistol Matches are slated to be held any time before May 1, 1966.

As I understand it you must be a member of the NRA. "Any woman, junior or adult member of the NRA or member of an NRA affiliated Club." However, I suggest, if you are interested, that you write the National Rifle Assn., 1600 Rhode Island Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C., 20036, requesting more details and for entry forms.

And so endeth another column. Happy New Year!

MARINCELLO HOUSEHOLD WORD

News Highlights Of '65 In Marin

By FRANK FARRARA

Marincello and Synanon were just about household words in Marin during 1965, but there were some who talked of bringing back ferries and the Mount Tamalpais railroad.

Residents passed a bond issue for a Hall of Justice, leaving supervisors with the problem of what to do with the courthouse square in downtown San Rafael.

Marin residents went to Selma to march for Negro voting rights, scores were exchange students in foreign lands, some joined the peace corps and many were drafted into the military service.

Those who stayed at home worried about rising assessments, the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control project, the proposed east-west freeway, rapid transit, and school bond issues.

There were murders, thefts, fatal accidents, big business deals and politics, but it wasn't a year just like any year.

Here are some of the highlights:

JANUARY

Marin County supervisors stirred up a controversy when they requested resignations of all members of the county planning, parks and recreation and personnel commissions. After protesting petitions and charges of "political football" and "spoils system," the board removed three planning commissioners who refused to resign: Henry C. Hankins, Edward K. Wachsman and George Scott.

Two Greenbrae sisters were killed by a car while walking to school along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. Parents urged safety measures. County supervisors ordered construction of a guard rail along the sidewalk, reduced the speed limit in the area, and agreed to hire a full-time county traffic engineer.

Mill Valley got approval from the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission to annex 137 acres including Tamalpais High School and a portion of the Alto business area. Alto residents responded with a move to incorporate a city of Alto, including some of the territory sought by Mill Valley.

The battle over the proposed planned community of Marincello, west of Sausalito, opened before county supervisors with conservationists making a strong bid to halt zoning which would permit high-rise buildings.

Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. sought to abandon its entire Tiburon Peninsula line, part of the railroad's main line which has been closed at the Puerto Suello tunnel since July 1961.

The San Rafael City Council said that it would not allow bay filling beyond the San Rafael canal levee until the city's general plan is adopted.

Death: Rt. Rev. Daniel J. McAlister, administrator of St. Raphael's Catholic Parish in San Rafael, died at the age of 60 after being in failing health for several years.

FEBRUARY

Marin County supervisors unanimously approved planned community zoning for Marincello, where Frouge Corp. plans to construct homes, high-rise apartments and commercial and industrial areas.

Supervisors further enlarged Supervisor Thomas T. Storer's Fourth District to include all of the Tomales High School District, after earlier re-districting stretched Storer's area from Point Reyes to San Rafael.

The Marin County Committee on School District Organization voted 6-5 to re-submit to the voters a proposal for over-all unification of the Tamalpais High School District which was defeated in June, 1964.

The City of Mill Valley filed notice of intention to annex 206 acres on the north ridge which borders Corte Madera and Larkspur, uninhabited land in the Mill Valley watershed.

John F. McInnis, mayor of San Rafael since 1957, announced he would not run for re-election.

Deaths: Henry Hess, 82, owner of Henry Hess Lumber Co. in San Rafael.

MARCH

Marin County ministers went to Selma, Ala., to participate in voter registration drives. San Francisco Theological Seminary students left to take part in the "March to Montgomery." Residents at home staged rallies and paraded across the Golden Gate Bridge in support of the Negro drive for voting rights in Alabama.

N. Charles Brusatori, 62, who had been a superior court judge since 1956, announced he would retire from the bench in June because of his health.

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission rejected the petition for incorporation of a city of Alto to cover 1,626 acres bounded by Tiburon, Corte Madera and Mill Valley.

Poison dumped into Nicasio Creek killed 900 young salmon, but there was no danger to the drinking water from the stream which feeds into Nicasio Reservoir, a source of supply for the Marin Municipal Water District.

The Interstate Commerce Commission refused to hear an application from Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. to abandon San Rafael, Tiburon and Sausalito service.

Deaths: Jesse Henry Steinhart, 83, of Belvedere, former member of the University of California Board of Regents, 1950-62.

APRIL

Supervisors viewed plans for a Veterans Memorial Auditorium, with a choice of either 2,000 seats at a cost of $2,163,200 or 3,000 seats at a cost of $2,881,700.

Officials were swamped with complaints about errors in sample ballots for April school district elections: Late mailings, lack of proper proofreading and omission of polling place addresses. Supervisors later moved to take election responsibility from the county schools office and re-organize the elections division of the county clerk's office.

Voters turned down unification of 11 elementary school districts with the Tamalpais High School District by a vote of 10,003 to 8,568.

C. Paul Bettini, a member of the San Rafael Board of Education, was elected mayor of San Rafael, defeating Dr. Charles W. Aby, a member of the city council.

Engineers reported to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District that it would be feasible to construct a second deck on the bridge.

Deaths: Former San Rafael Fire Chief Clarence M. (Fritz) Johansen, 69; Mrs. Catherine Washington of Marin City, a daughter of slaves, aged 104.

MAY

Mrs. Anita C. Strom was appointed to the San Rafael Board of Education after the San Rafael City Council received a flood of letters, both opposing and supporting her appointment.

The Marin Municipal Water District Board voted to increase the water rates about 15 per cent to raise funds for a $6.1 million expansion program.

A State Senate committee cleared a bill which would permit Marin County to levy a countywide flood control tax of up to 50 cents per $100 valuation. Several cities protested.

The California Public Utility Commission ordered Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. to start running trains through San Rafael within 185 days.

A strong movement started in the Belvedere-Tiburon area to protest boosts in assessed valuation up to 60 per cent as the result of re-appraisal.

JUNE

Trustees of Tomales Bay School District decided that the one-room Marshall School, established in 1876, would no longer be used for classrooms.

Four adults and seven juveniles were arrested and five pounds of marijuana, worth $5,000, was seized in the largest police raid in Marin history, which chopped a supply of marijuana to an estimated 150 users in Southern Marin.

Marin County voters approved by vote of 14,568 to 7,177 the issuance of $7,750,000 in 20-year general obligation bonds to finance the Hall of Justice at the Civic Center.

The House Appropriations Committee approved $800,000 for the Army Corps of Engineers to start work on the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control project during the fiscal year starting July 1.

Supervisors adopted a budget of $25,063,861, up 15.7 per cent over the previous year but expected to allow a 4.5-cent cut in the county's tax rate.

A master plan for Novato envisioned it as a city of industry with 3,000 acres of industrial sites and an eventual population of 163,000.

Deaths: Rev. George Augustine O'Meara, pastor of St. Raphael's Church since 1937, at the age of 74; Camille P. Remy, mayor and city councilman of Fairfax during World War II.

JULY

About 450 painters in Marin went on strike along with other Bay Area painters, and Cement Masons Local 355 picketed local projects, halting major projects in Marin. Both disputes eventually were settled.

County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel announced that assessments on land and property in Marin increased $51.6 million as a Correct Unfair Taxation group formed on the Tiburon Peninsula and supervisors were swamped with protests at equalization hearings.

Synanon, which had been battling against the need for a use permit for its operation at Marshall, surprised the county planning commission by applying for a permit. West Marin residents protested.

Terra Linda Recreation and Parks District suspended its entire teen-age program after a weekend of vandalism, burglary and violence including slugging of a 19-year-old girl lifeguard by a burglar.

Fire swept through the Tides bookstore in Sausalito, causing damage estimated at $50,000 to $75,000.

Deaths: John Franklin Forbes, economist and accountant, of Upper Road, Ross, founder of John F. Forbes and Co., one of largest independent accounting firms on the West Coast; Charles A. Rowe, former Corte Madera town councilman (1948-52) and Marin Hospital District director; Max Miller of San Rafael, painting contractor and one-time candidate for Democratic nomination for state senate (1960).

AUGUST

Sausalito School District trustees unanimously adopted a plan to desegregate schools on a district-wide basis.

Novato Little League All-Stars won the Northern California championship, lost in the western regional tournament at Portland, Ore., and came back to win the mythical California state championship.

Mrs. Natalie Lewis, former town clerk, became the first woman member of the Ross Town Council.

Novato city councilmen stirred up a controversy when they proposed a study to determine if it would be cheaper to eliminate the city police department and contract for police protection by the sheriff's office.

Deaths: Annie Beth Watson of San Anselmo, a retired speech teacher who taught at Tamalpais High School and Sir Francis Drake High School (1952-63; D. Frank Monte, president of Monte and Banfield Chapel of the Hills funeral home, and former mayor of San Anselmo (1945-47).

SEPTEMBER

Sixty-five-year-old Joseph Regoni retired after 35 years as police chief of Ross, and was succeeded by John Frank Harris, assistant chief.

Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West put on the biggest parade in Marin history, 4,000 marchers, in San Rafael to celebrate the 115th anniversary of the admission of California to the Union.

Two masked gunmen shot and killed bartender Mario Ferrari during an early morning holdup at the Mission Inn in San Rafael. Two ex-convicts were apprehended and charged with the crime.

A raging brush fire, swept by 80-mile-an-hour winds, burned 8,000 acres in Chileno Valley, crossing into Marin on an eight-mile front and destroying two homes and scores of barns and ranch buildings.

Two ships, a Liberian oil tanker and a Norwegian freighter, collided in San Francisco Bay near San Quentin Point, causing damage to both ships and injury to one crewman.

OCTOBER

Voters in the San Rafael Elementary School District approved a 50-cent boost in the district's operating tax rate limit, which had been rejected at the polls in April.

Supervisors discussed sale of the courthouse square in San Rafael to help finance the Hall of Justice. Architect Robert W. F. Severin proposed development of a hotel and convention center with underground parking, shops and restaurants at the site.

A state redistricting plan combined Marin and the southern sector of Sonoma County in one assembly district, and Marin with Napa and a major portion of Solano in one senate district.

As part of nationwide demonstrations urging an end to the war in Viet Nam, a group of Marin residents joined in a protest demonstration in front of the county courthouse.

Deaths: Rear Adm. Rufus G. Thayer (USN-ret), 67, died as result a bee sting while working at his summer cabin on Lucas Valley Road in Nicasio; Sarah Wingate Taylor, poet and associate professor of English at Dominican College, died at a Boston hospital; Joseph Burton Rice, president of Rice Supply Co. of San Rafael, president of the Novato Savings and Loan Assn. and former president of the California State Automobile Assn.

NOVEMBER

Voters in Tamalpais High School District defeated a $7,750,000 bond issue to finance expansion of Redwood High School and first stage construction of a high school in San Geronimo Valley.

American Distilling Co. announced it was moving out of its Sausalito site, which was sold to Kelly Buchanan Associates of San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Wheelwright, owners of the 650-acre Green Gulch Ranch in Southern Marin, became the first land owners in California to reserve their land for agricultural use.

Marin County supervisors approved the master plan for the proposed city of Marincello, including a density of 3.5 dwelling units per acre and high-rise apartments, sparking a mass protest.

Engineer Daniel P. Coleman unveiled a plan for the courthouse square: A park-like downtown center, a 10-story building, two one-story buildings and underground parking.

DECEMBER

A series of incidents including throwing rocks and sniping at sheriff's deputies culminated in a fire that gutted the sheriff's substation at Marin City, and led to a meeting of county supervisors with Marin City residents.

Marin and San Francisco supervisors pondered the possibility of restoring ferry service between Marin and San Francisco, while Golden Gate Bridge directors proceeded with plans to add a second deck to the Golden Gate Bridge.

The State Park Commission earmarked $4 million for acquisition of a 3,200-acre addition to Mount Tamalpais State Park.

Hamilton Air Force Base was slated for increased activity next Spring when it will become the command base for all armed forces covering 11 western states and two Canadian provinces.

San Rafael Military Academy, which has been located in San Rafael for three-quarters of a century, abandoned its search for a new location and decided to remain at its present site.

Tools Stolen

Thieves ignored a new tape recorder in the back seat and took several tools from his unlocked car between 6 and 7:30 p.m. Monday, Oather Benny Coughburn of Apt. 7, Bldg. A, Hilarita Housing, Tiburon, reported to Tiburon sheriff's deputies. Missing are a pair of vise grips, a wire cutter, a screwdriver and a set of ratchet wrenches, he said.

MARINCELLO HOUSEHOLD WORD

News Highlights Of '65 In Marin

By FRANK FARRARA

Marincello and Synanon were just about household words in Marin during 1965, but there were some who talked of bringing back ferries and the Mount Tamalpais railroad.

Residents passed a bond issue for a Hall of Justice, leaving supervisors with the problem of what to do with the courthouse square in downtown San Rafael.

Marin residents went to Selma to march for Negro voting rights, scores were exchange students in foreign lands, some joined the peace corps and many were drafted into the military service.

Those who stayed at home worried about rising assessments, the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control project, the proposed east-west freeway, rapid transit, and school bond issues.

There were murders, thefts, fatal accidents, big business deals and politics, but it wasn't a year just like any year.

Here are some of the highlights:

JANUARY

Marin County supervisors stirred up a controversy when they requested resignations of all members of the county planning, parks and recreation and personnel commissions. After protesting petitions and charges of "political football" and "spoils system," the board removed three planning commissioners who refused to resign: Henry C. Hankins, Edward K. Wachsman and George Scott.

Two Greenbrae sisters were killed by a car while walking to school along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. Parents urged safety measures. County supervisors ordered construction of a guard rail along the sidewalk, reduced the speed limit in the area, and agreed to hire a full-time county traffic engineer.

Mill Valley got approval from the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission to annex 137 acres including Tamalpais High School and a portion of the Alto business area. Alto residents responded with a move to incorporate a city of Alto, including some of the territory sought by Mill Valley.

The battle over the proposed planned community of Marincello, west of Sausalito, opened before county supervisors with conservationists making a strong bid to halt zoning which would permit high-rise buildings.

Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. sought to abandon its entire Tiburon Peninsula line, part of the railroad's main line which has been closed at the Puerto Suello tunnel since July 1961.

The San Rafael City Council said that it would not allow bay filling beyond the San Rafael canal levee until the city's general plan is adopted.

Death: Rt. Rev. Daniel J. McAlister, administrator of St. Raphael's Catholic Parish in San Rafael, died at the age of 60 after being in failing health for several years.

FEBRUARY

Marin County supervisors unanimously approved planned community zoning for Marincello, where Frouge Corp. plans to construct homes, high-rise apartments and commercial and industrial areas.

Supervisors further enlarged Supervisor Thomas T. Storer's Fourth District to include all of the Tomales High School District, after earlier re-districting stretched Storer's area from Point Reyes to San Rafael.

The Marin County Committee on School District Organization voted 6-5 to re-submit to the voters a proposal for over-all unification of the Tamalpais High School District which was defeated in June, 1964.

The City of Mill Valley filed notice of intention to annex 206 acres on the north ridge which borders Corte Madera and Larkspur, uninhabited land in the Mill Valley watershed.

John F. McInnis, mayor of San Rafael since 1957, announced he would not run for re-election.

Deaths: Henry Hess, 82, owner of Henry Hess Lumber Co. in San Rafael.

MARCH

Marin County ministers went to Selma, Ala., to participate in voter registration drives. San Francisco Theological Seminary students left to take part in the "March to Montgomery." Residents at home staged rallies and paraded across the Golden Gate Bridge in support of the Negro drive for voting rights in Alabama.

N. Charles Brusatori, 62, who had been a superior court judge since 1956, announced he would retire from the bench in June because of his health.

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission rejected the petition for incorporation of a city of Alto to cover 1,626 acres bounded by Tiburon, Corte Madera and Mill Valley.

Poison dumped into Nicasio Creek killed 900 young salmon, but there was no danger to the drinking water from the stream which feeds into Nicasio Reservoir, a source of supply for the Marin Municipal Water District.

The Interstate Commerce Commission refused to hear an application from Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. to abandon San Rafael, Tiburon and Sausalito service.

Deaths: Jesse Henry Steinhart, 83, of Belvedere, former member of the University of California Board of Regents, 1950-62.

APRIL

Supervisors viewed plans for a Veterans Memorial Auditorium, with a choice of either 2,000 seats at a cost of $2,163,200 or 3,000 seats at a cost of $2,881,700.

Officials were swamped with complaints about errors in sample ballots for April school district elections: Late mailings, lack of proper proofreading and omission of polling place addresses. Supervisors later moved to take election responsibility from the county schools office and re-organize the elections division of the county clerk's office.

Voters turned down unification of 11 elementary school districts with the Tamalpais High School District by a vote of 10,003 to 8,568.

C. Paul Bettini, a member of the San Rafael Board of Education, was elected mayor of San Rafael, defeating Dr. Charles W. Aby, a member of the city council.

Engineers reported to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District that it would be feasible to construct a second deck on the bridge.

Deaths: Former San Rafael Fire Chief Clarence M. (Fritz) Johansen, 69; Mrs. Catherine Washington of Marin City, a daughter of slaves, aged 104.

MAY

Mrs. Anita C. Strom was appointed to the San Rafael Board of Education after the San Rafael City Council received a flood of letters, both opposing and supporting her appointment.

The Marin Municipal Water District Board voted to increase the water rates about 15 per cent to raise funds for a $6.1 million expansion program.

A State Senate committee cleared a bill which would permit Marin County to levy a countywide flood control tax of up to 50 cents per $100 valuation. Several cities protested.

The California Public Utility Commission ordered Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. to start running trains through San Rafael within 185 days.

A strong movement started in the Belvedere-Tiburon area to protest boosts in assessed valuation up to 60 per cent as the result of re-appraisal.

JUNE

Trustees of Tomales Bay School District decided that the one-room Marshall School, established in 1876, would no longer be used for classrooms.

Four adults and seven juveniles were arrested and five pounds of marijuana, worth $5,000, was seized in the largest police raid in Marin history, which chopped a supply of marijuana to an estimated 150 users in Southern Marin.

Marin County voters approved by vote of 14,568 to 7,177 the issuance of $7,750,000 in 20-year general obligation bonds to finance the Hall of Justice at the Civic Center.

The House Appropriations Committee approved $800,000 for the Army Corps of Engineers to start work on the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control project during the fiscal year starting July 1.

Supervisors adopted a budget of $25,063,861, up 15.7 per cent over the previous year but expected to allow a 4.5-cent cut in the county's tax rate.

A master plan for Novato envisioned it as a city of industry with 3,000 acres of industrial sites and an eventual population of 163,000.

Deaths: Rev. George Augustine O'Meara, pastor of St. Raphael's Church since 1937, at the age of 74; Camille P. Remy, mayor and city councilman of Fairfax during World War II.

JULY

About 450 painters in Marin went on strike along with other Bay Area painters, and Cement Masons Local 355 picketed local projects, halting major projects in Marin. Both disputes eventually were settled.

County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel announced that assessments on land and property in Marin increased $51.6 million as a Correct Unfair Taxation group formed on the Tiburon Peninsula and supervisors were swamped with protests at equalization hearings.

Synanon, which had been battling against the need for a use permit for its operation at Marshall, surprised the county planning commission by applying for a permit. West Marin residents protested.

Terra Linda Recreation and Parks District suspended its entire teen-age program after a weekend of vandalism, burglary and violence including slugging of a 19-year-old girl lifeguard by a burglar.

Fire swept through the Tides bookstore in Sausalito, causing damage estimated at $50,000 to $75,000.

Deaths: John Franklin Forbes, economist and accountant, of Upper Road, Ross, founder of John F. Forbes and Co., one of largest independent accounting firms on the West Coast; Charles A. Rowe, former Corte Madera town councilman (1948-52) and Marin Hospital District director; Max Miller of San Rafael, painting contractor and one-time candidate for Democratic nomination for state senate (1960).

AUGUST

Novato Little League All-Stars won the Northern California championship, lost in the western regional tournament at Portland, Ore., and came back to win the mythical California state championship.

Mrs. Natalie Lewis, former town clerk, became the first woman member of the Ross Town Council.

USSR Marking The New Year

Grandfather Frost To Bring Toys By Motorcycle

By ALINE MOSBY

Instead of Santa Claus, the Soviets have Grandfather Frost, but since the mid-1930's New Year's Day has been celebrated with the trappings of the Western Christmas.

One toy shop has electrified the smallfry by arranging for Granfather Frost to deliver toys for the first time to homes from a motorcycle instead of a reindeer.

SOVIET PLANNERS have promised that packaged foods, somewhat like ready-to-cook TV dinners, will be sold door-to-door by trucks on New Years Eve so some people can avoid lining up for holiday foods.

The government allocated 4.4 pounds per person of flour for the holidays, and housewife lines can be seen around the city. Flour has not been sold freely since the bad 1963 harvest (although bread and pastries are plentiful).

CITIZENS ALSO are finding toys and gifts in the stores, although variety and quality is comparatively low and the price of many items comparatively high.

Shopping streets are not strung with lights or decorated with fancy trees as in other world capitals. But the big department stores and toy shops have "yolka" fir trees glistening with electric lights, tinsel and brightly colored metallic balls. Except for the fact that there are no angel ornaments, the trees could be in any Christian country. The 5-point Soviet star topping the yolka could easily be taken for the star of Bethlehem.

HOLIDAY SIGNS in GUM, the big department store on Red Square, are slightly more elaborate this year, still with cherubs toting space ships instead of religious scenes.

Shoppers elbow each other to buy the usual violently printed plush table covers with wide fringes for $17.71 or carved wooden elks for $3.41 or Soviet champagne or candy in boxes gaily decorated with medieval Russian scenes, or pale blue ladies stockings.

BUT PARENTS say there are some new toys in the shops this year, particularly electric gadgets, mostly imported from east Germany. At one big toy shop, the House of Toys, parents in heavy winter coats and fur caps line up to buy electric trains at $5.61 and do-it-yourself assemblages of plastic airplanes, long popular in the West.

The House of Toys has five kinds of toy guns, but the military newspaper complains not enough military toys are made.

Parental Strictness Tempered With Affection Best For Child

By CHARLES SCHAEFFER

WASHINGTON—Happiness is strict parents.

A new federal study finds parents who lay down firm family rules — and enforce them — consistently rear more successful children when it comes to school work.

What's more the youngsters from firm households grow up more secure, happier and like their parents better.

In the just-completed seven-year study happiness was not the product of strictness alone. In each case, rule-setting had been tempered with affection by the parents.

It was shown, on the other hand, that easygoing parents can't "buy" love and respect with bribes.

THE CONFIDENCE OF the strict parent seems to rub off on his child, creating a spirit of self-esteem and the conviction that he can and will succeed. When limits are set for him, the child learns that life has rules and if he follows them he can often control his own fate.

The study, sponsored by the National Institute of Mental Health, identified children with high self-esteem, a factor in mental health, and then matched their parents attitudes against those of children having a low opinion of themselves.

Results were reported by Dr. Stanley Coopersmith, chairman of the department of psychology, University of California at Davis. He determined the degree of self-esteem by testing and interviewing a group of 10-to-12-year old boys of middle-class families. Those with the highest self-esteem invariably enjoyed success in school and at play, often becoming leaders.

THE PARENTS of both groups were asked: "Is achievement more important than sociability?" and "Is it more important that the child enjoy himself or that he meet high standards?"

Parents considered to be strict chose "achievement" and "high standards" as the desirable goals.

In an interview, Dr. Coopersmith said about half of the group examined selected enjoyment as the worthier aim. More often than not, these were the parents with the low-esteem children. A certain degree of self-justification was evident, since the youngsters were already doing poorly when the questions were asked.

CONSISTENCY AND FIRMNESS characterized the secure families. Parents fixed rules, such as specific bedtimes, and upheld them. But there was affection and respect, too. The parents granted their children more responsibility, listened to them closely, even on minor matters, knew most of their friends, and were able to tolerate disagreements with them.

Rewards or punishment were usually automatic when goals were met or rules violated.

The strict parents judged their disciple as effective about 90 per cent of the time. The easygoing parents, often used harsher body punishment when finally driven to it, but found it effective only about half of the time.

IN DETERMINING the youngsters opinions of themselves, the investigators asked such obvious questions as "do you like yourself?" The questions were backed up with interviews of the childrens' teachers. What the youngsters thought of themselves was supported 80 per cent of the time by the teacher interviews, Dr. Coopersmith said.

Coopersmith's youngsters were sifted from an initial group of 1,500, narrowed to 85-34 with high self-esteem, 34 with low self-esteem and 17 with mixed attitudes. The results, in more detail, are scheduled for book publication in the spring.

WORKING AND NON-WORKING mothers were equally spread among the groups. But when working mothers followed up on rule-making at morning and night the benefits to the children were the same as if they were home all day.

The mothers of the successful youngsters also were satisfied with their husbands, who usually acted as family disciplinarians.

USSR Marking The New Year

Grandfather Frost To Bring Toys By Motorcycle

By ALINE MOSBY

Instead of Santa Claus, the Soviets have Grandfather Frost, but since the mid-1930's New Year's Day has been celebrated with the trappings of the Western Christmas.

One toy shop has electrified the smallfry by arranging for Granfather Frost to deliver toys for the first time to homes from a motorcycle instead of a reindeer.

SOVIET PLANNERS have promised that packaged foods, somewhat like ready-to-cook TV dinners, will be sold door-to-door by trucks on New Years Eve so some people can avoid lining up for holiday foods.

The government allocated 4.4 pounds per person of flour for the holidays, and housewife lines can be seen around the city. Flour has not been sold freely since the bad 1963 harvest (although bread and pastries are plentiful).

CITIZENS ALSO are finding toys and gifts in the stores, although variety and quality is comparatively low and the price of many items comparatively high.

Shopping streets are not strung with lights or decorated with fancy trees as in other world capitals. But the big department stores and toy shops have "yolka" fir trees glistening with electric lights, tinsel and brightly colored metallic balls. Except for the fact that there are no angel ornaments, the trees could be in any Christian country. The 5-point Soviet star topping the yolka could easily be taken for the star of Bethlehem.

HOLIDAY SIGNS in GUM, the big department store on Red Square, are slightly more elaborate this year, still with cherubs toting space ships instead of religious scenes.

Shoppers elbow each other to buy the usual violently printed plush table covers with wide fringes for $17.71 or carved wooden elks for $3.41 or Soviet champagne or candy in boxes gaily decorated with medieval Russian scenes, or pale blue ladies stockings.

BUT PARENTS say there are some new toys in the shops this year, particularly electric gadgets, mostly imported from east Germany. At one big toy shop, the House of Toys, parents in heavy winter coats and fur caps line up to buy electric trains at $5.61 and do-it-yourself assemblages of plastic airplanes, long popular in the West.

The House of Toys has five kinds of toy guns, but the military newspaper complains not enough military toys are made.

Parental Strictness Tempered With Affection Best For Child

By CHARLES SCHAEFFER

WASHINGTON—Happiness is strict parents.

A new federal study finds parents who lay down firm family rules — and enforce them — consistently rear more successful children when it comes to school work.

What's more the youngsters from firm households grow up more secure, happier and like their parents better.

In the just-completed seven-year study happiness was not the product of strictness alone. In each case, rule-setting had been tempered with affection by the parents.

It was shown, on the other hand, that easygoing parents can't "buy" love and respect with bribes.

THE CONFIDENCE OF the strict parent seems to rub off on his child, creating a spirit of self-esteem and the conviction that he can and will succeed. When limits are set for him, the child learns that life has rules and if he follows them he can often control his own fate.

The study, sponsored by the National Institute of Mental Health, identified children with high self-esteem, a factor in mental health, and then matched their parents attitudes against those of children having a low opinion of themselves.

Do Women Select Clothes To Please 'Girl Watchers'? Maybe

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Men, or at least the red-blooded, enthusiastic girl watcher kind—prefer to believe that women choose their clothes specifically to be ogled by the connoisseurs of femininity.

But are wardrobes created by American designers today for the hopefully watchable really worth looking at? Yes and No.

Four of the world's best known girl watchers recently slipped into the audience of a Fashion Group sponsored ready-to-wear show to ocular test this spring's style offerings for the American female.

There was Don Sauer, author of a handbook for girl-watching, whose scientific contribution to the art includes such classifications as High Stepping Hatbox Toter, Clock-watching Boss-ducker, Blue Jeaned Ranch-wrecker, and Rosy Cheeked Prom-hopper, all of which are self descriptive.

And there was chairman of the board of the now nationally organized American Society for Girl Watchers, hairy-chinned orchestra leader Skitch Henderson, as well as two other high ranking officers, Ray Bauer and Cop Collins.

AT THE END OF the 100-garment show when they at last laid down their score cards these truths were self-evident:

The most watchable woman's wardrobe from the masculine viewpoint is somewhat conservative in soft, touchable, non-patterned, pastel fabrics which are figure revealing but not too much so.

The most watchable models are curvy, with tummies tucked in, shoulders squared, and hair long and curly.

If men were in complete control of the women's apparel industry, change would be almost as gradual as it is currently in the menswear field.

Specifically, the testing committee offered its stamp of approval generally to sheaths; A-lines; sportswear with tailored (but not boyish) simplicity; pleated skirts, smock dresses in soft fabrics and for evening floaty chiffons.

THE CONDEMNED as "too suggestive" a halter necklined dress by Rudi Gernreich. They rejected horizontal striped Max Sennett bathing suits as attention - demanding but too kooky to be pleasing to men. They, in fact, were negative about stripes combined with checks as well as vivid art nouveau prints: indeed anything that insists upon being seen.

Slithering females in seemingly congealed gowns of twinkling sequins and sparkling beads were dubbed "good to look at but with the warning that you must not touch."

The critical jury did not agree among themselves about skirt lengths. Skitch Henderson approved of more knee show than the other three men. Some men applauded the clear plastic raincoats for their purity in line, objectively ignoring the fact that they could see bikini-clad figures of the models underneath. A few saved their handclapping for misty rainwear that clouded the view a little anyway.

If a designer of a sexy sequinned bra-top and a hip-slung skirt thought he had the male vote, he was mistaken entirely. The girl watchers also turned eyes down on bell bottom pants, all except Cop Collins whose objectivity was tampered by a teen-age daughter. And chintz hostess pajamas were tagged "too chintzy."

FRANKLY, THE highly skilled observers of the female sex were delighted over their disagreements. Divergency of opinion about fashion, they conceded, is just as healthy as divergence of opinion about women.

Moreover, even though most of the male girl watchers would consciously put the brakes on the trend toward far-out fashions for women, they not at all subconsciously wish that their own designers would be at least a little more adventurous so that they would have at least a little more variety from which to choose.

WED AT ST. SYLVESTER'S CHURCH in San Rafael on Dec. 18 were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Eugene Henry who are making their home in San Jose. The bride is the former Judith Helen Easton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Stanton Zollner of San Rafael. (Faulkner photo)

Miss Cassidy Is Bride At Chapel Rite

The Rev. Russell Knoebel performed the double ring ceremony.

Karen Falk of San Rafael was maid of honor wearing a floor length Empire sheath gown of emerald green chiffon. The bridesmaids, Judi Stevens and Andrena Ruzick, sister of the bridegroom, both of Novato and Elena Green of San Rafael wore matching gowns. Carrie Tavoni of Novato was flower girl.

Serving as best man for the bridegroom, the son of Mrs. Steve Ruzick and the late Mr. Ruzick of Novato, was Dennis McCormick of Oakland. Ushers were Arthur Cherry of Oakland and John Cook and Larry Hale of Novato.

A reception was held at Hamilton Air Force Base Officers Club preceding the couple's wedding trip to Santa Cruz and Carmel. They will reside in Novato.

The bride was graduated from Great Falls High School in Montana and completed a course at the John Powers Modeling School. She is employed at Sumitomo Shoji New York, Inc., in San Francisco.

The bridegroom was graduated from Novato High School and is attending College of Marin. He is employed by R. L. Jack, contractor, and is a member of the Novato Volunteer Fire Department. Robert is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. William Fetesoff of San Francisco.

Chinese Umbrellas A Symbol Of Rank

First recorded use of umbrellas comes from ancient China, as early as 2,000 B. C., a manufacturing corporation reports.

Later, the Chinese used umbrellas as a symbol of rank — by their color, material, design and number. For example, a procession of 24 umbrellas always marked the emperor's appearance.

Founding Member Heads Westminster Church Unit

One of the founding members of the United Presbyterian Women of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, Tiburon, has been named president of the organization. Mrs. J. Benton Bostick of Tiburon, active in many community endeavors, now heads the women's association.

The wife of J. Benton Bostick, an insurance executive, Beverly is the mother of three children — John, 20, Arla, 18, and Ralph, 15. The family has lived in Marin since 1949.

Beverly received both her bachelor and master degrees from Mills College, with zoology as her major field. An alumna who has served her college well, the Tiburon woman has been president of the Mills College Alumnae Assn., regional governor of the Mills Alumnae Assn., as well as president of the Marin Mills Alumnae. She is a former president of the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club, a former director of the Brownie Day Camp, and has been neighborhood chairman for the Girl Scouts.

Since the Westminster Presbyterian Church was opened in Tiburon seven years ago, Mrs. Bostick has been active in its affairs. She has served as an elder of the church, as chairman of the Christian education commission, and is now the editor of the monthly newsletter. In addition she has been a leader in the women's association, and, as program chairman, initiated the "What Woman Are You?" lecture series now in its second year.

The purposes of the United Presbyterian Churchwomen she describes as "service, study and fellowship." During the next year these goals will be pursued in such projects as support of the Babyfold Mission in Korea, assistance to the Arizona Indian Mission, the San Francisco Presbyterian Seminary in San Anselmo and other Presbyterian projects, and in programs dealing with vital social problems.

All interested women are welcome to membership in the group, and all women in the community are invited to attend the programs sponsored by the group, according to the newly elected president.

Officers named to the incoming board are Mesdames Hugh Laymon, vice president; G. Paul Gray, secretary; George Mellinger, treasurer; William Cording, fellowship chairman; Frank Macdonald, world service chairman; Vernon Libby, program chairman; Milton Stannard Jr. and Hugh Laymon, Salvage Shop representatives.

Do Women Select Clothes To Please 'Girl Watchers'? Maybe

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Men, or at least the red-blooded, enthusiastic girl watcher kind—prefer to believe that women choose their clothes specifically to be ogled by the connoisseurs of femininity.

But are wardrobes created by American designers today for the hopefully watchable really worth looking at? Yes and No.

Four of the world's best known girl watchers recently slipped into the audience of a Fashion Group sponsored ready-to-wear show to ocular test this spring's style offerings for the American female.

There was Don Sauer, author of a handbook for girl-watching, whose scientific contribution to the art includes such classifications as High Stepping Hatbox Toter, Clock-watching Boss-ducker, Blue Jeaned Ranch-wrecker, and Rosy Cheeked Prom-hopper, all of which are self descriptive.

And there was chairman of the board of the now nationally organized American Society for Girl Watchers, hairy-chinned orchestra leader Skitch Henderson, as well as two other high ranking officers, Ray Bauer and Cop Collins.

AT THE END OF the 100-garment show when they at last laid down their score cards these truths were self-evident:

The most watchable woman's wardrobe from the masculine viewpoint is somewhat conservative in soft, touchable, non-patterned, pastel fabrics which are figure revealing but not too much so.

The most watchable models are curvy, with tummies tucked in, shoulders squared, and hair long and curly.

If men were in complete control of the women's apparel industry, change would be almost as gradual as it is currently in the menswear field.

Specifically, the testing committee offered its stamp of approval generally to sheaths; A-lines; sportswear with tailored (but not boyish) simplicity; pleated skirts, smock dresses in soft fabrics and for evening floaty chiffons.

THE CONDEMNED as "too suggestive" a halter necklined dress by Rudi Gernreich. They rejected horizontal striped Max Sennett bathing suits as attention-demanding but too kooky to be pleasing to men. They, in fact, were negative about stripes combined with checks as well as vivid art nouveau prints: indeed anything that insists upon being seen.

Slithering females in seemingly congealed gowns of twinkling sequins and sparkling beads were dubbed "good to look at but with the warning that you must not touch."

The critical jury did not agree among themselves about skirt lengths. Skitch Henderson approved of more knee show than the other three men. Some men applauded the clear plastic raincoats for their purity in line, objectively ignoring the fact that they could see bikini-clad figures of the models underneath. A few saved their handclapping for misty rainwear that clouded the view a little anyway.

If a designer of a sexy sequinned bra-top and a hip-slung skirt thought he had the male vote, he was mistaken entirely. The girl watchers also turned eyes down on bell bottom pants, all except Cop Collins whose objectivity was tampered by a teen-age daughter. And chintz hostess pajamas were tagged "too chintzy."

FRANKLY, THE highly skilled observers of the female sex were delighted over their disagreements. Divergency of opinion about fashion, they conceded, is just as healthy as divergence of opinion about women.

Moreover, even though most of the male girl watchers would consciously put the brakes on the trend toward far-out fashions for women, they not at all subconsciously wish that their own designers would be at least a little more adventurous so that they would have at least a little more variety from which to choose.

WED AT ST. SYLVESTER'S CHURCH in San Rafael on Dec. 18 were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Eugene Henry who are making their home in San Jose. The bride is the former Judith Helen Easton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Stanton Zollner of San Rafael. (Faulkner photo)

Miss Cassidy Is Bride At Chapel Rite

The Rev. Russell Knoebel performed the double ring ceremony.

Karen Falk of San Rafael was maid of honor wearing a floor length Empire sheath gown of emerald green chiffon. The bridesmaids, Judi Stevens and Andrena Ruzick, sister of the bridegroom, both of Novato and Elena Green of San Rafael wore matching gowns. Carrie Tavoni of Novato was flower girl.

Serving as best man for the bridegroom, the son of Mrs. Steve Ruzick and the late Mr. Ruzick of Novato, was Dennis McCormick of Oakland. Ushers were Arthur Cherry of Oakland and John Cook and Larry Hale of Novato.

A reception was held at Hamilton Air Force Base Officers Club preceding the couple's wedding trip to Santa Cruz and Carmel. They will reside in Novato.

The bride was graduated from Great Falls High School in Montana and completed a course at the John Powers Modeling School. She is employed at Sumitomo Shoji New York, Inc., in San Francisco.

The bridegroom was graduated from Novato High School and is attending College of Marin. He is employed by R. L. Jack, contractor, and is a member of the Novato Volunteer Fire Department. Robert is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. William Fetesoff of San Francisco.

Chinese Umbrellas A Symbol Of Rank

First recorded use of umbrellas comes from ancient China, as early as 2,000 B. C., a manufacturing corporation reports.

Later, the Chinese used umbrellas as a symbol of rank — by their color, material, design and number. For example, a procession of 24 umbrellas always marked the emperor's appearance.

Founding Member Heads Westminster Church Unit

One of the founding members of the United Presbyterian Women of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, Tiburon, has been named president of the organization. Mrs. J. Benton Bostick of Tiburon, active in many community endeavors, now heads the women's association.

The wife of J. Benton Bostick, an insurance executive, Beverly is the mother of three children — John, 20, Arla, 18, and Ralph, 15. The family has lived in Marin since 1949.

Beverly received both her bachelor and master degrees from Mills College, with zoology as her major field. An alumna who has served her college well, the Tiburon woman has been president of the Mills College Alumnae Assn., regional governor of the Mills Alumnae Assn., as well as president of the Marin Mills Alumnae. She is a former president of the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club, a former director of the Brownie Day Camp, and has been neighborhood chairman for the Girl Scouts.

Since the Westminster Presbyterian Church was opened in Tiburon seven years ago, Mrs. Bostick has been active in its affairs. She has served as an elder of the church, as chairman of the Christian education commission, and is now the editor of the monthly newsletter. In addition she has been a leader in the women's association, and, as program chairman, initiated the "What Woman Are You?" lecture series now in its second year.

CLOSING PERFORMANCE AT FESTIVAL THEATER

Cast members Margaret Lee of Mill Valley and Marjorie Broughton of Corte Madera review a score in preparation for the final three Festival Theater performances of Thornton Wilder's play, "The Long Christmas Dinner," and the operatic adaptation of it by Paul Hindemith. Last presentations of the play and opera will be Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. and Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

San Geronimo Fire Kills Nine Pet Cats

Fire did $5,000 damage and suffocated nine Siamese cats in a San Geronimo home last night.

County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom said the blaze was reported at 11:31 p.m. in the home of Irene Phelps, at San Geronimo Valley and Creamery roads. It gutted the kitchen, burning through the roof at one place, and did smoke damage throughout the old five-room frame house.

Mrs. Phelps had left for work at Sonoma State Hospital before the fire started. She lived alone with the nine cats.

Bloom said Mrs. Phelps had stoked a trash burner in an old gas stove with compressed wood logs and the intense heat from that fire overheated a metal vent pipe, setting fire to the wall above the stove.

The fire was still burning in the stove after firemen had put out the house blaze, Bloom reported.

A neighbor, Rosemary Villa, turned in the alarm when she saw flames coming from the side of the house as she walked out of the Oak Tree Inn.

Firemen, after putting out the fire, discovered one cat dead in the front room, another in the bathroom, and seven in the bedroom. All had died of suffocation, according to Bloom.

Novato Man Arrested In Beating

A Novato man, awaiting trial on a charge of resisting arrest after he reportedly fought with three police officers in October, was back in county jail today, charged with the felony beating of his wife.

John Douglas Smith, 33, of 1117 Second Street, Novato, was arrested at his home at 7:35 p.m. yesterday after his wife, Francis, 32, was treated at Novato General Hospital for cuts and bruises on her head and body.

Mrs. Smith told police that her husband returned home intoxicated yesterday afternoon and beat her with his fists. She said that at one point he tried to strangle her, saying he was going to kill her, police reported.

Smith on Oct. 30 reportedly fought with three Novato police officers, injuring one, when they attempted to arrest him for driving through a red light.

He was held today in lieu of $2,500 bail.

Novato Aide Explains Road Work Delay

Rainy weather and a holdup in taking over adjacent property is blamed by Lawrence A. Coleman, director of public works for the City of Novato, for the delay in surfacing Center Road.

Yesterday, he assured residents who live along the road between Tamalpais Avenue and Sutton School that the city and the contractor will do everything possible to keep the highway passable.

The first delay came, he said, when the city had to conform to a new state law and wait 21 days before taking over property necessary to complete storm drainage work.

Then, just as the contractor had laid a base, it rained and motorists, ignoring signs that the street was no longer a through road, turned it into "a sea of mud," said Coleman.

An additional delay came when there was some relocation necessary on utility facilities, he said.

California vineyards comprise 80 per cent of the total in the United States.

Station Wagon Hits Trucks; Driver Dies

OAKLAND (AP) — A station wagon collided with three trucks on the San Francisco - Oakland Bay Bridge last night, killing Gerald C. Williamson, 26, of Daly City.

Williamsons' car bounced off the rear, then the front of a truck driven by Albert Drocco of Daly City and then rammed into the rear of two other trucks.

Savings-Loan Firm Raises Interest Rate

Competition among banks in raising interest payments on time deposits has brought a Marin County savings and loan firm into the act.

Ross Valley Savings and Loan Assn., San Anselmo, has notified its depositors of two plans to supplement the maximum base rate of 4.85 per cent which savings and loan companies are permitted to pay on savings accounts by the Home Loan Bank Board.

This base rate has recently been topped by some banks increasing interest on certificates of deposit to 5 per cent and 5 and one-half per cent.

Ross Valley's first plan calls for sale of prepaid investment certificates maturing in six months. The association is offering certificates with a face value of $5,000 at a purchase price of $4,875. Certiifcates of $10,000 are offered for $9,750. The annual yield obtained amounts to 5.128 per cent. John A. Zandstra, Ross Valley treasurer and controller, said both certificates are protected by federal deposit insurance.

Plan number two sets forth another type of investment certificate with a minimum term of three years before maturity. It carries a "bonus" of one-half of one per cent over the base interest rate payable at the end of the three-year term.

If regular interest is withdrawn quarterly the annual yield is 5.72 per cent per annum. Certificates are issued in minimum amounts of $5,000 and in multiples of $1,000 over that figure.

Zandstra said both plans have been approved by the state savings and loan commissioner. Ross Valley is the first to confirm the use of them in Marin County, but Golden State Savings and Loan Assn., Oakland, has announced it will compound interest continuously on savings accounts in order to increase the return, and Security Savings and Loan, San Jose, is said to have adopted a form of investment certificate.

Similar plans have been available to savings and loan firms in the past, but until recently no one has used them, Zandstra said.

Saturday—Recreation for the handicapped, 10 a.m.

Youth Hears Credit Card Use Charge

Marc T. Ford, 18, of Sausalito, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on two counts of felony use of stolen credit cards.

Judge Peter Allen Smith then continued the case until this afternoon for further proceedings. No complain was issued against Brian A. Baeszler, 18, according to Deputy Dist. Atty. Gary Thomas.

Baeszler, of 2 Lyman Lane, Mill Valley, and Ford were arrested by San Rafael police early yesterday after a credit card allegedly stolen from the Princess Garden Shop, 28 Princess Street, Sausalito, was used to purchase four new tires at a Standard Oil service station at Fourth and H Streets, San Rafael.

Ford, who remained in county jail today in lieu of $,2750 bail, is charged with use of that credit card, and with using a stolen Bank of America credit card to obtain merchandise in San Rafael on Dec. 24.

Baeszler was released yesterday.

Fine Arts Events Advisors Named

A San Francisco man and 11 Marin County residents have been named to a College of Marin citizens committee to plan fine arts events at the college, according to Dr. Roy G. Mikalson, dean of the evening college and community services.

Named to the committee, which is now planning a Feb. 5 appearance by the San Francisco Symphony at the Kentfield campus, were:

Jock MacRae of San Francisco, a member of San Anselmo's Festival Theater company; Clinton Lewis of San Rafael, Robert Morrison of Ross, Max Thelen Jr. of San Rafael, Barry Mineah of San Rafael, Hugo Rinaldi of San Rafael, Mrs. Winifred Baker of San Rafael, Mrs. Kitty Oppenheimer of Kentfield, Clinton DeLap of San Rafael, Mrs. Harrison Leppo of Mill Valley, Mrs. Carl G. Brown Jr. of Ross, and Mrs. Maybelle Speckmann of Mill Valley.

Marin Youths Enlist In Navy

Enlisting for four years were Henry C. Bowman Jr., 18, 804 E Street, San Rafael; William G. Dougherty, 20, of 2211 Center Road, Novato; and Michael Halkovich, 19, of 705 Cherry Street, Novato.

Signing up for three-year enlistments were John R. Hoag, 18, of 224 Van Tassel Court, San Anselmo, and Kenneth W. Winsor II, 19, of 127 San Carlos Avenue, Sausalito.

All will spend eight weeks in recruit training in San Diego.

Novato Highway Limit To Change

A new 45-mph speed limit is being established along U.S. Highway 101 in Novato between Olive Avenue and just north of Atherton Avenue, the State Division of Highways announced today.

The new zone will apply to both directions of traffic. Speed limit on the stretch has been 50 miles per hour in the southbound lanes, and 35 miles per hour for part of the distance in northbound lanes.

The Division of Highways made an engineering and traffic study of the section at request of the City of Novato. The recommendation for reduced speed was concurred in by the California Highway Patrol.

The new speed limit will be effective with the posting of signs, probably within a few weeks.

Officer Found Dead In Home

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A rookie San Francisco police officer with four captain's commendations to his credit apparently committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself.

Police said the body of Ralph Otis Bohn, 25, was found on a bed in his home by his wife, Carolyn.

A small pistol was beside him. He left no notes.

Police said the couple had separated recently and Mrs. Bohn lived in an apartment in Daly City.

Jewels, Money Go With Garbage

NEW YORK (UPI) — The sweet smell of success failed to come to Mrs. Kwan Lee and nine friends and relatives yesterday.

After searching unsuccessfully for two days in the acres-large Staten Island Garbage Dump, Mrs. Lee called off the hunt for a brown paper bag containing $6,700 in jewels and money which her son unknowingly threw out with the rest of their garbage Saturday.

Mrs. Lee, fearing burglars might enter her apartment, had hidden the bag in her kitchen garbage pail when she went out to visit a friend.

Driver Suffers Cut When Car Hits Rail

William H. Anderson, 42, of 725 Sun Lane, Novato, was cut above his left eye when his car crashed into a guard rail on Highway 101 on Puerto Suello Hill, San Rafael, at 4 p.m. yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol said Anderson was northbound and had just switched to the fast lane when his car skidded. He was to see his own physician.

Freeway Collisions Dent 13 Vehicles

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A 13-car pileup on the Roseville Freeway last night resulted in minor injuries to nine persons and a mammoth traffic jam, highway patrolmen said today.

Officers said it apparently all started when one car slowed for traffic ahead of it. Another car skidded into the first on the rain-slick freeway and set off the chain of rear-end collisions.

Burglar Takes TV, Record Player

Loss of a $200 television set and a record player worth $50 in burglary of the apartment of L. C. Crowell, 6017 Redwood Highway, Ignacio, was reported today by sheriff's deputies.

Crowell told officers entry was by breaking a living room window last night or early today.

Side Curtains Gone

Boun Hee Kang of 82 Southern Heights Boulevard, San Rafael, complained to Tiburon sheriff's deputies that two side curtains were stolen from his 1962 MGA sports car parked on Juanita Lane in Tiburon between 2:30 p.m. yesterday and 12:30 a.m. today.

CLOSING PERFORMANCE AT FESTIVAL THEATER

Cast members Margaret Lee of Mill Valley and Marjorie Broughton of Corte Madera review a score in preparation for the final three Festival Theater performances of Thornton Wilder's play, "The Long Christmas Dinner," and the operatic adaptation of it by Paul Hindemith. Last presentations of the play and opera will be Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. and Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

San Geronimo Fire Kills Nine Pet Cats

Fire did $5,000 damage and suffocated nine Siamese cats in a San Geronimo home last night.

County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom said the blaze was reported at 11:31 p.m. in the home of Irene Phelps, at San Geronimo Valley and Creamery roads. It gutted the kitchen, burning through the roof at one place, and did smoke damage throughout the old five-room frame house.

Mrs. Phelps had left for work at Sonoma State Hospital before the fire started. She lived alone with the nine cats.

Bloom said Mrs. Phelps had stoked a trash burner in an old gas stove with compressed wood logs and the intense heat from that fire overheated a metal vent pipe, setting fire to the wall above the stove.

The fire was still burning in the stove after firemen had put out the house blaze, Bloom reported.

A neighbor, Rosemary Villa, turned in the alarm when she saw flames coming from the side of the house as she walked out of the Oak Tree Inn.

Firemen, after putting out the fire, discovered one cat dead in the front room, another in the bathroom, and seven in the bedroom. All had died of suffocation, according to Bloom.

Novato Aide Explains Road Work Delay

Rainy weather and a holdup in taking over adjacent property is blamed by Lawrence A. Coleman, director of public works for the City of Novato, for the delay in surfacing Center Road.

Yesterday, he assured residents who live along the road between Tamalpais Avenue and Sutton School that the city and the contractor will do everything possible to keep the highway passable.

The first delay came, he said, when the city had to conform to a new state law and wait 21 days before taking over property necessary to complete storm drainage work.

Then, just as the contractor had laid a base, it rained and motorists, ignoring signs that the street was no longer a through road, turned it into "a sea of mud," said Coleman.

An additional delay came when there was some relocation necessary on utility facilities, he said.

California vineyards comprise 80 per cent of the total in the United States.

Station Wagon Hits Trucks; Driver Dies

OAKLAND (AP) — A station wagon collided with three trucks on the San Francisco - Oakland Bay Bridge last night, killing Gerald C. Williamson, 26, of Daly City.

Williamsons' car bounced off the rear, then the front of a truck driven by Albert Drocco of Daly City and then rammed into the rear of two other trucks.

Novato Man Arrested In Beating

A Novato man, awaiting trial on a charge of resisting arrest after he reportedly fought with three police officers in October, was back in county jail today, charged with the felony beating of his wife.

John Douglas Smith, 33, of 1117 Second Street, Novato, was arrested at his home at 7:35 p.m. yesterday after his wife, Francis, 32, was treated at Novato General Hospital for cuts and bruises on her head and body.

Mrs. Smith told police that her husband returned home intoxicated yesterday afternoon and beat her with his fists. She said that at one point he tried to strangle her, saying he was going to kill her, police reported.

Smith on Oct. 30 reportedly fought with three Novato police officers, injuring one, when they attempted to arrest him for driving through a red light.

He was held today in lieu of $2,500 bail.

Jewels, Money Go With Garbage

NEW YORK (UPI) — The sweet smell of success failed to come to Mrs. Kwan Lee and nine friends and relatives yesterday.

After searching unsuccessfully for two days in the acres-large Staten Island Garbage Dump, Mrs. Lee called off the hunt for a brown paper bag containing $6,700 in jewels and money which her son unknowingly threw out with the rest of their garbage Saturday.

Mrs. Lee, fearing burglars might enter her apartment, had hidden the bag in her kitchen garbage pail when she went out to visit a friend.

Savings-Loan Firm Raises Interest Rate

Competition among banks in raising interest payments on time deposits has brought a Marin County savings and loan firm into the act.

Ross Valley Savings and Loan Assn., San Anselmo, has notified its depositors of two plans to supplement the maximum base rate of 4.85 per cent which savings and loan companies are permitted to pay on savings accounts by the Home Loan Bank Board.

This base rate has recently been topped by some banks increasing interest on certificates of deposit to 5 per cent and 5 and one-half per cent.

Ross Valley's first plan calls for sale of prepaid investment certificates maturing in six months. The association is offering certificates with a face value of $5,000 at a purchase price of $4,875. Certiifcates of $10,000 are offered for $9,750. The annual yield obtained amounts to 5.128 per cent. John A. Zandstra, Ross Valley treasurer and controller, said both certificates are protected by federal deposit insurance.

Plan number two sets forth another type of investment certificate with a minimum term of three years before maturity. It carries a "bonus" of one-half of one per cent over the base interest rate payable at the end of the three-year term.

If regular interest is withdrawn quarterly the annual yield is 5.72 per cent per annum. Certificates are issued in minimum amounts of $5,000 and in multiples of $1,000 over that figure.

Zandstra said both plans have been approved by the state savings and loan commissioner. Ross Valley is the first to confirm the use of them in Marin County, but Golden State Savings and Loan Assn., Oakland, has announced it will compound interest continuously on savings accounts in order to increase the return, and Security Savings and Loan, San Jose, is said to have adopted a form of investment certificate.

Similar plans have been available to savings and loan firms in the past, but until recently no one has used them, Zandstra said.

Terra Linda Offers More Rec Classes

Saturday—Recreation for the handicapped, 10 a.m.

Youth Hears Credit Card Use Charge

Marc T. Ford, 18, of Sausalito, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on two counts of felony use of stolen credit cards.

Judge Peter Allen Smith then continued the case until this afternoon for further proceedings. No complain was issued against Brian A. Baeszler, 18, according to Deputy Dist. Atty. Gary Thomas.

Baeszler, of 2 Lyman Lane, Mill Valley, and Ford were arrested by San Rafael police early yesterday after a credit card allegedly stolen from the Princess Garden Shop, 28 Princess Street, Sausalito, was used to purchase four new tires at a Standard Oil service station at Fourth and H Streets, San Rafael.

Ford, who remained in county jail today in lieu of $,2750 bail, is charged with use of that credit card, and with using a stolen Bank of America credit card to obtain merchandise in San Rafael on Dec. 24.

Baeszler was released yesterday.

Officer Found Dead In Home

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A rookie San Francisco police officer with four captain's commendations to his credit apparently committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself.

Police said the body of Ralph Otis Bohn, 25, was found on a bed in his home by his wife, Carolyn.

A small pistol was beside him. He left no notes.

Police said the couple had separated recently and Mrs. Bohn lived in an apartment in Daly City.

Driver Suffers Cut When Car Hits Rail

William H. Anderson, 42, of 725 Sun Lane, Novato, was cut above his left eye when his car crashed into a guard rail on Highway 101 on Puerto Suello Hill, San Rafael, at 4 p.m. yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol said Anderson was northbound and had just switched to the fast lane when his car skidded. He was to see his own physician.

Fine Arts Events Advisors Named

A San Francisco man and 11 Marin County residents have been named to a College of Marin citizens committee to plan fine arts events at the college, according to Dr. Roy G. Mikalson, dean of the evening college and community services.

Named to the committee, which is now planning a Feb. 5 appearance by the San Francisco Symphony at the Kentfield campus, were:

Jock MacRae of San Francisco, a member of San Anselmo's Festival Theater company; Clinton Lewis of San Rafael, Robert Morrison of Ross, Max Thelen Jr. of San Rafael, Barry Mineah of San Rafael, Hugo Rinaldi of San Rafael, Mrs. Winifred Baker of San Rafael, Mrs. Kitty Oppenheimer of Kentfield, Clinton DeLap of San Rafael, Mrs. Harrison Leppo of Mill Valley, Mrs. Carl G. Brown Jr. of Ross, and Mrs. Maybelle Speckmann of Mill Valley.

Freeway Collisions Dent 13 Vehicles

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A 13-car pileup on the Roseville Freeway last night resulted in minor injuries to nine persons and a mammoth traffic jam, highway patrolmen said today.

Officers said it apparently all started when one car slowed for traffic ahead of it. Another car skidded into the first on the rain-slick freeway and set off the chain of rear-end collisions.

Side Curtains Gone

Boun Hee Kang of 82 Southern Heights Boulevard, San Rafael, complained to Tiburon sheriff's deputies that two side curtains were stolen from his 1962 MGA sports car parked on Juanita Lane in Tiburon between 2:30 p.m. yesterday and 12:30 a.m. today.

Burglar Takes TV, Record Player

Loss of a $200 television set and a record player worth $50 in burglary of the apartment of L. C. Crowell, 6017 Redwood Highway, Ignacio, was reported today by sheriff's deputies.

Crowell told officers entry was by breaking a living room window last night or early today.

Richard A. Secrist is president of Life Underwriters Assn. of Marin.

Novato Highway Limit To Change

A new 45-mph speed limit is being established along U.S. Highway 101 in Novato between Olive Avenue and just north of Atherton Avenue, the State Division of Highways announced today.

The new zone will apply to both directions of traffic. Speed limit on the stretch has been 50 miles per hour in the southbound lanes, and 35 miles per hour for part of the distance in northbound lanes.

The Division of Highways made an engineering and traffic study of the section at request of the City of Novato. The recommendation for reduced speed was concurred in by the California Highway Patrol.

The new speed limit will be effective with the posting of signs, probably within a few weeks.

Marin Youths Enlist In Navy

Enlisting for four years were Henry C. Bowman Jr., 18, 804 E Street, San Rafael; William G. Dougherty, 20, of 2211 Center Road, Novato; and Michael Halkovich, 19, of 705 Cherry Street, Novato.

Signing up for three-year enlistments were John R. Hoag, 18, of 224 Van Tassel Court, San Anselmo, and Kenneth W. Winsor II, 19, of 127 San Carlos Avenue, Sausalito.

All will spend eight weeks in recruit training in San Diego.

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Frenchman Publishes New Book Of Remarkable Bridge Hands

If you still remember about the plume of your tante you can spend a few enjoyable hours reading fine bridge hands in French.

Roger Trezel, winner of three world championships and many French national championships, has just brought out a new collection of hands.

Opening lead — ◇ K

This is a way of saying that you must deliberately trump your partner's ace twice to make your contract.

HOW IT HAPPENS

You win ind ummy with the ten of spades and lead the ten of hearts for a finesse.

When this wins, you lead dummy's other heart to repeat the finesse.

West discards a club, and you see that you cannot capture the king of trumps by normal means.

If you lead dummy's high clubs, East will simply discard.

You will soon be forced to trump and you will have to lead trumps out of your hand for lack of any other cards to lead.

East will get his king, and you will be down one.

TRUMP COUP

To avoid this you must deliberately waste two of your trumps. Lead a club to dummy's jack and ruff dummy's ace of clubs.

Lead the jack of spades to dummy's queen and ruff dummy's king of clubs. (You can't ruff the ace of clubs twice, but ruffing the king is almost as spectacular.)

Now lead the king of spades to dummy's ace, and the stage is set. The lead is in dummy, and all hands are reduced to two cards.

East has K-7 of trumps and you have A-Q.

No matter what you lead from dummy, East must ruff. You overruff and capture the king of trumps, making your contract and bowing to the mad cheers of the village maidens.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one club, and htenext player passes.

You hold:

♠ 9 6 3
♥ 4
♣ 9 7 4 3 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one diamond.

Show your strong suit first and support partner's clubs later.

Doctors Get Order

NEW DELHI (AP) — The government plans to relax its restrictions which have prevented medical graduates from going abroad for higher studies, but the students will be required to serve the government for three years on their return.

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, Dec. 30, the 364th day of 1965 with one to follow.

The moon is in its first quarter; the morning star is Jupiter; the evening stars are Venus, Mars, Saturn and Jupiter.

In 1853, the U.S. purchased the land south of the Gila River in southern Arizona and New Mexico, a deal known as the "Gadsen" purchase.

In 1903, more than 585 persons were killed in a fire in the Iroquois Theatre in Chicago.

In 1947, King Michael of Romania abdicated, claiming he was forced out by local Communists aided by the Russians.

In 1959, President Eisenhower called off the ban on U.S. nuclear tests.

A thought for the day—American writer Ernest Hemingway said: "Prose is architecture, not interior decoration, and the baroque is over."

It is estimated that each year more than 25,000 drivers participate in various types of automobile races in the United States.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Frenchman Publishes New Book Of Remarkable Bridge Hands

If you still remember about the plume of your tante you can spend a few enjoyable hours reading fine bridge hands in French.

Roger Trezel, winner of three world championships and many French national championships, has just brought out a new collection of hands.

Opening lead — ◇ K

This is a way of saying that you must deliberately trump your partner's ace twice to make your contract.

HOW IT HAPPENS

You win ind ummy with the ten of spades and lead the ten of hearts for a finesse.

When this wins, you lead dummy's other heart to repeat the finesse.

West discards a club, and you see that you cannot capture the king of trumps by normal means.

If you lead dummy's high clubs, East will simply discard.

You will soon be forced to trump and you will have to lead trumps out of your hand for lack of any other cards to lead.

East will get his king, and you will be down one.

TRUMP COUP

To avoid this you must deliberately waste two of your trumps. Lead a club to dummy's jack and ruff dummy's ace of clubs.

Lead the jack of spades to dummy's queen and ruff dummy's king of clubs. (You can't ruff the ace of clubs twice, but ruffing the king is almost as spectacular.)

Now lead the king of spades to dummy's ace, and the stage is set. The lead is in dummy, and all hands are reduced to two cards.

East has K-7 of trumps and you have A-Q.

No matter what you lead from dummy, East must ruff. You overruff and capture the king of trumps, making your contract and bowing to the mad cheers of the village maidens.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one club, and htenext player passes.

You hold:

♠ 9 6 3
♥ 4
♦ A K Q 4
♣ 9 7 4 3 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one diamond.

Show your strong suit first and support partner's clubs later.

Doctors Get Order

NEW DELHI (AP) — The government plans to relax its restrictions which have prevented medical graduates from going abroad for higher studies, but the students will be required to serve the government for three years on their return.

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, Dec. 30, the 364th day of 1965 with one to follow.

The moon is in its first quarter; the morning star is Jupiter; the evening stars are Venus, Mars, Saturn and Jupiter.

In 1853, the U.S. purchased the land south of the Gila River in southern Arizona and New Mexico, a deal known as the "Gadsen" purchase.

In 1903, more than 585 persons were killed in a fire in the Iroquois Theatre in Chicago.

In 1947, King Michael of Romania abdicated, claiming he was forced out by local Communists aided by the Russians.

In 1959, President Eisenhower called off the ban on U.S. nuclear tests.

A thought for the day—American writer Ernest Hemingway said: "Prose is architecture, not interior decoration, and the baroque is over."

It is estimated that each year more than 25,000 drivers participate in various types of automobile races in the United States.

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey, Western District headquarters. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

Why Buy a New Eichler
when you can pay the same amount for this one year old beauty with all the improvements? Including $3,000 in landscaping and $1500 in new carpeting & draperies. The popular 5 bedroom, Cathedral roof model. If you haven't at least looked at this home you'll probably spend more money for something less. $37,500. Eves ph. Mr. Gordon 479-5909.

Large Family?
This is for you! A "Marinwood" model that's had an extra bedroom and den added, making it 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, family room and separate dining room. Probably the nicest natural landscaping in the area with 3 huge oaks. . . and a secluded garden. Now locate this 2 blocks from grammar school, 1 block from Jr. High and 2 blocks to shopping and you've got the best buy in Marinwood.

VALUE?
A brand new 5 bedroom home completed just 4 months ago. The owners have had just enough time to install a sprinkler system, most of the landscaping and all fences. Inside, the custom draperies have been installed but the W/W carpet hasn't arrived so they'll hold off for a while. A large assumable 35 year F.H.A. loan puts this home in an easy to buy bracket with payments of $210 per month. Full price $34,950. Eves. ph. Mr. Kerns 479-3837.

Politicos Certain Of Brown Victory

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Seventy-six of California's top politicians, from both parties, see the 1966 gubernatorial election as strictly a two-man race between Gov. Edmund G. Brown and Republican Ronald Reagan, with Brown the easy winner by five lengths.

The Capitol News Service sent questionnaires to the 118 present members of the California Legisture (there are two vacancies). A total of 76 lawmakers returned their survey forms with most of the questions answered.

The legislators were told they need not sign their names, although a number did, so it's assumed that the 76 who returned the forms were representative as far as political parties go.

The questions were not whom they preferred for either the Democratic or Republican nomination or whom they preferred as the winner but rather who they thought would be the winner.

The Democratic primary was seen as no contest at all, with 71 legislators answering they expected Brown to be the nominee. Two felt Sam Yorty, Los Angeles mayor, would be the Democratic standard bearer.

While there was a bit more division of opinion as to the Republican nominee, 55 felt it would be Reagan. Next came George Christopher, former San Francisco mayor and twice an unsuccessful state-wide office seeker, with 13 votes. Two felt former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight would win the GOP nomination in June.

Four other Republicans received one mention each. These were Assemblyman Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, GOP floor leader in the Assembly; U.S. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., who already has announced he would not be a candidate; U. S. Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif.; and Warren Dorn, Los Angeles County supervisor.

While 73 of the 76 legislators had opinions on who would be the Democratic nominee after the June election and 74 had opinions on who the Republican candidate would be, only 66 had opinions on the outcome.

Of these, 48 felt Brown would be the winner. Nine felt Reagan would take the election and six thought Christopher could get the job done.

Kuchel, Murphy and Dorn were picked as the winners by one lawmaker each.

The CNS survey came at a time when there were no announced Democratic candidates for governor. Most feel it is a foregone conclusion that Brown will make known his plans to seek a third term sometime during January. If he tries and makes it, Brown would become only the second California governor to win three times in a row. The other was Earl Warren, now chief justice.

Yorty has been sounding like a candidate but a number of Democrats feel he will decline to run to prevent any further splits in the party which could mean a Republican victory.

In the Republican camp, only Christopher and Laughlin E. Waters, former U. S. attorney and assemblyman, are the only announced candidates. Reagan has scheduled a press conference for Jan. 4 in Los Angeles, with a television program to be shown in Redding, Sacramento, Salinas, San Diego, San Francisco, San Jose, San Luis Obispo and Santa Barbara on the same evening. It's presumed Reagan will announce his candidacy at that time.

Brown's schedule, as yet, shows no plans for any formal announcement dinner. Four years ago, the news was broken at a $100-a-plate dinner in San Francisco.

Most Democrats, including Brown, have indicated right along that they assumed Reagan would be his opponent and relished the idea. The governor's speeches of late have attempted to hang the Goldwater-conservative label on Reagan. Indications are that the Democrats would wage the same type of campaign against Reagan as was waged against Sen. Barry M. Goldwater in 1964—hitting hard, fast and sometimes misleadingly on such things as his opposition to Social Security, wanting war in Viet Nam, and opposing welfare.

Quite a number of Republicans share this view to the extent they feel Reagan has no more chance of winning in November against Brown than did Goldwater. While the party heads have called for unity and no infighting during the primary, a number of so-called moderate Republicans are battling to keep the nomination from Reagan, just as they sought to swing the presidential nomination to Gov. Nelson Rockefeller in June, 1964.

Other Republicans, however, are not so sure Reagan isn't the GOP's best bet. They fear Christopher and Knight both have two strikes against them—Christopher was defeated twice, once for U. S. senator and once for lieutenant governor; Knight was defeated for U.S. senator and, after announcing his candidacy for governor in 1962, later withdrew.

Some Republicans feel Reagan, like Senator Murphy, is known to everyone. He makes a good appearance and has never had any of the Hollywood-type gossip attached to his reputation.

They feel these same qualities for Murphy had a lot to do with his upset victory over Pierre Salinger in 1964 and could work similarly well for Reagan next November.

Robert Finch, former campaign manager for Richard M. Nixon, has announced he'll seek the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor; Spencer Williams, Santa Clara county counsel, will run for attorney general; and Ivy Baker Priest will run for state treasurer. No Democrats have announced candidacies for the other constitutional offices but it is assumed incumbents will all seek re-election.

Fire Damages Theater Props

A brief fire yesterday afternoon damaged some props, costumes and books stored by San Anselmo's Festival Theater in the attic of Geneva Hall at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

Fire Chief Frank Sousa said cause of the blaze was unknown. He estimated damage to the theater's property at $400. The attic has a cement floor, the chief said, and the building was not damaged.

A spokesman for Festival Theater today said that all equipment used in the theater's current production, "The Long Christmas Dinner," is stored at the theater at 2 Kensington Road, and the show will not be affected.

Youth Hurt As Car Hits Guard Rail

Robert B. Ford, 16, of Makin Grade and Upper Toyon Road, Ross, suffered minor injuries when the car his sister was driving skidded and hit a guard rail on the San Rafael viaduct of Highway 101 at 2 p.m. yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol said the northbound car, driven by Janet J. Ford, 21, of the same address, skidded when she braked to avoid hitting an animal on the road. Young Ford was treated for sore ribs and a bruised right ankle at San Rafael General Hospital.

Boy Bruised As Car Hits His Bicycle

Darrel Elder, 9, of Marin City, was treated for body bruises at Marin General Hospital yesterday after he was struck by a car while riding his bike in a heavy downpour of rain on Bridgeway near Gate One, Sausalito.

Police said the boy was hit by a car driven by Mrs. Lucille Hanson of 27 Caledonia Street, Sausalito, at about 10:45 a.m.

Ireland had one million people in 1670. By 1845 the population had swollen to eight million. When the potato crop failed in 1848, a million Irishmen starved to death; another million emigrated.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Growing Old Is Relative Thing, Happens In A Variety Of Ways

VAN DELLEN

Growing old is a relative process. The youngster regards anyone as ancient who has gray hair, baldness, wrinkles, crow's feet, or thick jowls. The individual who reaches this stage of life has different ideas, especially when active and young at heart. This may explain the popular saying that an old person is anyone 10 years older than yourself

People age at different rates. In addition, organs in the same individual deteriorate at varied degrees. A man of 60 may be as young as the average at 40, or as old as a man of 80. There are seven kinds of ages, according to Dr. C. Ward Crampton and the most familiar is the chronological age that represents the actual milestone.

THE ANATOMICAL age refers to the changes that occur at specific times of life. All cells, tissues, and organs grow, mature, and decline. Anatomic epochs include the appearance of the first tooth, puberty, gray hair, winkles, hardening of the arteries, shrinking of the kidneys and other alterations. All these changes herald a certain stage of development.

Physiological aging enters the picture when function of various tissues and organs wanes. Testing in this field is concerned with reaction time of the nervous system, diminution of vision and hearing, the menopause, decline of the sex glands, and loss of skin elasticity.

PSYCHOLOGICAL aging is concerned with how the person feels and acts. Many oldsters have made great contributions to science, industry, politics, and literature. Experience and a storehouse of knowledge compensate for declines in physical, mental, and sensory capacities.

Pathological aging stems from the injury done through repeated infections, strain, and dissipation. Damage of this nature can age a man 10 years or more. Conversely adequate treatment may add 10 years. The sixth and seventh forms of aging are statistical and hereditary. The latter is dependent upon our parents and grandparents; the members of some families are old at 50, regardless of living habits.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

VITAMINS

Mrs. B. writes: Does a bartender who has to drink with his customers need to take a lot of vitamins to keep going?

REPLY

Eating a balanced diet and taking vitamins will help to offset the bad effects of overindulgence regardless of which side of the bar you are standing on. I was always under the impression that good bartenders never drank.

DELUSIONAL ODORS

Mrs. Z. writes. My 78-year-old mother is always detecting odd odors which the rest of us cannot smell. Could this be due to hardening of the arteries in the head?

REPLY

Yes; this may be a symptom of senility or the aftermath of a small stroke.

POSTURE STRAIN

C. M. writes: When I stand for a long time I feel a tight sensation in the back of my knees, thighs, and calves of the legs. Do you think I could have rheumatism?

REPLY

Your discomfort is more likely to result from the strain than from rheumatism.

BIG BURP

Mrs. R. E. writes: Is it possible to rupture the diaphragm by belching real hard?

REPLY

No. Hiccup—not burping—involves the diaphragm.

BATHING AND WEIGHT

P. Q. writes: Will a daily bath keep a person thin?

REPLY

Only when the excess poundage is dirt.

SLEEP POSTURE

G. H. writes: Is it harmful to sleep with the arms above the head?

REPLY

No. Exceptions occur if this posture results in pressure that disturbs the circulation or causes tingling of the arms. This happens occasionally when the nerves or blood vessels leading to the upper extremities are pinched by muscles, tendons, or ligaments in the neck whenever the arms are held in the position mentioned.

BLOOD DONOR

B. R. writes: Soon after I donated blood I developed blackouts. Would replacing the blood solve my problem?

REPLY

Possibly. The blood is replaced within four to six weeks, and the blackouts should disappear if they are related to the donation.

ENLARGED LIVER

F. S. writes: Can enlargement of the liver be arrested?

REPLY

Yes, especially when the condition is due to inflammation or congestion secondary to heart trouble.

HAIR AND THYROID

S. E. writes: Will thyroid pills stop the hair from falling?

REPLY

Yes, if the hair loss is the result of a thyroid deficiency.

RESTRICTIONS

Politicos Certain Of Brown Victory

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Seventy-six of California's top politicians, from both parties, see the 1966 gubernatorial election as strictly a two-man race between Gov. Edmund G. Brown and Republican Ronald Reagan, with Brown the easy winner by five lengths.

The Capitol News Service sent questionnaires to the 118 present members of the California Legisture (there are two vacancies). A total of 76 lawmakers returned their survey forms with most of the questions answered.

The legislators were told they need not sign their names, although a number did, so it's assumed that the 76 who returned the forms were representative as far as political parties go.

The questions were not whom they preferred for either the Democratic or Republican nomination or whom they preferred as the winner but rather who they thought would be the winner.

The Democratic primary was seen as no contest at all, with 71 legislators answering they expected Brown to be the nominee. Two felt Sam Yorty, Los Angeles mayor, would be the Democratic standard bearer.

While there was a bit more division of opinion as to the Republican nominee, 55 felt it would be Reagan. Next came George Christopher, former San Francisco mayor and twice an unsuccessful state-wide office seeker, with 13 votes. Two felt former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight would win the GOP nomination in June.

Four other Republicans received one mention each. These were Assemblyman Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, GOP floor leader in the Assembly; U.S. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., who already has announced he would not be a candidate; U. S. Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif.; and Warren Dorn, Los Angeles County supervisor.

While 73 of the 76 legislators had opinions on who would be the Democratic nominee after the June election and 74 had opinions on who the Republican candidate would be, only 66 had opinions on the outcome.

Of these, 48 felt Brown would be the winner. Nine felt Reagan would take the election and six thought Christopher could get the job done.

Kuchel, Murphy and Dorn were picked as the winners by one lawmaker each.

The CNS survey came at a time when there were no announced Democratic candidates for governor. Most feel it is a foregone conclusion that Brown will make known his plans to seek a third term sometime during January. If he tries and makes it, Brown would become only the second California governor to win three times in a row. The other was Earl Warren, now chief justice.

Yorty has been sounding like a candidate but a number of Democrats feel he will decline to run to prevent any further splits in the party which could mean a Republican victory.

In the Republican camp, only Christopher and Laughlin E. Waters, former U. S. attorney and assemblyman, are the only announced candidates. Reagan has scheduled a press conference for Jan. 4 in Los Angeles, with a television program to be shown in Redding, Sacramento, Salinas, San Diego, San Francisco, San Jose, San Luis Obispo and Santa Barbara on the same evening. It's presumed Reagan will announce his candidacy at that time.

Brown's schedule, as yet, shows no plans for any formal announcement dinner. Four years ago, the news was broken at a $100-a-plate dinner in San Francisco.

Most Democrats, including Brown, have indicated right along that they assumed Reagan would be his opponent and relished the idea. The governor's speeches of late have attempted to hang the Goldwater-conservative label on Reagan. Indications are that the Democrats would wage the same type of campaign against Reagan as was waged against Sen. Barry M. Goldwater in 1964—hitting hard, fast and sometimes misleadingly on such things as his opposition to Social Security, wanting war in Viet Nam, and opposing welfare.

Quite a number of Republicans share this view to the extent they feel Reagan has no more chance of winning in November against Brown than did Goldwater. While the party heads have called for unity and no infighting during the primary, a number of so-called moderate Republicans are battling to keep the nomination from Reagan, just as they sought to swing the presidential nomination to Gov. Nelson Rockefeller in June, 1964.

Other Republicans, however, are not so sure Reagan isn't the GOP's best bet. They fear Christopher and Knight both have two strikes against them—Christopher was defeated twice, once for U. S. senator and once for lieutenant governor; Knight was defeated for U.S. senator and, after announcing his candidacy for governor in 1962, later withdrew.

Some Republicans feel Reagan, like Senator Murphy, is known to everyone. He makes a good appearance and has never had any of the Hollywood-type gossip attached to his reputation.

They feel these same qualities for Murphy had a lot to do with his upset victory over Pierre Salinger in 1964 and could work similarly well for Reagan next November.

Robert Finch, former campaign manager for Richard M. Nixon, has announced he'll seek the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor; Spencer Williams, Santa Clara county counsel, will run for attorney general; and Ivy Baker Priest will run for state treasurer. No Democrats have announced candidacies for the other constitutional offices but it is assumed incumbents will all seek re-election.

Fire Damages Theater Props

A brief fire yesterday afternoon damaged some props, costumes and books stored by San Anselmo's Festival Theater in the attic of Geneva Hall at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

Fire Chief Frank Sousa said cause of the blaze was unknown. He estimated damage to the theater's property at $400. The attic has a cement floor, the chief said, and the building was not damaged.

A spokesman for Festival Theater today said that all equipment used in the theater's current production, "The Long Christmas Dinner," is stored at the theater at 2 Kensington Road, and the show will not be affected.

Youth Hurt As Car Hits Guard Rail

Robert B. Ford, 16, of Makin Grade and Upper Toyon Road, Ross, suffered minor injuries when the car his sister was driving skidded and hit a guard rail on the San Rafael viaduct of Highway 101 at 2 p.m. yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol said the northbound car, driven by Janet J. Ford, 21, of the same address, skidded when she braked to avoid hitting an animal on the road. Young Ford was treated for sore ribs and a bruised right ankle at San Rafael General Hospital.

Boy Bruised As Car Hits His Bicycle

Darrel Elder, 9, of Marin City, was treated for body bruises at Marin General Hospital yesterday after he was struck by a car while riding his bike in a heavy downpour of rain on Bridgeway near Gate One, Sausalito.

Police said the boy was hit by a car driven by Mrs. Lucille Hanson of 27 Caledonia Street, Sausalito, at about 10:45 a.m.

Ireland had one million people in 1670. By 1845 the population had swollen to eight million. When the potato crop failed in 1848, a million Irishmen starved to death; another million emigrated.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

VAN DELLEN

Growing old is a relative process. The youngster regards anyone as ancient who has gray hair, baldness, wrinkles, crow's feet, or thick jowls. The individual who reaches this stage of life has different ideas, especially when active and young at heart. This may explain the popular saying that an old person is anyone 10 years older than yourself

People age at different rates. In addition, organs in the same individual deteriorate at varied degrees. A man of 60 may be as young as the average at 40, or as old as a man of 80. There are seven kinds of ages, according to Dr. C. Ward Crampton and the most familiar is the chronological age that represents the actual milestone.

THE ANATOMICAL age refers to the changes that occur at specific times of life. All cells, tissues, and organs grow, mature, and decline. Anatomic epochs include the appearance of the first tooth, puberty, gray hair, winkles, hardening of the arteries, shrinking of the kidneys and other alterations. All these changes herald a certain stage of development.

Physiological aging enters the picture when function of various tissues and organs wanes. Testing in this field is concerned with reaction time of the nervous system, diminution of vision and hearing, the menopause, decline of the sex glands, and loss of skin elasticity.

PSYCHOLOGICAL aging is concerned with how the person feels and acts. Many oldsters have made great contributions to science, industry, politics, and literature. Experience and a storehouse of knowledge compensate for declines in physical, mental, and sensory capacities.

Pathological aging stems from the injury done through repeated infections, strain, and dissipation. Damage of this nature can age a man 10 years or more. Conversely adequate treatment may add 10 years. The sixth and seventh forms of aging are statistical and hereditary. The latter is dependent upon our parents and grandparents; the members of some families are old at 50, regardless of living habits.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

VITAMINS

Mrs. B. writes: Does a bartender who has to drink with his customers need to take a lot of vitamins to keep going?

REPLY

Eating a balanced diet and taking vitamins will help to offset the bad effects of overindulgence regardless of which side of the bar you are standing on. I was always under the impression that good bartenders never drank.

DELUSIONAL ODORS

Mrs. Z. writes. My 78-year-old mother is always detecting odd odors which the rest of us cannot smell. Could this be due to hardening of the arteries in the head?

REPLY

Yes; this may be a symptom of senility or the aftermath of a small stroke.

POSTURE STRAIN

C. M. writes: When I stand for a long time I feel a tight sensation in the back of my knees, thighs, and calves of the legs. Do you think I could have rheumatism?

REPLY

Your discomfort is more likely to result from the strain than from rheumatism.

BIG BURP

Mrs. R. E. writes: Is it possible to rupture the diaphragm by belching real hard?

REPLY

No. Hiccup—not burping—involves the diaphragm.

BATHING AND WEIGHT

P. Q. writes: Will a daily bath keep a person thin?

REPLY

Only when the excess poundage is dirt.

SLEEP POSTURE

G. H. writes: Is it harmful to sleep with the arms above the head?

REPLY

No. Exceptions occur if this posture results in pressure that disturbs the circulation or causes tingling of the arms. This happens occasionally when the nerves or blood vessels leading to the upper extremities are pinched by muscles, tendons, or ligaments in the neck whenever the arms are held in the position mentioned.

BLOOD DONOR

B. R. writes: Soon after I donated blood I developed blackouts. Would replacing the blood solve my problem?

REPLY

Possibly. The blood is replaced within four to six weeks, and the blackouts should disappear if they are related to the donation.

ENLARGED LIVER

F. S. writes: Can enlargement of the liver be arrested?

REPLY

Yes, especially when the condition is due to inflammation or congestion secondary to heart trouble.

HAIR AND THYROID

S. E. writes: Will thyroid pills stop the hair from falling?

REPLY

Yes, if the hair loss is the result of a thyroid deficiency.

RESTRICTIONS

L. G. writes: Are cocktails harmful in diverticulitis?

REPLY

Not in moderation. On the other hand, many attacks of diverticulitis have been traced to overindulgence. Consequently, individuals who harbor these pockets in the colon should not drink unless they can limit themselves.

DENICOTINIZED

M. G. writes: How long after giving up cigarets will it take for the lungs to clear up? This person smoked a pack a day for five years.

REPLY

Cough disappears in three days to three years, depending upon the severity of the irritation.

MUSCLE STIFFNESS

M. A. writes: What would cause back pain when lying in a prone position on the floor?

REPLY

SHEEPSKIN

M. de M. writes: Where can a sheepskin be purchased?

REPLY

From a surgical supply house. It is used medically to prevent bed sores.

THYROID NODES

A. A. writes: What is nodular goiter?

REPLY

A thyroid gland that contains nodes, or tumors.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Divorce Comedy Is Badly Needed

By DICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Isn't it about time television got around to a good rousing situation comedy series about divorced couple?

I mean, if you're looking for a vast, untapped audience that wants contemporary realism, there it is.

CBS-TV's new "Trials of O'Brien" series has come pretty close to the target.

The best thing about the weekly show is the relationship of the flamboyant lawyer anti-hero (Peter Falk) and his ex-wife (Joanna Barnes).

The trouble is that "Trials of O'Brien" is so full of hokey, pretentious New Yorkese, scenery-chewing actors and plots that get in the way, that the charming divorce relationship is diluted in its effect.

"Trials of O'Brien" probably isn't long for television anyway, what with its very low ratings, but it seems to me that some genius at CBS-TV might pull off a coup by junking the doomed format as it now stands, and keeping Falk and Miss Barnes in their same roles in a brand new situation comedy about divorce.

Throw out their present one-hour weekly program length, cut it to half an hour and send my royalty checks special delivery.

I'm sure I'm right about all this. People are getting tired of secret agent spoofs and happy families. They want modern reality. Divorce.

To keep the teen-age television audience happy too, there could be a teen-aged divorced couple outsmarting their divorced elders.

You have to sense a trend. "Father Knows Best," Donna Reed, Ozzie and Harriet—all that stuff is out. Too unreal. People aren't really happy any more.

A few seasons back or sometime thereabouts, somebody thought widows would be a big thing for television—you know, with all the insurance statistics and all.

So, if memory serves me, Gertrude Berg had a shot at a series about a widow. And I think Loretta Young did too. Not a chance. What people really wanted to see was divorce.

There are a million ways this whole new trend could be handled. You couldn't use the old Jackie Gleason - Audrey Meadows "Honeymooners" love-hate relationship of man and wife because it was much too unfriendly for divorce, although just right for marraige.

A much better idea, for instance, would simply be to take the Dick Van Dyke series and make a few adjustments. As you know, or maybe you don't if you only read the important news in the papers, the Van Dykes series is ending this season.

What I would do is simply take the fictional married couple of Van Dyke and Mary Tyler Moore, have them get a divorce and bring them back in a new (or continuing) series. There's no reason they couldn't be happy and civilized about the whole thing. It would be a smash.

Texas Girl Is Cotton Queen

Nancy, a tall blonde from Lubbock, believes a lucky penny and a little blue stuffed elephant won her the job as the cotton industry's goodwill ambassador for the coming year.

Naturalist To Talk On Marin Seashore

Robert D. Barbee, ranger-naturalist at Point Reyes National Seashore, will speak on "a closer look at the national seashore" Jan. 14 at 8 p.m. in the supervisors chambers at the Civic Center. The talk is sponsored by the Marin Audubon Society.

The society will make two special field trips during January. On Jan. 16, bird watchers will meet at 8:30 a.m. at the Point Reyes Station grocery store to make a trip along the east shore of Tamales Bay. On Jan. 29, the society will meet in the Olney Hall parking lot of College of Marin at 7:30 a.m. to make a field trip to Tilden Park, Alameda County.

Siamese Twin Dies Following Separation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lisa Marie Mantonya, the smaller of Siamese twin girls born here Christmas Day, died this morning of peritonitis, a spokesman at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital said.

Lisa, who weighed 4 pounds, 15 ounces, was left without a colon after surgeons separated her from her twin, Sheila.

But both girls showed improvement following the separation until yesterday afternoon, when Lisa's condition began to deteriorate.

X-rays indicated she had suffered perforations of the intestine and she was rushed immediately to surgery, the hospital spokesman said.

After the operation, doctors said the infant was also suffering from peritonitis—an inflammation of tissues lining the abdominal cavity.

Rainmaker Must Warn Scientists

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Science Foundation wants to know about anybody who plans to fiddle around with the weather. Under a new federal order rainmakers and scientific experimenters can be fined up to $500 for failing to tell the agency of their operations.

The regulation goes into effect Jan. 1. It is aimed at improving the dissemination of information about weather modification and to prevent the contamination of areas where research is already going on.

Scientists Speed Decoding Of Genetic Cell Commands

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

BERKELEY (AP)—In a burst of success, scientists now have almost completely solved the fantastic genetic code of life itself.

And they find that nature put numerous safety valves — margins for error—in the way the code is copied so precisely to maintain life and produce new generations, from humans to bacteria.

This may be the reason why there are not so many genetic changes, of damaging kind, when the simple code is copied millions and billions of times.

One safety valve is the apparent fact that one essential life chemical can "wobble." This permits extra ways to recognize "letters" or "words" in the code.

Another is that the code has different ways of getting the same results in making life chemicals.

Complete understanding of further intricacies in the code could lead to practical measures for breeding or creating superior animals and plans, or perhaps even superior humans. This is still far off.

But the astounding recent progress — bearing out earlier predictions—is a long step. It was described last night to the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science by Dr. H. Gobind Khorana of the University of Wisconsin and Dr. Marshall Nirenberg of the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md.

The genetic code stores all the hereditary information for making a new human being. And the instructions for creating and nourishing all the different kind of cells in your body, like brain, skin and liver cells.

Like a simple Morse code of dots and dashes, all this in in a code—in a nucleic acid known as DNA—using only four chemical letters or bases.

But each of the millions of single "words" of instructions is found to be spelled with only three letters at a time. A long string of them gives certain instructions for carrying out life's complicated chemistry.

With different techniques, Drs. Khorana and Nirenberg succeeded in creating messengers, of RNA, that carry the master instructions from DNA into the cell. In turn, these pieces of RNA assemble collections of amino acids, the building units for proteins essential to life. Dr. Kohorana also has created synthetic DNA, but one containing limited amounts of information.

Both scientists find there are 64 "codons" or three-letter arrangements for making amino acids. But there are only 20 amino acids.

This means that one to four different codons can make the same amino acid, though it may have a slightly different biological activity. This is one safety valve in copying the code. There are "synonyms" for the same word.

Some codons, perhaps half a dozen, are "punctuation marks" which signal when a period has been reached in the coded messages.

Proteins are assembled from amino acids in the cell, through the work of transfer RNAs which read off the code.

The transfer RNAs hook up with messenger RNA bringing the code out from the DNA in the cell nucleus. They have three "letters" on them also, but the new work indicates they can "wobble."

That is, under certain circumstances, the third of the three letters on the transfer RNA need not always be the counterpart of the letter on the messenger. It can be the "wrong" letter, but still work. This provides more chance for the cell to function correctly, even if something had happened to the codon it was supposed to have.

A next step, said Dr. Khorana, is to try to make, artificially, long chains of DNA, and "genes," or even simple proteins, like insulin, using the code.

Numerous intricacies of all the control mechanism involved in reading out and acting upon the code remain to be solved, Dr. Nirenberg said.

But, in essence, the code of life is broken, is understood.

Unions Set To Recruit State's Farm Workers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A new attempt to organize California's farm workers will start in January, two labor unions say.

The independent Teamsters Union and the AFL-CIO Agricultural Workers Organizing Committee announced yesterday an organizing campaign aimed at citrus workers in Tulare County.

Men and women who pick oranges and lemons will be the target of the AFL-CIO organization. Men who drive produce to canneries will be the aim of the teamsters.

Both said they would work together as "closely as possible." The teamsters have been expelled from the AFL-CIO.

Already under way is a campaign to organize grape workers in the Delano area. That drive, by the AWOC and the independent National Farm Workers Assn., seeks recognition of the unions as bargaining agents for workers and a boost in pay. Workers now get $1.25 and hour and 10 cents a box. The unions say they should get $1.40 an hour and 25 cents a box.

Most of the 90,000 employed in the state's canneries and freezer plants belong to the teamsters, but most delivery drivers and field hands are non-union. The teamsters say they have set aside $5,000 a month for organization work in Tulare and other areas.

The citrus campaign is to start Jan. 5 with a rally at Strathmore, union leaders said.

Another union, the independent International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, refused Tuesday to handle a $20,000 grape shipment from Delano.

Longshoremen at Oakland's Howard Terminal refused to handle grapes intended for the steamer Bataan, headed for Scandinavia. They said policemen were hostile to them.

Longshoremen loaded other cargo yesterday but the nine carloads of grapes remained untouched in refrigerator trucks at dockside.

Police denied hostility and said they were observing picketing because of a court injunction forbidding pickets from interfering with grape shipments.

County Funds To Be Sought For Clinic

Marin County Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen will urge Tuesday that fellow supervisors approve $1,000 a month support to the Marin Institute of Alcoholism for six months.

In a letter to the board, Kettenhofen says that fees ($11 per month) of private patients have given the institute an average income of only $350 per week. The administrator has drawn a salary less than $3,000 a year.

Kettenhofen says county support could be considered as an advance on fees to be collected from county patients.

A new state program to go into effect next year will provide financial support for the institute, Kettenhofen says, so the county support would be only temporary.

Food Prices Fall In Bay Area

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Retail food prices in the San Francisco-Oakland metropolitan area fell 0.6 per cent between October and November, the U.S. Department of Labor announced today.

Max D. Kossoris, western regional director of the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, said the most significant change over the month was a 1.3 per cent decrease in the meats, poultry and fish group.

The decrease pared the bureau's food index to 110.7 (1957-59-100), but 2.7 per cent above November, 1964.

Board To Discuss Vacancy Policy

The Marin County Board of Education Monday will hold second reading of a policy on appointments to fill vacancies between elections on school boards.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. at the Civic Center.

The policy calls for holding names of candidates for appointment in confidence, even though the post to be filled is an elected office.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Divorce Comedy Is Badly Needed

By DICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Isn't it about time television got around to a good rousing situation comedy series about divorced couple?

I mean, if you're looking for a vast, untapped audience that wants contemporary realism, there it is.

CBS-TV's new "Trials of O'Brien" series has come pretty close to the target.

The best thing about the weekly show is the relationship of the flamboyant lawyer anti-hero (Peter Falk) and his ex-wife (Joanna Barnes).

The trouble is that "Trials of O'Brien" is so full of hokey, pretentious New Yorkese, scenery-chewing actors and plots that get in the way, that the charming divorce relationship is diluted in its effect.

"Trials of O'Brien" probably isn't long for television anyway, what with its very low ratings, but it seems to me that some genius at CBS-TV might pull off a coup by junking the doomed format as it now stands, and keeping Falk and Miss Barnes in their same roles in a brand new situation comedy about divorce.

Throw out their present one-hour weekly program length, cut it to half an hour and send my royalty checks special delivery.

I'm sure I'm right about all this. People are getting tired of secret agent spoofs and happy families. They want modern reality. Divorce.

To keep the teen-age television viewing audience happy too, there could be a teen-aged divorced couple outsmarting their divorced elders.

You have to sense a trend. "Father Knows Best," Donna Reed, Ozzie and Harriet—all that stuff is out. Too unreal. People aren't really happy any more.

A few seasons back or sometime thereabouts, somebody thought widows would be a big thing for television—you know, with all the insurance statistics and all.

So, if memory serves me, Gertrude Berg had a shot at a series about a widow. And I think Loretta Young did too. Not a chance. What people really wanted to see was divorce.

There are a million ways this whole new trend could be handled. You couldn't use the old Jackie Gleason - Audrey Meadows "Honeymooners" love-hate relationship of man and wife because it was much too unfriendly for divorce, although just right for marraige.

A much better idea, for instance, would simply be to take the Dick Van Dyke series and make a few adjustments. As you know, or maybe you don't if you only read the important news in the papers, the Van Dykes series is ending this season.

What I would do is simply take the fictional married couple of Van Dyke and Mary Tyler Moore, have them get a divorce and bring them back in a new (or continuing) series. There's no reason they couldn't be happy and civilized about the whole thing. It would be a smash.

Texas Girl Is Cotton Queen

Nancy, a tall blonde from Lubbock, believes a lucky penny and a little blue stuffed elephant won her the job as the cotton industry's goodwill ambassador for the coming year.

Naturalist To Talk On Marin Seashore

Robert D. Barbee, ranger-naturalist at Point Reyes National Seashore, will speak on "a closer look at the national seashore" Jan. 14 at 8 p.m. in the supervisors chambers at the Civic Center. The talk is sponsored by the Marin Audubon Society.

The society will make two special field trips during January. On Jan. 16, bird watchers will meet at 8:30 a.m. at the Point Reyes Station grocery store to make a trip along the east shore of Tamales Bay. On Jan. 29, the society will meet in the Olney Hall parking lot of College of Marin at 7:30 a.m. to make a field trip to Tilden Park, Alameda County.

Siamese Twin Dies Following Separation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lisa Marie Mantonya, the smaller of Siamese twin girls born here Christmas Day, died this morning of peritonitis, a spokesman at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital said.

Lisa, who weighed 4 pounds, 15 ounces, was left without a colon after surgeons separated her from her twin, Sheila.

But both girls showed improvement following the separation until yesterday afternoon, when Lisa's condition began to deteriorate.

X-rays indicated she had suffered perforations of the intestine and she was rushed immediately to surgery, the hospital spokesman said.

After the operation, doctors said the infant was also suffering from peritonitis—an inflammation of tissues lining the abdominal cavity.

Rainmaker Must Warn Scientists

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Science Foundation wants to know about anybody who plans to fiddle around with the weather. Under a new federal order rainmakers and scientific experimenters can be fined up to $500 for failing to tell the agency of their operations.

The regulation goes into effect Jan. 1. It is aimed at improving the dissemination of information about weather modification and to prevent the contamination of areas where research is already going on.

Scientists Speed Decoding Of Genetic Cell Commands

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

BERKELEY (AP)—In a burst of success, scientists now have almost completely solved the fantastic genetic code of life itself.

And they find that nature put numerous safety valves — margins for error—in the way the code is copied so precisely to maintain life and produce new generations, from humans to bacteria.

This may be the reason why there are not so many genetic changes, of damaging kind, when the simple code is copied millions and billions of times.

One safety valve is the apparent fact that one essential life chemical can "wobble." This permits extra ways to recognize "letters" or "words" in the code.

Another is that the code has different ways of getting the same results in making life chemicals.

Complete understanding of further intricacies in the code could lead to practical measures for breeding or creating superior animals and plans, or perhaps even superior humans. This is still far off.

But the astounding recent progress — bearing out earlier predictions—is a long step. It was described last night to the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science by Dr. H. Gobind Khorana of the University of Wisconsin and Dr. Marshall Nirenberg of the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md.

The genetic code stores all the hereditary information for making a new human being. And the instructions for creating and nourishing all the different kind of cells in your body, like brain, skin and liver cells.

Like a simple Morse code of dots and dashes, all this in in a code—in a nucleic acid known as DNA—using only four chemical letters or bases.

But each of the millions of single "words" of instructions is found to be spelled with only three letters at a time. A long string of them gives certain instructions for carrying out life's complicated chemistry.

With different techniques, Drs. Khorana and Nirenberg succeeded in creating messengers, of RNA, that carry the master instructions from DNA into the cell. In turn, these pieces of RNA assemble collections of amino acids, the building units for proteins essential to life. Dr. Kohorana also has created synthetic DNA, but one containing limited amounts of information.

Both scientists find there are 64 "codons" or three-letter arrangements for making amino acids. But there are only 20 amino acids.

This means that one to four different codons can make the same amino acid, though it may have a slightly different biological activity. This is one safety valve in copying the code. There are "synonyms" for the same word.

Some codons, perhaps half a dozen, are "punctuation marks" which signal when a period has been reached in the coded messages.

Proteins are assembled from amino acids in the cell, through the work of transfer RNAs which read off the code.

The transfer RNAs hook up with messenger RNA bringing the code out from the DNA in the cell nucleus. They have three "letters" on them also, but the new work indicates they can "wobble."

That is, under certain circumstances, the third of the three letters on the transfer RNA need not always be the counterpart of the letter on the messenger. It can be the "wrong" letter, but still work. This provides more chance for the cell to function correctly, even if something had happened to the codon it was supposed to have.

A next step, said Dr. Khorana, is to try to make, artificially, long chains of DNA, and "genes," or even simple proteins, like insulin, using the code.

Numerous intricacies of all the control mechanism involved in reading out and acting upon the code remain to be solved, Dr. Nirenberg said.

But, in essence, the code of life is broken, is understood.

Unions Set To Recruit State's Farm Workers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A new attempt to organize California's farm workers will start in January, two labor unions say.

The independent Teamsters Union and the AFL-CIO Agricultural Workers Organizing Committee announced yesterday an organizing campaign aimed at citrus workers in Tulare County.

Men and women who pick oranges and lemons will be the target of the AFL-CIO organization. Men who drive produce to canneries will be the aim of the teamsters.

Both said they would work together as "closely as possible." The teamsters have been expelled from the AFL-CIO.

Already under way is a campaign to organize grape workers in the Delano area. That drive, by the AWOC and the independent National Farm Workers Assn., seeks recognition of the unions as bargaining agents for workers and a boost in pay. Workers now get $1.25 and hour and 10 cents a box. The unions say they should get $1.40 an hour and 25 cents a box.

Most of the 90,000 employed in the state's canneries and freezer plants belong to the teamsters, but most delivery drivers and field hands are nonunion. The teamsters say they have set aside $5,000 a month for organization work in Tulare and other areas.

The citrus campaign is to start Jan. 5 with a rally at Strathmore, union leaders said.

Another union, the independent International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, refused Tuesday to handle a $20,000 grape shipment from Delano.

Longshoremen at Oakland's Howard Terminal refused to handle grapes intended for the steamer Bataan, headed for Scandinavia. They said policemen were hostile to them.

Longshoremen loaded other cargo yesterday but the nine carloads of grapes remained untouched in refrigerator trucks at dockside.

Police denied hostility and said they were observing picketing because of a court injunction forbidding pickets from interfering with grape shipments.

County Funds To Be Sought For Clinic

Marin County Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen will urge Tuesday that fellow supervisors approve $1,000 a month support to the Marin Institute of Alcoholism for six months.

In a letter to the board, Kettenhofen says that fees ($11 per month) of private patients have given the institute an average income of only $350 per week. The administrator has drawn a salary less than $3,000 a year.

Kettenhofen says county support could be considered as an advance on fees to be collected from county patients.

A new state program to go into effect next year will provide financial support for the institute, Kettenhofen says, so the county support would be only temporary.

Food Prices Fall In Bay Area

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Retail food prices in the San Francisco-Oakland metropolitan area fell 0.6 per cent between October and November, the U.S. Department of Labor announced today.

Max D. Kossoris, western regional director of the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, said the most significant change over the month was a 1.3 per cent decrease in the meats, poultry and fish group.

The decrease pared the bureau's food index to 110.7 (1957-59-100), but 2.7 per cent above November, 1964.

Board To Discuss Vacancy Policy

The Marin County Board of Education Monday will hold second reading of a policy on appointments to fill vacancies between elections on school boards.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. at the Civic Center.

The policy calls for holding names of candidates for appointment in confidence, even though the post to be filled is an elected office.

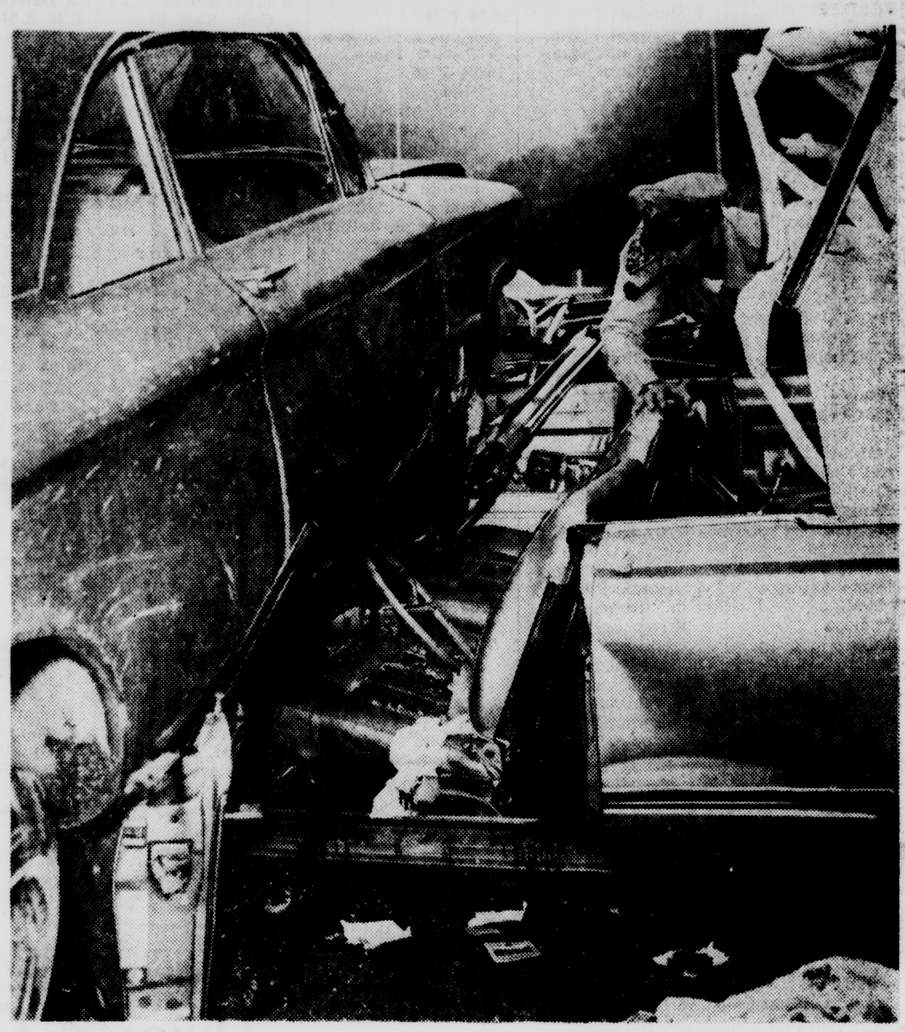
Some Pictorial Highlights Of 1965 In Marin County

DESTRUCTION IN CHILENO VALLEY — Fire struck North Marin early on Sept. 17, consuming barns, farm buildings and two homes in Chileno Valley, leaving destruction that caused the valley to be declared a disaster area. Panorama of the fire, and vehicles out to fight it, was photographed from an American Helicopter by the Independent-Journal's Bob Hax.



FREAK TRAGEDY — In a highly unusual accident on the morning of Oct. 19, a car driven by Paul E. Beyer of Burlingame went off the northbound level of the Waldo Grade to land squarely atop that of Peter L. Goldstein of San Anselmo, southbound. Goldstein is still in Ross Hospital. Highway Patrolman Charles L. Heart examines wreckage in Jim Kean photo.

STORM DAMAGE — Heavy rains in early January caused Jan. 8 landslide which broke water main and resulted in this buckling of retaining wall and parking pavement behind medical office building at 800 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo. (By Jim Kean)

THE GREAT EAGLE CASE — A cause celebre was started when Point Reyes rancher Leroy Martinelli (at right) shot two eagles on Jan. 25 which he said were killing his lambs. Sheriff's Sgt. Robert Bertrand shows one to Martinelli's daughter, Gail. Martinelli's trial for killing the birds is slated Jan. 10. (Bob Hax)

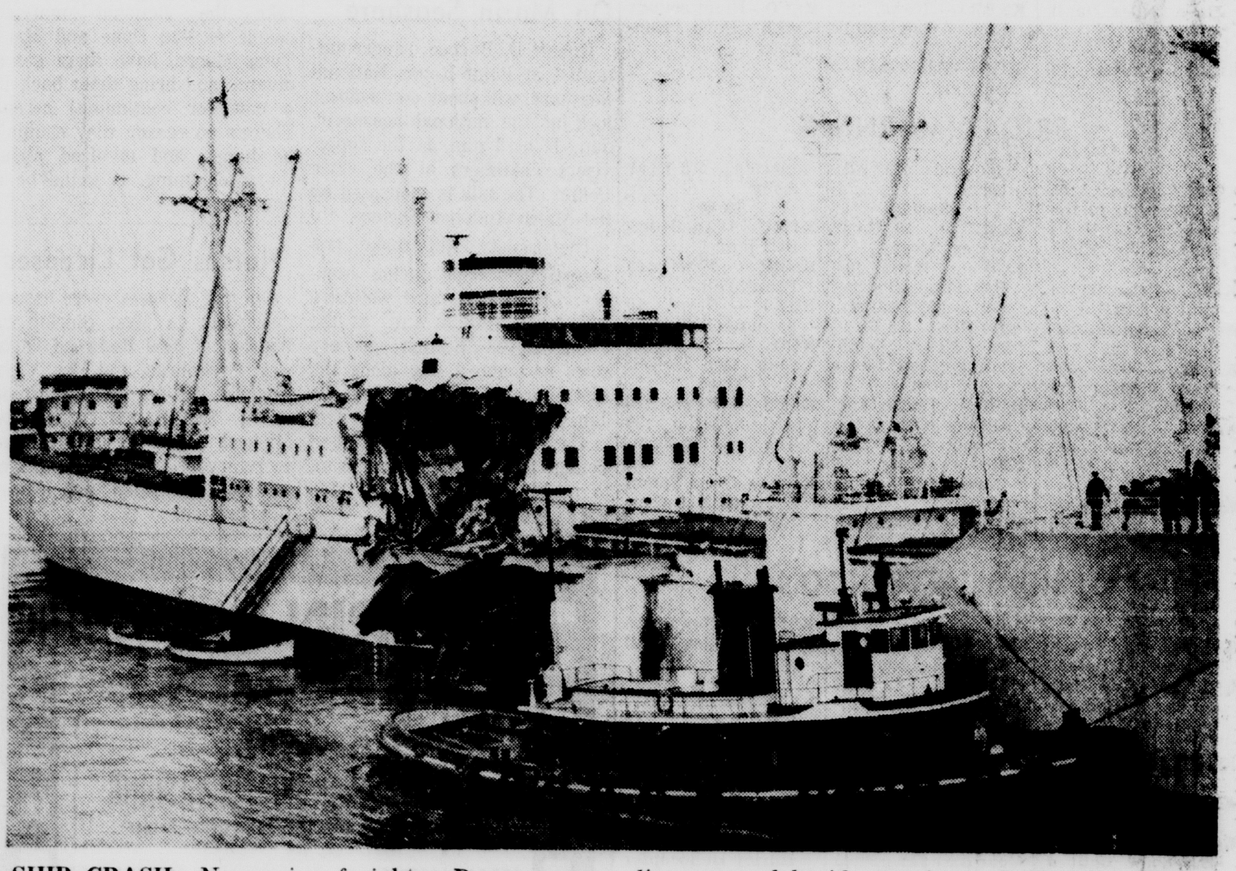
RELUCTANT BLACKIE—When a new section of Tiburon Boulevard opened Nov. 3, city officials thought Blackie, Tiburon's famous swaybacked horse, should cut the ribbon. He proved reluctant, even under the urging of Tiburon's oldest native son, John C. O'Connell (left). It was O'Connell's last public appearance. He died Dec. 19. (By Smith)



SHIP CRASH—Norwegian freighter Berganger, rammed by Liberian oil tanker Intercontinent near Point San Quentin on morning of Sept. 22, lies aground beside tow boat off Paradise Cove. Both ships caught fire, but there were no casualties. Photographer Hax used an American Helicopter again to get this shot.

Jury Decries Court Narcotic Decision, Small Districts

Judge Gets 81-Page Report

By RICHARD LYTTLE

The 1965 Marin County Grand Jury today took a slap at courts for leniency in narcotics cases and made a strong pitch for consolidating various small governments and agencies in the county.

The report said that 19 were convicted of, or pleaded guilty to, possession or sale of marijuana, but only two received jail sentences. One got a 90-day sentence and the other a 30-day sentence.

OTHER CASES

In all other cases, the courts granted probation or suspended sentences, the grand jury noted.

"Without judicial recognition of the necessity for meaningful deterrents, all other efforts to dispell the attitude common to many Marin County teen-agers, that criminal matters relating to marijuana are trivial offenses, will be of little or no value," the report says.

The jury also criticized the Gallinas Village Community Services District in particular and small governing entities in general in the year-end report.

Jurors recommended studies of forming a county-wide fire protection district and a county-wide juvenile department serving all police departments, and consolidation of sanitary districts.

CHARTER FORM

The jury also urged that further study be given the county charter form of government.

Other jury findings and recommendations included:

1. Criticism of the board of supervisors for failure to levy any penalty for escaped taxes against Fairchild Semiconductor, and a recommendation that such penalties be made mandatory in the future.

2. Endorsement of public officials' rights to speak out on controversial issues. This was prompted by criticism of supervisors by Treasurer-Tax Collector Stanley J. Fontez and Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell over the Fairchild action.

3. Recommendation that the City of San Rafael contribute to the county in financing development of the courthouse property. The jury notes that the county expected $1.4 million for the land, but might get only $800,000 should public uses such as park space and parking lots be required by the city.

4. Recommendation that the county coroner have no financial interest in a mortuary. Coroner Frank J. Keaton owns a San Rafael mortuary.

5. Proposal that the coroner's staff be increased from two to three persons, and that consolidation of the office with either the district attorney or sheriff be deferred until the day when the county has a morgue.

6. Recommendation that a coordinator for vocational education be employed by the county schools office and school coun-

Hamilton Gets New Key Role In Air Defense

Units Included From Western States, Canada

The role of Hamilton Air Force Base was further expanded yesterday with announcement that next April 1, it will become the command base for air defense units in 11 western states and two provinces of Canada.

This will include air defense units of U.S. Army and Navy and the Royal Canadian Air Force.

SAME TERRITORY

Reactivation of the Fourth Air Force, covering the same United States territory with Hamilton as headquarters, was announced Tuesday.

The larger role will come about with creation of the Western North American Air Defense Region in an over-all reorganization which will combine six air defense regions into four.

DEPUTY'S ROLE

Army Maj. Gen. Andrew R. Lolli, now commander of the 28th North American Air Defense Region, will command the new region. His deputy will be Air Force Maj. Gen. Carroll W. McColpin, now commander of the 28th Air Division, who will command the new Fourth Air Force. Both already have headquarters at Hamilton.

Reactivation of the Fourth Air Force will coincide with creation of the new region, the Pentagon announced.

The new air defense region will extend from the northern border of British Columbia south to Mexico and east to the Rockies. It will cover Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada, Idaho (except for a small portion), Utah, Arizona, and parts of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, and New Mexico, plus British Columbia and the western part of Alberta.

COMBINED AP & UPI

President Johnson's peace emissaries talked of Viet Nam with leaders on two continents today and the White House declared "everything this administration is doing is designed to bring about conditions in which peace is possible."

White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers said new diplomatic missions are likely because the President wants "more leaders of the world to know his views on Asia."

Moyers announced in Austin, Tex., the latest mission—this one to Canada. It came after presidential envoys W. Averell Harriman and Arthur J. Goldberg talked with Communist leaders and at the Vatican.

The diplomatic mission came in the face of a chilling blast of words from the leader of Communist North Viet Nam.

Until today, the Texas White House had been silent on Johnson's year-end peace offensive. Moyers broke that silence.

"We have a genuine desire to cooperate with anyone to whom peace is the desired goal that it is with us," he said.

Moyers said McGeorge Bunday, Johnson's special assistant for national security affairs, flew, secretly to Ottawa last night to meet with Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson.

Canada, with Poland and India, is a member of the International Control Commission on Viet Nam.

Johnson himself planned to confer with Pearson by telephone later today, the White House said.

U.S. Ambassador at Large W. Averell Harriman outlined American peace corps in Viet Nam to Polish Communist Leader Wladyslaw Gomulka in a secrecy shrouded two-hour meeting today then took off for Yugoslavia and talks with President Tito.

Responsible French government sources in Paris said Harriman would fly there this weekend for talks with French

Car Exhaust Kills Marin Youth, Girl

Exhaust fumes in a closed car were blamed today for the deaths of Richard L. Castleman of Fairfax, 18-year-old guitarist-singer with a Marin dance combo, and a 13-year-old Hillsborough girl, whose bodies were found yesterday in the car in Squaw Valley.

The bodies of young Castleman and Leslie de Laet, a guest at the Olympic Village Hotel where Castleman's combo, the Morlocks, had played on Tuesday night, were found at 10:30 a.m. yesterday in a station wagon parked outside the hotel.

Placer County sheriff's deputies said the pair apparently entered the vehicle, parked near a snowbank, after the dance ended, turned on the car's engine and heater to keep warm, and died of asphyxiation.

Miss de Laet had gone to Squaw Valley with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. de Laet, to spend the New Year holiday. Her father is an executive of an electric supply house in Burlingame.

Young Castleman went to the resort to join the combo in the one-night dance engagement.

The Morlocks played at the chamber of commerce-sponsored street dance in San Rafael on Halloween and have played for dances in St. Rita's Hall in Fairfax. They also have made one recording, reported Mrs. John R. Castleman of 47 Porteous Avenue, Fairfax, the dead youth's mother.

Two years ago, young Castleman made several appearances with Lyn Paplow of Fairfax as a folksong duet, playing the guitar accompaniment.

He was born in Los Angeles. The family moved to the Bay Area when he was 3 years old, living in Richmond and San Francisco, and moving to Marin in 1951.

He was the only child. The father is a truck driver.

The youth was graduated from St. Raphael's School in San Rafael and Sir Francis Drake High School. He was a freshman at College of Marin this year.

Funeral will be at 12:30 p.m. Monday at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael, where a Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Sunday. Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Jury Upholds Allegations On Gallinas

The 1965 Grand Jury took on the complex problems of the Gallinas Village Community Services District as a special project and came to some general conclusions on the failures of small, antonomous districts in Marin County.

The committee on municipalities and districts, headed by Martin F. Donohue, concluded that the grand jury did not have authority to take any action against Gallinas district directors.

The investigation was begun after Albert R. Borden of 707 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia, charged district directors with several irregularities, including payment of 14 warrants totalling $1,622.59 by action of only two of the five directors of the district; passage of the annual budget by a borad which included one member who was without status because he had not taken an oath of office, and holding of a budget hearing without public notice.

Donohue's committee found the three charges to be true.

The committee concluded that it was unable to assure that citizens of the district were getting services at reasonable cost and efficiency.

Marin Expects Sunny Skies For 1966 Debut

Mostly sunny skies were predicted today for the New Year weekend as Marin dried off from a wind-whipped rainstorm which knocked down trees, tore off roofs, and flooded streets and cellars.

But while the sun was shining in San Rafael at noon today, officers at the Marin County Fire Station at Point Reyes Station reported that rain mixed with hail was drumming on the roof of their building. Point Reyes Station received the county high for rainfall in the 24-hour period from 8 a.m. yesterday, with a total of 1.16 inches.

Hail also peppered Sausalito last night.

Wind and rain knocked a tree down on Sturdivant Avenue in the Chevy Chase area of Larkspur this morning, blocking half the roadway.

Rainfall totals for the 24 hour period to 8 a.m. today elsewhere in the county were: Fairfax .64 of an inch, Woodacre .73 of an inch, San Rafael .27 of an inch.

Gunpowder Strike Talks Drag On

WASHINGTON (AP) — Talks in the gunpowder strike that threatens some ammunition supplies to U.S. forces in Viet Nam continued today amid signs of growing government impatience.

After an implied federal deadline failed to break the deadlocked negotiations Wednesday, the Army announced it was reactivating a mothballed plant to make munitions.

"It looks like we've still got a lot of work to do," Chief Federal Mediator William E. Simkin said of the talks between three striking unions and the Olin Mathieson Co. plant in East Alton, Ill.

Uncle Sam Asks Reports On Tips

WASHINGTON (AP) — Employees will be required to make monthly reports to their employers on the tips they receive in 1966, the Internal Revenue Service said today. This is required under a law enacted in 1965.

The employee must pay Social Security taxes on the tips and this may mean higher Social Security retirement benefits.

Employees who receive a very low salary and receive most of their income from tips have the option of paying the additional Social Security and income tax by the month or waiting until income tax filing time the following year.

Union Approves Quarter System

SAN JOSE (AP)—The American Federation of Teachers' California chapter approves a quarterly system for junior colleges and high schools if member salaries do not suffer.

A resolution yesterday at the chapter's annual meeting also said the dates for a quarter system for such schools should correspond to those for a system going into effect at the University of California.

Under a four-quarter system, the California AFT said, the teacher salaries for three quarters should be no less than salaries now paid for two semesters. Proportionately more pay was asked if teaching days are increased.

Soldiers' Corpses Reveal Mutilation By Viet Cong

COMBINED AP & UPI

The Viet Cong struck today in and around Saigon, within the shadow of the big U. S. Marine base at Da Nang and near the Cambodian frontier. The stepped-up demonstration of their prowess came on the seventh day of the moratorium in the U. S. air war against the Communist North.

New evidence of Communist terror tactics was seen in several incidents.

A battalion of North Vietnamese regulars "executed and mutilated" three U.S. Marines and eight Vietnamese prisoners after a recent battle, a U.S. military spokesman disclosed today.

The bodies of the Marines, all assigned to a U.S. Army special forces unit, were found Dec. 20, four days after the battle at Ba To 310 miles north of Sagon, the spokesman said.

The 11 slain soldiers were part of a mixed Vietnamese-American patrol which on Dec. 16 was hunting for the North Vietnamese army's 18th Re-Forces camp at Ba To.

They were attacked by an estimated 300 regulars from the North and their position overrun within an hour by heavy mortar and small arms fire.

Thirteen survivors from the patrol made it back to Ba To during the four days which followed. They led search parties back to the battlefield and found their comrades buried in shallow graves.

"They had been shot many times in the face," the U.S. spokesman said today. "They had powder burns on their faces. One man's head was chopped open with a sharp instrument.

"Identification was difficult because of the mutilation they had suffered."

California Motorists Face Safety Inspection Of Autos

INSPECTIONS COMING UP — California Highway Patrol Sgt. Lee R. Miller, inspecting windshield wiper of an auto driven by Mrs. Wallace Baldwin, demonstrates what California motorists will face during 1966—mandatory auto safety inspections. (AP Wirephoto)

SACRAMENTO (AP)—California's 11 million motorists were put on notice today they face mandatory safety inspection of their cars for the first time during the coming year.

The California Highway Patrol will be issuing warnings for mechanical defects by the middle of February as part of a stepped - up state traffic safety and smog control campaign ordered by the 1965 legislature.

By midyear, patrolmen will be hailing cars picked at random into roadside checkpoints for five-minute inspections.

Patrolmen will make what they call a "circle inspection," moving around the vehicle to check lights, windows, windshield wipers, brakes, mirrors, tires, horn and smog control devices where they are required.

Patrol Commissioner Bradford M. Crittenden said inspections—and warnings—will be confined initially to automobiles of motorists stopped for other violations.

By March or April, the patrol chief expects to have pilot roadside checkpoints set up to make random checks. He plans three stations, in Southern California, the Central Valley and the north at the start.

Crittenden said the patrol is working on inspection methods and aims to hold the actual time for inspection to five minutes.

"Certainly the motorist would not countenance a 20-minute delay — unless, of course, his vehicle is actually found to be unsafe to be operated on the road," he said.

"This program is being set up from the standpoint of giving the motorist a safer car, not of harassing him," the commissioner added.

Vehicles found to be unsafe would be ordered off the road until repairs were made. Others with less serious defects, such as a defective horn or burned out light, would be issued warnings and directed to report to a patrol office within a specified time to show that the fault had been corrected.

The driver who failed to show that the repairs had been made could face arrest and conviction of a misdemeanor, with maximum penalties of a $500 fine, six months in jail, or both.

Crittenden said cars inspected and found in safe condition will get stickers to show they have been checked, which will be valid for "a reasonable time." Drivers who want to avoid the roadside checks will be able to take their cars to a patrol office for inspection after the program gets started.

Motorists will foot the bill for the inspection program through increased vehicle registration fees.

Philippine Leader Has Stern Warning

MANILA (AP) — Onetime guerrilla fighter Ferdinand E. Marcos took the oath as the sixth president of the Philippines today and pleged his nation to austerity at home and greater cooperation with free nations of Asia.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey represented the United States at the inauguration. A host of other dignitaries also attended the ceremonies, which drew 50,000 Filipinos to Luneta Park beside Manila Bay and millions more to radio and television sets.

Marcos, 48, startled the festive audience with a stern speech outlining the nation's economic and political ills.

He extolled the Philippines as a democratic example to unstable nations in Asia and pledged it would stand beside "every fighter for freedom." But he warned that the nation's coffers were empty and "hard decisions" — such as sending troops to Viet Nam—must be made for the national interest of the Philippines.

Before the election last month, Marcos said he opposed sending combat troops to Viet Nam although he favored enlarging the Philippine medical unit there. After the election, he indicated he had changed his mind and was in favor of sending a combat battalion.

Marcos said past Philippine governments had promised too much and delivered too little. He pledged a "rigorous policy of fiscal restraint" to restore the nation's finances and to crack down on corrupt officials who condone smuggling which he said costs the nation perhaps $200 million a year.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Israel Foreign Minister Retiring

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP)—The world's only woman foreign minister, Golda Meir of Israel, is retiring at 69 after 10 years in office.

Mrs. Meir told a meeting of Parliament's Foreign Affairs and Security Committee Tuesday that she is quitting.

Mrs. Meir

Authoritative sources said she would be succeeded by Deputy Premier Abba Eban, former ambassador to the United States and to the United Nations.

Mrs. Meir was appointed foreign minister in June 1956, Capping a career that took her from a Milwaukee schoolroom to the major capitals of the world.

Born in Russia, on May 3, 1898, she fled with her family to the United States when she was 8.

She helped found modern Israel.

Pike Would Use Force In Africa

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—Episcopal Bishop James Pike of California today urged Britain and the United Nations to use force to overthrow the white Rhodesian government of Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Pike

Bishop Pike, an advocate of racial equality, was expelled from Rhodesia last night after only 10 hours in the central African territory. He had planned to stay two weeks to study racial problems.

The bishop said economic sanctions against Smith's regime were working faster than had been anticipated. He predicted business interests in Salisbury would back a bloodless coup to oust Smith. But he told a news conference:

Nuclear Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Glenn T. Seaborg of the Atomic Energy Commission believes nuclear power plants will be furnishing the electricity needs of more than two million Americans by the end of 1966. In a year-end statement, Seaborg predicted further that the figure will reach 60 million persons by 1980.

Court Trial Photographed For Law Test

BELLFLOWER (UPI) — The entire Municipal Court trial of a drunken driving suspect was photographed by a motion picture camera yesterday for use by an Assembly subcommittee studying the effect of news and television cameras in courtrooms.

Assemblyman George Willson, D-Huntington Park, chairman of the subcommittee, arranged the test after receiving permission from the defendant, the judge and the attorneys involved.

"What we hope to determine from the film is whether the presence of any news cameras make a mockery of the trial, make witnesses tongue-tied or cause judges and lawyers to ham it up," Willson said.

The assemblyman said the film would be edited and shown to interested groups throughout the state.

BROWN WORKING ON TAX BOOSTS

Governor Settles Down In Palm Springs With Tax Experts, Some Socializing

PALM SPRINGS (AP)—Armed with detailed thinking of state tax experts, Gov. Brown and Democratic legislative leaders sat down today to talk about a gritty political problem — tax boosts in an election year.

Both hard work and socializing were in store as the two days of talks started. Wives were on hand to enjoy the desert sunshine—through occasional sprinkles — and Mrs. Brown planned a dinner party tonight for the conferees.

Last year, top Democrats indicated displeasure over not being informed by the governor of some of his legislative plans. This year's meeting, coming before the slated Feb. 7 budget session opening, apparently was intended to unite Democrats on a legislative spending and tax program, as far as possible.

One notable absentee was Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, who said he had to attend a long-planned party given by his wife.

Also absent, for lack of invitation, were Republican leaders.

Here are some of the possibilities the experts looked over to meet what Brown forecasts as a budget deficit of up to $300 million next year:

Boost the state sales tax from 3 per cent as high as 4 per cent, raising from $100 million to $350 million a year additional. The experts said this would be feasibile, and hit all taxpayers, not just certain ones. Whether politicians will go for this in an election year is another question.

Tax magazines sold over the counter. A majority of the experts said it would be feasible, a minority dissented.

Boost the bank and corporation basic tax from 5.5 per cent to 6 per cent, increasing revenue by $32 million annually.

Withhold state income taxes from paychecks, a $185 million revenue gain for 1966-67. The experts flatly recommended this, but Brown indicates he won't press hard for it.

Increase state income taxes by 10 per cent, and make other changes, with revenue gains of from $39 million to $143 million a year.

Boost the state tax from 3 cents a pack of cigarettes to 8 cents, gaining $120 million for the state, cities and counties.

Boost the state's share of taxes from horse racing, up to $7.2 million more a year. The experts backed this, but refused to endorse or disapprove other plans to get more money from horse racing, such as setting up night harness racing.

Storm Lashes Southland, Moves Along

LOS ANGELES (AP)— A winter storm that lashed the Los Angeles area with gusty winds and dumped nearly 4 inches of rain in less than 48 hours, moved eastward today. Clearing skies and dry sunny weather were predicted for New Year's Day.

In the storm's wake were soft, crumbling hillsides and creeks and rivers swollen to flood stage. Three persons died on rain-slick Los Angeles streets and six persons—believed to be members of one family—were killed when the auto they were in collided with a truck near Tehachapi, Calif.

In the Angeles National Forest, the overflowing San Gabriel River and a gushing creek washed out bridges Wednesday and stranded a church bus with about 50 children and 10 adults aboard.

Sheriff's deputies and rescue teams spent seven hours building a temporary bridge and leading the bus passengers, one-by-one, to safety by midnight. No injuries were reported.

In Los Angeles—which already as in the midst of one of its wettest seasons in history — damage figures mounted as rain-soaked hillsides began to crumble in widely separated residential areas.

Throughout the Los Angeles area yesterday there were flooded streets and stranded residents. High wind resulted in widespread reports of damage and as attributed with various power failures.

Premier Moro Assumes Foreign Minister Post

Saragat acted as demands rose from government opponents for Moro's entire center-left coalition to resign over the Fanfani crisis, born of what critics called the foreign minister's amateurish handling of a North Vietnamese peace feeler.

Moro had asked Fanfani to withdraw the resignation. Fanfani submitted it after he came under fire in connection with the report from his friend, Prof. Giorgio La Pira, of a peace feeler from Hanoi.

After Fanfani insisted he was determined to quit on Jan. 6, the premier accepted his resignation last night.

Fanfani pioneered center-left collaboration between the Catholic Christian Democrats and the Socialists in a government coalition which Moro now heads. Fanfani's followers have long considered Moro too cautious.

Fanfani had said he was resigning to dissociate himself from criticisms La Pira made of Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Moro at a party at Fanfani's home. Earlier he had been under fire for passing along to the U.S. government La Pira's report of a peace overture from North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh. Hanoi repudiated the report.

La Pira admitted making the belittling comments but said he was jesting and was quoted out of context.

Record For Year Security Benefits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Social Security Administration announced yesterday that a record $18.3 billion in benefits had been paid out in 1965, a $2.1 billion increase over last year.

A 7 per cent raise in benefits approved in July but retroactive to January accounted for about half the increase, the administration said.

Negro Attorney General To Seek Saltonstall Seat

BOSTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, who now holds one of the highest elective offices of any Negro in the nation, announced today his candidacy for the U.S. Senate.

Brooke will go before the state GOP convention in June and enter the state primary in September seeking the Republican nomination for the seat now held by Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass.

Brooke made his announcement at a news conference called just 24 hours after Saltonstall said he will retire at the end of his present term from the seat he has held since 1944.

Brooke told the news conference, "I have deep and abiding faith in the ability and desire of the people of Massachusetts to make their choice on the basis of qualifications and programs."

"At this crucial moment in world history," he said, "I shall dedicate my service to the establishment of peace, the preservation of freedom for all who desire it, and a better life for people at home and abroad."

Actor's Wife Wants Divorce

Joan Tabor Crawford, 35, of Beverly Hills, sought the divorce yesterday on grounds that the actor "wrongfully inflicted grievous bodily injury and grievous bodily suffering."

The couple was married three years ago in Las Vegas.

Druggist Shoots Narcotics Thief

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A holdup man armed with a toy pistol was shot three times by a druggist yesterday as he fled a pharmacy with $300 worth of narcotics.

John Dugish, 31, was shot in the back and legs by druggist Tom Merigan who told police he had no idea the gun was a toy until after the shooting.

Dugish was in serious condition at an emergency hospital.

Arab U. S. Arms Worry Israel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel has expressed concern over the U.S. supply of weapons to Arab states.

Israeli Ambassador Avraham Harman met with Secretary of State Dean Rusk for 45 minutes yesterday, then told newsmen he sought the session to review "particularly the recent acceleration in peace and scope of the rearmament of Arab countries which gives us considerable concern."

Harman declined to elaborate, but in November, the United States joined with Britain in offering to sell Saudi Arabia $200 million worth of airplanes, anti-aircraft missiles and radar equipment.

MOUNTAIN TRAIN IDEA QUESTIONED

Conservationist Wonders Whether 'Old Days' Return Is Desirable

A promoter of the plan to re-establish the old railroad up Mount Tamalpais, appeared today on the Radio KTIM "Marin Sounding Board," declared his group thinks it can "improve, rather than desecrate" the mountain's beauty and usefulness.

Chester F. Gilbert of Kent Woodlands, one of three men who have proposed a combined railroad-restaurant project, spoke in reply to several questions posed by another participant, Mrs. Mary Donnelly, a director of the Marin Conservation League.

Also on the program were Albert E. White, Mill Valley city councilman, and Andrew Gladney, who has been hired to design the proposed railway.

Gilbert and the other backers of the plan have asked directors of the Marin Municipal Water District for an option to use a fire trail and other district land in starting new trains up the old line, once known as "the crookedest railroad in the world."

The water district board has asked for public reaction before making a decision.

Mrs. Donnelly cited eight questions which she said the conservation league believes must be answered. They relate to the plan's economic feasibility, potential scarring of the mountain, possible fire hazard, and the railroad's compatibility with county zoning and the proper uses of a state park.

She concluded by asking whether it is "possible, or even desirable, to return to the good old days."

Gladney took issue with a statement attributed to William R. Seeger, water district general manager, that a new fire trail would be needed. He said the rail bed could be filled in like city street car tracks so that trucks could drive over it. "Passing tracks" would permit trucks to go past a train if it were on the track at the time, he added.

Most of the conventional fire hazards from trains, such as engine sparks and "hot boxes," would not exist on such a short line, Gladney said.

"The only problem we would have would be smoking by people, and we plan to prohibit that while they are riding on the trains," he said.

White stressed that his city's endorsement of the plan had been in principle only, and pointed out that the Mill Valley council had also asked county supervisors to hire a consultant to prepare a master plan for future use of Mount Tamalpais.

The master plan has also been urged by the conservation league.

White termed the proposal "a nostalgic idea worth considering," but said there is "a giant step" between initial plans and a finished, successful project.

"Perhaps the mountain now belongs to the hikers and the motorists," he said.

Gilbert at one point took issue with a statement by Mrs. Donnelly that "the old railroad failed" when people chose to drive cars up the mountain. He argued that the railroad never stopped making money, and its operators shut it down only because they feared it would be hurt by the automobile.

"That is where they were wrong," he said.

In reply to a question by Mrs. Donnelly, Gilbert said his group would not consider building the restaurant without the railroad or vice-versa. He declared that the combined project was necessary to attract capital.

Gilbert dodged several questions, both from Mrs. Donnelly and listeners, about the cost of the project, train fares and restaurant prices. He said it would be premature to go into such details before MMWD directors make their decision.

Listeners asked if the railroad could be run all the way into Mill Valley, or into Muir Woods. White said he could see "innumerable problems" in trying to use the old and largely abandoned Northwestern Pacific Railroad right of way in Mill Valley.

Gladney said the group had not talked about trains to Muir Woods, but "there is always a possibility."

Jury Reports On Welfare, Coroner, Charter, Works

selrs spend more time with students in guiding them into the trades and cutting down on high school dropouts. The jury said parents should also recognize the advantage of an early decision for their children in entering the vocational field.

7. Conclusion that the cyclical appraisal program of Assessor Bert W. Broemmel "does not seem fair or just," but praise for Broemmel for his efforts toward annual county - wide re-evaluations.

The 1965 grand jury shot down two recommendations made by the 1964 grand jury. Today's report found that moving San Quentin Prison out of the county would not be financially feasible. The previous jury recommended study of such a move.

Today's report also found no justification for the prior jury's recommendation that the offices of the Marin County Mosquito Abatement District be moved from 201 Third Street, San Rafael.

The jury recommended against moving the supplimentary text library of the county schools office from the Civic Center to the former McGraw-Hill Book Co. building in Corte Madera. Supervisors, however, decided on this move some time ago. The schools office and its library are to make the move early next year.

The jury found that the mix-up in the April school districts election was due mainly "to a lack of communication" between the superintendent of schools office and the elections department. It's recommendation that the schools office contract with the elections department has already been carried out by supervisors.

The jury was distressed that its interim report on the public works department was made public last July. In this report the jury called for a study of efficiency in the department and wondered how some of the older men on the staff were to be "disposed of." This wording brought hot retorts from supervisors and County Public Works Director Donald R. Frost.

The jury recommended that future interim reports be sent supervisors on a personal and confidential basis to "avoid premature public disclosure."

Today's report recommended that supervisors "study the public works department in order to determine efficiency."

It recommended further study on road repair work done by the county to see if some of the major jobs cannot be better done by private contractors, and a study of obsolete heavy equipment at the county garage to see if it should be carried on the books.

The jury urged that next year's jury continue to press for cleanup of the Richardson Bay shore at Waldo Point, where the county building code has been "conspiciously violated." The jury said the situation is being corrected.

The jury recommended that additional land be purchased to enlarge and improve the county airport at Novato. It did not say whether this should be done with participating financing from the Federal Aviation Agency.

In its hearings on use of marijuana in schools last June, the report said, jury members were not shocked so much by the wide-spread use as they were by the "disinterested attitude and swaggering manner displayed by some during the testimony."

It concluded that education appeared the best weapon against use of marijuana. The jury recommended that next year's jury cooperate with County Schools Supt. Virgil S. Hollis in a county-wide education program.

Study of the County Health Department brought recommendation that the mobile hearing test unit, now serving county schools, be used during the summer to test hearing of adults.

The jury noted a high turnover of employees in the social services (welfare) department. It noted that starting salary for a child welfare worker was $660 a month in Alameda County and $562 in Marin, and Marin is a costlier place to live.

Recommendations on the welfare department included a suggestion that County Counsel Alan Bruce "familiarize himself with the different programs of welfare in great detail so he may be more helpful in advising the board of supervisors on matters pertaining to welfare."

The grand jury concluded that consolidation of the coroner's office with either the sheriff's department, (as recommended by last year's jury) or with the district attorney (as recommended by Bruce and currently under study by supervisors) would cost the county a good deal more. It recommended that duties of public administrator and guardian be transferred from the coroner to "an appropriate county office." (Bruce has recommended the treasurer-tax collector).

"The coroner should devote full time to his office and have no financial interest in any mortuary in Marin County," the jury concluded in a statement added to the section on the coroner after submission of a committee report.

Collections from responsible relatives by the probation department for fees such as daily room and board at juvenile hall should be done by the county revenue officer and not by the probation department, it held.

The jury noted that $146,000 in bad debts were turned over to the revenue officer in October, and he collected $18,900 of this "which would not otherwise have been collected."

The girls' wing in juvenile hall is "inadequate and overcrowded" and should be replaced, the jury said.

Night patrol assignments of the Point Reyes Station sheriff's substation and increasing the sheriff's juvenile bureau from two to three men, were also recommended.

The grand jury concluded that "the charter form of government can be highly desirable for Marin County." Although it was defeated by voters in 1958, the jury declared the idea should be reconsidered as it would "undoubtedly enhance the possibilities to eliminate or consolidate many of the independent agencies presently operating in the county."

Serving on the jury with Scott were Mrs. Vera L. Schultz, Frederick C. Robbins, Mrs. Claudia Anderson, Mrs. Juanita S. Cobb, Charles R. DeWitt, Martin F. Donohue, Frank E. Galli, Mrs. Marion C. Kelly, Milton H. Lipp, Mrs. Eleanor McArdle, Arthur R. Nicolaisen, Mrs. Mary Pometta, Mrs. Ethyle M. Reindollar, Carle K. Schieck, Jack H. Stockstill, Harry M. Williams, Lee C. Wise, and Elmer S. county, the committee declared: "There is evidence that by insisting upon independent operations of many small districts the modern administrative techniques, proper budgeting practices, and intelligent management."

The jury committee said citizens are not well informed on the complexities of the districts and there is no requirement on reporting activities of the district governing board.

The absence of such requirements, particularly reporting vacancies on the board, "is intolerable," the committee said.

"It is inexcusable that directors of these entities, whether appointed or elected, fail to familiarize themselves with government codes governing their operations."

The more autonomous the districts are, the greater the fragmentation of responsibility, the committee declared.

"In once instance brought to our attention, a single group of homes is already supporting two community services districts, with duplication of directors, offices, overhead, and purchasing, each having bought its own tractor for use one day per week."

Mrs. Vera L. Schutz, a member of the committee, said today that this referred to the Terra Linda Recreation District and community services district.

"The amount of property tax levied to support special district governments is today comparable to property taxes levied by all 11 cities in Marin," the jury reported.

The jury committee suggested that next year's grand jury investigate the possibility of a conflict of interest in having the county counsel serve as legal advisor for special districts.

It also recommended that a board of freeholders or other such body consider possible changes in the structure of county government to curtail continued creation of special districts, and further urged study of a "local budget commission" along the lines of the Local Agency Formation Commission.

Grand Jury Foreman George R. Scott today wrote to Borden, praising his role in the Gallinas affair.

"Many of your specific charges and charges of code violations proved to be true," Scott wrote, "exposing omissions ond loopholes not in the public interest in the particular laws governing community services districts.

They Danced While Waiting Paddy Wagon

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police charged a young couple with attempted armed bank robbery Wednesday — a couple a patrolman said "danced arm in arm, quite unconcerned, on the sidewalk" until he arrested them.

Teller Rogers Peters had been handed this note: "Don't look up. You're covered by a ray gun that will leave nothing but the fillings of your teeth. Hah! We need a million dollars quick. Please oblige." Peters stalled and pushed an alarm button.

Peters said the girl in the couple, Miss Patricia Gueldon, asked: "Don't you know we're kidding? That this is only a joke?" The man in the couple, George Shea, was quoted by Peters as saying: "It's no joke."

With that they walked out and patrolman Richard Wayder then stopped them. Both denied intending a robbery. The whole attempt, thought up in a coin-operated laundry, was to be ridiculous, the girl said.

Shea, 24, a Fordham University graduate in English, said he was an unemployed drug clerk and part-time actor. Miss Gueldon, 20, is an honor student from Chico State College.

Public Address Unit Stolen From School

A thief broke into San Rafael High School during the past few days and took a public address system and a tenor saxophone. The crime was discovered yesterday.

San Rafael police reported a door to the outside of the building was pried open, as was a door leading to a music room. The saxophone was worth $225, school official said, but no value was known for the loud speaker system.

GREENBACKS WINDFALL NOT FOR REAL

FAIRFIELD (AP) — A $50 bill blew by a construction project. Then another. Then a $20 bill.

That started workers on a hunt yesterday that turned up a shoebox stuffed with $40,000 of the bills.

The money turned out to be bogus, the Solano County sheriff's office said.

The laborers were employed by the firm of Ball, Syar and Harms at a project along Interstate 80. The box, upside down, was found on the pavement, as if tossed from a car.

FBI agents from San Francisco are investigating.

Arizona Seeks Aid After Floods

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Arizona's floods last week caused more than $7 million damage, the state Civil Defense director says, of which $4 million was to public property.

Gov. Sam Goddard has asked President Johnson to declare portions of Arizona as eligible for federal disaster funds.

It will be next week before the loss will be determined finally, the Civil Defense director, Col. Carl N. Smith, said last night. But he said private damage, mostly to farm lands and buildings, will exceed $3 million.

Prolonged rains and record snow combined to send swollen rivers across the desert last week.

Driver On Probation

Rosalie Maxine Cummings, 51, San Francisco, was fined $225 and placed on a year's probation yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving. She was arrested on Magnolia Avenue by Larkspur police last Dec. 24.

Auto-Truck Collision Fatal To Six

TEHACHAPI (AP)—The coroner awaited the arrival of relatives today for help in identifying five of six persons killed in a car-truck collision.

The only identified victim was the driver of the car, John Delgado Hernandez, 40, of Barstow. The other victims — all riding with him—were a woman, three girls and a boy.

The highway patrol said the accident occurred yesterday on rain-slick State Route 58 near Tehachapi when Hernandez' car skidded broadside into the path of the truck.

Five persons died at the scene. The sixth, a girl, died three hours after the crash at a hospital in Bakersfield, 40 miles northwest of Tehachapi.

Costly Jewelry Stolen In Hotel

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Lowell Dillingham, wealthy and socially prominent Honolulu business leader, reported today more than $47,000 in jewelry and travelers checks stolen from his hotel room here.

Dillingham, eldest son of the late Walter Dillingham, capitalist with world - wide interests, told police he and his wife, Harriet, arrived from New York yesterday and checked into the Clift Hotel to spend New Year's.

Two jewelry cases holding $45,400 in Mrs. Dillingham's gems and checks worth $1,800 were stolen, Dillingham said.

Chinese Arms

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—A high Indian government source says Communist China is supplying Pakistan with large quantities of arms and already has equipped a new army division with medium artillery.

Viet Sniper Ruins Joke Between Bing Crosby, Hope

SAIGON (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope flew out of Viet Nam today after a successful Christmas tour for U.S. troops. But he left behind a ribbing he did not know about from his longtime sidekick Bing Crosby.

Hope didn't know about it because the man who was supposed to relay the rib, Lt. Col. Gordon J. Lippman of Lemmon, S. Dak., had been killed by the Viet Cong.

Crosby, who has battled wits with Hope for years, had sent a photograph and letter with cracks to "Ample Robert" Hope to Lippman, an old friend who was the executive officer of the 1st Infantry Division's 3rd Brigade at Lai Khe, deep in Viet Cong territory 30 miles north of Saigon.

In the letter Crosby said he hoped Lippman would "have some fun when Ample Robert appears at your billet. I know he'll be a big hit there—I've been working hard with him, getting him up in his material and on his delivery, cleaning up his act a bit, and sprucing it up where it needed some lively interpolations."

The photo showed Bing following through a golf stroke. In one corner was the inscription: "Dear Bob, don't you wish you had a finish like this? And a waistline?—love, Bing."

Lippman received the letter Dec. 11 and took it to the villa he shared with several other officers on a rubber plantation at Lai Khe. Over dinner the men laughed about the joke and anticipated springing it on Hope when he arrived around Christmas.

Then shots cracked out and mortar rounds burst in the plantations. Guards at the 3rd Brigade encampment fired back with everything they had and Lippman raced from the villa to try to get the shooting under control.

A sniper's bullet hit him. Thirty minutes later he died on an operating table in the camp's hospital tent. It was just three hours after he had received the letter.

Closed Session

Mill Valley School District trustees will hold a closed session at 8 p.m. Monday in the district office to discuss the employment of certificated personnel, such personnel including teachers and administrators. No other subject will be discussed, said Supt. G. R. McConnell.

Ex-Tiburon Man Held As Morals Suspect

Robert Jack Berg, 39, of San Francisco, formerly of Tiburon, was booked in Marin County jail yesterday for investigation of lewd and lascivious behavior with a 9-year-old Tiburon girl.

He was released early today on $2,750 bail and scheduled for arraignment in Marin Municipal Court at 1:30 p.m. Monday. Sheriff's juvenile officers said the violations occurred last summer and early fall in Tiburon.

The Army Air Defense Command Sixth Region will also be expanded under the new setup, absorbing the former Seventh Region.

Report On Red Missile Strength 'Misleading'

By DONALD ZYLSTRA
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON—An unofficial report showing a 35 per cent increase last year in the number of Soviet long-range ballistic missiles can prove "misleading," Pentagon spokesmen say.

The Institute for Strategic Studies (ISS), a reliable private research agency in London, lists figures showing that the United States now has dropped to a superiority of 3 to 1 over the Soviet Union in intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs) — a narrower margin than the 4 to 1 lead shown a year ago.

During the year since the last publication of the report, the United States has completed removal of all of its early Atlas and Titan I liquid-fueled ICBMs —reducing the total from 925 at the end of October, 1964, to 854 this year.

Pentagon officials observe that, had these obsolete missiles been retained at launch sites, the U.S. would now have 1,034 ICBMs — with superiority nearing 5 to 1 over the 270 currently reported for the Soviets.

In increasing their long-range missiles from 200 to 270 last year, the Russians have apparently retained even their earliest liquid-fueled missiles—weapons which must be fueled with refrigerated liquids just before launch — like the discarded U.S. Atlas and Titan I types.

U. S. missilemen estimate that more than 100 of the 270 Soviet ICBMs are of this outmoded, hard-to-maintain type. About 140 may be either storable liquid-fueled types like Titan II, or they use solid fuels like the U.S. Minuteman ICBM.

"In view of earlier estimates that the Russians would reach 300 ICBMs in the 1961-1962 time period, their present total is even less impressive," defense spokesmen said. "It certainly indicates a relatively slow rate of development and production compared with the U.S."

This country now has enough modern missiles in protected silos to make retention of inefficient early types unnecessary, defense chiefs say.

Soviet retention of early long-range missiles is described as inefficient. "It's as if U.S. farmers who changed from horses to tractors years ago had continued to feed and house all these animals after switching to tractors," one defense source said. "It can be argued that this is a bigger display of power —but it seems neither efficient nor practical."

U.S. submarine-carried intermediate range ballistic missiles now show a 4 to 1 lead over the number of similar Soviet weapons, the London report says. Polaris missiles in U.S. nuclear submarines have increased from 480 to 544 during the year, while the Soviet total in this class remained at about 120.

Two types of these medium range missiles have ranges of 700 and 1,100 miles, respectively. A third type has a 2,100-mile range — but is still well short of ranges planned for navy's newest submarine-launched Poseidon missile.

Poseidon and Polaris have the additional advantage of being solid-fueled — for simpler, easier handling by armed forces crews — whereas the Russian weapon most nearly resembling them is still liquid-fueled.

"Don't mistake our intentions," a Pentagon spokesman warned. "We are not trying to scale down or debunk the real, very considerable Soviet missile and nuclear threat. Probably few citizens realize how awesome it is.

"But, on the other hand, mere publication of comparative numbers shouldn't be permitted to give a false impression of a worsening U.S. defense position in relation to the Soviets. Quite the opposite is true. We have actually improved our defenses relative to the Russians in the past year."

Pentagon officials had no quarrel with the ISS report. Both U.S. government sources and NATO spokesmen frequently cite figures in the annual report as "unofficial" indications of military capacities among the nations of the world. The ISS report is often used as a method of getting around rigid top-secret classification of data by national and NATO defense agencies.

In seeking to explain their reasons for not worrying unduly about rising Russian missile totals, defense spokesmen also cautioned Americans not to be too impressed with apparent Russian advantages in missile size.

The ISS report estimates that the Soviets now have an ICBM with a 30-megaton warhead—each megaton being the equivalent of one million tons of conventional explosives such as TNT.

By contrast, U.S. missiles produced in the greatest quantities, the Minuteman ICBM and the Polaris intermediate range missile, have warheads estimated in the one-megaton category. The most powerful U.S. nuclear-tipped missiles are variously estimated between 10 and 18 megatons.

Beyond a certain level, a bigger nuclear "bang" just isn't practical or worthwhile, Pentagon missilemen explain. Making missiles too big and cumbersome is much like "using a sledge hammer to swat a fly," they observe.

Mother, Son Compete For College Grades

ST. LOUIS (UPI) —Mother and son not only attend the same college, but they are in class together for intermediate Spanish.

Mrs. Bertha O'Bannon and her son, Daniel, of suburban Ferguson both study second year Spanish. Mrs. O'Bannon admits to "considerable rivalry" between mother and son for grades. Both attend the St. Louis County Junior College district.

Span Officials Dampen Hopes Of Ferry Run

Possibility of reviving ferry service between Marin and San Francisco suffered a couple of setbacks today at a meeting of Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors.

Jerome B. White, attorney for the bridge district, told directors he believes the district does not have authority to spend funds for study of ferry service. The law which set up the district limits it to building and operating bridges, the attorney declared.

Marin director Thomas D. Hardcastle also put a little damper on the enthusiasm for ferry boats. He said he met with traffic engineers from San Francisco, Marin, and the state on Dec. 23. Concensus of the meeting was that an improved bus system would provide the best interim solution to the traffic problem, Hardcastle said.

The bridge directors hired engineer Clifford E. Paine to study two engineering reports on the second deck for the Golden Gate Bridge. Paine will get a fee of $15,000.

Directors also agreed to convert nine million dollars worth of current bonds, drawing two and one-half per cent interest, to new bonds that draw four per cent. The conversion would mean a gain of half a million dollars to the bridge district by 1971.

Three Charged With Possession Of Marijuana

Three Marin County juveniles were arrested last night by sheriff's officers and Sausalito police for alleged possession of marijuana near Gate 5, Marinship.

Deputies said two girls, a 15-year-old from Mill Valley and a 14-year-old from Sausalito, were released to their parents. The third, a 17-year-old Mill Valley boy, was placed in Marin County Juvenile Hall.

All three were cited to the sheriff's juvenile bureau. Sheriff's Sgt. Wade Powell said they were riding in a car driven by the boy about 9:30 p.m. when arrested.

He said traces of weed appearing to be marijuana were found on the car's floorboard, and a capsule of white powder was in the boy's clothing. The items were taken to a San Francisco narcotics laboratory today for analysis.

Salmon Return To Park Creek To Spawn, Die

Storms the past two days provided enough rain to open the channel from Muir Beach to permit the fish to swim into Muir Woods National Monument to spawn and die, thus ending their life cycle.

Monument staff member Thomas Swan said the salmon seen were 12 to 24 inches in length. He said steelhead trout, which return to the ocean, were also sighted. The salmon always return to the stream in which they originally spawned.

Swan cautioned that visitors to the park should not be too unhappy if they do not find salmon, since their runs are sporadic and it is not always possible to see them. The Salmon run is expected to last several weeks, he said.

House Total To Be Reduced

The Marin County Health Department will follow the recommendations of the State Department of Health and the State Department of Water Resources in seriously curtailing development of an Inverness subdivision.

The 45-lot Silver Hills tract north of Inverness is proposed wtih septic tanks, but the department of water resources has said no more than seven lots should be allowed and the department of health said that no development should be allowed until plan for a safe water supply is approved.

Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows reported today that the county will enforce these requirements.

Water Emergency

BOSTON (AP) — The worst water shortage since Massachusetts began keeping records in the 1880s has resulted in 69 cities and towns operating under emergency water restrictions at year's end.

Johnson Confirms Peace Talk Drive

Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville.

The Harriman mission and a visit to Pope Paul VI by United Nations Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg were part of the most ambitious undertaking yet by the Johnson administration to end the savage fighting in Viet Nam.

In the background was the fact the United States suspension of air raids against Communist North Viet Nam entered the seventh day today though there has been no favorable response from Hanoi. Instead, Hanoi has indicated it will continue to demand peace on its own terms.

French newspapers viewed the American missions as a last attempt to negotiate peace in Viet Nam before beginning a new escalaion of the art.

"If it fails, the Americans will hit North Viet Nam ever harder," the newspaper predicted.

Other peace moves were reported underway in other world capitals. French Ambassador Philippe Baudet called on Soviet Iresident Nikolai Podgorny in Moscow today one day after U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler talked with Podgorny.

Official reports said only that Baudet and Podgorny had a "friendly conversation." But Viet Nam is a former French colony over which France fought a long war that ended in 1954 with the Geneva conference dividing the country. France's stakes are high there.

British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart met in London chief U.N. delegate, to discuss the Viet Nam peace situation. Stewart leaves soon for Latin America and will be in Washington late in January.

There were unconfirmed rumors Harriman also would visit Budapest since the Hungarians have been reported ready to take part in peace efforts.

Washington dispatches reported a point-by-point summary of U.S. aims in Southeast Asia and that Harriman and Goldberg were making the same points in their widely publicized missions.

One of the most important of these was that the United States would accept a "non-aligned" Viet Nam but that it would never accept Chinese Communist domination of Viet Nam. Left unsaid but clearly implied was the threat that unless peace was obtained Johnson would carry on his Dec. 9 warning that "other hard steps will be taken" in Viet Nam—perhaps stepped up air raids and possible raids on Hanoi.

North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh yesterday rejected an appeal by Pope Paul VI for peace in Viet Nam on grounds the United States wants war, not peace. Today, a defiant North Viet Nam said in a broadcast it was ready for any U.S. attack. It said Americans would be annihilated on the spot if they started a local war in the North.

In a letter to the pontiff broadcast by the North Vietnamese news agency in Hanoi, Ho charged the United States with "scheming" to spread the Vietnamese war to Cambodia and Laos. Repeating previous Communist conditions for a peace settlement, Ho said "aggression by the American imperialists against Viet Nam is the deep origin and direct cause of the present ar."

Communist peace demands include an end to U.S. air raids against North Viet Nam, complete withdrawal of American troops from South Viet Nam and a return to the accords of the 1954 Geneva agreement.

Radio Moscow also joined in the attack today on U.S. peace efforts. An English-language broadcast beamed at North America charged that American offers to negotiate a peace in Viet Nam were nothing but "smokescreen . . . designed to allay world indignation over this war of naked aggression."

VIET

loudspeakers last Monday at Ba To, the spokesman said, and broadcast this message to the Vietnamese troops:

"Leave the Americans, bring your weapons and join us. Did you see the dead from the last battle? Don't be like them. Join us."

Another terrorist act occurred today in Saigon when a respected newspaper editor was gunned down and killed in front of his home as he arrived for lunch with his wife and six children.

Huy was one of many Vietnamese newsmen who a few months ago received letters from the Viet Cong threatening them with death if they did not moderate their editorial policies to suit the Communist line.

Chinh Luan was the only newspaper that printed the letter, along with a message of defiance to the Viet Cong.

Before dawn 500 Viet Cong drove a South Vietnamese militia company from a government strongpoint only 4 miles from the outer defenses of the big Marine base at Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon. It was the third time in 10 weeks that the Communists had overrun Hill 60.

In the western jungles of Chau Doc, along the Cambodian border, the Viet Cong tore into a Vietnamese company at an outpost, inflicted heavy casualties and came back an hour later to hit this one and a militia post in the vicinity. They poured 50-caliber machine - gun fire in a steady drone, then slipped away with some parting shots at flare planes.

Communist forces were on the move on the waterways 15 to 25 miles southeast of Saigon itself but were caught by three armed U. S. Army helicopters. In a running battle, the helicopters sank five sampans and one barge and killed eight Viet Cong, a spokesman reported.

The Reds renewed mortar and infantry attacks in Quang Ngai province 60 miles south of Da Nang after overrunning the district town of Minh Long yesterday. Artillery and 42 tactical air strikes were directed against the Communists. Reports said the area thronged with Viet Cong.

A serious terrorist incident was narrowly averted when police discovered four mines planted in a basket of fruit in a crowded bus depot in Cholon, Saigon's Chinese quarter.

Board To Hear Of Complaints

Complaints about staff members in the city schools will be heard by the San Rafael Board of Education in a closed session starting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in a conference room of the administration building, Third and E streets.

Schools Supt. Bert C. Corona said the complaints had come from organizations as well as individuals. He declined to give further details.

Next open meeting of the board will be at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 11 in the same building.

Fair Condition

Alleine Hughes, 53, of 192 Adams Avenue, Mill Valley, remained in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital from injuries she received Tuesday when her car skidded into a ditch on Sequoia Valley Road near Mill Valley.

More than 900 potentially destructive earthquakes occur throughout the world each year, according to the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Croaker Quiet At Civic Center

The Civic Center frog was silent today.

Several listened expectantly in the hallways, but there was no sound from the ground floor planter.

Had the frog, after sending his croaks echoing through the lightwell yesterday, abandoned the Civic Center? Or was he staying silent and cozy in the planter?

"Who knows " said Leslie Wider with a shrug. He is superintendent of buildings and grounds and is responsible for frogs and other things.

Pentagon Requests Troop Shift Blackout

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department today asked news media in the United States to "refrain voluntarily" from publishing or broadcasting advance information on troop movements to Viet Nam.

Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, issued a statement saying that the Pentagon "urgently requests that news media here in the United States cooperate in the same fashion" as press corps members in Viet Nam in exercising self-censorship on such matters.

OBITUARIES

Philip Hallquist Dies At 90

Philip Hallquist, 90, a retired master mariner who sailed the seas for 62 years, died of a heart attack this morning at the Kentfield home of his son, Eric.

A resident of Marin County for 40 years, Hallquist was born in Sweden, but left his home to go to sea when he was 17. Serving as a cabin boy, he sailed to England, where he shipped board the full-rigged vessel, the Star of France, and made his first around-the-world voyage.

He came to America before the turn of the century and sailed aboard Oceanic Line ships, serving Alaska during the Klondike gold rush.

Just after the gold rush he received command of the Whittier, a tanker owned by Union Oil Co., and spent 15 years aboard the ship, sailing the Pacific Coast.

In 1926 he joined the Golden Gate Ferry Co. and served auto ferries running from Sausalito to San Francisco until the line closed with opening of the Golden Gate Bridge.

During World War II he was chief officer aboard freighters in the South Pacific, often running through combat zones.

Following the war he served as relief officer aboard ships docked at the Port of San Francisco. He did this until his retirement 11 years ago.

He lived for many years at 77 Alder Avenue, San Anselmo, before moving to his son's home at 306 Kent Avenue, Kentfield.

He was a member of the Masters, Mates, and Pilots Union, San Francisco Local 90; a life member of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Right of Free Masons, attaining the 32nd degree, and a member of the Swedish Society, Branch 1, of Oakland.

He is survived by his son, and by two daughters, Mrs. Sarah Nome of Mill Valley and Mrs. Anna Halperin of Duarte, Los Angeles County.

Funeral will be Monday at 2 p.m. at the Abbey of the Chimes, Vallejo.

HARVEY PINE

Harvey R. Pine, father of Mrs. Patricia Ann Jonsen of San Rafael, died of a heart attack yesterday at his home in San Francisco. He was 50 years old.

A native of Missouri, he had lived in California 30 years. He was a retired owner of a cleaning business. He was a member of Parksside Post of the American Legion.

Pine is survived by his wife, Hazel B. Pine of San Francisco; a son, Robert H. Pine; a daughter, Patricia Ann Jonsen; a brother, Edward Pine of Sacramento; and four grandsons.

A Requiem Mass will be offered at 7:45 a.m. tomorrow at St. Gabriel's Church, 40th Avenue and Ulloa Street, San Francisco. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at Duggan's Serra Mortuary, 500 Westlake Avenue, Daly City. Burial will be at Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Thieves Clout Cars, Yule Tree

A four-barrel carburetor was stolen from a car owned by Charles G. Griffin, 210 Auburn Street, California Park, sheriff's officers said today. The vehicle was parked at Griffin's residence.

Mary T. Adkins, 629 Main Street, Sausalito, told deputies a bag containing $11 worth of groceries and a dashboard clock were stolen from her vehicle while she visited friends at Eden Roc Apartments, Waldo Point.

MRS. WATSON

Funeral for Mrs. Penelope S. Watson, 87, of 8 Live Oak Avenue, Fairfax, will be held at 12:30 p.m. Sunday at Unity Christ Church of Marin, San Anselmo.

Mrs. Watson died Tuesday in a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of Lansing, Mich., she lived in California for 70 years and in Marin County for 30 years. She was a secretary for the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. for many years, retiring in 1940.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Doris H. Toohy of San Francisco, and two sisters, Mrs. Edith S. Dannenberg of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Rose S. Hurley of La Mesa, San Diego County.

The family requests that memorial contributions be sent to the American Heart Fund, 259 Geary Street, San Francisco.

E. A. SAVAGE

Funeral for E. A. (Dick) Savage, 73, a resident of Fairfax for about 20 years, will be held at 12:30 p.m. tomorrow at Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo. Private burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Born in Ashton-under-Lyne, England, Savage came to the United States 50 years ago. He served as a corporal in the air service of the Army Signal Corps in World War I. He had resided in California for 23 years.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ellen H. Savage, at the family home at 103 Dominga Avenue, Fairfax, and by two sons, two daughters, 12 grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

WALLIS RIESE

Funeral for Wallis R. Riese of San Anselmo, who died Tuesday of a heart attack while visiting his daughter in McFarland, Kern County, will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

Riese, 67, was a native of San Francisco, but lived most of his life in Marin County. He and his wife, Mabel E. Riese, resided at 133 Essex Avenue, San Anselmo. Riese was a retired coffee buyer for the Green Glen Coffee Co., a subsidiary of the Grace Lines Steamship Co.

Riese was a veteran of World War I. He was a member of the Bohemian Club, San Francisco.

Riese is survived by his wife, Mabel E. Riese; a son, Rev. Wallis R. Riese Jr. of Glennville, Kern County; a daughter, Mrs. Doris R. McFarland of McFarland; and five grandchildren.

Inurnment will be private. The family has requested memorial gifts be made to the Presbyterian Medical Center, San Francisco.

HARRIS CONNICK

OAKLAND (AP) — Funeral services will be held tomorrow in San Francisco for Harris D. Connick, director of the 1939 World's Fair at Treasure Island. He was 92.

Connick, who designed San Francisco's sewer system, died Tuesday. For a time he was chief assistant city engineer in San Francisco.

He directed construction of the Panama - Pacific Exposition of 1915 in San Francisco and was chief director of the Golden Gate International Exposition of 1939.

JOHN CLERICO

Funeral for John Clerico, 71, of Inverness, retired general manager of shipping for Pope and Talbot Steamship Lines, will be held tomorrow at 2 p.m. at the Ashley and McMullen Mortuary, San Francisco.

A native of Kansas, Clerico lived in California for 35 years. He died Tuesday in Williams, Colusa County, of a heart attack while duck hunting.

He was a member of Orient Masonic Lodge of Topeka, Kan.; the Marine Square Club of San Francisco, and the Point Reyes Lions Club.

He is survived by his wife, Elna; his mother, Anna Clerico, of Kansas; three sisters, Mary Hoggatt of Berkeley, Emma Underwood and Lydia Sietz of Kansas; and three brothers, Joe, Ernest and Ralph, all of Kansas.

Inurnment will be in Cypress Lawn Cemetery, Colma.

MAX SOBEL

Funeral for Max Sobel, 75, of San Francisco was held today in San Francisco.

Sobel, who died on Christmas night while on a cruise in the Caribbean, was brother of Sam Sobel, 69, also of San Francisco.

Sam Sobel has a second home at Bayside Acres near San Rafael. The obituary item in Monday's Independent-Journal erroneously stated that Max Sobel owned the Bayside Acres home.

The error caused confusion among friends as to which brother had died, according to Sam Sobel's wife, Mrs. Sylvera (Sis) Sobel.

SCOUTS PLANT 'GREEN BELT' ON HEADLANDS

Boy Scouts from several Marin troops turned out yesterday for a holiday "good turn" of planting 1,800 evergreen seedlings in a five-acre area of Fort Baker along the east side of Highway 101. Keith Rolle of Novato Troop 42 is in foreground as the boys go to work on the hillside. Mounds in background show where the small trees, mostly pines, have already been planted. Astronauts Reveal One-Foot Approach

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) —Gemini 6 cosmic hero Walter Schirra said today his spaceship closed to "about one foot" nose to nose with Gemini 7 during their historic rendezvous in space on Dec. 15.

Schirra and his co-pilot, Thomas Stafford, discussed details of their mission along with the Gemini 7 space endurance champs at a news conference.

Schirra and Stafford related how they used "exquisite" timing to bring themselves to meeting with Gemini 7 185 miles in space in sunlight so bright it pained the eyes.

Schirra said they maneuvered to the nose-to-nose position and reported:

"We did close to about one foot in this position."

The Gemini 7 Astronauts said they had a "wonderful ride" on their 14-day record space voyage despite one cliff-hanging moment with electrical fuel cells. They were "never disoriented or confused" during the marathon.

They were so relaxed they are able to read novels aloft to while away the time. One of the books Borman took along was, "Roughing It," by Mark Twain.

"With proper crew comfort provisions," Borman said, "I think people can go a month, two months," in space.

Speaking publicly for the first time since their splashdown Dec. 18, Command Pilot Borman disclosed some nervous moments at the end of the 12th day aloft.

"I did not in my own mind feel that the fuel cells were going to last another 24 hours," he said.

But the cells that provided electrical power for the space capsule came through in excellent shape, he said.

Earlier, Gemini 6 Command Pilot Walter Schirra received two medals for his cool handling of the twice-jinxed Gemini 6 mission and his ultimate achievement of a nose-to-nose formation flight Dec. 15. His co-pilot, Thomas Stafford, Borman and co-pilot James Lowell each got one medal.

This day's activities were the climax of America's most spectacular and successful year in space—a year which saw the nation send two astronauts aloft for about 1,300 man-hours.

Children Give $50 Prize To Marin City

Six Tiburon children who ganged up to win a Christmas decoration prize have donated the award, a $50 U.S. savings bond, to the Village Baptist Church of Marin City for use in that community's recreation program.

The youngsters, who call themselves the "Pelican Hill Friends of Charlie Brown," won the prize for a Christmas tree fashioned after one in the Charles Schulz comic strip, "Peanuts."

The children are Kent Reynolds, 9; Melinda Reynolds, 12; Pamela Patterson, 9; Debbie Patterson, 10; Lisa Navarro, 9, and Kevin Phillips, 11. They all live in the Pelican Hill Apartments, 4 Circle Drive.

They had a little help from the Reynolds's dachshund, Lisa, who donated her "security blanket."

The children said they had planend all along to give the prize, if they won one, to charity, and Marin City recreation was the best one they could think of.

MARRIED 80 YEARS

Oldsters Serenely Await 'Lord's Call'

FERGUS FALLS, Minn. (AP) — Ole Sholberg, 103, and his wife, Otila, 101, who live contentedly while "waiting for the Lord to call us," observe their 80th wedding anniversary next Wednesday.

"We have never had a serious quarrel," said Mrs. Sholberg in a soft voice. "He has been a good man, and we have had a happy life. We still have a happy life."

Sholberg has poor hearing and vision. His face is strong, marbled by the winter spray of the North Sea, where as a boy in Norway he helped his father fish. There are lines, too, which somehow tell how he, as a frontier husband and father in western Minnesota, shielded his family from blizzards and forest fires.

Families of the couple came to the United States two years apart.

The couple met when Ole was a boy of 15. They were married seven years later, on Jan. 5, 1886.

Sholberg borrowed $100 as the down payment on a farm and hauled 60 loads of hay into town the first summer to pay for the lumber he used to build his first two-room home. Ole was a good carpenter, and he helped build many other pioneer homes.

The Sholbergs' six daughters and two sons will be with the couple to help observe the anniversary.

On Jan. 9, sitting in their tidy Fergus Falls home which Ole built when he was 80, the couple will listen by radio to a special service at Bethlehem Lutheran church, another building which Ole helped build. The service will be dedicated to the Sholbergs. Letters of congratulations, including one from President Johnson, will be read.

"They have had a long and glorious life," he said. "They have had a beautiful marriage."

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph Blumberg, who was forced to sell has radio station in Bogalusa, La., because of harrassment by the Ku Klux Klan, will join WCBS-TV in New York as a reporter.

Marin's Traffic On Board Agenda

Growing Marin traffic snarls and possible cures for them will be discussed Wednesday by the Marin Transit District board.

The board, composed of all five county supervisors, Mayor W. E. Colthurst of Corte Madera and Councilman William Jack Adams of Novato, will meet at 8 p.m. at the Civic Center.

The seven-man board met briefly Dec. 7 and agreed to hold this special meeting to discuss the problem and its possible solutions in more detail.

Youth Council Dance Set In Mill Valley

The Mill Valley Youth Council will hold its last dance of 1965 and first one of 1966 starting at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Community and Youth Center.

The dance, to music of the Mill Valley band, Soul by Four, will last until 12:15 a.m., Saturday. Admission is free to members but guests must pay, according to Les Mize, council director.

2 Per Cent Living Cost Rise Expected

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The cost of living rose two-tenths of 1 per cent in November, the Labor Department reported today.

Prices for virtually all goods and services moved up to boost the cost of living to 110.6 per cent of the 1957-59 base period.

This meant that a dollar was worth only 90 cents by 1957-59 standards.

A Labor Department spokesman said the cost of living for this year is expected to be nearly 2 per cent above 1964—the largest annual increase since 1958.

An exception to the rising trend in November was the cost of food, which remained unchanged. Increases in fresh vegetable prices were offset by decreases in the price of fresh fruits and meats.

Among the increases were: 1 per cent for new cars, three-tenths of 1 per cent for apparel, two-tenths of 1 per cent for housing and three-tenths of 1 per cent cent for medical care.

The over-all November figure was 1.7 per cent above November, 1964. Most of the increase during the year was attributed to services and food.

Hamilton Jobs Open

The Army and Air Force board of Civil Service examiners announced today that applications for warehouseman positions at Hamilton Air Force Base will be accepted until Jan. 3. Positions will pay between $2.70 and $2.80 per hour. Applications may be obtained at the board office, 450 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco.

Roses Parade To Have Pluto, Bands, Queens

PASADENA (AP) — The nationally televised 77th yearly Tournament of Roses on New Year's Day will present:

Sixty floats carefully fashioned of innumerable flowers of infinite hue and variety and keyed to the theme "It's A Small World."

Walt Disney riding as grand marshal with Mickey Mouse seated beside him and Donald Duck, Pluto and 24 other Disney cartoon characters walking or riding behind.

Twenty-two bands made up of 2,500 musicians wearing uniforms of many colors and including such diverse aggregations as the Tenri City, Japan, High School Band and the Victoria Beefeater Band from British Columbia.

Beauties. They'll include London's Leslie Langley, 21, who recently won the Miss World title in her home city; America's Junior Miss, Patrice Saunder, 18, St. Joseph, Mich., and her four attendants from the four corner states of the nation.

Many months went into the planning, with thousands of hours devoted to the welded-rod and chicken-wire construction of floats, finally covered with myriads of gorgeous blossoms. The tournament is the traditional prelude to the Rose Bowl football game. Opponents this year are Michigan State University and the University of Califorina at Los Angeles.

Rancher Shoots Self Accidentally

SANTA PAULA, (AP)— A prominent rancher and building contractor apparently fatally shot himself by accident while chasing trespassers, police report.

Officers said the body of Mark Hanson, 53, was found yesterday near the Santa Clara River, sprawled across a barbed wire fence, a bullet wound in his head.

Ranch foreman Ray Culber, who found the body, said Hanson had gone out to chase away some hunters in the river bottom.

Marin Boy Scouts Deserve Praise For Tree-Planting

Bravo to the Marin Boy Scouts for establishing a five-acre experimental forest in the Marin Headlands.

The program of planting year-old seedlings and keeping them irrigated for the first two critical years is in keeping with the nationwide and statewide campaigns for highway beautification and conservation.

To deepen and enhance the natural beauty of the South portals of the Redwood Empire; to create . . . a green belt in an area of the Golden Gate Headlands forever dedicated to the public purpose; to capture the hearts and minds and imaginations of boys and men working together; and thereby to inspire by our example in Marin County a continuing program to enrich the countryside of America . . .

Working with the Scouts are the Sixth U.S. Army, which gave permission for the planting site, the California Redwood Assn., Redwood Empire Assn., Golden Gate Bridge officials, and various individuals and firms.

The Scouts purchased 1,800 trees from the University of California forestry nursery at Davis. They include bishop pine, Monterey pine, beach pine, gum trees and selected redwoods.

Lessons learned from the experimental grove will be applied to future plantings in the Marin Headlands.

All too often, young people suffer from the illusion that society owes them a comfortable living, the luxury of their own private cars, and amusement and recreation to fill in idle hours, in between TV viewing.

And when they run afoul of the law, the common lament is: "But what else is there to do?"

"Operation Scout Tree" by Marin youth is one answer. Instead of sitting back and waiting for a ready-made activity to be handed them on a silver platter, the Boy Scouts have created a constructive project.

The tree-planting program will keep them occupied, earn them merit badges, and at the same time serve the public, in the best Boy Scout tradition.

Shakespeare—The Birdwatcher

William Shakespeare was a man of many diverse interests, which is doubtless one reason his plays are so universally enjoyed. He loved all Nature and particularly birds.

In his works, he made 685 references to birds—including more than 50 species. He used them accurately, showing that he understood birds as well as man.

Shakespeare was evidently an ardent birdwatcher.

FERTILIZER FROM THE STORM

Thunderstorms have good as well as harmful effects, according to the National Geographic Society.

Although these atmospheric disturbances take the lives of people and animals, strip trees and flatten crops, they also produce valuable fertilizer.

About 1,800 of these storms are raging over the earth at any given moment. Winds may reach 70 miles an hour. Ice crystals form at the top which can be as high as 60,000 feet.

The lightning flashes release nitrogen — a fertilizer agent — from the air. Then rain washes this essential ingredient into the soil at the rate of 100 million tons a year.

The cycle of nature, whether in the flashing magnificence of the thunderstorm or in the mysteries of the human body, has an inner balance that is not always obvious at first glance.

By taking a reverent attitude towards every aspect of God's creation, you will be better able to use created things for the benefit of all.

Psalm 28:3

Help me realize, O Lord, that as my knowledge increases so, too, should my reverence for Your creation.

List Of Special Call Proposals Joined By Tax Loophole Plea

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Already comes the demand for items on the forthcoming special session of the Legislature, which will run concurrently, or nearly so, with the budget session next year.

Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, chairman of the Municipal and County Government Committee, is asking Gov. Edmund G. Brown to include an item to "close the $200 million property tax loophole," which he claims is occurring because of faulty administrative practices relating to personal property tax assessments.

"MOST OF THIS loss," Knox said, "is attributable to personal property reporting procedures, which function as an open invitation to falsification."

Whether Governor Brown will consider this a subject sufficiently important to include on the special call remains to be seen, but in any event, some changes in assessing practices are long overdue.

Assemblyman Knox points out to the Governor that his committee has held extensive investigations into circumstances surrounding the so-called assessor scandal.

BUT COMPLETELY aside from the criminal aspects of the scandal, the committee found that the procedures now used by most assessors are generally inadequate to detect the under-reporting of personal property.

As a result, substantial revenues escape from local government, not as a result of collusion, but rather as a result of poor administrative practices.

Knox said his committee is putting the finishing touches on a strong legislative program, which will close the administrative loopholes. Part of his proposed reform, he told the Governor, may involve a constitutional amendment which he believes should appear on the 1966 general election ballot.

His program will be concerned with administrative reforms only, and will not involve any tax reforms that may be proposed in the forthcoming session.

IN ANY EVENT, assessing practices are important, if only to see that they are equalized as far as taxpayers are concerned, and the opportunity for favoritism dispelled.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Idiotic Way To Conduct War

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Rhodesia declares her independence from the British Commonwealth, and we promptly join in imposing economic sanctions against this African country; that is, we immediately cut off all trade and commercial relations with her.

Before we took this action the British engaged and are now engaging in active business with North Viet Nam, our present mortal enemy.

When I think about our country's conduct in international affairs, I cannot avoid thinking of her as the Don Quixote among the nations of the world.—idealistic and sentimental, yes, but totally idiotic.

A Plea Against Animal Collars

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Recently we noted what seemed to us to be a most fascinating item in the "found" column of the I.J.: "Ross: Red fox wearing gold leather collar with rhinestones."

Being somewhat foolish about the wild creatures among us, we wanted to learn more about this little character. To our great sadness, we discovered he'd had to be put to sleep because that elegant gold leather collar — with rhinestones — had been so tight that his eyes were literally closed. He was mangy, sickly, weak, and generally miserable.

This serves as a further example of an excruciatingly cruel practice which is the result of carelessness, surely, rather than deliberate sadism. Time and again, living in the game refuge as we do, my husband and I encounter wild creatures — deer, raccons — with very tight collars which have obviously been put on when the animals were young and in captivity. Later, they've been turned loose or have escaped, their necks expand and the band digs deeper and deeper into the fur, then into the very flesh. Unless someone manages to get near enough to free them, which is almost impossible, they're doomed to constant misery, illness and a sad death (but a merciful one in such instances).

Perhaps, if you should see fit to print this, readers will consider the consequences of collaring any creature which may eventually be on its own and helpless to remove that rope or leather band—which becomes an agonizing noose.

At this time of the year particularly, and in view of the sad story of the little red fox, we recall a special prayer: "Dear Father, hear and bless thy beasts and singing birds—and guard with tenderness, small things that have no words."

Peace Corps Articles Needed

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Several weeks ago various news media gave extended publicity to an East Bay Peace Corps volunteer who established a school in her site (Peace Corps jargon), and the fact that natives had declared a holiday in her honor and her parents were flying to her site in Colombia . . .

But let us not forget the many unpublicized others . . .

I have a daughter, Suzanne, who has been stationed for 16 months in a barrio (shanty town) also in Columbia. She is wholly responsible for the building of a school in her barrio . . .

My daughter, with volunteer assistance from natives, is now in the midst of constructing a health center in this same barrio (most urgently needed); although construction has now been temporarily halted until additional funds can be begged or borrowed . . .

For 16 months my daughter has been living in a lean-to shanty without modern conveniences . . . No lights, no water, no gas, no bathroom facilities. She is living as the natives; loves it and is most enthused in her work of community development.

I am sure there are many readers of this column who have sons and daughters living under similar conditions and performing splendid work without the fanfare of our well-deserving volunteer in the East Bay.

. . . This past summer my wife visited numerous Peace Corps sites in South America and was amazed at the work these unsung workers have accomplished.

Let us give credit where credit is due, and I suggest that you write a series of articles about our own Marin volunteers and the work they are doing . . .

I recall reading, from time to time, announcements in your paper that so and so, the daughter of so and so, is leaving for an overseas assignment with the Peace Corps. Let us have some news about them after they have been established in their sites. . .

Kettenhofen's Wrath Funny

Thanks for the funniest story of the year—Mr. Kettenhofen's wrath at Mr. Behr's little joke. Poor Mr. B. will learn that he is travelling in the wrong company for indulgence in sage aphorisms, however mild; next time some phrase starting with "Consistency is—", or "Every cock crows—" or "Beware the Greeks—" springs to his lips, I'm sure he will take refuge in instant silence.

These Junkets Need Spotlight

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Paul Miller's cartoon on the lawmaker's junket to Puerto Rico was excellent, but just scratched the surface.

Couldn't Wat (Wat Takeshita) or another political reporter dig into this and find out what California received in return for nine Senators and Assemblymen travelling to Puerto Rico and spending more than $10,000 of the taxpayer's money?

This is only one case. Let's turn the spotlight on all such junkets so we can expose the violation of a trust where public funds have been unnecessarily spent.

BENNETT CERF

OSCAR LEVANT recalls a day when his father, a successful jewelry store proprietor in Pittsburgh, was asked by a customer for a written guarantee. His father wrote one out, then asked the customer to sign it—which he did.

Lavant once squired a decidedly unenthusiastic Mrs. George Kaufman to a concert featuring the Bach "B-Minor Mass." He dallied so long over dinner that she playfully reminded him, "If you don't get a move on, we'll miss the intermission."

FAVORITE—AND most alluring—of the late Aly Khan's countless female companions was the glamorous French model, Bettina. Now Bettina has published her autobiography. In it she has this bit of advice for other members of the so-called weaker sex: "The more one can forget one's face, the longer one will remain young. Women who live in an agony of apprehension about losing their youth will lose it ten times faster than those who don't. It is not their bodies they should be attending to, but their souls."

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

If There Is Johnson-Humphrey Discord, You'll Never Know

By ANDREW J. GLASS
(For Roscoe Drummond)

WASHINGTON — Soon after Lyndon Johnson chose Hubert Humphrey as his running mate, the President took him aside and said: "Hubert, the time will come when people will try to divide us."

Recently, the President reminded Humphrey of that conversation and mentioned some ways in which he thought his prophecy was coming true.

Since neither Johnson nor Humphrey buys the political adage that a President and his vice president are natural rivals, they didn't treat the moves Johnson described too seriously. At the end of their talk, they broke into laughter over the entire affair.

BUT THE Johnson-Humphrey relationship, as any political marriage, goes through periods of internal stress. Many good days and a few bad ones pass between the leader in the White House and the man who works next door and calls himself the President's "partner."

It is inconceivable that Johnson or Humphrey would ever acknowledge any difference of opinion. Both the President and the vice president think this is the way professionals in places of power ought to behave. If the President found reasons to be unhappy during his own tenure as vice president, Johnson never once complained out loud.

Policy decisions, as during the Kennedy years, are forged in secret memos and in private chambers. When Humphrey's view is solicited, he gives it freely. But then he supports whatever course the President elects, even though his advice might have been ignored.

AS THESE decisions are made public, Johnson and Humphrey and men around them undergo a curious echo-like sensation in witnessing their earlier moves being transmitted back to them by the mass media — sometimes days, weeks, or even months after they were set.

Within the Johnson White House, all major policy problems, foreign and domestic, are kept secret until a decision is ready to be announced. This attitude now tends to prevail throughout the government.

IT WAS NOT always so. The Kennedy New Frontiersmen sometimes would divulge their plans to test them in public. If they met acceptance, they would often be embraced; if not, they could easily be disavowed.

Johnson, quite to the contrary, firmly believes that premature disclosure can have the effect of narrowing his options.

In the case of Humphrey's trip to the Far East, reporters were told by sources who were proven wrong that Humphrey would visit Saigon. They were also told that the President could change his mind should his plans be revealed prematurely.

This time, it appears the reporters were misled. Bill Moyers, the President's press secretary, did his best to set the record straight.

Even so, were all the facts made available? Had, in fact, the State Department recommended that such a Humphrey visit to Viet Nam take place? Had Johnson vetoed the idea on the grounds that erroneous slants could be put on the Humphrey visit by the press? Had a key Johnson aide again broached the issue when the President decided to send Humphrey to Manila? Had the President then observed that this was not the right time for such a visit?

Cuba Getting Ready For Big Red Parley

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — There will be much furious haranguing and fulminating against U.S. "imperialism" at the Tricontinental Conference dictator Fidel Castro is staging in Havana Jan. 3-10, but the really significant castigating will be that which takes place out of sight among feuding Communist delegations.

Red delegations from more than 100 Latin American, African and Asian countries are slated to be on hand; some "official," others as "observers." A number of these rival groups are fiercely at odds among themselves. For example:

LEADERS OF three ultra-left Dominican factions quietly slipped out of the country ostensibly to go to Europe. Actually, they went to Prague to enplane for Cuba. One group is pro-Soviet, another aligned with Red China, the third avowing allegiance to Castro.

For months these rival elements have been violently railing against each other. In a recent blast the Peiping faction assailed the Moscow adherents as "modern revisionists . . . . against genuine anti-imperialist and popular movements."

Only U.S. group known to be planning to attend is the pro-Castro Puerto Rican Independence Movement, which is sending several delegates.

Fidel's brother, Defense Minister Raul Castro, and his wife, Vilma, have been working since September organizing the conference. Significantly, they spent weeks in Moscow during which Vilma made a broadcast that sounded the progaganda keynote of the Havana meeting.

"IF LITTLE CUBA, located only 90 miles from North American imperialism," she declaimed, "is able to carry out its revolution, then all peoples everywhere can do so."

Fidel Castro is claiming he originated the idea of the Tricontinental Conference to strikingly demonstrate the success and world-wide impact of his revolution.

There are strong reasons to believe the Kremlin actually initiated the affair and used Castro as a front. Purpose of the Soviet was two-fold: To stage a far-flung anti-Viet Nam propaganda attack against the U.S. in its own front yard; to display Moscow's dominance over Peiping among Communist parties, particularly in Latin America.

RED CHINA is participating in this assembly to bolster its supporters in the Western Hemisphere, and to get in what licks it can in the strident ideological feuding with Russia.

THIS INITIAL affair took place with the blessing of President Gamal Nasser, with whom the State Department is concluding another $150 million "sale" — for his currency — of surplus grain and other foods. Under the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, the UAR dictator has obtained more than $500 million of these commodities.

The one-time Texas public relations man, whose recent effusive laudation of the President ("I sleep better at night because I know he is in the White House") has been widely derided, is being urged to take the Rome post by Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, chief Administration adviser on the Soviet bloc.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By STEPHEN COOK

There Was A Doll In The Manger; Poodle Causes Resubscription

Last week, the Independent-Journal published two stories about some rather heretical thefts which occurred in the City of San Anselmo. Twice, some hoodlum stole figures of the Christ child from a nativity scene on the lawn in front of city hall. After the second theft, the city had no more figurines of the baby Jesus to lay in the manger, and Fire Chief Frank Souza, whose men maintain the manger scene, said he was not sure the statues would be replaced.

Well, the story has a happy post script. Mrs. Pat P. Looney of 68 Bennett Avenue, San Anselmo, read the stories in the I-J. Shew as incensed by the thefts and saddened that, with Christmas quickly approaching, the city's nativity scene was lacking its central figure.

MRS. LOONEY looked through her house and found an old doll, one which did not walk, talk, wet its pants or say mama. She brought the rare doll to the firehouse and offered it as a substitute for the Christ child. The doll was gratefully accepted by Chief Souza and his men and, on Christmas Eve, it was placed in the manger.

Just in case the thief has any ideas about coming back to snatch this Christ child, I should point out that he would probably be as successful trying to drive off with a city fire engine. San Anselmo police, embarrassed at the thought of two so outrageous thefts occurring in their front yard, have rigged an elaborate alarm system.

IF THE DOLL is lifted from the manger, a bell jangles loudly in the police office at the dispatch officer's desk. Fireman Richard J. Lamb said he was selected to test the alarm Friday "and I almost got shot before I could lift the doll from the manger."

Poodle dogs are fascinating people.

Mrs. Marie Hunsberger of 385 Corte Madera Avenue, Corte Madera, was a steady subscriber to the Independent-Journal for 23 years. For the last six of those years, she had a pet poodle by the name of Denise. Denise, too, was an avid fan of the I-J, or so it seems. Each afternoon, she would sit with eyes riveted down the road where she knew the paper boy would appear. When the paper plopped at the foot of the stairs, the pooch would bound down, pick up the paper in its teeth, drop it at Mrs. Hunsberger's feet and then go off to take her daily meal.

ALL WAS FINE in the Hunsberger household until Mrs. Hunsberger got angry a couple weeks ago and canceled her subscription. That was when Denise stopped eating. Forlornly she sat at the foot of the stairs each day, waiting for the paper which never came. Mrs. Hunsberger swears she tried putting another newspaper at the foot of the stairs. Denise simply ignored it, she said. A psychologically hip veternarian diagnosed Denise's refusal to eat as the result of some emotional trauma. Mrs. Hunsberger decided to give in.

Last week she called the I-J and re-opened her subscription. "I could do without the paper, but my dog can't," she explained. At the time this column was written, Denise was still at the vet's and the remedy had not been tested.

REMEMBER WHEN?

20 YEARS AGO

A campaign was started to raise $1,900 for purchase of a stand of virgin redwoods in the heart of Mill Valley, to save the trees lying between West Blithedale and Corte Madera avenues.

William George King of 316 G Street, San Rafael, an engineer on the Northwestern Pacific Railroad's passenger run between San Rafael and Willits, retired after working for the company since 1898.

Americans' Hospital Sojourns Shorter Than They Used To Be

The average hospital stay has been cut from 14 days in 1935 to 7.7 days now. At present prices, most patients can't afford to be sick any longer than that.

In Hungary the name Zzyzst is almost as common as goulash.

PIANOS ARE getting more colorful. You can now buy keyboards in eight pastel tints.

There's no fuel like an old fuel. Coal is believed to have been first used by the Chinese about 3,500 years ago. Today it takes a ton of coal to make a ton of steel.

The American Indians are at the bottom of the U.S. economic totem pole. The average reservation family has an annual income of only $1,500 and unemployment runs about 50 per cent, more than 10 times the national average.

History lesson: Few U.S. presidents were noted for their musical accomplishments. Exceptions: Thomas Jefferson and John Tyler played the violin, Calvin Coolidge the harmonica, Warren G. Harding the cornet, and Harry S. Truman the piano.

IF SOMEONE tells you he's suffering from keraunophobia, don't waste too much sympathy. He's just afraid of lightning.

The government is getting more helpful all the time. For example, the U.S. Department of Agriculture recommends packing breakable items in popcorn for shipping through the mails. The popcorn gives better protection than wadded paper.

Fun in cells: The prison publication, "Mountain Echoes," published by inmates of Manitoba Penitentiary, has an entertainment editor.

Folklore: If you have company on Monday you'll have company the rest of the week. A bride married in a blue gown will have a husband who'll always stay true. The nosebleed is a sign of lovesickness. To get rid of warts rub them with a bean and then bury it—and when the bean sprouts the warts will go away.

WORTH remembering: "Middle age is when the narrow waist and the broad mind begin to change places."

Medical note: At least 13 out of every 100 adult Americans has some form of heart ailment.

Quips from our contemporaries: Pianist George Shearing was once asked whether he had been blind all his life. "No," said the 45-year-old musician. "Not yet."

College Offers Course For Headstart Volunteer Aides

In an attempt to get trained volunteers to work with preschool children in the Sausalito School District's "Head Start" program, College of Marain's evening college will offer a course in pre-school and primary school programs beginning at 12:30 p.m. Jan. 11, at Manzanita School in Marin City.

The 10-week course will feature lectures by psychologists, pre - school and elementary school educators and experts in learning problems and intergroup relations, according to evening college dean Roy G. Mikalson.

Mikalson said the program was planned after Sausalito School District officials pointed out the need for volunteer workers in the Head Start program, which began at Manzanita School last summer.

"One of the secrets of the success of some Head Start programs seems to be the close personal relationship and individual attention given each child. We hope to develop nonprofessional support for the teachers," Mikalson said.

The course will train volunteers to work with the individual pre-school child, Mikalson said, particularly socially or culturally deprived youngsters. It will be coordinated by Mrs. Adah-Marie Miller, counselor at Manzanita School.

Guest lecturers scheduled for the course include: Dr. Staten Webster, intergroup relations consultant for the Sausalito and Mill Valley school districts; Dr. Mary B. Lane, professor of elementary education at San Francisco State College; Dr. Hobart Thomas, chairman of the psychology department at Sonoma State College, and Dr. Grace B. Cox, chairman of the Marin School Psychologists Assn.

The college will register persons for the course in advance at the evening college office in Room 2 of Harlan Hall on the Kentfield campus or at the first class meeting, according to Mikalson.

Marinites Pass Engineer Exams

Successful Marin applicants in examinations for registration as land surveyors and civil engineers have been announced by the state Board of Registra-Engineers.

Registered as civil engineers are Robert K. Heron, 709 Hacienda Way; Warren E. Nute, 40 Rafael Drive and James R. Rogers, 258 Flagstone Terrace, all of San Rafael.

Marine On Leave

College Trains 341 Jobless For New Positions

Since enactment of the Federal Manpower Training Act in 1962, College of Marin has used funds granted by the act to train 341 unemployed persons for jobs in eight occupational fields, according to Joseph E. Berruezo, assistant dean of technical and vocational education at the college.

The trainees, selected by the San Rafael office of the state Department of Employment, have been taught skills for jobs as clerks, secretaries, nurse aides, custodians, gardeners, registered nurses, service station attendants and retail store clerks.

Another 210 persons are now training or will begin courses in 1966 under the program, according to Berruezo.

After matriculating from the college program, the trainees are placed in jobs by the department of employment. The program at the college is totally financed by the federal government, Berruezo said.

Sheriff's Air Patrol Slates Annual Dinner

Installation of new officers of the Marin County Sheriff's Air Patrol will take place at a dinner at Peacock Gap, Jan. 15 at 8 p.m.

William Fuller of San Francisco succeeds Marvin Gerber of San Rafael as captain; new lieutenant is David Morris of San Bruno, while Daniel Duffcy of San Rafael is the newly elected adjutant.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

Pacific Coast Title Co. Merges With Larger, State-Wide Farm

The affiliation of Pacific Coast Title Co., San Rafael, with Security Title Insurance Co. of Los Angeles has been announced by Rolfe C. Croker, president of the locally owned firm.

Croker says this will enable Pacific Coast Title to give greater service since Security Title covers 39 California counties and the states of Hawaii and Washington. It is one of the largest and oldest companies of its kind in the state, with 24 million dollars in assets.

Pacific Coast Title, a wholly owned corporation, maintains its own branch offices in Mill Valley and Novato.

THERE'S A POSSIBILITY that Kientz's Pastry Shop in San Anselmo will open a branch in the Sunny Hills Shopping Center on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard — depending mainly on whether Safeway Stores, one of the prime lessees, decides to have a bakery shop of its own when it goes in here.

As choice as the location is, it would hardly justify having two of them so close together.

If Kientz does become a tenant, chances are the entire doughnut operation will be transferred from the San Anselmo Avenue location, according to Richard Kientz. The rest of the bakery would continue on here as before.

The only firm tenants announced so far for Sunny Hills have been Safeway, Long's Drug Stores and a delicatessen —Petrini's Gourmet Foods. (This is not Petrini's of Greenbrae, but a second location for Sil Petrini who has Kountry Kitchen Delicatessen and Meats at Northgate).

Rains

EARL L. RAINS of San Rafael has been elected president of the San Francisco Food Brokers Assn. He is executive vice president of William O. Dooms Co., dry and frozen foods brokerage firm head-quartered in Oakland.

He succeeds another Marin resident, Gordon H. Hellwig, of San Anselmo, in the top association post. Hellwig is a member of Madden, Hellwig Associates.

ACCORDING to some projections for the future, there's a slight possibility that Marin County's population may reach the 200,000 mark during the coming year. Pacific Gas and Electric Co. estimates place it at 199,000 by Jan. 1, 1967—which could easily vary 1,000 one way or the other.

Among other things, getting into the 200,000 bracket means that during 1966 two out of every three people migrating to the so-called North Bay Area (Lake, Marin, Mendocino, Napa, Solano and Sonoma Counties) will have to stop in Marin — and go no farther.

WRONG ADDRESS. Location of the newly opened L. S. T. Sales Co. is 1611 Fourth Street, San Rafael—not 1616 Fourth, as stated in this column Monday.

JAY HALE of Larkspur has been elected to the board of directors of the Leading Life Insurance Producers of Northern California, an affiliate of the National Assn. of Life Underwriters. He is a past president of the organization. New president is former Sausalito resident Robert B. Williams.

CONGRATULATIONS to Joseph Picinich of Fairfax, who was recently presented with the "Gold Card" life membership in San Anselmo American Legion Post No. 179. This is only the sixth one given out by the post since its organization in 1919 and the first to a World War II veteran. I'm told by present commander Harold DuPree, Picinich has been sergeant at arms for nine years and is a past commander of the post.

Bay Air Carrier Gains Support

OAKLAND— Recommendation of a CAB examiner that Trans International Airlines be granted a three year authority to continue to provide trans-Atlantic charter service was announced this week by company president, Glenn A. Cramer.

Pending the decision of the examiner, Trans International was recently granted temporary authority to fly the Atlantic in 1966. This new action, when approved by the board, will make the temporary certificate permanent for the next three years.

The company recently purchased two large 258-passenger Douglas Super 61 fan jets which will be used in trans-Atlantic charter service in early 1967.

YOUR DOLLAR

Executor Manages Property For Heirs

By ANDREW BALDWIN

Your executor takes your place in the management of your property after you pass away. It can be a thankless job few people, especially the beneficiaries, appreciate.

His duties are many and include the offering of your will to the court with proof that it is your last will, the settlement of all your outstanding bills, notification of your creditors, and the payment of any taxes owed to the state or federal governments.

He must be above reproach in all estate matters, fair to all the beneficiaries, business-like and careful in his management of your property, and must perform his duties promptly so that your legatees, devisees, and heirs receive their shares within a reasonable time after you have passed away.

In administering your estate, your executor is under the supervision of the probate court. Unless in the will he is relieved of bond, it is necessary for him to file a bond to guarantee that he will faithfully perform his duties and protect the assets of the estate. A bank acting as executor need not file bond, because banks deposit bonds as a guarantee with the state treasurer.

The supervision of court continues until the distribution of the estate, and if there is a trust under your will, then the court retains supervision of the trust for certain specified purposes.

One of the first steps of an executor is to examine the contents of a safe-deposit box in the presence of the inheritance-tax representative in order to determine the nature and extent of the property owner.

Arrangements will also be made for dividend checks, rents and other payments to reach him, and he will see that real estate taxes and fire insurance are maintained.

It is also customary for your executor to inquire into the financial needs of your family at a very early point, and for the court to grant a family allowance from the estate. The executor and lawyers will advise the family as to the collection of insurance proceeds.

Another important duty which an executor performs is the determination and payment of debts and taxes; expenses of your last illness and funeral and other obligations, notes, contracts, and general household bills must be determined and paid. A complete record is kept of each item.

In each estate a determination must be made of the state inheritance tax due. Property transferred by will and joint tenancy, property belonging to the decedent may be a part of the taxable estate. The basis of value of California taxes, and a number of other costs, is the inventory and appraisement. The inventory is a list of the assets of the estate valued by an inheritance-tax appraiser.

When these and many other steps have been taken care of, when all claims and bills have been settled and notice to creditors given (six months) has expired, and all taxes have been determined and paid, and when the estate is in condition to be closed, the executor files his accounts with the court and requests permission to make distribution to legatees, devises and into any trust created under the terms of the will.

White House Eyes Changes In Deductions

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you get a higher-than-average paycheck, the government may soon be taking a bigger bite out of it in the form of increased income tax deductions.

This would be the principal effect of a proposed overhaul of the income tax withholding system. It also would mean lower deductions for those in the lower income brackets.

The change would substitute one of three graduated withholding rates for the present flat rate. It would not change income tax rates.

Treasury officials decline to discuss details. Presumably, the decision on whether to propose the change will be made by President Johnson. The ultimate decision will rest with Congress.

There is a possibility that the administration may use the withholding tax as an economic weapon just as it did in 1964. However, this time it would be employed to take more funds out of the hands of consumers to reduce the threat of inflation.

In 1964, the withholding rate was set lower than necessary in order to put more money in the hands of consumers quickly and eliminate a potential business letdown.

The amount of this "braking power" would not be great — perhaps $1 billion to $3 billion —but government economists may conclude that it is the handiest anti - inflation weapon available. Administration officials believe it would be more acceptable to Congress than an income tax increase.

Last year, middle- and upper-bracket taxpayers complained that the 1964 withholding was too low — many were left with sizeable tax bills when settlement time rolled around.

Regardless of the economic effects, a Treasury official said, the primary objective of any change would be to bring the withholding rate more closely in line with the actual tax.

Firm Gets Contract For Landing Mats

OAKLAND (AP) — Kaiser Aluminum Corp. reports it has been awarded a contract for almost $25 million by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for a new type of aluminum aircraft landing mat.

Kaiser said the mat weighs approximately four pounds per square foot, some 35 per cent less than the standard mat. It makes use of an aluminum honeycomb core sandwiched between two heat - treated aluminum sheets and framed by aluminum extrusions.

Exchanges, Banks Operate Tomorrow

NEW YORK (UPI)—All major U.S. securities exchanges will operate as usual tomorrow. Banks also will be open.

U.S. commodities exchanges, however, will be closed in early observance of the New Year's holiday.

Research Grant

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller, Arkansas industrial and agricultural leader, has made a $50,000 unrestricted gift to the Graduate Research Center of the Southwest, the organization announced.

Big Potato Crop

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department forecasts production of 1966 winter potatoes 40 per cent larger than last year with increases indicated in both California and Florida.

Stocks Show Recovery With Airlines Strong

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed higher today with airlines strong.

Aerospace defense issues, however, were soft amid reports of the U.S. peace offensive.

The defense stocks were higher in early trading but gradually wilted.

General Motors showed increasing strength toward the end but steels did very little, Jones & Laughlin suffering late weakness.

Gains by assorted blue chips bolstered the averages but cross currents made the rise irregular. General Electric was up about 2.

Volume for the day was estimated at 7.2 million shares compared with 7.61 million yesterday.

Here was the picture near the close:

Airlines continued to rebound from recent selling. Up around 2 were KLM, National, Delta, Pan American, Eastern and United. Gains of about a point were made by American, Northwest, Continental and TWA.

Aerospace defense issues sold off in the afternoon after displaying a higher tone in the morning despite the U.S. peace offensive. United Aircraft lost more than a point. Douglas Aircraft and General Dynamics were down slightly. Boeing was up a fraction.

Color televisions and other electronics did well. Zenith rose 3, Magnavox about 1½, Motorola about 1 and Radio Corp. a fraction.

Sperry Rand climbed nearly a point. IBM added 2.

The top steelmakers showed little if any change. Most motors were fractional gainers.

Brunswick, up a fraction, was leading the list on volume.

Prices were generally higher in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds were mostly unchanged.

Novato Bucks Annual Drop In Building

The City of Novato went against the usual seasonal slump in construction by issuing more building permits in November than during any month since incorporation six years ago.

According to figures published by the Marin County Development Assn., Novato granted $2,315,205 in permits, including two permits totaling $518,500 for structures in the new shopping center being built there by Hoytt Enterprises.

Permits for new construction in the whole of Marin, however, dropped to $4,710,609, keeping the total of $76,062,196 so far this year, eight per cent below that of the same period last year.

San Rafael, in issuing $343,599 in permits, contributed its lowest monthly total since January, 1960. November is traditionally a poor producer of permits for new construction, according to the association's report.

Airline Computerizes Reservations System

NEW YORK—Trans World Airlines has announced purchase of electronic computer equipment to provide for a fully automated centralized passenger reservations system and a total management information system.

Nerve center will be a Burroughs Corp. D830 computer system. It will be located in Rockleigh, N.H. The system will represent an initial capital investment of about $25 million, exclusive of nationwide transmission lines and the Rockleigh facility.

Hewlett-Packard Has Record Sales, Profit

PALO ALTO—Hewlett-Packard Co. has reported record sales and earnings for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31.

Sales totaled $163,717,592, an increase of 22 per cent over 1964 sales of $134,072,197. Net income increased from $10,038,564 in 1964 to $13,907,212, a gain of 38 per cent. Earnings in 1965 were equivalent to $1.12 a share on 12,129,013 shares of common stock outstanding on Oct. 31. This compares with 80 cents a share on 12,019,062 shares outstanding in 1964.

An Open Letter To Tom Prothro

Ladies and gentlemen, this is a public service feature of this station—our annual attempt to cut down on the holiday accident toll. In the Rose Bowl. What follows is an open letter to coach Tommy Prothro—with a copy to the International Red Cross, the League Against Capital Punishment and the Committee for Industrial Safety.

"Dear Tommy:

"I hate to worry you at a time like this but have you SEEN the Michigan State football team in uniform yet? Tommy, it looks like a casting call for a remake of 'King Kong'—44 guys bucking for the lead in 'The Creature That Ate Europe.'

"TOMMY, YOU shouldn't play these guys, you should ride 'em. I have seen smaller things with sedan chairs on their backs. You wonder how they got the helmet on over the horns. Someone asked a Big 10 coach how you play them and, in the immortal words of the funny man, Don Rickles, the answer was 'With a Cape.'

"Of course, I don't want to worry your kids too much. Just tell them that Michigan State is not superhuman—they pull their pants on one hoof at a time.

"OF COURSE, it would be a mistake, too, to think they're sub-human. Just because they growl on the practice field, I mean. To be sure, you would feel better if you heard them speak on it, too. You might insist on an oral test, just to be safe, Tommy. But if one of them says 'Me Tarzan, you Jane,' frisk him for that chimp he's always carrying around to help him out.

"None of them showed up in loin cloths, I have to admit, but they do have this one guy from Samoa. I think they had one from Borneo, too, but he ate the net. Either that or he got tossed out of school for cooking in his room. The sociology professor. Or his roommate. I forget which.

"THEY GOT one other guy from the islands who kicks barefoot. I don't know if he wears a grass skirt, or whether they have to fly in an orchid to put on his scrambled eggs every morning, but he punts the ball so high it comes down with snow on it. You not only don't get to run the punts back but there are some days he punts in the first quarter and it doesn't come down till the fourth. Fortunately, he doesn't have to punt very much. With this team, he gets much more work with kickoffs.

"If you have any notion of running on this team, Tommy, forget it. The only direction you can move is backwards. If they all jumped into Lake Michigan at the same time, it would overflow. Their front line is so big, when they ran a picture of it on the front page of the Detroit Free Press, they had to mark it 'Continued on page 11.' Even then, they only got to the left guard. They goe one lineman named 'Bubba Smith' who's so big that Fearless Frank Finch (Los Angeles sportswriter) pointed to his portrait the other day and said, 'There's a group picture of Bubba Smith.' You don't play him, you climb him.

"THEY HELD Ohio State to zero first downs rushing and you can't do much worse than that. Ohio State lost 22 yards rushing, and they tell me that, at the end of a game, Ohio State was trying to chew up the clock even though they were 25 points behind. They didn't want to hang around long enough for Michigan State to get hungry, I guess. Apropos of that, it might be a good idea to take roll call after every offensive play, Tommy.

"There was one encouraging note. None of the coaches at practice carried whips or chains. And Coach Duffy Daughtery said his team lists 10 objectives for the defense and offense for every game and I checked them very carefully and none of them said 'Bury the bones' or even 'Don't bite.'

"THE OBJECTIVES were things like 'Block at least one out of three punts,' 'Intercept three out of four passes,' that modest kind of objective. And where it used to be 'Don't let the other guy score' after Notre Dame (minus 12 yards) and Ohio State (minus 22) it is now 'Don't let the other guys get the ball.' They also have 'Don't fumble.' 'Don't trip' and, probably, 'Don't eat with your fingers.'

"If they come out carrying knives and forks and bottles of ketchup, Tommy, I got one commandment for your squad: 'Don't show up' It's better to be hors de combat than hors d'oeuvres.

Tars Are Tourney Champs

I-J Special Report

SANTA MONICA—College of Marin's basketball team made the trip to the Santa Monica Invitational Tournament a successful one by taking the championship honors.

The Tars downed host Santa Monica 68-62 in a championship game last night. It was a very close game, as the final period and 32-32 halftime score indicates.

Marin jumped out to a 10-point lead in the first half but Santa Monica came back to tie it up. Then in the second half, the game was knotted 10 times. With three minutes left, Marin led 63-56, but that lead shrunk to 65-62 with one minute left.

Marin's Don Hanson duplicated his scoring output of the first tourney game Tuesday when he meshed 23 points against Santa Monica last night. He had the same amount when the Tars downed Chaffey J.C. in the opener. Chaffey won third place in the tourney, however, when it edged Palamar 77-75 in overtime last night.

Hanson's play earned him recognition as most valuable player of the tourney. Teammate Rod Monti was named to the all-tourney team along with Hanson.

Marin scoring: Arnold, 2-0-4; Monti, 4-3-11; Halm, 3-5-11; Galassi, 6-2-14; Hanson, 10-3-23; Wolfe, 0-1-1; Brody, 2-0-4. Totals: 27-14—68.

Santa Monica scoring: Sigrist, 1-0-2; Houston, 7-0-14; Miller, 2-5-9; Donovan, 9-3-21; Peters, 2-4-8; Whooper, 1-0-2; Hawkins, 3-0-6. Totals: 25-12—62.

Texas Tech Favored In Gator Bowl

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The Go-Go mania of youth is epitomized in the 21st annual Gator Bowl football game tomorrow afternoon between Texas Tech and Georgia Tech, who both knew every way to score and few ways to stop an opponent.

Donny Anderson, Texas Tech halfback who reportedly will sign the richest pro football contract in history after the game, is the most explosive of the two talented bands of point makers and the chief reason the Red Raiders from West Texas are favored by one to three points.

Anderson catches passes, runs from scrimmage, runs back punts and kickoffs and handles all of Texas Tech's punting.

"The complete do-it-himself football player," he is described by his coach J. T. King.

Green Bay of the National Football League and Houston of the American Football League are fighting to offer a reputed $800,000 in bonus and salary for Anderson's efforts over the next few years.

The bowl game also offers a battle of quarterbacks to entertain a capacity bowl crowd of 60,000 and a national television (ABC) audience. The game will

USF Dons Shooting For Title

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—The San Francisco Dons meet the University of California-Santa Barbara tonight for the West Coast Athletic Conference preseason basketball tourney title.

Russ Banko of Santa Barbara scored 22 points for the Gauchos in a semifinal 69-56 victory over San Jose State. Joe Ellis with 23 points led the Dons to their 76-61 win over Pacific.

San Jose State and Pacific meet for third place.

In the consolation rounds, Santa Clara meets St. Mary's for fifth place and Pepperdine opposes Loyola of Los Angeles for seventh.

Pacific lost the ball to the Dons several times on bad passes and control errors. San Francisco needed to take advantage of these errors, because Pacific was controlling the backboards.

Santa Barbara's zone defense forced San Jose to shoot from the outside and the Spartans were not connecting. The Spartans hit only 28 per cent from the floor.

Santa Clara's captain Eric Paulson led the Broncos to victory over Pepperdine with 18 points.

St. Mary's was paced by Don Devincenzi who scored 29 points and Joe Callaghan who tallied 22. The Gaels set a league record of 6.84 per cent of their shots from the floor. Dick Sebek with 24 was high man for Loyola.

Stanford, Oregon St. In Far West Cage Final

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Stanford has the height. Oregon State has the quickness. Only one can prevail when they meet for the Far West Classic basketball tournament title tonight.

Oregon State, which defeated Arizona State 56-46 last night, also has a tradition: Never a loss in this 10-year-old tournament. The Staters now have 26 straight tournament victories.

Stanford showed it could handle at least one team with quickness when it defeated Utah State 93-79 yesterday.

Utah State used its speed to stay with Stanford through 25 minutes of play, but gradually Stanford's domination of the backboards turned the tide.

Both Stanford and Oregon have 5-3 records this season.

In consolation play yesterday, Michigan defeated Air Force 83-74 and Washington State downed Oregon 76-58.

The consolation play schedule calls for Michigan 5-4 to play Washington State 8-1 for fourth place and Oregon 3-3 to meet Air for seventh place today.

Arizona State 6-4 will play Utah State 7-5 for third place at 7 p.m. The title game will be at 9 p.m.

Seals Whip Leafs, 5-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

San Francisco dumped the Western Hockey League leaders 5-3 last night to hand the Leafs their second straight defeat on the ice where they used to seem invincible. Victoria had run up a string of 14 straight at home before losing to Seattle last Saturday.

Michel Harvey and Wayne Connelly fashioned the San Francisco victory, the Seals third straight over the Maple Leafs. Harvey picked up a goal early in the second period and two more in the third to complete the hat trick. Connelly connected for the other two Seal tallies.

Tam Wrestlers Win Three-Way Meet

Tamalpais High School's wrestling team won a three-way match yesterday in the Indians' gym. Tam scored 69 to 42 for Montgomery of Santa Rosa and 31 for Terra Nova of Pacifica.

The Indians are now 6-1 on the season, their only loss coming last week at the hands of McClymonds of Oakland.

Three Unanimous Picks For East NBA All-Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Lucas, Wilt Chamberlain and Bill Russell were unanimous selections yesterday to play for the Eastern team in the National Basketball Association All Star game at Cincinnati on January 11.

Lucas, Cincinnati's tough rebounder; Chamberlain, the 7-foot-1 Philadelphia center, and Russell, Boston's defensive ace, were named on all 67 ballots cast by sports writers and broadcasters in the nine league cities.

Five other players were chosen for the East team. They were Willis Reed of New York, John Havlicek and Sam Jones of Boston, Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati and Hal Greer of Philadelphia.

All the East players named have All Star experience except Havlicek. Russell will be playing in his ninth consecutive game.

Two more players chosen by the Eastern Division coaches will be named to the team next week completing the 10-man squad.

Giants Feature East-West Teams

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—If running into a stone wall is enjoyable because it's so much fun when you quit, the runners of the East and the West should be a happy bunch when tomorrow's football game ends.

Both squads for this 41st annual Shrine charity game at Kezar Stadium pose massive defenders. Gametime is 1:30 p.m. It will be televised on Channel 4.

At ends, the East can put Aaron Brown of Minnesota, an All America of 240 pounds, and Bill Yearby of Michigan at 230. Tackles Doug Van Horn of Ohio State and Gale Gillingham of Minnesota tip scales at 236 and 240 while Pittsburgh's Joe Novogratz carries 230 at middle guard.

Then, if Mike Garrett & Co. get through those monsters, they have linebackers Dwight Kelley of Ohio State and Frank Emanuel of Tennessee at 220 to contend with.

While Garrett, the Heisman Trophy winner from Southern California, and Walt Garrison of Oklahoma State, are batting heads with the big guys of the East, the West will be resting a crew to deal with Jim Grabowski of Illinois, Bill Wolski of Notre Dame and Tom Barrington of Ohio State.

These runners will deal with such standouts as Jeff Smith of Southern California at 236, his college teammate Chuck Arrobio at 243, Greg Kent of Utah at 270 and the biggest man ever in this game, and Charlie Harper of Oklahoma State at 245.

All America Carl McAdams at 225 and Jack (Mad Dog) O'Billovich of Oregon State provide the linebacking. O'Billovich goes at 230.

Back in 1938 the East and West played to the only scoreless tie in the annals of this battle which has earned nearly $5 million for the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children. Yet last year the West won 11-7 on the margin of two safeties provided by the defense.

Each club will operate from a spread type offense to give advantage to their passers. Yet the weatherman may provide an equal disadvantage. Rain has fallen in the early part of the week and showers remain a possibility for the game itself.

A crowd of about 56,000 plus an NBC national television audience will watch the game. Should it come to a passing duel, John Hankinson of Minnesota and Tom Hodges of Virginia will do the throwing for the East with Paul Stein of the Air Force and Tod Hullin of Washington passing for the West.

Odds which favored the East by 6½ points at nearby Reno, and it appeared might drop to three before game time as the weather was watched.

The West won in a rain and mud struggle a year ago and has 19 victories to 16 defeats and 5 ties. The difference results from the opening games when the West won three straight starting in 1925.

A Full Slate For Armchair Quarterbacks

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The national championship, the country's longest winning string and enormous amounts of prestige go on the line this weekend in collge football's annual wind-up extravanganza — the major bowl games.

The television line-up is such that armchair quarterbacks can watch at least portions of all four of the big ones New Year's Day — the Rose, Cotton, Sugar and Orange.

It starts at 2 p.m., EST, and goes continuously until about 10 p.m.

And if that isn't enough, viewers can start working on their red eyes New Year's Eve with the Gator Bowl and the East-West All-Star game. The Sun Bowl, also scheduled New Year's Eve, is not televised nationally.

Most of the top-ranked teams — Michigan State, Arkansas, Nebraska and Alabama are in action and the national champion will be determined by a poll following games.

Here's the line-up, all times Pacific Standard:

FRIDAY

Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla. — Georgia Tech, 6-3-1, vs. Texas Tech, 8-2, 11 a.m.

Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex. — Texas Western, 7-3, vs. Texas Christian, 6-4, 1 p.m.

East-West All-Star at San Francisco — 1:45 p.m.

SATURDAY

Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif. — Michigan State, 10-0, vs. UCLA, 7-2-1, 2 p.m.

Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Tex. — Arkansas, 10-0, vs. Louisiana State, 7-3, 11 a.m.

Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, La — Missouri, 7-2-1, vs. Florida, 7-3, 11 a.m.

Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla. — Nebraska, 10-0, vs. Alabama, 8-1-1, 5 p.m.

The television line-up has ABC showing the Gator Bowl and NBC the East-West game Friday. Saturday, NBC starts with the Sugar Bowl, follows that with the Rose Bowl and then comes through with the Orange. CBS has the Cotton Bowl battle.

A good portion of the action, however, will take place after the games and off the TV screens. That involves the check book battle for some of the top stars.

For example, some pro foot-

S. F. Warriors Play Tragedy: Lose 144-111

When San Francisco met the Bullets last, Baltimore won 145-127. The next night the Celts thumped San Francisco 143-106.

The Warriors have not defeated Boston this season.

Clear Weather Predicted For Rose Bowl Game

Meanwhile, UCLA coach Tommy Prothro kept his team snug indoors at a basketball arena, apparently betting on the storm to fade and the field to dry for the Rose Bowl game with the Spartans New Year's Day.

Although the area's first winter storm dumped 3.33 inches of rain here in less than 48 hours Tuesday and yesterday — it appeared that Prothro's gamble might pay off. Early today the Weather Bureau issued a revised forecast — eliminating a chance of rain through Friday — and calling for clearing skies today and a sunny weekend.

Although there have been seven rains recorded during the Tournament of Roses, dating back to 1890, only three storms have drenched the football game. There was rain for the afternoon games of 1916 and 1922. The Rose Bowl was flooded before the game in 1934, but the water ran off in time for the kickoff.

The last rainy day for the game was in 1955, when Ohio State beat Southern California, 20-7.

"We beat the heck out of Michigan State for the 13th straight time in practice," commented Prothro after his indoor workout. He said his Bruins worked hard against dummies in Spartan formation, both offense and defense.

The West Coast team moved last night to the Ambassador, a downtown Los Angeles hotel, seeking privacy. The coach said his players hereafter won't be allowed outside the hotel at night.

The Spartans had their last night out—yesterday at a Big Ten dinner where comedian Bob Cosby was master of ceremonies. Michigan State travels tonight to a retreat operated by the Roman Catholic Passionist Fathers located in the Sierra Madre foothills just outside Pasadena.

Terra Linda '5' Triumphs Over Analy

Terra Linda's basketballers got a scare in the last five minutes of the final period, but rallied strong for a 68-49 triumph over Analy High School last night in the losers' gym.

Analy took a two-point lead into the second quarter, 10-8, but lost it as the Terra Linda cagers outscored the Analy quintet 20-9 in the second stanza and waltzed off the floor at the half with a 28-19 lead.

After a close third quarter in which Terra Linda registered only two more points than the home team, Analy made its desperate bid for victory.

In the early minutes of the final stanza, Coach George Starn watched a 14-point lead cut to just three points before the Terra Linda boys began to jell again, pulling ahead with a sudden burst and shaking the hungry Analy skirmishers off for good.

Fred Smith, 6-1 forward, and 5-10 guard Fred Daniele were most instrumental in that fourth quarter spurt. Smith topped all scorers with 17 points on four buckets and nine free throws, while Daniele tallied 15 points on five baskets and five clutch charities in the waning minutes of the game. Along with his point production, Daniele topped both teams in rebounds with 12, picking off 11 of those in the second half.

Mike Ainslie and Brian Perron chalked up 10 and 8 markers respectively to aid the win.

In preliminary action, Wayne Arnsbarger scored 18 points as the Terra Linda jayvees dumped El Molina High School 70-35, but the Trojan Bees were crushed by El Molina's lightweights 56-19.

ball men have said the bidding for Donny Anderson, two-time All America back for Texas Tech, may go as high as $800,000 after he and his Texas Tech teammates complete their Gator Bowl appearance. He has been drafted by Green Bay of the National Football League and Houston of the American Football League.

Two of the three unbeaten teams in action, Michigan State and Arkansas, are solid favorites. But the third, Nebraska, is an underdog to Alabama. Michigan State, Arkansas and Nebraska all are 10-0, with Arkansas boasting a string of 22 in a row.

In Las Vegas, where bookmaking is legal, Arkansas has been made a 10 point favorite over LSU in the Cotton Bowl, Michigan State is favored by 14 over UCLA in the Rose Bowl, Alabama by two over Nebraska in the Orange Bowl and Missouri by 2½ over Florida in the Sugar Bowl.

Tom Wilson of Texas Tech was the third best passer in the nation the past season, probably the first with such high rating to be passed over in the pro draft. They apparently didn't think he was big enough at 5 feet 11 and 167 pounds.

Kim King, a sophomore who emerged from a pattern of injuries to lead Georgia Tech to a successful season and postseason appearance, ranked 16th nationally in statistics.

Wilson is primarily a passer. He leaves the running to Anderson and Johnny Agan — a pair of 200-pound halfbacks — and 171-pound Kenny Baker at fullback.

King can run as well as pass and is surrounded such other running experts as 183-pound Lenny Snow and 198-pound Tommy Carlisle. Wingback Craig Baynham was Georgia Tech's leading pass receiver and impressed Texas Tech coaches even more with his blocking.

Starr Expects To Play In NFL Title Game Sunday

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Bart Starr expects to play Sunday and that is bad news for the Cleveland Browns. It isn't official yet, but Titletown, U.S.A., is bursting with optimism about its hometown Packers with its No. 1 quarterback back at the helm.

Starr tuned up yesterday for the first time since Sunday's injury and found he could throw the ball. His damaged back is not entirely healthy, but it is beginning to come around.

"I plan on playing," said Starr in the clubhouse after the Packers resumed work for the National Football League championship game following a two-day vacation.

"I am not planning on sitting down," he said. He sounded as though he meant it.

Although Zeke Bratkowski, his understudy, did a fine job Sunday after Starr was hurt on the first play of the playoff game with Baltimore, the Packers are a more cohesive unit with No. 15 at the controls.

"Bart didn't throw well, but he did throw," commented Coach Vince Lombardi. "He should get a little better every day because he is a fast healer. I still don't know what to say about Sunday."

The Packers feel Starr's pinpoint passing will be more effective against the defending champion's deep defense than Zeke's bombs.

Cleveland definitely is vulnerable to the pass. The Browns have given up 43 touchdowns, 12 on running plays and 31 on passes. In contrast, Green Bay has been scored on 22 times, 11 by runs and 11 by passes.

Although the most recent weather forecast calls for mild temperatures and possible showers or flurries during the week, there is threat of rain or snow for Sunday.

The field, recovered with hay immediately after the Baltimore game, is in prime condition. Of course, it'll have to take what comes when the cover is taken off Sunday morning.

Paul Hornung ran with his old spirit in yesterday's workout although he confined himself with straightaway dashes with no cuts. He still is nursing a bruised right leg.

Jim Taylor came up with a muscle pull that nobody knew he had, but Lombardi is confident it will work it self out before game time.

Redwood Quint Dumps Santa Rosans, 80-63

The Redwood Giants came from behind in the second period and raced past Santa Rosa's roundballers yesterday afternoon on the Redwood hardwood 80-63.

While the December rain was pouring down on the roofing of Redwood's gymnasium, the Giants were pouring points through the hoop.

The high-scoring Redwood cagers held a narrow one-point lead at the end of the first period but lost it early in the second stanza. Sparked by forward Bruce McGee and Russ Smith, the home team rallied and quickly ran off 16 points while holding Santa Rosa's Bear Cubs to just 6 and left the court with a 41-29 lead at the half.

Redwood again outscored the Santa Rosa boys in the third perido 21-18, vaulting 24-points ahead and putting the game out of reach despite a Santa Rosa full-court press.

McGee flashed for 22 points before it was all over, canning eleven buckets from the floor, while the sharpshooting Smith blistered the nets from the outside on eight baskets, and dropped in one free throw for 17 points.

Guard Andre Horn played another fine game for the Redwood cagers, both on offense and defense, and ended up with 14 points.

Big Chuck Meyer, center, chalked up 12 markers and shared rebound honors with McGee as both boys pounded the boards hard and wound up with 10 to lead both teams. In all, eleven boys got in the scoring column for the Marin team.

The Redwood cagers had another good night from the field, potting 38 out of 67 for 56.7 per cent and made four out of five free throws in the low fouling game. Only twenty-two fouls were committed in the contest.

Redwood	16	24	21	19—80

McKeever Off Critical List

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)— Former University of Southern California football star Mike McKeever has been taken off the critical list for the first time since he was injured in an automobile accident Dec. 3.

Doctors said yesterday that McKeever, 25, remains in a coma but pressure on his brain seems to be lessening slowly.

Marin Catholic Cagers Show Much Improvement

By GLENN BECKER
(Third in a series on prospects of Marin Athletic League basketball teams).

After opening against four tough teams which made them look more like Santa Claws than Wildcats, the Marin Catholic cagers have rebounded to win four of their last six and are playing good ball as they head into the Marin Athletic League campaign.

The turning point came at the Riordan Tournament in San Francisco Dec. 11. Marin Catholic had dropped the first two games in the tourney by big scores to St. Ignatius and to Polytechnic of San Francisco, and met Sequoia of the South Peninsula League on the final evening. Sequoia is a good team, but the Wildcats threw off the discouragement of an 0-4 record and whipped them 45-33.

"The Riordan Tournament did us a lot of good," coach Gus Hassapakis remarked. "Sequoia was a good club, and the kids really needed a win. We came right back to beat Crestmoor 57-37." Fun? "Man, we'd forgotten what it was like. Then we beat Cubberly of Palo Alto 37-35 and lost to Poly again 43-35." A shooting collapse in the second half cost Marin a 47-29 defeat against Mission.

The Wildcats have played well lately against good opposition—they gave Poly a much stiffer fight the second time—and have proved against Cobberly they can win a close one.

Nor is that the only hopeful sign of late. Hassapakis is carrying five sophomores on his team and is giving them all the action he can. One, 6-2 forward Ches Bornia, is a starter and two others are his top forecourt replacements.

They are 6-1 Rick Rafael and 5-11 Tim Lenehan. Rafael has particularly pleased Hassapakis —"He's the finest defensive player on the squad" — and has shown the ability to score quickly when he is inserted in the lineup. Lenehan usually spells Bornia, who played center in the wins over Crestmoor and Cubberly when Bob Lombardi was hurt.

Thus far the backcourt starters have been 5-10 Pat Waltz and 5-7 Brian Grove, both seniors. Waltz is the second leading Wildcat scorer behind forward Mike Lasater, and his performance in the Riordan Tourney won him all-tournament honors. He held Sequoia star Charlie Johnson to 16 points, four of them after the game was decided, after Johnson had topped 30 in an earlier game.

Hassapakis credits Grove with being the spark of the club. He is a good ball handler and usually starts the Wildcats' offensive patterns. Grove does not score much, however, and his starting job could be endangered if the Wildcat offense sputters as it did against Mission.

Backcourt replacements are Paul Vickers, a fine dribbler; Jim Ingrassia, a good shooter with good hands but only fair speed, and Tom Schalick, a good shooter. All three are juniors.

Another sophomore who may help later is Paul McCarthy, who transferred to Marin with his brother, Sean, from St. Ignatius. Sean is a senior and like Paul is a 6-2 forward. Sophomore guard Stacey Schaefer is also a transfer; he and the McCarthy boys will be eligible Feb. 1.

Marin probably doesn't have enough to contend for the MCAL title this season, but they will be in the headlines right down to the wire. The reason for this is the unimaginative league schedule, which has each team playing its opponents in the same order the second round that it met them in the first round. The Wildcats happen to wind up both rounds with defending champion Redwood and top challenger Drake.

Marin's league schedule:

Jan. 7	At Terra Linda
Jan. 11	Novato
Jan. 14	San Rafael
Jan. 18	At Tamalpais
Jan. 25	At Redwood
Jan. 28	Drake
Feb. 4	Terra Linda
Feb. 8	At Novato
Feb. 11	at San Rafael
Feb. 15	Tamalpais
Feb. 21	Redwood
Feb. 25	At Drake

CBS RENEWS RIGHT TO NFL TELEVISION

NEW YORK (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting System has purchased the rights to televise National Football League games for at least two more years, signing a contract which calls for more money than ever and which will enable more people than ever to see professional football on television.

CBS and the NFL agreed yesterday to a $37.6 million contract for two years. CBS also has an option for a third year — at additional money, of course.

The new pact is a healthy increase over the $28.2 million agreement that has existed for the past two seasons. Each club in the NFL will receive an additional $200,000 per year, or $1.2 million.

Bill MacPhail, vice president in charge of sports for CBS-TV, said the contract is the largest for sports in television history.

A major change in the new agreement calls for the televising of games to NFL cities even when a team is playing at home.

In the past, if for example, the Pittsburgh Steelers were playing at home, viewers in that city would see no NFL game that day. But starting next season, another game, say Minnesota against Washington, will be shown in Pittsburgh.

The new contract covers regular and pre-season games. CBS and the league still are negotiating for a contract covering the championship game, the runner-up game and the Pro Bowl, but they anticipate no trouble in reaching an agreement.

CBS has been televising NFL games since 1956. The National Broadcasting Co. has just ended the first year of a five-year, $36 million contract with the American Football League, and the American Broadcasting Co. will televise college games in 1966 and 1967 for $16 million.

Accompanying the increase in revenue to the NFL will be an increase in cost to sponsors of the games. CBS has been charging $60,000 a minute for regular season games, but MacPhail declined to say what that rate might be for next year.

Memories Of Duck Snafu, Deer Kill, Anchovy Fight

By JERRY HARRELL

SACRAMENTO (AP)—California outdoorsmen will remember 1965 as the year of the duck snafu, the Yosemite deer slaughter and the anchovy fight.

Hunting and fishing had its ups and downs, and the general field of fish and game had plenty of controversy.

Deer hunting was down, but not because of a lack of animals. Hot, dry weather and abundant food and water tended to keep the animals scattered. The buck kill fell 5,000 below 1964.

A new deer dispute also erupted during the year when state and federal game managers agreed the herds in Yosemite National Park had to be thinned to protect the animals and proposed to let sportsmen do it.

REJECTIONS

Faced with strident local opposition, the State Fish and Game Commission rejected plans to allow sportsmen a crack at the animals. Plans had been for special hunts when the deer migrated from their summer ranges in the park to wintering grounds outside.

The hunt, aimed at removing a total of 1,075 surplus animals to keep the Tuolumne Meadows and Wawona herds in balance with their range, quickly was dubbed "the Yosemite deer slaughter" when teams of rangers moved in to do the shooting.

California's duck hunters were angered when limits on the most popular birds, pintails and mallards, were slashed by U.S. Interior Secretary Stewart Udall on grounds the ducks had declined and the breeding stock was in danger.

ANGER

As the season wore on and counts confirmed that sprig and mallards were plentiful on the Pacific Flyway, the hunters' anger increased.

A common complaint was: "I got my three big birds fast, then spent six hours trying to get the little birds."

The little anchovy stirred a big fight. Sports anglers mounted a campaign against plans to allow commercial fishermen to take the bait fish for reduction to fish meal. The sportsmen argued that the anchovies would be over-fished and would disappear from California waters as the sardine did.

The State Fish and Game Department said the proposed take of 115,000 tons wouldn't hurt the fishery. The Fish and Game Commission, caught in the middle after Gov. Brown vetoed a bill to allow the commercial catch, approved a trimmed-down 75,000-ton catch for reduction.

The Fish and Game Commission got a little more breathing space to do its assigned job when the legislature renewed the commission's powers for four years instead of the customary two.

The commission tried a new approach to San Joaquin Valley pheasant hunting during the year, moving the season back to December to avoid a conflict with late harvests. The conflicts still occurred, and much of the best pheasant country was closed.

BASS DOWN

Striped bass fishing was generally down in 1965, and ocean salmon fishing failed to live up to expectations.

There were some innovations that held promise for the future. The Fish and Game Department planted white bass experimentally in hopes of establishing a new game fish. A study was launched to gather basic information about the increasingly popular sturgeon.

The department won several skirmishes, notably on the middle fork of the Feather River and the Colorado, in its efforts to save some natural waters from the dam builders.

And the department came up with a massive plan to help assure that there would still be hunting and fishing in the future. The master plan for fish and wildlife, five volumes, made more than 300 recommendations for protecting and improving wildlife.

Storms Killed Most Chances At Nearby Top Fishing Spots

STEVENS

Just received the weekly report of fishing in the Happy Camp sector of the Klamath River. Jim Roads reports as follows:

"The best fishing of the year is on now. The clear but cold weather of the past two weeks has the Klamath in record condition; very low and clear. All fishermen in the area taking steelhead from 3 to 10 pounds. Some fish being taken on flies—fluorescent or white bodied McGinty. Best bet, however, has been on fresh roe—"

IN ADDITION to the above report are a number of flash reports from the tide water streams along the coast north of the Golden Gate, from the Russian to the Mad rivers and the South Fork of the Eel. BUT—all reports from any or all areas must be shelved. The stormy weather starting Monday night has taken over—has completely erased all good news. Until the streams get over the shock of giant sized winds and rains, it is folly to hope for even token steelheading. Wait at least three days AFTER the stormy, rainy weather has spent its fury. Then, and not before, phone some dependable spot in the region you would fish.

In days such as we have had this week, when you are more or less house-bound, you might do yourself some good by going over your tackle—testing leaders and line for weakened sections and cutting away such frayed or weakened spots, oil up the reels and other inspection and correction chores.

I RECEIVED a copy of the forthcoming issue of Field and Stream which features an extremely comprehensive "Boatman's Handbook." I rather imagine the January issue is now on the news stands, and I don't hesitate to brand the "Handbook" A-1, excellent.

If you now own a boat—outboard or engine powered—by all means get a copy of the "Boatman's Handbook" in the January issue of Field and Stream. If you can't find one locally, send a request to Field and Stream—530 Fifth Avenue, New York, 17, N.Y.

HERE'S AN ITEM for the women folks: The National Rifle Assn., Women's Postal Rifle and Pistol Matches are slated to be held any time before May 1, 1966.

MARINCELLO HOUSEHOLD WORD

News Highlights Of '65 In Marin

By FRANK FARRARA

Marincello and Synanon were just about household words in Marin during 1965, but there were some who talked of bringing back ferries and the Mount Tamalpais railroad.

Residents passed a bond issue for a Hall of Justice, leaving supervisors with the problem of what to do with the courthouse square in downtown San Rafael.

Marin residents went to Selma to march for Negro voting rights, scores were exchange students in foreign lands, some joined the peace corps and many were drafted into the military service.

Those who stayed at home worried about rising assessments, the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control project, the proposed east-west freeway, rapid transit, and school bond issues.

There were murders, thefts, fatal accidents, big business deals and politics, but it wasn't a year just like any year.

Here are some of the highlights:

JANUARY

Marin County supervisors stirred up a controversy when they requested resignations of all members of the county planning, parks and recreation and personnel commissions. After protesting petitions and charges of "political football" and "spoils system," the board removed three planning commissioners who refused to resign: Henry C. Hankins, Edward K. Wachsman and George Scott.

Two Greenbrae sisters were killed by a car while walking to school along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. Parents urged safety measures. County supervisors ordered construction of a guard rail along the sidewalk, reduced the speed limit in the area, and agreed to hire a full-time county traffic engineer.

Mill Valley got approval from the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission to annex 137 acres including Tamalpais High School and a portion of the Alto business area. Alto residents responded with a move to incorporate a city of Alto, including some of the territory sought by Mill Valley.

The battle over the proposed planned community of Marincello, west of Sausalito, opened before county supervisors with conservationists making a strong bid to halt zoning which would permit high-rise buildings.

Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. sought to abandon its entire Tiburon Peninsula line, part of the railroad's main line which has been closed at the Puerto Suello tunnel since July 1961.

The San Rafael City Council said that it would not allow bay filling beyond the San Rafael canal levee until the city's general plan is adopted.

Death: Rt. Rev. Daniel J. McAlister, administrator of St. Raphael's Catholic Parish in San Rafael, died at the age of 60 after being in failing health for several years.

FEBRUARY

Marin County supervisors unanimously approved planned community zoning for Marincello, where Frouge Corp. plans to construct homes, high-rise apartments and commercial and industrial areas.

Supervisors further enlarged Supervisor Thomas T. Storer's Fourth District to include all of the Tomales High School District, after earlier re-districting stretched Storer's area from Point Reyes to San Rafael.

The Marin County Committee on School District Organization voted 6-5 to re-submit to the voters a proposal for over-all unification of the Tamalpais High School District which was defeated in June, 1964.

The City of Mill Valley filed notice of intention to annex 206 acres on the north ridge which borders Corte Madera and Larkspur, uninhabited land in the Mill Valley watershed.

John F. McInnis, mayor of San Rafael since 1957, announced he would not run for re-election.

Deaths: Henry Hess, 82, owner of Henry Hess Lumber Co. in San Rafael.

MARCH

Marin County ministers went to Selma, Ala., to participate in voter registration drives. San Francisco Theological Seminary students left to take part in the "March to Montgomery." Residents at home staged rallies and paraded across the Golden Gate Bridge in support of the Negro drive for voting rights in Alabama.

N. Charles Brusatori, 62, who had been a superior court judge since 1956, announced he would retire from the bench in June because of his health.

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission rejected the petition for incorporation of a city of Alto to cover 1,626 acres bounded by Tiburon, Corte Madera and Mill Valley.

Poison dumped into Nicasio Creek killed 900 young salmon, but there was no danger to the drinking water from the stream which feeds into Nicasio Reservoir, a source of supply for the Marin Municipal Water District.

The Interstate Commerce Commission refused to hear an application from Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. to abandon San Rafael, Tiburon and Sausalito service.

Deaths: Jesse Henry Steinhart, 83, of Belvedere, former member of the University of California Board of Regents, 1950-62.

APRIL

Supervisors viewed plans for a Veterans Memorial Auditorium, with a choice of either 2,000 seats at a cost of $2,163,200 or 3,000 seats at a cost of $2,881,700.

Officials were swamped with complaints about errors in sample ballots for April school district elections: Late mailings, lack of proper proofreading and omission of polling place addresses. Supervisors later moved to take election responsibility from the county schools office and re-organize the elections division of the county clerk's office.

Voters turned down unification of 11 elementary school districts with the Tamalpais High School District by a vote of 10,003 to 8,568.

C. Paul Bettini, a member of the San Rafael Board of Education, was elected mayor of San Rafael, defeating Dr. Charles W. Aby, a member of the city council.

Engineers reported to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District that it would be feasible to construct a second deck on the bridge.

Deaths: Former San Rafael Fire Chief Clarence M. (Fritz) Johansen, 69; Mrs. Catherine Washington of Marin City, a daughter of slaves, aged 104.

MAY

Mrs. Anita C. Strom was appointed to the San Rafael Board of Education after the San Rafael City Council received a flood of letters, both opposing and supporting her appointment.

The Marin Municipal Water District Board voted to increase the water rates about 15 per cent to raise funds for a $6.1 million expansion program.

A State Senate committee cleared a bill which would permit Marin County to levy a countywide flood control tax of up to 50 cents per $100 valuation. Several cities protested.

The California Public Utility Commission ordered Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. to start running trains through San Rafael within 185 days.

A strong movement started in the Belvedere-Tiburon area to protest boosts in assessed valuation up to 60 per cent as the result of re-appraisal.

JUNE

Trustees of Tomales Bay School District decided that the one-room Marshall School, established in 1876, would no longer be used for classrooms.

Four adults and seven juveniles were arrested and five pounds of marijuana, worth $5,000, was seized in the largest police raid in Marin history, which chopped a supply of marijuana to an estimated 150 users in Southern Marin.

Marin County voters approved by vote of 14,568 to 7,177 the issuance of $7,750,000 in 20-year general obligation bonds to finance the Hall of Justice at the Civic Center.

The House Appropriations Committee approved $800,000 for the Army Corps of Engineers to start work on the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control project during the fiscal year starting July 1.

Supervisors adopted a budget of $25,063,861, up 15.7 per cent over the previous year but expected to allow a 4.5-cent cut in the county's tax rate.

A master plan for Novato envisioned it as a city of industry with 3,000 acres of industrial sites and an eventual population of 163,000.

Deaths: Rev. George Augustine O'Meara, pastor of St. Raphael's Church since 1937, at the age of 74; Camille P. Remy, mayor and city councilman of Fairfax during World War II.

JULY

About 450 painters in Marin went on strike along with other Bay Area painters, and Cement Masons Local 355 picketed local projects, halting major projects in Marin. Both disputes eventually were settled.

County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel announced that assessments on land and property in Marin increased $51.6 million as a Correct Unfair Taxation group formed on the Tiburon Peninsula and supervisors were swamped with protests at equalization hearings.

Synanon, which had been battling against the need for a use permit for its operation at Marshall, surprised the county planning commission by applying for a permit. West Marin residents protested.

Terra Linda Recreation and Parks District suspended its entire teen-age program after a weekend of vandalism, burglary and violence including slugging of a 19-year-old girl lifeguard by a burglar.

Fire swept through the Tides bookstore in Sausalito, causing damage estimated at $50,000 to $75,000.

Deaths: John Franklin Forbes, economist and accountant, of Upper Road, Ross, founder of John F. Forbes and Co., one of largest independent accounting firms on the West Coast; Charles A. Rowe, former Corte Madera town councilman (1948-52) and Marin Hospital District director; Max Miller of San Rafael, painting contractor and one-time candidate for Democratic nomination for state senate (1960).

AUGUST

Sausalito School District trustees unanimously adopted a plan to desegregate schools on a district-wide basis.

Novato Little League All-Stars won the Northern California championship, lost in the western regional tournament at Portland, Ore., and came back to win the mythical California state championship.

After a stormy hearing, Marin County supervisors voted to grant Synanon Foundation a use permit for its treatment center for narcotics addicts at Marshall.

Mrs. Natalie Lewis, former town clerk, became the first woman member of the Ross Town Council.

Novato city councilmen stirred up a controversy when they proposed a study to determine if it would be cheaper to eliminate the city police department and contract for police protection by the sheriff's office.

Deaths: Annie Beth Watson of San Anselmo, a retired speech teacher who taught at Tamalpais High School and Sir Francis Drake High School (1952-63; D. Frank Monte, president of Monte and Banfield Chapel of the Hills funeral home, and former mayor of San Anselmo (1945-47).

SEPTEMBER

Sixty-five-year-old Joseph Regoni retired after 35 years as police chief of Ross, and was succeeded by John Frank Harris, assistant chief.

Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West put on the biggest parade in Marin history, 4,000 marchers, in San Rafael to celebrate the 115th anniversary of the admission of California to the Union.

Two masked gunmen shot and killed bartender Mario Ferrari during an early morning holdup at the Mission Inn in San Rafael. Two ex-convicts were apprehended and charged with the crime.

A raging brush fire, swept by 80-mile-an-hour winds, burned 8,000 acres in Chileno Valley, crossing into Marin on an eight-mile front and destroying two homes and scores of barns and ranch buildings.

Two ships, a Liberian oil tanker and a Norwegian freighter, collided in San Francisco Bay near San Quentin Point, causing damage to both ships and injury to one crewman.

OCTOBER

Voters in the San Rafael Elementary School District approved a 50-cent boost in the district's operating tax rate limit, which had been rejected at the polls in April.

Supervisors discussed sale of the courthouse square in San Rafael to help finance the Hall of Justice. Architect Robert W. F. Severin proposed development of a hotel and convention center with underground parking, shops and restaurants at the site.

A state redistricting plan combined Marin and the southern sector of Sonoma County in one assembly district, and Marin with Napa and a major portion of Solano in one senate district.

As part of nationwide demonstrations urging an end to the war in Viet Nam, a group of Marin residents joined in a protest demonstration in front of the county courthouse.

Deaths: Rear Adm. Rufus G. Thayer (USN-ret), 67, died as result a bee sting while working at his summer cabin on Lucas Valley Road in Nicasio; Sarah Wingate Taylor, poet and associate professor of English at Dominican College, died at a Boston hospital; Joseph Burton Rice, president of Rice Supply Co. of San Rafael, president of the Novato Savings and Loan Assn. and former president of the California State Automobile Assn.

NOVEMBER

Three Marin men proposed re-establishing the Mount Tamalpais Railroad which flourished from 1896 to 1930.

Voters in Tamalpais High School District defeated a $7,750,000 bond issue to finance expansion of Redwood High School and first stage construction of a high school in San Geronimo Valley.

American Distilling Co. announced it was moving out of its Sausalito site, which was sold to Kelly Buchanan Associates of San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Wheelwright, owners of the 650-acre Green Gulch Ranch in Southern Marin, became the first land owners in California to reserve their land for agricultural use.

Marin County supervisors approved the master plan for the proposed city of Marincello, including a density of 3.5 dwelling units per acre and high-rise apartments, sparking a mass protest.

Engineer Daniel P. Coleman unveiled a plan for the courthouse square: A park-like downtown center, a 10-story building, two one-story buildings and underground parking.

Death: George W. Seaton, 84, last surviving member of the original Corte Madera Town Council which was formed in 1916.

DECEMBER

A series of incidents including throwing rocks and sniping at sheriff's deputies culminated in a fire that gutted the sheriff's substation at Marin City, and led to a meeting of county supervisors with Marin City residents.

Marin and San Francisco supervisors pondered the possibility of restoring ferry service between Marin and San Francisco, while Golden Gate Bridge directors proceeded with plans to add a second deck to the Golden Gate Bridge.

The State Park Commission earmarked $4 million for acquisition of a 3,200-acre addition to Mount Tamalpais State Park.

Hamilton Air Force Base was slated for increased activity next Spring when it will become the command base for all armed forces covering 11 western states and two Canadian provinces.

San Rafael Military Academy, which has been located in San Rafael for three-quarters of a century, abandoned its search for a new location and decided to remain at its present site.

Tools Stolen

Thieves ignored a new tape recorder in the back seat and took several tools from his unlocked car between 6 and 7:30 p.m. Monday, Oather Benny Coughburn of Apt. 7, Bldg. A, Hilarita Housing, Tiburon, reported to Tiburon sheriff's deputies. Missing are a pair of vise grips, a wire cutter, a screwdriver and a set of ratchet wrenches, he said.

USSR Marking The New Year

Grandfather Frost To Bring Toys By Motorcycle

By ALINE MOSBY

Instead of Santa Claus, the Soviets have Grandfather Frost, but since the mid-1930's New Year's Day has been celebrated with the trappings of the Western Christmas.

And this year finds the Soviet holiday slightly less austere and drab than in past years.

One toy shop has electrified the smallfry by arranging for Granfather Frost to deliver toys for the first time to homes from a motorcycle instead of a reindeer.

SOVIET PLANNERS have promised that packaged foods, somewhat like ready-to-cook TV dinners, will be sold door-to-door by trucks on New Years Eve so some people can avoid lining up for holiday foods.

The government allocated 4.4 pounds per person of flour for the holidays, and housewife lines can be seen around the city. Flour has not been sold freely since the bad 1963 harvest (although bread and pastries are plentiful).

CITIZENS ALSO are finding toys and gifts in the stores, although variety and quality is comparatively low and the price of many items comparatively high.

Shopping streets are not strung with lights or decorated with fancy trees as in other world capitals. But the big department stores and toy shops have "yolka" fir trees glistening with electric lights, tinsel and brightly colored metallic balls. Except for the fact that there are no angel ornaments, the trees could be in any Christian country. The 5-point Soviet star topping the yolka could easily be taken for the star of Bethlehem.

HOLIDAY SIGNS in GUM, the big department store on Red Square, are slightly more elaborate this year, still with cherubs toting space ships instead of religious scenes.

Shoppers elbow each other to buy the usual violently printed plush table covers with wide fringes for $17.71 or carved wooden elks for $3.41 or Soviet champagne or candy in boxes gaily decorated with medieval Russian scenes, or pale blue ladies stockings.

BUT PARENTS say there are some new toys in the shops this year, particularly electric gadgets, mostly imported from east Germany. At one big toy shop, the House of Toys, parents in heavy winter coats and fur caps line up to buy electric trains at $5.61 and do-it-yourself assemblages of plastic airplanes, long popular in the West.

The House of Toys has five kinds of toy guns, but the military newspaper complains not enough military toys are made.

HOME FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Parental Strictness Tempered With Affection Best For Child

By CHARLES SCHAEFFER

WASHINGTON—Happiness is strict parents.

A new federal study finds parents who lay down firm family rules — and enforce them — consistently rear more successful children when it comes to school work.

What's more the youngsters from firm households grow up more secure, happier and like their parents better.

In the just-completed seven-year study happiness was not the product of strictness alone. In each case, rule-setting had been tempered with affection by the parents.

It was shown, on the other hand, that easygoing parents can't "buy" love and respect with bribes.

THE CONFIDENCE OF the strict parent seems to rub off on his child, creating a spirit of self-esteem and the conviction that he can and will succeed. When limits are set for him, the child learns that life has rules and if he follows them he can often control his own fate.

The study, sponsored by the National Institute of Mental Health, identified children with high self-esteem, a factor in mental health, and then matched their parents attitudes against those of children having a low opinion of themselves.

Results were reported by Dr. Stanley Coopersmith, chairman of the department of psychology, University of California at Davis. He determined the degree of self-esteem by testing and interviewing a group of 10-to-12-year old boys of middle-class families. Those with the highest self-esteem invariably enjoyed success in school and at play, often becoming leaders.

THE PARENTS of both groups were asked: "Is achievement more important than sociability?" and "Is it more important that the child enjoy himself or that he meet high standards?"

Parents considered to be strict chose "achievement" and "high standards" as the desirable goals.

In an interview, Dr. Coopersmith said about half of the group examined selected enjoyment as the worthier aim. More often than not, these were the parents with the low-esteem children. A certain degree of self-justification was evident, since the youngsters were already doing poorly when the questions were asked.

CONSISTENCY AND FIRMNESS characterized the secure families. Parents fixed rules, such as specific bedtimes, and upheld them. But there was affection and respect, too. The parents granted their children more responsibility, listened to them closely, even on minor matters, knew most of their friends, and were able to tolerate disagreements with them.

Rewards or punishment were usually automatic when goals were met or rules violated.

The strict parents judged their disciple as effective about 90 per cent of the time. The easygoing parents, often used harsher body punishment when finally driven to it, but found it effective only about half of the time.

IN DETERMINING the youngsters opinions of themselves, the investigators asked such obvious questions as "do you like yourself?" The questions were backed up with interviews of the childrens' teachers. What the youngsters thought of themselves was supported 80 per cent of the time by the teacher interviews, Dr. Coopersmith said.

Coopersmith's youngsters were sifted from an initial group of 1,500, narrowed to 85-34 with high self-esteem, 34 with low self-esteem and 17 with mixed attitudes. The results, in more detail, are scheduled for book publication in the spring.

WORKING AND NON-WORKING mothers were equally spread among the groups. But when working mothers followed up on rule-making at morning and night the benefits to the children were the same as if they were home all day.

The mothers of the successful youngsters also were satisfied with their husbands, who usually acted as family disciplinarians.

Judith Linda Sosnowski Plans February Wedding

The engagement of Judith Linda Sosnowski and John Francis Kelly is being announced by the bride-elect's parents, M/Sgt. and Mrs. Eugene A. Sosnowski of Hamilton Air Force Base.

Judith was graduated from Fort Vancouver High School in Vancouver, Wash., and is a secretary at a finance office in Novato.

The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Kelly of Manhattan Beach, and was graduated from the University of Nevada. He is a member of the Kiwanis Club in Novato and chairman of the business drive of the Marin County Heart Fund. He is employed with Allstate Insurance Co. in Novato.

The couple will be married on Feb. 7 in the Basilica De Guadalupe in Mexico City and will reside in Novato.

JUDITH SOSNOWSKI

Jane Nickols To Entertain

Singer-actress Jane Nickols, formerly of Novato, will present "Musicals in Miniature" at the Tuesday meeting of the San Rafael Improvement Club.

A former Marin resident, the artist is known throughout the Bay Area for her one woman shows. She appeared with the San Francisco Light Opera Company and at the Sheraton-Palace dinner theater. Her most recent role has been that of Eliza Doolittle in "My Fair Lady" with the San Jose Light Opera. Miss Nickols will be accompanied on the piano by Ferne Hammond.

Presidents of the Marin Federated Women's Clubs will be honored guests at the 1:30 p.m. meeting.

Mrs. Albert Chiaroni, tea chairman, will be assisted by Mesdames Edward Brown, Norris Rawles and Carl Weber.

The guest table will be in charge of Mrs. Homer Hood, program chairman, and table decorations will be done by Mrs. Albert Walz and Mrs. A. R. Wessell.

Do Women Select Clothes To Please 'Girl Watchers'? Maybe

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Men, or at least the red-blooded, enthusiastic girl watcher kind—prefer to believe that women choose their clothes specifically to be ogled by the connoisseurs of femininity.

But are wardrobes created by American designers today for the hopefully watchable really worth looking at? Yes and No.

Four of the world's best known girl watchers recently slipped into the audience of a Fashion Group sponsored ready-to-wear show to ocular test this spring's style offerings for the American female.

There was Don Sauer, author of a handbook for girl-watching, whose scientific contribution to the art includes such classifications as High Stepping Hatbox Toter, Clock-watching Boss-ducker, Blue Jeaned Ranch-wrecker, and Rosy Cheeked Prom-hopper, all of which are self descriptive.

And there was chairman of the board of the now nationally organized American Society for Girl Watchers, hairy-chinned orchestra leader Skitch Henderson, as well as two other high ranking officers, Ray Bauer and Cop Collins.

AT THE END OF the 100-garment show when they at last laid down their score cards these truths were self-evident:

The most watchable woman's wardrobe from the masculine viewpoint is somewhat conservative in soft, touchable, non-patterned, pastel fabrics which are figure revealing but not too much so.

The most watchable models are curvy, with tummies tucked in, shoulders squared, and hair long and curly.

If men were in complete control of the women's apparel industry, change would be almost as gradual as it is currently in the menswear field.

Specifically, the testing committee offered its stamp of approval generally to sheaths; A-lines; sportswear with tailored (but not boyish) simplicity; pleated skirts, smock dresses in soft fabrics and for evening floaty chiffons.

THE CONDEMNED as "too suggestive" a halter necklined dress by Rudi Gernreich. They rejected horizontal striped Max Sennett bathing suits as attention - demanding but too kooky to be pleasing to men. They, in fact, were negative about stripes combined with checks as well as vivid art nouveau prints: indeed anything that insists upon being seen.

Slithering females in seemingly congealed gowns of twinkling sequins and sparkling beads were dubbed "good to look at but with the warning that you must not touch."

The critical jury did not agree among themselves about skirt lengths. Skitch Henderson approved of more knee show than the other three men. Some men applauded the clear plastic raincoats for their purity in line, objectively ignoring the fact that they could see bikini-clad figures of the models underneath. A few saved their handclapping for misty rainwear that clouded the view a little anyway.

If a designer of a sexy sequinned bra-top and a hip-slung skirt thought he had the male vote, he was mistaken entirely. The girl watchers also turned eyes down on bell bottom pants, all except Cop Collins whose objectivity was tampered by a teen-age daughter. And chintz hostess pajamas were tagged "too chintzy."

FRANKLY, THE highly skilled observers of the female sex were delighted over their disagreements. Divergency of opinion about fashion, they conceded, is just as healthy as divergence of opinion about women.

Moreover, even though most of the male girl watchers would consciously put the brakes on the trend toward far-out fashions for women, they not at all subconsciously wish that their own designers would be at least a little more adventurous so that they would have at least a little more variety from which to choose.

Marin Women

WED AT ST. SYLVESTER'S CHURCH in San Rafael on Dec. 18 were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Eugene Henry who are making their home in San Jose. The bride is the former Judith Helen Easton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Stanton Zollner of San Rafael. (Faulkner photo)

Miss Cassidy Is Bride At Chapel Rite

Linda Kay Cassidy, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. E. G. Cassidy of Novato, was united in marriage to Robert Steve Ruzick on Dec. 18 at the Hamilton Air Force Base Chapel No. 1.

The Rev. Russell Knoebel performed the double ring ceremony.

Karen Falk of San Rafael was maid of honor wearing a floor length Empire sheath gown of emerald green chiffon. The bridesmaids, Judi Stevens and Andrena Ruzick, sister of the bridegroom, both of Novato and Elena Green of San Rafael wore matching gowns. Carrie Tavoni of Novato was flower girl.

Serving as best man for the bridegroom, the son of Mrs. Steve Ruzick and the late Mr. Ruzick of Novato, was Dennis McCormick of Oakland. Ushers were Arthur Cherry of Oakland and John Cook and Larry Hale of Novato.

A reception was held at Hamilton Air Force Base Officers Club preceding the couple's wedding trip to Santa Cruz and Carmel. They will reside in Novato.

The bride was graduated from Great Falls High School in Montana and completed a course at the John Powers Modeling School. She is employed at Sumitomo Shoji New York, Inc., in San Francisco.

The bridegroom was graduated from Novato High School and is attending College of Marin. He is employed by R. L. Jack, contractor, and is a member of the Novato Volunteer Fire Department. Robert is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. William Fetesoff of San Francisco.

Chinese Umbrellas A Symbol Of Rank

First recorded use of umbrellas comes from ancient China, as early as 2,000 B. C., a manufacturing corporation reports.

Later, the Chinese used umbrellas as a symbol of rank — by their color, material, design and number. For example, a procession of 24 umbrellas always marked the emperor's appearance.

Founding Member Heads Westminster Church Unit

One of the founding members of the United Presbyterian Women of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, Tiburon, has been named president of the organization. Mrs. J. Benton Bostick of Tiburon, active in many community endeavors, now heads the women's association.

The wife of J. Benton Bostick, an insurance executive, Beverly is the mother of three children — John, 20, Arla, 18, and Ralph, 15. The family has lived in Marin since 1949.

Beverly received both her bachelor and master degrees from Mills College, with zoology as her major field. An alumna who has served her college well, the Tiburon woman has been president of the Mills College Alumnae Assn., regional governor of the Mills Alumnae Assn., as well as president of the Marin Mills Alumnae. She is a former president of the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club, a former director of the Brownie Day Camp, and has been neighborhood chairman for the Girl Scouts.

Since the Westminster Presbyterian Church was opened in Tiburon seven years ago, Mrs. Bostick has been active in its affairs. She has served as an elder of the church, as chairman of the Christian education commission, and is now the editor of the monthly newsletter. In addition she has been a leader in the women's association, and, as program chairman, initiated the "What Woman Are You?" lecture series now in its second year.

The purposes of the United Presbyterian Churchwomen she describes as "service, study and fellowship." During the next year these goals will be pursued in such projects as support of the Babyfold Mission in Korea, assistance to the Arizona Indian Mission, the San Francisco Presbyterian Seminary in San Anselmo and other Presbyterian projects, and in programs dealing with vital social problems.

All interested women are welcome to membership in the group, and all women in the community are invited to attend the programs sponsored by the group, according to the newly elected president.

Officers named to the incoming board are Mesdames Hugh Laymon, vice president; G. Paul Gray, secretary; George Mellinger, treasurer; William Cording, fellowship chairman; Frank Macdonald, world service chairman; Vernon Libby, program chairman; Milton Stannard Jr. and Hugh Laymon, Salvage Shop representatives.

MRS. J. BENTON BOSTICK

Miss Lindenbaum To Become Bride In February Rite

A family dinner last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Lindenbaum in Kentfield was the occasion for the announcement of the engagement of their daughter, Helene, to William C. Lancaster of Kentfield.

Helene is the granddaughter of Mrs. Fred J. Crisp of Kentfield and the late Dr. J. J. Felzien. She is the sister of David Linden of San Francisco and Mrs. William Hodgson of San Rafael.

The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Lancaster of Kentfield. Elizabeth Lancaster of Kentfield is his sister.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and attended the College of Marin. Bill was also educated in Marin, having graduated from Redwood High School and attended the College of Marin.

After a Feb. 26 wedding, the couple will reside in San Diego, where the prospective bridegroom is stationed with the U. S. Navy.

Fiberboard Used To Diminish Noise

A good way to diminish noise passing through ceilings is to line ceilings with fiberboard insulating sheets nailed to one-inch furring strips, say soundproofing specialists.

Used in combination with acoustical ceiling tiles, this will assure complete quiet.

Cast members Margaret Lee of Mill Valley and Marjorie Broughton of Corte Madera review a score in preparation for the final three Festival Theater performances of Thornton Wilder's play, "The Long Christmas Dinner," and the operatic adaptation of it by Paul Hindemith. Last presentations of the play and opera will be Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. and Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

San Geronimo Fire Kills Nine Pet Cats

Fire did $5,000 damage and suffocated nine Siamese cats in a San Geronimo home last night.

County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom said the blaze was reported at 11:31 p.m. in the home of Irene Phelps, at San Geronimo Valley and Creamery roads. It gutted the kitchen, burning through the roof at one place, and did smoke damage throughout the old five-room frame house.

Mrs. Phelps had left for work at Sonoma State Hospital before the fire started. She lived alone with the nine cats.

Bloom said Mrs. Phelps had stoked a trash burner in an old gas stove with compressed wood logs and the intense heat from that fire overheated a metal vent pipe, setting fire to the wall above the stove.

The fire was still burning in the stove after firemen had put out the house blaze, Bloom reported.

A neighbor, Rosemary Villa, turned in the alarm when she saw flames coming from the side of the house as she walked out of the Oak Tree Inn.

Firemen, after putting out the fire, discovered one cat dead in the front room, another in the bathroom, and seven in the bedroom. All had died of suffocation, according to Bloom.

Novato Man Arrested In Beating

A Novato man, awaiting trial on a charge of resisting arrest after he reportedly fought with three police officers in October, was back in county jail today, charged with the felony beating of his wife.

John Douglas Smith, 33, of 1117 Second Street, Novato, was arrested at his home at 7:35 p.m. yesterday after his wife, Francis, 32, was treated at Novato General Hospital for cuts and bruises on her head and body.

Mrs. Smith told police that her husband returned home intoxicated yesterday afternoon and beat her with his fists. She said that at one point he tried to strangle her, saying he was going to kill her, police reported.

Smith on Oct. 30 reportedly fought with three Novato police officers, injuring one, when they attempted to arrest him for driving through a red light.

He was held today in lieu of $2,500 bail.

Novato Aide Explains Road Work Delay

Rainy weather and a holdup in taking over adjacent property is blamed by Lawrence A. Coleman, director of public works for the City of Novato, for the delay in surfacing Center Road.

Yesterday, he assured residents who live along the road between Tamalpais Avenue and Sutton School that the city and the contractor will do everything possible to keep the highway passable.

The first delay came, he said, when the city had to conform to a new state law and wait 21 days before taking over property necessary to complete storm drainage work.

Then, just as the contractor had laid a base, it rained and motorists, ignoring signs that the street was no longer a through road, turned it into "a sea of mud," said Coleman.

An additional delay came when there was some relocation necessary on utility facilities, he said.

California vineyards comprise 80 per cent of the total in the United States.

Station Wagon Hits Trucks; Driver Dies

OAKLAND (AP) — A station wagon collided with three trucks on the San Francisco - Oakland Bay Bridge last night, killing Gerald C. Williamson, 26, of Daly City.

Williamsons' car bounced off the rear, then the front of a truck driven by Albert Drocco of Daly City and then rammed into the rear of two other trucks.

Savings-Loan Firm Raises Interest Rate

Competition among banks in raising interest payments on time deposits has brought a Marin County savings and loan firm into the act.

Ross Valley Savings and Loan Assn., San Anselmo, has notified its depositors of two plans to supplement the maximum base rate of 4.85 per cent which savings and loan companies are permitted to pay on savings accounts by the Home Loan Bank Board.

This base rate has recently been topped by some banks increasing interest on certificates of deposit to 5 per cent and 5 and one-half per cent.

Ross Valley's first plan calls for sale of prepaid investment certificates maturing in six months. The association is offering certificates with a face value of $5,000 at a purchase price of $4,875. Certiifcates of $10,000 are offered for $9,750. The annual yield obtained amounts to 5.128 per cent. John A. Zandstra, Ross Valley treasurer and controller, said both certificates are protected by federal deposit insurance.

Plan number two sets forth another type of investment certificate with a minimum term of three years before maturity. It carries a "bonus" of one-half of one per cent over the base interest rate payable at the end of the three-year term.

If regular interest is withdrawn quarterly the annual yield is 5.72 per cent per annum. Certificates are issued in minimum amounts of $5,000 and in multiples of $1,000 over that figure.

Zandstra said both plans have been approved by the state savings and loan commissioner. Ross Valley is the first to confirm the use of them in Marin County, but Golden State Savings and Loan Assn., Oakland, has announced it will compound interest continuously on savings accounts in order to increase the return, and Security Savings and Loan, San Jose, is said to have adopted a form of investment certificate.

Similar plans have been available to savings and loan firms in the past, but until recently no one has used them, Zandstra said.

Saturday—Recreation for the handicapped, 10 a.m.

Jewels, Money Go With Garbage

NEW YORK (UPI) — The sweet smell of success failed to come to Mrs. Kwan Lee and nine friends and relatives yesterday.

After searching unsuccessfully for two days in the acres-large Staten Island Garbage Dump, Mrs. Lee called off the hunt for a brown paper bag containing $6,700 in jewels and money which her son unknowingly threw out with the rest of their garbage Saturday.

Mrs. Lee, fearing burglars might enter her apartment, had hidden the bag in her kitchen garbage pail when she went out to visit a friend.

Officer Found Dead In Home

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A rookie San Francisco police officer with four captain's commendations to his credit apparently committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself.

Police said the body of Ralph Otis Bohn, 25, was found on a bed in his home by his wife, Carolyn.

A small pistol was beside him. He left no notes.

Police said the couple had separated recently and Mrs. Bohn lived in an apartment in Daly City.

Youth Hears Credit Card Use Charge

Marc T. Ford, 18, of Sausalito, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on two counts of felony use of stolen credit cards.

Judge Peter Allen Smith then continued the case until this afternoon for further proceedings. No complain was issued against Brian A. Baeszler, 18, according to Deputy Dist. Atty. Gary Thomas.

Baeszler, of 2 Lyman Lane, Mill Valley, and Ford were arrested by San Rafael police early yesterday after a credit card allegedly stolen from the Princess Garden Shop, 28 Princess Street, Sausalito, was used to purchase four new tires at a Standard Oil service station at Fourth and H Streets, San Rafael.

Ford, who remained in county jail today in lieu of $.2750 bail, is charged with use of that credit card, and with using a stolen Bank of America credit card to obtain merchandise in San Rafael on Dec. 24.

Baeszler was released yesterday.

Fine Arts Events Advisors Named

A San Francisco man and 11 Marin County residents have been named to a College of Marin citizens committee to plan fine arts events at the college, according to Dr. Roy G. Mikalson, dean of the evening college and community services.

Named to the committee, which is now planning a Feb. 5 appearance by the San Francisco Symphony at the Kentfield campus, were:

Jock MacRae of San Francisco, a member of San Anselmo's Festival Theater company; Clinton Lewis of San Rafael, Robert Morrison of Ross, Max Thelen Jr. of San Rafael, Barry Mineah of San Rafael, Hugo Rinaldi of San Rafael, Mrs. Winifred Baker of San Rafael, Mrs. Kitty Oppenheimer of Kentfield, Clinton DeLap of San Rafael, Mrs. Harrison Leppo of Mill Valley, Mrs. Carl G. Brown Jr. of Ross, and Mrs. Maybelle Speckmann of Mill Valley.

Driver Suffers Cut When Car Hits Rail

William H. Anderson, 42, of 725 Sun Lane, Novato, was cut above his left eye when his car crashed into a guard rail on Highway 101 on Puerto Suello Hill, San Rafael, at 4 p.m. yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol said Anderson was northbound and had just switched to the fast lane when his car skidded. He was to see his own physician.

Freeway Collisions Dent 13 Vehicles

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A 13-car pileup on the Roseville Freeway last night resulted in minor injuries to nine persons and a mammoth traffic jam, highway patrolmen said today.

Officers said it apparently all started when one car slowed for traffic ahead of it. Another car skidded into the first on the rain-slick freeway and set off the chain of rear-end collisions.

Burglar Takes TV, Record Player

Loss of a $200 television set and a record player worth $50 in burglary of the apartment of L. C. Crowell, 6017 Redwood Highway, Ignacio, was reported today by sheriff's deputies.

Crowell told officers entry was by breaking a living room window last night or early today.

Marin Youths Enlist In Navy

Enlisting for four years were Henry C. Bowman Jr., 18, 804 E Street, San Rafael; William G. Dougherty, 20, of 2211 Center Road, Novato; and Michael Halkovich, 19, of 705 Cherry Street, Novato.

Signing up for three-year enlistments were John R. Hoag, 18, of 224 Van Tassel Court, San Anselmo, and Kenneth W. Winsor II, 19, of 127 San Carlos Avenue, Sausalito.

All will spend eight weeks in recruit training in San Diego.

Side Curtains Gone

Boun Hee Kang of 82 Southern Heights Boulevard, San Rafael, complained to Tiburon sheriff's deputies that two side curtains were stolen from his 1962 MGA sports car parked on Juanita Lane in Tiburon between 2:30 p.m. yesterday and 12:30 a.m. today.

Richard A. Secrist is president of Life Underwriters Assn. of Marin.

Novato Highway Limit To Change

A new 45-mph speed limit is being established along U.S. Highway 101 in Novato between Olive Avenue and just north of Atherton Avenue, the State Division of Highways announced today.

The new zone will apply to both directions of traffic. Speed limit on the stretch has been 50 miles per hour in the southbound lanes, and 35 miles per hour for part of the distance in northbound lanes.

The Division of Highways made an engineering and traffic study of the section at request of the City of Novato. The recommendation for reduced speed was concurred in by the California Highway Patrol.

The new speed limit will be effective with the posting of signs, probably within a few weeks.

Today is Thursday, Dec. 30, the 364th day of 1965 with one to follow.

The moon is in its first quarter; the morning star is Jupiter; the evening stars are Venus, Mars, Saturn and Jupiter.

In 1853, the U.S. purchased the land south of the Gila River in southern Arizona and New Mexico, a deal known as the "Gadsen" purchase.

In 1903, more than 585 persons were killed in a fire in the Iroquois Theatre in Chicago.

In 1947, King Michael of Romania abdicated, claiming he was forced out by local Communists aided by the Russians.

In 1959, President Eisenhower called off the ban on U.S. nuclear tests.

A thought for the day—American writer Ernest Hemingway said: "Prose is architecture, not interior decoration, and the baroque is over."

It is estimated that each year more than 25,000 drivers participate in various types of automobile races in the United States.

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey, Western District headquarters. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Frenchman Publishes New Book Of Remarkable Bridge Hands

If you still remember about the plume of your tante you can spend a few enjoyable hours reading fine bridge hands in French.

Roger Trezel, winner of three world championships and many French national championships, has just brought out a new collection of hands.

Neither side vulnerable

	NORTH ♠ A Q 10 5 ♡ 10 3 ◇ 7 6 2 ♣ A K Q J
WEST ♠ 9 6 3 ♡ 4 ◇ A K Q 4 ♣ 9 7 4 3 2		EAST ♠ 8 7 4 ♡ K 7 6 5 ◇ J 10 5 ♣ 10 8 6

1 ♣	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♡	Pass
4 ♡	All Pass

Opening lead — ◇ K

Today's hand, borrowed with thanks from Trezel, illustrates the play known as the Double Grand Coup.

This is a way of saying that you must deliberately trump your partner's ace twice to make your contract.

HOW IT HAPPENS

You win ind ummy with the ten of spades and lead the ten of hearts for a finesse.

When this wins, you lead dummy's other heart to repeat the finesse.

West discards a club, and you see that you cannot capture the king of trumps by normal means.

If you lead dummy's high clubs, East will simply discard.

You will soon be forced to trump and you will have to lead trumps out of your hand for lack of any other cards to lead.

East will get his king, and you will be down one.

TRUMP COUP

To avoid this you must deliberately waste two of your trumps. Lead a club to dummy's jack and ruff dummy's ace of clubs.

Lead the jack of spades to dummy's queen and ruff dummy's king of clubs. (You can't ruff the ace of clubs twice, but ruffing the king is almost as spectacular.)

Now lead the king of spades to dummy's ace, and the stage is set. The lead is in dummy, and all hands are reduced to two cards.

East has K-7 of trumps and you have A-Q.

No matter what you lead from dummy, East must ruff. You overruff and capture the king of trumps, making your contract and bowing to the mad cheers of the village maidens.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one club, and htenext player passes.

You hold:

♠ 9 6 3
♥ 4
♦ A K Q 4
♣ 9 7 4 3 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one diamond.

Show your strong suit first and support partner's clubs later.

Why Buy a New Eichler
when you can pay the same amount for this one year old beauty with all the improvements? Including $3,000 in landscaping and $1500 in new carpeting & draperies. The popular 5 bedroom, Cathedral roof model. If you haven't at least looked at this home you'll probably spend more money for something less. $37,500. Eves ph. Mr. Gordon 479-5909.

Large Family?
This is for you! A "Marinwood" model that's had an extra bedroom and den added, making it 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, family room and separate dining room. Probably the nicest natural landscaping in the area with 3 huge oaks . . . and a secluded garden. Now locate this 2 blocks from grammar school, 1 block from Jr. High and 2 blocks to shopping and you've got the best buy in Marinwood.

VALUE?
A brand new 5 bedroom home completed just 4 months ago. The owners have had just enough time to install a sprinkler system, most of the landscaping and all fences. Inside, the custom draperies have been installed but the W.W carpet hasn't arrived so they'll hold off for a while. A large assumable 35 year F.H.A. loan puts this home in an easy to buy bracket with payments of $210 per month. Full price $34,950. Eves. ph. Mr. Kerns 479-3837.

Politicos Certain Of Brown Victory

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Seventy-six of California's top politicians, from both parties, see the 1966 gubernatorial election as strictly a two-man race between Gov. Edmund G. Brown and Republican Ronald Reagan, with Brown the easy winner by five lengths.

The Capitol News Service sent questionnaires to the 118 present members of the California Legisture (there are two vacancies). A total of 76 lawmakers returned their survey forms with most of the questions answered.

The legislators were told they need not sign their names, although a number did, so it's assumed that the 76 who returned the forms were representative as far as political parties go.

The questions were not whom they preferred for either the Democratic or Republican nomination or whom they preferred as the winner but rather who they thought would be the winner.

The Democratic primary was seen as no contest at all, with 71 legislators answering they expected Brown to be the nominee. Two felt Sam Yorty, Los Angeles mayor, would be the Democratic standard bearer.

While there was a bit more division of opinion as to the Republican nominee, 55 felt it would be Reagan. Next came George Christopher, former San Francisco mayor and twice an unsuccessful state-wide office seeker, with 13 votes. Two felt former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight would win the GOP nomination in June.

Four other Republicans received one mention each. These were Assemblyman Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, GOP floor leader in the Assembly; U.S. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., who already has announced he would not be a candidate; U. S. Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif.; and Warren Dorn, Los Angeles County supervisor.

While 73 of the 76 legislators had opinions on who would be the Democratic nominee after the June election and 74 had opinions on who the Republican candidate would be, only 66 had opinions on the outcome.

Of these, 48 felt Brown would be the winner. Nine felt Reagan would take the election and six thought Christopher could get the job done.

Kuchel, Murphy and Dorn were picked as the winners by one lawmaker each.

The CNS survey came at a time when there were no announced Democratic candidates for governor. Most feel it is a foregone conclusion that Brown will make known his plans to seek a third term sometime during January. If he tries and makes it, Brown would become only the second California governor to win three times in a row. The other was Earl Warren, now chief justice.

Yorty has been sounding like a candidate but a number of Democrats feel he will decline to run to prevent any further splits in the party which could mean a Republican victory.

In the Republican camp, only Christopher and Laughlin E. Waters, former U. S. attorney and assemblyman, are the only announced candidates. Reagan has scheduled a press conference for Jan. 4 in Los Angeles, with a television program to be shown in Redding, Sacramento, Salinas, San Diego, San Francisco, San Jose, San Luis Obispo and Santa Barbara on the same evening. It's presumed Reagan will announce his candidacy at that time.

Brown's schedule, as yet, shows no plans for any formal announcement dinner. Four years ago, the news was broken at a $100-a-plate dinner in San Francisco.

Most Democrats, including Brown, have indicated right along that they assumed Reagan would be his opponent and relished the idea. The governor's speeches of late have attempted to hang the Goldwater-conservative label on Reagan. Indications are that the Democrats would wage the same type of campaign against Reagan as was waged against Sen. Barry M. Goldwater in 1964—hitting hard, fast and sometimes misleadingly on such things as his opposition to Social Security, wanting war in Viet Nam, and opposing welfare.

Quite a number of Republicans share this view to the extent they feel Reagan has no more chance of winning in November against Brown than did Goldwater. While the party heads have called for unity and no infighting during the primary, a number of so-called moderate Republicans are battling to keep the nomination from Reagan, just as they sought to swing the presidential nomination to Gov. Nelson Rockefeller in June, 1964.

Other Republicans, however, are not so sure Reagan isn't the GOP's best bet. They fear Christopher and Knight both have two strikes against them—Christopher was defeated twice, once for U. S. senator and once for lieutenant governor; Knight was defeated for U.S. senator and, after announcing his candidacy for governor in 1962, later withdrew.

Some Republicans feel Reagan, like Senator Murphy, is known to everyone. He makes a good appearance and has never had any of the Hollywood-type gossip attached to his reputation.

They feel these same qualities for Murphy had a lot to do with his upset victory over Pierre Salinger in 1964 and could work similarly well for Reagan next November.

Robert Finch, former campaign manager for Richard M. Nixon, has announced he'll seek the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor; Spencer Williams, Santa Clara county counsel, will run for attorney general; and Ivy Baker Priest will run for state treasurer. No Democrats have announced candidacies for the other constitutional offices but it is assumed incumbents will all seek re-election.

Fire Damages Theater Props

A brief fire yesterday afternoon damaged some props, costumes and books stored by San Anselmo's Festival Theater in the attic of Geneva Hall at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

Fire Chief Frank Sousa said cause of the blaze was unknown. He estimated damage to the theater's property at $400. The attic has a cement floor, the chief said, and the building was not damaged.

A spokesman for Festival Theater today said that all equipment used in the theater's current production, "The Long Christmas Dinner," is stored at the theater at 2 Kensington Road, and the show will not be affected.

Youth Hurt As Car Hits Guard Rail

Robert B. Ford, 16, of Makin Grade and Upper Toyon Road, Ross, suffered minor injuries when the car his sister was driving skidded and hit a guard rail on the San Rafael viaduct of Highway 101 at 2 p.m. yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol said the northbound car, driven by Janet J. Ford, 21, of the same address, skidded when she braked to avoid hitting an animal on the road. Young Ford was treated for sore ribs and a bruised right ankle at San Rafael General Hospital.

Boy Bruised As Car Hits His Bicycle

Darrel Elder, 9, of Marin City, was treated for body bruises at Marin General Hospital yesterday after he was struck by a car while riding his bike in a heavy downpour of rain on Bridgeway near Gate One, Sausalito.

Police said the boy was hit by a car driven by Mrs. Lucille Hanson of 27 Caledonia Street, Sausalito, at about 10:45 a.m.

Ireland had one million people in 1670. By 1845 the population had swollen to eight million. When the potato crop failed in 1848, a million Irishmen starved to death; another million emigrated.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Growing Old Is Relative Thing, Happens In A Variety Of Ways

VAN DELLEN

Growing old is a relative process. The youngster regards anyone as ancient who has gray hair, baldness, wrinkles, crow's feet, or thick jowls. The individual who reaches this stage of life has different ideas, especially when active and young at heart. This may explain the popular saying that an old person is anyone 10 years older than yourself

People age at different rates. In addition, organs in the same individual deteriorate at varied degrees. A man of 60 may be as young as the average at 40, or as old as a man of 80. There are seven kinds of ages, according to Dr. C. Ward Crampton and the most familiar is the chronological age that represents the actual milestone.

THE ANATOMICAL age refers to the changes that occur at specific times of life. All cells, tissues, and organs grow, mature, and decline. Anatomic epochs include the appearance of the first tooth, puberty, gray hair, winkles, hardening of the arteries, shrinking of the kidneys and other alterations. All these changes herald a certain stage of development.

Physiological aging enters the picture when function of various tissues and organs wanes. Testing in this field is concerned with reaction time of the nervous system, diminution of vision and hearing, the menopause, decline of the sex glands, and loss of skin elasticity.

PSYCHOLOGICAL aging is concerned with how the person feels and acts. Many oldsters have made great contributions to science, industry, politics, and literature. Experience and a storehouse of knowledge compensate for declines in physical, mental, and sensory capacities.

Pathological aging stems from the injury done through repeated infections, strain, and dissipation. Damage of this nature can age a man 10 years or more. Conversely adequate treatment may add 10 years. The sixth and seventh forms of aging are statistical and hereditary. The latter is dependent upon our parents and grandparents; the members of some families are old at 50, regardless of living habits.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

VITAMINS

Mrs. B. writes: Does a bartender who has to drink with his customers need to take a lot of vitamins to keep going?

REPLY

Eating a balanced diet and taking vitamins will help to offset the bad effects of overindulgence regardless of which side of the bar you are standing on. I was always under the impression that good bartenders never drank.

DELUSIONAL ODORS

Mrs. Z. writes. My 78-year-old mother is always detecting odd odors which the rest of us cannot smell. Could this be due to hardening of the arteries in the head?

REPLY

Yes; this may be a symptom of senility or the aftermath of a small stroke.

POSTURE STRAIN

C. M. writes: When I stand for a long time I feel a tight sensation in the back of my knees, thighs, and calves of the legs. Do you think I could have rheumatism?

REPLY

Your discomfort is more likely to result from the strain than from rheumatism.

BIG BURP

Mrs. R. E. writes: Is it possible to rupture the diaphragm by belching real hard?

REPLY

No. Hiccup—not burping—involves the diaphragm.

BATHING AND WEIGHT

P. Q. writes: Will a daily bath keep a person thin?

REPLY

Only when the excess poundage is dirt.

SLEEP POSTURE

G. H. writes: Is it harmful to sleep with the arms above the head?

REPLY

No. Exceptions occur if this posture results in pressure that disturbs the circulation or causes tingling of the arms. This happens occasionally when the nerves or blood vessels leading to the upper extremities are pinched by muscles, tendons, or ligaments in the neck whenever the arms are held in the position mentioned.

BLOOD DONOR

B. R. writes: Soon after I donated blood I developed blackouts. Would replacing the blood solve my problem?

REPLY

Possibly. The blood is replaced within four to six weeks, and the blackouts should disappear if they are related to the donation.

ENLARGED LIVER

F. S. writes: Can enlargement of the liver be arrested?

REPLY

Yes, especially when the condition is due to inflammation or congestion secondary to heart trouble.

HAIR AND THYROID

S. E. writes: Will thyroid pills stop the hair from falling?

REPLY

Yes, if the hair loss is the result of a thyroid deficiency.

RESTRICTIONS

L. G. writes: Are cocktails harmful in diverticulitis?

REPLY

Not in moderation. On the other hand, many attacks of diverticulitis have been traced to overindulgence. Consequently, individuals who harbor these pockets in the colon should not drink unless they can limit themselves.

DENICOTINIZED

M. G. writes: How long after giving up cigarets will it take for the lungs to clear up? This person smoked a pack a day for five years.

REPLY

Cough disappears in three days to three years, depending upon the severity of the irritation.

MUSCLE STIFFNESS

M. A. writes: What would cause back pain when lying in a prone position on the floor?

REPLY

Arthritis of the spine or stiffness of the muscles and tendons of the back.

SHEEPSKIN

M. de M. writes: Where can a sheepskin be purchased?

REPLY

From a surgical supply house. It is used medically to prevent bed sores.

THYROID NODES

A. A. writes: What is nodular goiter?

REPLY

A thyroid gland that contains nodes, or tumors.

Jack Hammer Taken

Stephen P. Lyons, bookkeeper for Dickman Construction Co., complained to Corte Madera police yesterday that someone stole a 60-pound jack hammer worth $300 from his company's construction site at the Uplands Apartments on Paradise Drive on Tuesday.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Divorce Comedy Is Badly Needed

By DICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Isn't it about time television got around to a good rousing situation comedy series about divorced couple?

I mean, if you're looking for a vast, untapped audience that wants contemporary realism, there it is.

CBS-TV's new "Trials of O'Brien" series has come pretty close to the target.

The best thing about the weekly show is the relationship of the flamboyant lawyer anti-hero (Peter Falk) and his ex-wife (Joanna Barnes).

The trouble is that "Trials of O'Brien" is so full of hokey, pretentious New Yorkese, scenery-chewing actors and plots that get in the way, that the charming divorce relationship is diluted in its effect.

"Trials of O'Brien" probably isn't long for television anyway, what with its very low ratings, but it seems to me that some genius at CBS-TV might pull off a coup by junking the doomed format as it now stands, and keeping Falk and Miss Barnes in their same roles in a brand new situation comedy about divorce.

Throw out their present one-hour weekly program length, cut it to half an hour and send my royalty checks special delivery.

I'm sure I'm right about all this. People are getting tired of secret agent spoofs and happy families. They want modern reality. Divorce.

To keep the teen-age television audience happy too, there could be a teen-aged divorced couple outsmarting their divorced elders.

You have to sense a trend. "Father Knows Best," Donna Reed, Ozzie and Harriet—all that stuff is out. Too unreal. People aren't really happy any more.

A few seasons back or sometime thereabouts, somebody thought widows would be a big thing for television—you know, with all the insurance statistics and all.

So, if memory serves me, Gertrude Berg had a shot at a series about a widow. And I think Loretta Young did too. Not a chance. What people really wanted to see was divorce.

There are a million ways this whole new trend could be handled. You couldn't use the old Jackie Gleason - Audrey Meadows "Honeymooners" love-hate relationship of man and wife because it was much too unfriendly for divorce, although just right for marraige.

A much better idea, for instance, would simply be to take the Dick Van Dyke series and make a few adjustments. As you know, or maybe you don't if you only read the important news in the papers, the Van Dykes series is ending this season.

What I would do is simply take the fictional married couple of Van Dyke and Mary Tyler Moore, have them get a divorce and bring them back in a new (or continuing) series. There's no reason they couldn't be happy and civilized about the whole thing. It would be a smash.

Texas Girl Is Cotton Queen

Nancy, a tall blonde from Lubbock, believes a lucky penny and a little blue stuffed elephant won her the job as the cotton industry's goodwill ambassador for the coming year.

Nancy makes her first official appearance on New Year's Day at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas.

Naturalist To Talk On Marin Seashore

Robert D. Barbee, ranger-naturalist at Point Reyes National Seashore, will speak on "a closer look at the national seashore" Jan. 14 at 8 p.m. in the supervisors chambers at the Civic Center. The talk is sponsored by the Marin Audubon Society.

The society will make two special field trips during January. On Jan. 16, bird watchers will meet at 8:30 a.m. at the Point Reyes Station grocery store to make a trip along the east shore of Tamales Bay. On Jan. 29, the society will meet in the Olney Hall parking lot of College of Marin at 7:30 a.m. to make a field trip to Tilden Park, Alameda County.

Siamese Twin Dies Following Separation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lisa Marie Mantonya, the smaller of Siamese twin girls born here Christmas Day, died this morning of peritonitis, a spokesman at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital said.

Lisa, who weighed 4 pounds, 15 ounces, was left without a colon after surgeons separated her from her twin, Sheila.

But both girls showed improvement following the separation until yesterday afternoon, when Lisa's condition began to deteriorate.

X-rays indicated she had suffered perforations of the intestine and she was rushed immediately to surgery, the hospital spokesman said.

After the operation, doctors said the infant was also suffering from peritonitis—an inflammation of tissues lining the abdominal cavity.

Rainmaker Must Warn Scientists

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Science Foundation wants to know about anybody who plans to fiddle around with the weather. Under a new federal order rainmakers and scientific experimenters can be fined up to $500 for failing to tell the agency of their operations.

The regulation goes into effect Jan. 1. It is aimed at improving the dissemination of information about weather modification and to prevent the contamination of areas where research is already going on.

Scientists Speed Decoding Of Genetic Cell Commands

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

BERKELEY (AP)—In a burst of success, scientists now have almost completely solved the fantastic genetic code of life itself.

And they find that nature put numerous safety valves — margins for error—in the way the code is copied so precisely to maintain life and produce new generations, from humans to bacteria.

This may be the reason why there are not so many genetic changes, of damaging kind, when the simple code is copied millions and billions of times.

One safety valve is the apparent fact that one essential life chemical can "wobble." This permits extra ways to recognize "letters" or "words" in the code.

Another is that the code has different ways of getting the same results in making life chemicals.

Complete understanding of further intricacies in the code could lead to practical measures for breeding or creating superior animals and plans, or perhaps even superior humans. This is still far off.

But the astounding recent progress — bearing out earlier predictions—is a long step. It was described last night to the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science by Dr. H. Gobind Khorana of the University of Wisconsin and Dr. Marshall Nirenberg of the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md.

The genetic code stores all the hereditary information for making a new human being. And the instructions for creating and nourishing all the different kind of cells in your body, like brain, skin and liver cells.

Like a simple Morse code of dots and dashes, all this in in a code—in a nucleic acid known as DNA—using only four chemical letters or bases.

But each of the millions of single "words" of instructions is found to be spelled with only three letters at a time. A long string of them gives certain instructions for carrying out life's complicated chemistry.

With different techniques, Drs. Khorana and Nirenberg succeeded in creating messengers, of RNA, that carry the master instructions from DNA into the cell. In turn, these pieces of RNA assemble collections of amino acids, the building units for proteins essential to life. Dr. Kohorana also has created synthetic DNA, but one containing limited amounts of information.

Both scientists find there are 64 "codons" or three-letter arrangements for making amino acids. But there are only 20 amino acids.

This means that one to four different codons can make the same amino acid, though it may have a slightly different biological activity. This is one safety valve in copying the code. There are "synonyms" for the same word.

Some codons, perhaps half a dozen, are "punctuation marks" which signal when a period has been reached in the coded messages.

Proteins are assembled from amino acids in the cell, through the work of transfer RNAs which read off the code.

The transfer RNAs hook up with messenger RNA bringing the code out from the DNA in the cell nucleus. They have three "letters" on them also, but the new work indicates they can "wobble."

That is, under certain circumstances, the third of the three letters on the transfer RNA need not always be the counterpart of the letter on the messenger. It can be the "wrong" letter, but still work. This provides more chance for the cell to function correctly, even if something had happened to the codon it was supposed to have.

A next step, said Dr. Khorana, is to try to make, artificially, long chains of DNA, and "genes," or even simple proteins, like insulin, using the code.

Numerous intricacies of all the control mechanism involved in reading out and acting upon the code remain to be solved, Dr. Nirenberg said.

But, in essence, the code of life is broken, is understood.

Unions Set To Recruit State's Farm Workers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A new attempt to organize California's farm workers will start in January, two labor unions say.

The independent Teamsters Union and the AFL-CIO Agricultural Workers Organizing Committee announced yesterday an organizing campaign aimed at citrus workers in Tulare County.

Men and women who pick oranges and lemons will be the target of the AFL-CIO organization. Men who drive produce to canneries will be the aim of the teamsters.

Both said they would work together as "closely as possible." The teamsters have been expelled from the AFL-CIO.

Already under way is a campaign to organize grape workers in the Delano area. That drive, by the AWOC and the independent National Farm Workers Assn., seeks recognition of the unions as bargaining agents for workers and a boost in pay. Workers now get $1.25 and hour and 10 cents a box. The unions say they should get $1.40 an hour and 25 cents a box.

Most of the 90,000 employed in the state's canneries and freezer plants belong to the teamsters, but most delivery drivers and field hands are nonunion. The teamsters say they have set aside $5,000 a month for organization work in Tulare and other areas.

The citrus campaign is to start Jan. 5 with a rally at Strathmore, union leaders said.

Another union, the independent International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, refused Tuesday to handle a $20,000 grape shipment from Delano.

Longshoremen at Oakland's Howard Terminal refused to handle grapes intended for the steamer Bataan, headed for Scandinavia. They said policemen were hostile to them.

Longshoremen loaded other cargo yesterday but the nine carloads of grapes remained untouched in refrigerator trucks at dockside.

Police denied hostility and said they were observing picketing because of a court injunction forbidding pickets from interfering with grape shipments.

County Funds To Be Sought For Clinic

Marin County Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen will urge Tuesday that fellow supervisors approve $1,000 a month support to the Marin Institute of Alcoholism for six months.

In a letter to the board, Kettenhofen says that fees ($11 per month) of private patients have given the institute an average income of only $350 per week. The administrator has drawn a salary less than $3,000 a year.

Kettenhofen says county support could be considered as an advance on fees to be collected from county patients.

A new state program to go into effect next year will provide financial support for the institute, Kettenhofen says, so the county support would be only temporary.

Food Prices Fall In Bay Area

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Retail food prices in the San Francisco-Oakland metropolitan area fell 0.6 per cent between October and November, the U.S. Department of Labor announced today.

Max D. Kossoris, western regional director of the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, said the most significant change over the month was a 1.3 per cent decrease in the meats, poultry and fish group.

The decrease pared the bureau's food index to 110.7 (1957-59-100), but 2.7 per cent above November, 1964.

Board To Discuss Vacancy Policy

The Marin County Board of Education Monday will hold second reading of a policy on appointments to fill vacancies between elections on school boards.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. at the Civic Center.

The policy calls for holding names of candidates for appointment in confidence, even though the post to be filled is an elected office.

Some Pictorial Highlights Of 1965 In Marin County

DESTRUCTION IN CHILENO VALLEY — Fire struck North Marin early on Sept. 17, consuming barns, farm buildings and two homes in Chileno Valley, leaving destruction that caused the valley to be declared a disaster area. Panorama of the fire, and vehicles out to fight it, was photographed from an American Helicopter by the Independent-Journal's Bob Hax.

FREAK TRAGEDY — In a highly unusual accident on the morning of Oct. 19, a car driven by Paul E. Beyer of Burlingame went off the northbound level of the Waldo Grade to land squarely atop that of Peter L. Goldstein of San Anselmo, southbound. Goldstein is still in Ross Hospital. Highway Patrolman Charles L. Heart examines wreckage in Jim Kean photo.

CRASH EVIDENCE—Another traffic accident—this one fatal—produced this unusual photo by Bob Hax on Nov. 5. Robert Lincoln Hullman, 45, of Novato was killed when his car hit bridge rail on Highway 101 crossing of Novato Creek. This portion of door remained fast to post.

THE GREAT EAGLE CASE — A cause celebre was started when Point Reyes rancher Leroy Martinelli (at right) shot two eagles on Jan. 25 which he said were killing his lambs. Sheriff's Sgt. Robert Bertrand shows one to Martinelli's daughter, Gail. Martinelli's trial for killing the birds is slated Jan. 10. (Bob Hax)

RELUCTANT BLACKIE—When a new section of Tiburon Boulevard opened Nov. 3, city officials thought Blackie, Tiburon's famous swaybacked horse, should cut the ribbon. He proved reluctant, even under the urging of Tiburon's oldest native son, John C. O'Connell (left). It was O'Connell's last public appearance. He died Dec. 19. (By Smith)

STORM DAMAGE — Heavy rains in early January caused Jan. 8 landslide which broke water main and resulted in this buckling of retaining wall and parking pavement behind medical office building at 800 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo. (By Jim Kean)

SHIP CRASH—Norwegian freighter Berganger, rammed by Liberian oil tanker Intercontinent near Point San Quentin on morning of Sept. 22, lies aground beside tow boat off Paradise Cove. Both ships caught fire, but there were no casualties. Photographer Hax used an American Helicopter again to get this shot.
